NOTICE OF PROPOSAL TO CREATE SEPTIC SYSTEM ORDINANCE IN PENNINGTON COUNTY

Due to changes to state laws governing individual septic treatment systems (ISTS) in 1996 and 1997, Pennington County is proposing to create a county wide ISTS ordinance. Before any county wide ordinance can be passed the county must provide a 30 day public notice period allowing for comments from county residents toward the proposed ordinance. This notice is hereby given.

The ordinance would provide regulatory control of individual septic treatment systems for the administration, permitting, installation and repair standards, inspection requirements, additional standards for health and environmental protection as well as rules governing licensing and enforcement of the ordinance.

The purpose of the ordinance is two fold. According to recent state legislation, all counties will be required to pass a county wide ordinance regulating septic systems according to Chapter 7080 and recent changes in law. Chapter 7080 contains the rules set out by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency which dictates how septic systems are to be designed, installed, repaired and otherwise regulated.

The second purpose of the ordinance relates to legislation sought by Pennington County and others this last legislative session. This legislation allows counties with special conditions and a county wide ordinance to create standards for septic systems which are less stringent than current state rules.

By creating our own county wide ordinance, we hope to establish these standards which will allow us to continue to use trench type drain fields in most circumstances.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is available upon request by calling the Pennington County Auditor at 681-4011 or the Pennington County Extension Service at 681-2116.

In northwest Minnesota the weather has been bringing floods to some cities and not a drop of rain in others. About 15 or 20 miles east of here a tornado kept hop scotching up and down doing damage here and there sending folks to their basements or some even into the crawlspace under their homes. After all the TV pictures by this new found game of "tornado hunting", most of us have come to the conclusion we had better get into a safe place in a hurry or we could find ourselves sucked up into the air and no parachute to come down. South of us 25 to 50 miles, they had 3 inches of rain with large hail and the next day another 5 inches of rain. Here we have been having nice warm weather and the grass and gardens get their moisture from the sprinkler wand. By the way, Roy has been demonstrating the wand until one night it grew legs and he had to go to the hardware store for a new one. He thinks he makes my flowers grow from such gentle treatment.

There are some strained button holes on Isaac's shirts these days since last Saturday evening when his granddaughter, Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls was crowned Miss Thief River Falls in the pageant held there. Her sister Nicole from Minneapolis came to attend the ceremonies. Grandma Betsy with her sisters Polly Stevenson from California and Florence Strom from Florida, were there, happy as larks and proud as peacocks. We all can visualize her coming down the famous walk in Atlantic City. Congratulations Kari for your accomplishments.

The Strandquist seniors met on Thursday, ten members and three visitors, Anna Sellen, Betsy Thompson and her sister Polly Stevenson from California. They will meet again on next Thursday.

In the afternoon his son, Don and Marie Vagle from Texas came and took him to Alexandria so he could attend the Assembly of God family camp for a couple of weeks.

Pearl Thompson visited and helped Johnny Vagle pack for his trip on Wednesday.

Darell Lindgren from Los Angeles, CA. Later they visited with Wally Lindstrom at Donaldson.

Allison Britton and Myrtle Vagle visited Hazel Anderson and were given a tour of Hazel's flower gardens. She says that this year the blossoms fade faster than usual.

Northwest Minnesota got plenty of rain this past week to take care of the watering chores around here. There was enough lightning that released more nitrogen out of the atmosphere than most farmers needed on their fields. I still have a healthy respect for a lightning storm, but I love to see the rich green that shows up after the storm is over, especially the first one in the Spring.

The tendrils of Roy's beans have almost reached the top of that 8 ft high trellis he made for them and in a couple of weeks they no doubt will be sporting some long "Kentucky Wonders" up there. He's been using the ladder to check the rain gauge on the garage roof, so has had practice climbing it.

The Strandquist seniors met July 10th with five members and five visitors, Jan Hilton and daughter Kalen from Leisure City, FL, Polly Stevenson from Bellflower, CA, Betsy Thompson and Elsie Lofrooth from Karlstad. They were joined there by Gladys Simchuck, Reuben and Linda Raatikka and Michael, also Steve and Sherri Raatikka, Davey, Larry and Summer.

The weather up here in northwest Minnesota is just about as good as can be anywhere and that includes Hawaii. Plus we have an added attraction here which Hawaiians know little about, namely oversized mosquitoes. They have no regard even for the pail of citronella I have burning outside the door. The directions say to place the pail near the entrance of your home and that will discourage them from hanging around but there they sit, daring me to come outside. I did get something called "The Itch Eraser" to rub on the bites, it helps a bit, but you have to have a good imagination to keep the welts down. Roy says those vampires only fill up once in their lives, but I would need a transfusion before long if I didn't fight them off before they got their suction hose working.

The Strandquist seniors met on Thursday and were busy as usual. Virgil and Delphine Drall and Amy Gibson were there as guests and also purchased rugs and other items that the seniors have been making. Wedding

A five o'clock wedding was held at Lund Church on Saturday when Timmy Miller of Fosston became the wife of Lonny Carlson. The Church was decorated with flowers as a back ground for a pretty wedding. The men in the wedding party were in black suits with brocaded vests, white shirts and black bow ties. The women wore navy satin formals. The bride's gown of white satin trimmed in beads and lace had a long ruffled train and crowned veil. Tom Kipp made the piano come alive with his own message of love and was the pianist for Kim Wietzema as she sang "The Rose". The three Wold brothers Kenneth, Vernon and Lloyd also played and sang. The little flower girl dressed like the bride and the little ring bearer in his black suit looked like dolls all dressed up. The ceremony was preformed without any noticeable or embarrasing mistakes. Often some one will faint at a wedding or trip on the white carpet runner or get the giggles during the serious part of the ceremony. The crowd then moved to the Gully Community Center for punch, supper and coffee.

The Center had been decorated in bells, balloons and streamers and looked festive. The long tables had been decorated in flowers and miniature swans each with a lot of ruffled net and beads. The serving table looked like one set for royalty, the croissants sandwiches were served from a tall layer pyramid looking like a castle, the fruit kabobs and vegetable salad added colors and the wedding cake in the form of a swan with a castle cake top was really too pretty to eat. The wedding dance was enjoyed by a large crowd and the bride and groom drove off in a polished up 1930 Chevy.

Dave and Dianne Korsson were happy to have their whole family home last week. They even found time to have a family picture taken. Their son Tim was even able to be home for a few days he is serving our country and is in the Air Force stationed at Mountain Home, ID. UPS strike brings out picketers in Thief River Falls

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Railway workers, telephone company employees, school teachers, snowmobile builders and now delivery service strikers have experienced walking picket lines in Thief River Falls.

When Teamsters Union employees of United Parcel Service (UPS) went on strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. (EDT) Monday, August 4, the 40 union employees of the UPS terminal in Thief River Falls were immediately involved in the walkout.

At issue, according to information in the national news media and from employees on the picket line, are the percentage of part-time workers employed by UPS nationally and management of the employees' pension funds.

At present, the pension funds are managed by the Teamsters Union—a practice which the company would like to change. And approximately 60 percent of the employees across the UPS system are employed on a part-time basis. The union would like the company to have more full-time jobs.

Workers out of the Thief River Falls UPS terminal, who include several employees living in other area communities, are members of Teamsters Union Local 346 with headquarters in Duluth. On a national scale, UPS workers constitute the largest group of Teamsters members in the United States.

(Our call to the Teamsters Union Local office in Duluth Tuesday morning received a "We have no statement to make today" response.)

According to members on the picket line, about 29 of the Thief River Falls area union members are drivers. There are about a dozen part-time workers locally, roughly 30 percent of the local membership. Only one of the 12 is on full pay scale. Part-time workers start at about $8 per hour and work few hours, the strikers said. Part-time workers do receive vacation and insurance benefits.

It has been 21 years since there was a strike against UPS, and that was on a midwest basis rather than nationally, according to Roger Amundson, who has been a UPS employee for 32 years and was on the picket line Monday. He worked a few months in Warren and then came to Thief River Falls when UPS first started here.

"We're here to walk the picket line," he said, indicating that the union employees had not been interfering with any traffic to or from the UPS terminal—although such vehicle movement was virtually nonexistent.

Kevin Ewertz, center supervisor, was working to unload and load trucks in the terminal late Monday afternoon, but declined comment on the local situation in accordance with a directive from company management. He provided a name and number to call in the Twin Cities. That number was answered electronically on two attempts and no return call has been received.

While discharging their strike duties as they were expected to do, the pickets appeared somewhat uncomfortable and perhaps a little embarrassed by their public display. They were not without support, however. Early Monday morning local railroad employees brought a supply of rolls for breakfast and throughout the day a number of passers-by honked their horns.

And though apparently in agreement with the union's demands, the strikers seemed to be in hopes for an early settlement that would take them off the line and back to work.

United Parcel Service employees who are members of the Teamsters Union are picketing the UPS terminal building in Thief River Falls this week. The union went on strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. (EDT) Monday, August 4. The strike affects about 40 employees working out of the Thief River Falls facility and involves a dispute over pension fund management and the number of part-time workers employed by the parcel delivery service on a national basis.

Local shippers are trying to work around UPS worker strike

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Thief River Falls businesses which are heavy users of United Parcel Service were faced with trying to make do without the carrier early this week when employees began a strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

Digi-Key Corporation, which is the largest volume UPS air shipper in Minnesota, was able to convince other carriers—principally Federal Express and, to a much lesser extent, the U.S. Postal Service—to take a large part of its normal UPS volume Monday. The electronics supply company normally ships about 3,200 parcels with UPS each business day.

Mark Larson, president, said that Federal Express accepted about 2,000 parcels on Monday and that the post office did what it could, but at the end of the day there were about 600 packages ready for shipment which didn't make it out of town.

Larson said that Digi-Key is a convenience source for a large percentage of its customers, and as a result he didn't notice a significant change in order volume—neither an increase last week in anticipation of a shipping interruption nor a decline Monday after the strike had begun.

Digi-Key is affected by the strike on two fronts. In addition to its heavy shipping volume, it normally receives several hundred packages a day by UPS as well.

Larson said Digi-Key suppliers were advised last week to divert their shipments where possible to Federal Express. Monday that request was modified to ask the supplier to use a best available method including consolidating orders and shipping by truck.

Only Canadian customers of the company are not expected to be adversely affected by the strike. As of Jan. 1, 1997, Digi-Key has trucked its Canadian orders to the port of entry at Emerson, from where they are taken by Purolator Courier to Winnipeg for distribution from there. That process was first affected by frequent winter storms, then the Red River Valley flood and now [illegible] caused by the strike against UPS.

Larson said that about 25 to 30 percent of the company's volume goes to the East Coast and 20 percent to the West Coast. He doesn't feel the UPS work stoppage will put the local company at a competitive disadvantage since competitors will be in essentially the same situation.

Neither does he expect the strike to have an adverse impact on the company's employees, at least in the short term. If the strike continues and normal work volume is decreased, employees could be diverted to other work in the company, he said. He also expects other carriers to gear up to meet the demand if the strike is prolonged. There is also the possibility of federal intervention to order UPS employees back to work.

Larson said he expects Digi-Key to ship a total of [illegible] packages by all carriers in calendar 1997.

IMS Adversely Impacted

Darrell Magner of Independent Machine Service in Thief River Falls said the strike will have an adverse impact on his [illegible] supply business if it continues for long.

About 70 to 80 percent of the approximately 200 parcels shipped by IMS a day have gone by UPS, Magner, who had been out of town to attend the funeral of a family

Nathan Magner of Thief River Falls recently won the Pro Runabout 785 class Daytona Beach race and total points championship for races at Cocoa Beach and Daytona Beach, Florida, on a Tigershark Daytona 770. He also finished second in the Pro 1200 class race and Hot Water Summer Offshore Series total points competition.

Magner wins Daytona race, points title on Tigershark Daytona

After spending all his weekdays riding Tigershark personal watercraft as a test driver for Arctic Cat Inc., what does Nathan Magner like to do for recreation on weekends? He races his Tigersharks in international competition as a member of the International Jet Sport Boating Association—and is quite successful at it.

"Ocean riding is the most fun thing I have ever done!" exclaims the 26 year old racer who is the son of Donald and Bonnie Magner of Thief River Falls. "Until I started ocean riding, the most fun had been running a Thundercat snowmobile in the ditches around here."

Ocean racing, however, goes beyond fun. They don't call the sport endurance racing for nothing. Most races are 50 mile or longer events, often in heavy surf and strong winds, creating handling and impact conditions which take their toll on both man and machine.

Nathan's most recent success was at Daytona Beach, FL, on July 13 when he won the Pro Runabout

Particle board plant still possible

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Construction of a particle board plant in Thief River Falls still remains a possibility. Information about the potential for particle board and a possible manufacturing plant, however, is still being collected and construction of a plant remains a distant possibility.

Recently, representatives of Jobs Inc., Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), the Minnesota department of Trade and Economic Development and Minnesota Wheat and Minnesota Barley Associations heard a presentation from a representative of an English company called Compak. Compak claims to be the only company that produces equipment specifically designed for the production of agriculture residue based particle board.

Discussion about the manufacture of particle board in Thief River Falls began in 1995. Jobs Inc., a quasi-public economic development organization, formed a committee to study the proposal. Since then a number of meetings have been held. In addition, a delegation, consisting of city, county and Jobs Inc. officials went to a manufacturing plant in Wahpeton. PrimeBoard in Wahpeton uses equipment manufactured by a Swedish company called DaPronna. This equipment, along with some other equipment in the facility, was originally designed around a process of wood pulp to produce particle board. Officials have now been on two tours of the facility. One tour was held conducted during the start up, and another in March of 1996 when they were making a product.

After the Wahpeton plant tour in 1995, Jobs Inc. got in touch with AURI and put together and initial product assessment grant application. The purpose of the grant was to conduct a survey of farmers which sought answers to questions about what price they would expect, possible participation, and under what conditions. AURI awarded a $7,500 matching grant and the "straw survey" was conducted by Team Marketing of Fargo, ND, which had performed four or five similar surveys.

Interest in the project was encouraging. It was so encouraging a business memorandum, not a business plan, was completed.

Don Stewart, representative of Jobs Inc. and the city of Thief River Falls, said that there are a number of favorable attributes to the product produced with wheat straw. It is lighter, more moisture resistant, and environmentally friendly. It is more environmentally friendly because formaldehyde is not used in its manufacture, but a product called MDI, a polyurethane binder.

Stewart said Jobs Inc. is interested in a particle board plant because of its potential benefit to the agricultural economy. The current job market has less than three and four percent unemployment. Arctic Cat, for example, has had some difficulty getting all the people they need. So although job creation is important it wasn't the only motivational factor involved.

Howard Person, Minnesota Extension Educator in Pennington county, explained that they have been looking for something that would add value to agriculture products. Use of wheat straw has been explored, but Person said they would prefer to see alfalfa used. It's better for farmers because it fits in with normal rotation, and produces [illegible] per acre [illegible] in comparison to one ton of wheat straw per acre. In addition, researchers are working on a process that would allow farmers to remove leaves from the alfalfa which could be pelletized and sold as high quality feed. The only problem with alfalfa right now is that they don't know—for sure—whether it would work.

Pennington County Dive Rescue team members tested out some new equipment at the Third Street boat landing last week. The new equipment makes it possible for divers and team members above the surface of the water to communicate with one another.

UPS strike brings out picketers in Thief River Falls

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Railway workers, telephone company employees, school teachers, snowmobile builders and now delivery service workers have experienced walking picket lines in Thief River Falls.

When Teamsters Union employees of United Parcel Service (UPS) went on strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. (EDT) Monday, August 4, the 40 union employees of the UPS terminal in Thief River Falls were immediately involved in the walkout.

At issue, according to information in the national news media and from employees on the picket line, are the percentage of part-time workers employed by UPS nationally and management of the employees' pension funds.

At present, the pension funds are managed by the Teamsters Union—a practice which the company would like to change. And approximately 60 percent of the employees across the UPS system are employed on a part-time basis. The union would like the company to have more full-time jobs.

Workers out of the Thief River Falls UPS terminal, who include several employees living in other area communities, are members of Teamsters Union Local 346 with headquarters in Duluth. On a national scale, UPS workers constitute the largest group of Teamsters members in the United States.

(Our call to the Teamsters Union Local office in Duluth Tuesday morning received a "We have no statement to make today" response.)

According to members on the picket line, about 29 of the Thief River Falls area union members are drivers. There are about a dozen part-time workers locally, roughly 30 percent of the local membership. Only one of the 12 is on full pay scale. Part-time workers start at about $8 per hour and work few hours, the strikers said. Part-time workers do receive vacation and insurance benefits.

It has been 21 years since there was a strike against UPS, and that was on a midwest basis rather than nationally, according to Roger Amundson, who has been a UPS employee for 32 years and was on the picket line Monday. He worked a few months in Warren and then came to Thief River Falls when UPS first started here.

"We're here to walk the picket line," he said, indicating that the union employees had not been interfering with any traffic to or from the UPS terminal—although such vehicle movement was virtually nonexistent.

Kevin Ewertz, center supervisor, was working to unload and load trucks in the terminal late Monday afternoon, but declined comment on the local situation in accordance with a directive from company management. He provided a name and number to call in the Twin Cities. That number was answered electronically on two attempts and no return call has been received.

While discharging their strike duties as they were expected to do, the pickets appeared somewhat uncomfortable and perhaps a little embarrassed by their public display. They were not without support, however. Early Monday morning local railroad employees brought a supply of rolls for breakfast and throughout the day a number of passers-by honked their horns.

And though apparently in agreement with the union's demands, the strikers seemed to be in hopes for an early settlement that would take them off the line and back to work.

United Parcel Service employees who are members of the Teamsters Union are picketing the UPS terminal building in Thief River Falls this week. The union went on strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. (EDT) Monday, August 4. The strike affects about 40 employees working out of the Thief River Falls facility and involves a dispute over pension fund management and the number of part-time workers employed by the parcel delivery service on a national basis.

Local shippers are trying to work around UPS worker strike

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Thief River Falls businesses which are heavy users of United Parcel Service were faced with trying to make do without the carrier early this week when employees began a strike against the company at 12:01 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

Digi-Key Corporation, which is the largest volume UPS air shipper in Minnesota, was able to convince other carriers—principally Federal Express and, to a much lesser extent, the U.S. Postal Service—to take a large part of its normal UPS volume Monday. The electronics supply company normally ships about 3,200 parcels with UPS each business day.

Mark Larson, president, said that Federal Express accepted about 2,000 parcels on Monday and that the post office did what it could, but at the end of the day there were about 600 packages ready for shipment which didn't make it out of town.

Larson said that Digi-Key is a convenience source for a large percentage of its customers, and as a result he didn't notice a significant change in order volume—neither an increase last week in anticipation of a shipping interruption nor a decline Monday after the strike had begun.

Digi-Key is affected by the strike on two fronts. In addition to its heavy shipping volume, it normally receives several hundred packages a day by UPS as well.

Larson said Digi-Key suppliers were advised last week to divert their shipments where possible to Federal Express. Monday that request was modified to ask the supplier to use a best available method, including consolidating orders and shipping by truck.

Only Canadian customers of the company are not expected to be adversely affected by the strike. As of Jan. 1, 1997, Digi-Key has trucked its Canadian orders to the port of entry at Emerson, from where they are taken by Purolator Courier to Winnipeg for distribution from there. That process was first affected by frequent winter storms, then the Red River Valley flood, and now turmoil caused by the strike against UPS.

Larson said that about 25 to 30 percent of the company's volume goes to the East Coast and 20 percent to the West Coast. He doesn't feel the UPS work stoppage will put the local company at a competitive disadvantage since competitors will be in essentially the same situation.

Neither does he expect the strike to have an adverse impact on the company's employees, at at least the short term. If the strike continues and normal work volume is decreased, employees could be diverted to other work in the company, he said. He also expects other carriers to "gear up" to meet the demand if the strike is prolonged. There is also the possibility of federal intervention to order UPS employees back to work.

Larson said he expects Digi-Key to ship a total of some 900,000 packages by all carriers in calendar 1997.

IMS Adversely Impacted

Darrell Magner of Independent Machine Service in Thief River Falls said the strike will have an adverse impact on his label supply business if it continues for long.

About 70 to 80 percent of the approximately 200 parcels shipped by IMS a day have gone by UPS. Magner, who had been out of town to attend the funeral of a family

Particle board plant still possible

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Construction of a particle board plant in Thief River Falls still remains a possibility. Information about the potential for particle board and a possible manufacturing plant, however, is still being collected and construction of a plant remains a distant possibility.

Recently, representatives of Jobs Inc., Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), the Minnesota department of Trade and Economic Development and Minnesota Wheat and Minnesota Barley Associations heard a presentation from a representative of an English company called Compak. Compak claims to be the only company that produces equipment specifically designed for the production of agriculture residue based particle board.

Discussion about the manufacture of particle board in Thief River Falls began in 1995. Jobs Inc., a quasi-public economic development organization, formed a committee to study the proposal. Since then a number of meetings have been held. In addition, a delegation, consisting of city, county and Jobs Inc. officials went to a manufacturing plant in Wahpeton. PrimeBoard in Wahpeton uses equipment manufactured by a Swedish company called DaProma. This equipment, along with some other equipment in the facility, was originally designed around a process of wood pulp to produce particle board. Officials have now been on two tours of the facility. One tour was held conducted during the start up, and another in March of 1996 when they were making a product.

After the Wahpeton plant tour in 1995, Jobs Inc. got in touch with AURI and put together and initial product assessment grant application. The purpose of the grant was to conduct a survey of farmers, which sought answers to questions about what price they would expect, possible participation, and under what conditions. AURI awarded a $7,500 matching grant and the "straw survey" was conducted by Team Marketing of Fargo, ND, which had performed four or five similar surveys.

Interest in the project was encouraging. It was so encouraging a business memorandum, not a business plan, was completed.

Don Stewart, representative of Jobs Inc. and the city of Thief River Falls, said that there are a number of favorable attributes to the product produced with wheat straw. It is lighter, more moisture resistant, and environmentally friendly. It is more environmentally friendly because formaldehyde is not used in its manufacture, but a product called MDI, a polyurethane binder.

Stewart said Jobs Inc. is interested in a particle board plant because of its potential benefit to the agricultural economy. The current job market has less than three and four percent unemployment. Arctic Cat, for example has had some difficulty getting all the people they need. So, although job creation is important, it wasn't the only motivational factor involved.

Howard Person, Minnesota Extension Educator in Pennington county, explained that they have been looking for something that would add value to agriculture products. Use of wheat straw has been explored, but Person said they would prefer to see alfalfa used. It's better for farmers because it fits in with normal rotation, and produces four ton per acre, on average, in comparison to one ton of wheat straw per acre, on average. In addition, researchers are working on a process that would allow farmers to remove leaves from the alfalfa, which could be pelletized and sold as high quality feed. The only problem with alfalfa, right now, is that they don't know for sure whether it would work.

After spending all his weekdays riding Tigershark personal watercraft as a test driver for Arctic Cat, Inc., what does Nathan Magner like to do for recreation on weekends? He races his Tigersharks in international competition as a member of the International Jet Sport Boating Association — and is quite successful at it.

"Ocean riding is the most fun thing I have ever done!" exclaims the 26-year-old racer who is the son of Donald and Bonnie Magner of Thief River Falls. "Until I started ocean riding, the most fun had been running a Thundercat snowmobile in the ditches around here."

Ocean racing, however, goes beyond fun. They don't call the sport endurance racing for nothing. Most races are 50 mile or longer events, often in heavy surf and strong winds, creating handling and impact conditions which take their toll on both man and machine.

Nathan's most recent success was at Daytona Beach, FL, on July 13 when he won the Pro Runabout

Norwegian visitors get personal guided tour of Arctic Cat

Norwegian visitors to Thief River Falls last week were Ove and Inger Sivertsen of Arendal, Norway, and their children Ingvild, 18 and Sigurd, 15. Ove was a college roommate of Bill Ness, now chairman of the board of Arctic Cat Inc., while both were studying electrical engineering at the University of North Dakota. Ness (center) provided the family with a personal tour of the Arctic Cat manufacturing plant during their visit.

When Ove and Inger Sivertsen and two of their three children visited in Thief River Falls last week, they were interested in seeing the Arctic Cat manufacturing plant. Their tour director was Bill Ness, chairman of the board of directors.

Ove had a bit of an inside track for the plant tour, having been a college roommate of Ness while they were both attending the University of North Dakota in the late 1950s.

Sivertsen said he had decided he wanted to attend a university in the United States and wrote to the U.S. Information Agency. He followed up the information from the agency by writing to UND and traveled by boat to the United States in January of 1958.

"I traveled by bus from New York City to Chicago to Minneapolis and on to Crookston," he said. It was a winter with virtually no snow, and the trip from Crookston to Grand Forks, ND, was marked by blowing topsoil. "I wondered what in the world I had gotten myself into," he said.

He said he was soon put at ease at UND, however, when student [illegible] Anderson from the Trail area started talking to him in Norwegian. He took some of the same electrical engineering courses as Bill Ness and the following fall they moved into a room in a house where Jim Nepper's mother lived (Nepper is a former Thief River Falls resident and the late husband of Ruth Nepper).

During the summer they worked for the U.S. Forest Service in Montana. They had gone to be part of a survey crew to gain more engineering experience but wound up fighting fires most of the season.

After graduation from UND in 1960, Ove went to the Twin Cities to work and continued his studies at Michigan Technological University where he earned his master's degree in 1962. He then worked in the United States and Puerto Rico for several years before returning to Norway in 1969.

Sivertsen and Ness had stayed in contact over the years, mostly through cards at Christmas. Although Ness has been in Norway a number of times, most of his trips have been into the Lapland area of the far north where Arctic Cat snowmobiles are used extensively. He had never visited his college roommate there.

This summer the two youngest Sivertsen children—Ingvild, 18 and Sigurd, 15—participated in a two-week summer youth program at Michigan Tech in Houghton, MI. Ingvild studied physiology and microbiology and Sigurd was involved with computer application.

Ove and Inger came to the U.S. to pick up the children, re-visit the universities at Houghton and Grand Forks (Ove has maintained contact with some of his professors) and become reacquainted with Bill and visit the Arctic Cat plant. The visitors said Arctic Cat snowmobiles are shown frequently on Norwegian television in stories about recreation or exploration.

Ove said that he and his family were impressed with Thief River Falls as a progressive and friendly community. "It is like coming home," he said.

Particle board plant

Stewart explained that officials with Compak didn't know what alfalfa was until they saw some in California. Compak has other manufacturing facilities, but most use bagasse (straw from sugar cane).

Person has collected 80 pounds of alfalfa stems and is trying to get a permit to ship it to England. It has been a tough challenge, and one which has required the assistance of the Department of Trade and Economic Development. Once shipped to England, the alfalfa would be tested to determine its suitability to the production of particle board. Eventually, considerably more alfalfa would be sent so that it could be tested in a production run.

A number of other questions remain to be answered. The next step would be to develop a business plan, but the plan would cost between $40,000 to $50,000. If the plan is completed, they would then make a decision about how the business would be organized — operated and owned by a business, individuals, partners, or producers. Money would be raised and a project director hired. Stewart said all of these steps could mean $150,000 to $200,000 could be spent before any construction begins.

It is the feeling of the Jobs Inc. board and others involved, that before they ask anyone to spend that kind of money, they want to make sure it can be profitable. Other factors playing into that concern is the fact that there are only two plants in North America. The Wahpeton plant, which sells its product to one company, and a plant in Hutchinson, KS, which just went on line.

Art Tranby, member of Jobs Inc., and owner of Northern Woodwork in Thief River Falls, said it would be difficult to assess the impact of the particle board on the market. It has a number of good attributes and the question remains whether the board would be able to demand a premium price. There are some major manufacturers which use the product, and because it can be produced to user specifications, some secondary markets as well. Tranby said he doesn't disagree with Stewart. There's no advantage to proceeding without a complete understanding.

Stewart said Jobs Inc. is interested in what Compak has to say about the manufacture of a particle board. They make specific equipment for the manufacture of particle board based on agriculture residue, the initial investment would be about half of what they had heard from the other company, they have been doing this for about 10 years, prefer to operate smaller plants and draw upon a smaller area, and the equipment will supposedly take any type of bale.

Because of this interest, Stewart traveled to a Particle Board Symposium in Pulman, WA, last spring, and had a private meeting with representatives of Compak. They offered to come to Thief River Falls. That meeting was conducted just last week, but Stewart said the representative was more versed in the production of the board rather than economics and marketing, which is something that still needs to be addressed.

Local shippers try to work around UPS strike member, said Monday night he had not been at his business on Monday.

"We will be doing some grouping of orders to make truck shipment to some of our larger clients," he said, "but if they are unable to ship to their customers it won't make much difference. And the end users can't use the labels if they can't get their merchandise, so that wouldn't be good for us."

Arctic Cat Incoming Shipments Are Affected

Primary effect of the UPS strike at Arctic Cat Inc. in Thief River Falls will be on incoming shipments rather than outgoing ones, according to Bruce Seaverson of the company's shipping department.

Arctic Cat normally receives a large amount of its shipments of manufacturing materials under 70 pounds by UPS. Seaverson said that Monday was not a true test of the effect of the strike since it was a time for "cleaning out the pipeline." Alternate means of receiving materials are being sought to keep manufacturing going on a continuing basis.

Child injured in swimming accident Mon.

Brandy Leigh Hermanson, 7, Thief River Falls, was recovering at Northwest Medical Center Tuesday from a swimming accident Monday evening at Franklin Middle school pool.

Law enforcement officials are crediting Alicia Bakken, the lifeguard on duty, with performing CPR and saving the life of Brandy.

At 7:31 p.m. the law enforcement center received a report of a swimming accident at the pool. Law enforcement officials were not sure what had taken place, but children in the pool alerted the lifeguard to the fact that the young girl was on the bottom of the pool. She was pulled from the pool and CPR was performed. She was then taken to Northwest Medical Center were she was held overnight for observation.

CORRECTION:

A story on the Thief River Falls City Council incorrectly reported that Milt Burstad resigned from the public works committee. Burstad resigned his position as chairman of the board, but remains on the committee. Ken Schmalz was appointed chairman of that committee.

Ruth Sustad of Viking helps find brother's two children

For Mrs. LeRoy (Ruth) Sustad of Viking, the excitement of meeting her brother's two long-missing children [illegible] the [illegible] computer [illegible] the [illegible]

On Father's Day, June 15, the children were reunited with their father after an absence of 53 years. A family gathering in Hawthorne, WI, brought together a total of 78 people, including 56 family members.

Mrs. Sustad explained that her brother, Linus Peterson, lived on a farm in South Range, WI, in 1944 when his wife took their two children, Rosaline and Larry, ages three and two years, and moved to California where she had a brother. No contact had been established since that time.

Ruth said that she and her sister Janice Adams of Weeks Mills, ME, often wondered about Linus' children and the possibility of ever finding out what happened to them. At one time while in Oakland, CA, Ruth tried calling a few L. Peterson or Larry Peterson names in the phone directory to no avail.

Last fall, however, a friend of Janice in Rochester, NH, obtained through the Internet a computerized listing of all the Larry Petersons in the state of California. Janice took on the task of writing to four of the names at a time, asking a few personal questions that could be answered only by the person she was seeking.

Miraculously, after writing to only 10 names on the list which totaled six pages, she received a response from the family members she was seeking.

Linus' son Larry of Redwood Valley, CA, received the letter and called his sister Rosaline Gogna of Sebastopol, CA. Her husband, who is an attorney, responded to Janice's letter, inquiring about her interest in the family and what she intended to do with any information obtained.

Not knowing that the attorney was Rosaline's husband, Janice sent letters for him to give to his "clients," explaining the search for her brother's long missing children. On January 3, Rosaline called Janice and initiated the personal contact which led to she and Larry suggesting the appropriate Father's Day reunion in Wisconsin.

A period of time after his wife's leaving for California, Linus remarried and adopted his second wife's two sons, Duane and Jerry. They also had two children of their own, Dale and Darlene.

Assisting in making arrangements for the reunion were Linus' children who are living in the area and their families. Also attending were Linus' five living brothers and sisters—including Ruth Sustad and Janice Adams—all children of the late Carl and [illegible] Peterson, formerly of the Akeley area.

Photos accompanying this article identify Linus with his children and with his brothers and sisters.

"It was simply unbelievable that contact could be made in such a short time with so few contacts on such a long list of names," Ruth Sustad said. "Linus is 78 years old and it was a great joy for him to see his children again after 53 years. They said they had never been given any information about him by their mother and were excited to visit and learn more about him."

Aware of flood-caused hazards? Call NRCS

People aware of hazardous situations caused by this spring's floods are encouraged to report them to local government officials or the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office in their respective counties.

Funding to correct some of the hazards to help safeguard individuals and property may be available through the Emergency Watershed Protection Program. The program is designed to relieve imminent hazards to life and property caused by flooding and erosion.

Assistance is available for emergency work that presents a clear threat to life or property and requires immediate action. In such cases of immediate need or extreme hardship, NRCS can pay up to 75 percent of costs. Local sponsors are responsible for the remaining 25 percent in cash or in-kind services.

EWP work must reduce threats to life and property and be economically and environmentally sound from an engineering perspective. Public and private landowners are eligible for assistance but must be represented by a sponsoring local unit of government.

Work is not limited to a set of prescribed measures. NRCS field employees investigate the needed work on a case-by-case basis. Examples where work may be needed include debris removal from stream channels and bridge openings, reshaping and protecting eroding streambanks that endanger homes, business and utilities, and reseeding of areas that are eroding excessively.

Funds from the EWP program can't be used to solve problems that existed prior to the emergency or for operation and maintenance work or to repair private or public transportation facilities, or utilities. The projects cannot adversely affect downstream water rights and measures not essential to hazard reduction cannot be installed through the program. EWP can't be used to perform work on measures installed by another federal agency nor to protect cropland or pasture.

Sponsors of projects may be watershed districts, townships, counties and other eligible local units of government. They may apply for assistance in a letter that states the nature, location and scope of the problem for which assistance is requested. The letter should be sent to the local NRCS office.

Three generations of Masonry were represented at the award program in Red Lake Falls: Roscoe, his son Ed and grandson Alan Duke of Estelline.

Participating in the 50-year member program were the following: Lee Luettjohann, Crookston Lodge 141, acting district representative who presented the 50 year award; Tom Raymond, East Grand Forks Lodge 292, district representative; Ken Shaw, Thief River Falls Lodge 236, past master and past district representative; Ernest Swanson, Goodridge, Northern Lodge 236, past master; Lowell Swanson, Goodridge, Northern Lodge 236, master.

Ryan Drees finds employment and contentment in Japan

By Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

How many young men do you know who have have completed their educations, become a Certified Public Accountant, backpacked through Europe, studied in Australia, climbed Mount Fuji and lived and worked in Japan?

Meet Ryan Drees of Tokyo, Japan and formerly of St. Hilaire. Thirty-year-old Ryan is a 1985 graduate of Lincoln High School and the son of Barb and Harley Drees. He is currently visiting in the area.

After high school, Ryan attended the University of North Dakota where he earned a Bachelor's degree in business. Following college, he got a job with an accounting firm in South Dakota. The job involved a considerable amount of auditing and pencil-pushing, and when the adventurous Ryan found it too dull, he quit and spent the summer backpacking through Europe.

When he returned to the United States, he went back to school at the University of Minnesota. While there, he participated in a student exchange program that took him to Australia for six months.

Ryan loved Australia and would have stayed there if finding a job had been possible. Jobs that can be filled by Australians are not given to foreigners.

Back in the U.S.A., Ryan completed his education at the University with a Masters degree in business. The young Certified Public Accountant then went to work for First Banks of Minneapolis.

While in Australia, however, Ryan had met a Japanese friend. He had Japan on his mind, and in April of 1996, he moved there.

Employment was easy to come by, and for the first year, he taught English at a conversation school called Aeon.

Learning English at conversation schools is a popular and expensive hobby for many Japanese. From noon to nine o'clock in the evening five days a week, Ryan taught English to Japanese students, businessmen and housewives. Twice a week the Japanese attend classes for a number of reasons. Students supplement their studies. Businessmen enhance their English to augment their professional lives. Housewives go to class for something to do a couple afternoons a week or so that they can understand American movies. Many take the class just for fun.

Ryan's first big adventure was climbing Mount Fuji - the highest mountain in Japan - last summer. Long considered a sacred mountain by the Japanese, more than 50,000 pilgrims climb to its summit each year.

Recently, Ryan left the conversation school for other employment opportunities.

Two days a week, he teaches English at an all girls junior college. The young women are those who haven't passed the test for the university, and according to Ryan are "pigeon-holed" at the junior college. Upon graduation, they hope to find clerical work or jobs as administrative assistants.

One of Ryan's many photographs revealed a vivacious looking group of young women. Ryan noted that he had to bring them out of their shells, and that while things are slowly changing, Japanese women are still considered second class citizens.

Ryan also teaches accounting two days a week at a school attended by Japanese businessmen who wish to learn about American accounting standards.

Ryan's third and favorite job is teaching English on an educational cable television program geared toward junior high school age children. Recently, he was hired by a television network to make an educational children's video which involved a number of costume changes and animation on Ryan's part. He referred to it as his "best job ever" and hopes to do more of this type of thing in the future.

While Ryan spends much of his time teaching, he is also learning the language. At this time he can speak well enough to make himself understood. While learning to speak Japanese is probably easier than English, Ryan says "writing it is impossible" with a number of alphabets and symbols that originated in China.

Ryan thoroughly enjoys Japan and its people. The culture is very calm. The Japanese are taught at an early age that "the nail that sticks out gets hammered down." Thus, the people are subdued and don't call attention to themselves or show emotion. Because the Japanese society is so controlled, one never has to worry about their safety.

Parents are always responsible for their children. For a time, Ryan lived in a "foreigner's house" as did several 30 to 40-year-old Japanese. Because parental responsibility continues into adulthood, the landlord kept the telephone numbers of the Japanese tenants' parents.

Parents also push their children educationally, and from the time they are two years old, Japanese are disciplined to study until they get to college where, according to Ryan, "no one studies."

Travel in Japan is slow. Ryan travels by train. While he spends about 40 minutes one way on the crowded train, many spend up to three hours getting to and from work or school each day. Cars rarely travel over 40 miles per hour and a 200-mile weekend excursion can take eight or nine hours.

A stack of photographs revealed that Ryan is not an all-work-and-no-play kind of guy. Often surrounded by pretty females, he is seen at parties, barbeques on the river bank, even at the Pizza Hut. Vegetables, he says, are the main food item whether it be at a cookout or on a pizza.

While wages compensate for the high cost of living, paying eight to ten dollars for a beer quickly squelches a young man's thirst, and Ryan's small one room apartment costs $500 a month.

Ryan will be returning to Japan in a few days. How long will he stay there? He says he'll play it "year by year." He wants to learn more of the language. He's planning a trip to Vietnam or Thailand in the near future. Workwise, he couldn't be happier.

Asked if his parents are supportive, Ryan says that externally they are, but internally they wish he were closer. They communicate by E-mail, but his mother, Barb, understandably misses his hugs.

Turning 30 was an unsettling milestone for Ryan. While visiting home and friends who are "settled down" with spouses, houses, kids, station wagons and dogs, Ryan is wondering if that is where he should be, living that life, too.

Those of us who have lived a bit longer can tell Ryan that he should be wherever he is happiest. It was obvious to me that for now Ryan should be in Japan.

Arriving in Tokyo, Japan in April of 1996, Ryan Drees of St. Hilaire worked at a conversation school. Pictured outside the school, Ryan says that learning English is a hobby for Japanese people of all ages and walks of life.

St. Hilaire native Ryan Drees is currently teaching accounting to Japanese businessmen who wish to study American accounting standards. This is only one of three interesting jobs Ryan has in Tokyo. He also teaches English at an all girls junior college and appears on a cable television program that teaches English to junior high school age children.

While circumstances are slowly changing, women are still considered second class citizens in Japan. The young women that Ryan Drees teaches at a junior college are quiet and subdued and have to be brought out of their shells. The Japanese are taught that the "nail that sticks out gets hammered down."

Applications to leadership program now available

Applications to the Blandin Foundation Community Leadership program are now available to residents of the Thief River Falls area.

Twelve people from the Thief River Falls area and 12 people from the Crookston area will be selected to participate in the program. The program will focus on functions of leadership, communication, dealing with conflict, power and influence, goal setting and application of the community leadership skills. The Myers-Briggs personality inventory will be used to understand yourself better — as well as others. The total value of this program, including tuition, food and lodging, is estimated at $3,000, and is covered by a scholarship to each participant.

The program begins with a six-day leadership retreat scheduled for October 19-24 at Ruttgers Sugar Lake Lodge outside Grand Rapids.

Applications can be obtained at the School District Service Center, the Chamber of Commerce, Thief River Falls City Clerk's office, and Social Services in Thief River Falls.

A town meeting explaining this program will be held in room D-60 at 7:30 p.m. August 18 at Northland Community and Technical College. During that meeting, the program and selection process will be explained in detail by a representative of the Blandin Community Leadership program and local graduates of the program. Applications will also be available at this meeting.

Leadership program available to residents

Blandin Foundation of Grand Rapids and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation are making the Blandin Community Leadership program available to people from Thief River Falls. A team of 12 people will be selected to represent Thief River Falls at a six-day leadership retreat scheduled for October 19-24.

A town meeting to discuss the program will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 18, in room D-60 at Northland Community and Technical College. During the meeting, the program will be explained and the application process started. All those who are interested in the future of the community and the area are invited to attend.

The Blandin Community Leadership program started in 1985 and over 2,500 people from 170 Minnesota communities have participated in the program.

Paul Olson, president of the Blandin Foundation stated, "The purpose of this program is to strengthen rural communities by helping them help themselves. We believe that a community's greatest resource is its people." The program, however, is intended not only to develop individual leadership skills, but also to develop networks and teams of local leaders.

Jim Krile, director of the program, contended that "Effective community development requires effective leadership throughout the community. The basic philosophy of this program is to encourage shared leadership within communities and to foster cooperation between communities." The program focuses on basic leadership skills as they apply to community issues.

Participants for the October 19-24 retreat will be chosen by a local selection committee. The participants will spend a week at Ruttger's Sugar Lake Lodge outside Grand Rapids studying functions of leadership, communication, dealing with conflict and other skills.

Krile explained, "It is very important that communities select their own participants and that they get as many people involved in the selection process as possible." Due to the financial support of the Blandin Foundation, participants will receive $3,000 scholarships which covers food, lodging and tuition. In addition, the Northwest Minnesota Foundation provides funds to cover transportation, child care and substitute wages if necessary.

Christopher and Nicolle Ellison at home in Grand Forks

Banners, candelabras with ivy and bows and pew bows decorated Zion Lutheran Church as Nicolle Kay Armstrong and Christopher Lee Ellison exchanged vows on June 28. Parents of the couple are Joe and Ginny Armstrong and Clint and Suzy Ellison, all of Thief River Falls.

Pastor Gary Johnson officiated at the 5:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. Crystal Forsberg, friend of the groom, sang "Somewhere Out There" and "Wedding Song." Alicia Hogan, cousin of the groom, played the piano. The congregation sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds." Organist Phyllis Dalager, friend of the bride, played "Cannon in D" for the processional and "Wedding March" for the recessional.

The bride wore a white A-line gown accented with lace, pearls and sequins. A lace bow on the back was followed by three small bows on the train which was outlined in pearls and lace. Her veil was held in place by a glass headband accented with sequins, pearls and edged netting. Her bouquet was made up of white and burgundy daisies and burgundy and hunter green roses with small clear lights.

Attending her sister as Matron of Honor was Lynell Wayne of Thief River Falls. Maid of Honor was Sara Olson of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride. Cathy Siegfried, friend of the bride, of Goodwin, SD was the bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Erica Wayne of Thief River Falls, niece of the bride.

The bride's attendents wore tea-length A-line gowns of hunter green. They carried bouquets similar to the bridal bouquet.

Dressed in a white A-line dress with short puffy sleeves, a bow on the bodice and lace around the hem was flower girl Erin Wayne of Thief River Falls, niece of the bride. She carried a basket of daisies, roses, rosebuds of white, burgundy and hunter green. Small clear lights accented the arrangement.

Personal attendent was Shannon Hanson, friend of the bride.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails, white vest, shirt and bow tie. His boutonniere featured a burgundy daisy with two rosebuds.

Attending the groom as bestman was his friend Josh Reimke of Bismarck, ND. Groomsmen were Brad Cota of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, and Michael Ellison of Rugby, ND, cousin of the groom. Junior groomsman was Chad Rosencrans of Thief River Falls, cousin of the groom.

Men of wedding party wore black tuxedos with tails, vests and bow ties of gold and hunter paisley on a black background. Their boutonnaires were made up of two white daisies offset by a small burgundy flower.

Dressed to match the other men of the wedding party was the ring bearer Nathan Hinkley of Perley, cousin of the groom. One white daisy and small burgundy flower made up his boutonniere.

Ushering the guests were Lance Cota of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, Andy Peterson of Thief River Falls, friend of the groom, Kelvin Kingsley of Bismarck, ND, friend of the groom and Brenden Hemmer of Beulah, ND, friend of the groom. They also wore the same tuxedos and boutonnieres as the others in the wedding party.

Programs were distributed by Stefanie Swanson, friend of the bride, and Sara Tyler, friend of the couple.

The mother of the bride wore a hunter green straight dress with a multi-color coat of gold, green, red and black.

The groom's mother wore a beige sundress topped with a short jacket.

Their corsages were made of two burgundy daisies, four white daisies, two burgundy rosebuds and white ribbon.

The fathers of the couple wore black tuxedo waistcoats with black vests and bow ties. Their boutonnieres were two white daisies accented by a burgundy rosebud.

Special guests were Chuck and Janet Armstrong of Crookston, godparents of the bride; Edith and Wally Etter of Thief River Falls, friends of the bride; Jean Hesse of Grand Forks, grandmother of the groom; and Carl and Leora Ellison of Moorhead, grandparents of the groom.

Hosting the reception were Myles and Kathy Alberg and Rick and Marilyn Nygaard, friends of the couple. Alicia Hogan, cousin of the groom, attended the guest book.

The wedding cake featured three bottom cakes topped with two tiers and a third on pillars. The cake was decorated with burgundy daisies, white flowers and a wedding cross on top, burgundy daisies and ribbons between the tiers with pearls looped around all the tiers and wedding bells on the three bottom cakes. The cake was cut by Darleen Hinkley, aunt of the groom, and Phyllis Ille, friend of the bride.

Adele Rosencrans and Kathy Ellison, aunts of the groom, served coffee. Punch was served by Ronda Hogan, aunt of the groom and Erica Alberg, friend of the couple.

Multiple Sclerosis Society announces new programs

Minnesota Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society recently started two new programs designed to reach out to the estimated 8,000 people in Minnesota with multiple sclerosis (MS) and their families.

Through Tell-A-Peer, people with MS can talk one on one over the phone with trained volunteers who also have MS. Some of the most common topics include coping strategies, family relationships, employment issues, Social Security and community resources for people with disabilities.

Volunteers who are caregivers of people with MS are also available to talk with other caregivers. In both cases, volunteers are matched with individuals based on the needs of the caller.

With the Friendly Visitor program, people with MS may request visits at their home or assisted care facility from trained volunteers who also have MS. This program is geared toward those with more severe MS who may be experiencing some isolation due to either a disability or disease flare-up known as an exacerbation.

To participate in these or any MS programs, call 1-800-582-5296.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

The job with many jobs

When most adults decide to become parents, we're pretty sure what the job description entails. We should be, since we've heard all the gruesome details from our friends who've already had children. We know that we will be caregivers who change diapers and feed the child. We know that we will provide love, support, discipline and money. We know that we will be our child's primary teachers. We know that there will be good days and there will be bad days.

But as my child grows older and is looking forward to his seventh birthday, I've discovered that there are some details those friends didn't divulge. I've found that in addition to the above-mentioned parental duties, there are a score of side jobs that come with the parent role. It almost feels like moonlighting, although I'm sure all of these will look good on a resume in the future. Some require highly skilled training while others just test our patience.

I'm honing my skills for a possible future position as a chauffeur. Mothers and fathers spend a large share of their life in the car shuttling children from school to day care to skating to swimming lessons to T-ball. And you really feel like a chauffeur when a child is embarrassed to be seen with his mom and sits in the back seat by himself. I know my first name isn't James.

While the children participate in the activities that we chauffeur them to, we become constant cheerleaders. I never made the cheerleading team in high school so my chance is now, and I'm getting excellent practice. "Good hit!" "Great backstroke!" "Good catch!" "Go team go!" It's often difficult to create a new cheer after watching so many swimming lessons and so many games – especially if we weren't watching that split-second when something astounding occurred. "Of course I was watching. You did great!" How's that for creativity?

The other occupation that fits well here is social director. Scheduling the activities between the family's other responsibilities takes a lot of skill, cunning and teamwork. Between work, meetings, grocery shopping and dentist appointments, someone needs to take "junior" to swimming lessons. Then there are friends, birthday parties, programs and lunch dates to add to the equation. This job needs a calendar with big squares and a pencil with a tough eraser.

The child has to be dressed for all of these activities, so it's my job as a parent to make sure he has clothes to wear. My title, in addition to mother, is wardrobe coordinator. I prefer the "baby stage" where the infant wore what I dressed him in and didn't complain about it. Now I'm faced with a boy who has definite likes and dislikes. (Definite dislike: Denim jean shirts with stripes. Definite likes: Batman apparel.) I've resorted to stocking an assortment of jeans, T-shirts and sweatshirts to make my job easier and hassle-free.

Before I resorted to the jean and T-shirt wardrobe, I became a skilled negotiator and persuader. Each morning before school we'd negotiate about what he was going to wear. "You wear the blue jeans today with that pretty shirt that grandma gave you for Christmas and tomorrow you can wear your favorite black jeans with the black sweatshirt." I'd say "You look great in it."

I've also become a great lost and found directory. "Mom, where's my swimming suit?"

"In the bathroom where you took it off."

"Mom, where's my Batman action figure with the blue sword?"

"Did you look in your closet?"

"Mom, where's my blanket?"

"Look under your bed."

Unless it's some obscure item that isn't logged in my mind's directory, I can locate 99 percent of the items. This is a great talent to have when attending those home parties where you memorize all the items to win a prize. I just knew all these skills would come in handy.

As my child grows, life changes and becomes more interesting – requiring more skills than ever. I've become a fly swatter, at midnight saving my child from the lone mosquito buzzing his head and keeping him awake. I've become an expert luggage handler disguised as an octopus while I try to carry the groceries, toy cars and various trinkets – all at once. I'm a great short order cook, especially with peanut butter sandwiches and chicken nuggets. Most days it seems as if there is nothing I can't do. Does anyone know where I can get a job?

Back in the U.S.A., Ryan completed his education at the University with a Masters degree in business. The young Certified Public Accountant then went to work for First Banks of Minneapolis.

While in Australia, however, Ryan had met a Japanese friend. He had Japan on his mind, and in April of 1996, he moved there.

Employment was easy to come by, and for the first year, he taught English at a conversation school called "Aeon."

Learning English at conversation schools is a popular and expensive hobby for many Japanese. From noon to nine o'clock in the evening five days a week, Ryan taught English to Japanese students, businessmen and housewives. Twice a week the Japanese attend classes for a number of reasons. Students supplement their studies. Businessmen enhance their English to augment their professional lives. Housewives go to class for something to do a couple afternoons a week or so that they can understand American movies. Many take the class just for fun.

Ryan's first big adventure was climbing Mount Fuji–the highest mountain in Japan– last summer. Long considered a sacred mountain by the Japanese, more than 50,000 pilgrims climb to its summit each year.

Recently, Ryan left the conversation school for other employment opportunities.

Two days a week, he teaches English at an all girls junior college. The young women are those who haven't passed the test for the university, and according to Ryan are "pigeon-holed" at the junior college. Upon graduation, they hope to find clerical work or jobs as administrative assistants.

One of Ryan's many photographs revealed a vivacious looking group of young women. Ryan noted that he had to bring them out of their shells, and that while things are slowly changing, Japanese women are still considered second class citizens.

Ryan also teaches accounting two days a week at a school attended by Japanese businessmen who wish to learn about American accounting standards.

Ryan's third and favorite job is teaching English on an educational cable television program geared toward junior high school age children. Recently, he was hired by a television network to make an educational children's video which involved a number of costume changes and animation on Ryan's part. He referred to it as his "best job ever" and hopes to do more of this type of thing in the future.

While Ryan spends much of his time teaching, he is also learning the language. At this time, he can speak well enough to make himself understood. While learning to speak Japanese is probably easier than English, Ryan says "writing it is impossible" with a number of alphabets and symbols that originated in China.

Ryan thoroughly enjoys Japan and its people. The culture is very calm. The Japanese are taught at an early age that "the nail that sticks out gets hammered down." Thus, the people are subdued and don't call attention to themselves or show emotion. Because the Japanese society is so controlled, one never has to worry about their safety.

Parents are always responsible for their children. For a time, Ryan lived in a "foreigner's house" as did several 30 to 40-year-old Japanese. Because parental responsibility continues into adulthood, the landlord kept the telephone numbers of the Japanese tenants' parents.

Parents also push their children educationally, and from the time they are two years old, Japanese are disciplined to study until they get to college where, according to Ryan, "no one studies."

Travel in Japan is slow. Ryan travels by train. While he spends about 40 minutes one way on the crowded train, many spend up to three hours getting to and from work or school each day. Cars rarely travel over 40 miles per hour, and a 200-mile weekend excursion can take eight or nine hours.

A stack of photographs revealed that Ryan is not an all-work-and-no-play kind of guy. Often surrounded by pretty females, he is seen at parties, barbeques on the river bank, even at the Pizza Hut. Vegetables, he says, are the main food item whether it be at a cookout or on a pizza.

While wages compensate for the high cost of living, paying eight to ten dollars for a beer quickly squelches a young man's thirst, and Ryan's small one room apartment costs $500 a month.

Ryan will be returning to Japan in a few days. How long will he stay there? He says he'll play it "year by year." He wants to learn more of the language. He's planning a trip to Vietnam or Thailand in the near future. Workwise, he couldn't be happier.

Asked if his parents are supportive, Ryan says that externally they are, but internally they wish he were closer. They communicate by E-mail, but his mother, Barb, understandably misses his hugs.

Turning 30 was an unsettling milestone for Ryan. While visiting home and friends who are "settled down" with spouses, houses, kids, station wagons and dogs, Ryan is wondering if that is where he should living that life, too.

Those of us who have lived a bit longer can tell Ryan that he should be wherever he is happiest. It was obvious to me that for now, Ryan should be in Japan.

Arriving in Tokyo, Japan in April of 1996, Ryan Drees of St. Hilaire worked at a conversation school. Pictured outside the school, Ryan says that learning English is a hobby for Japanese people of all ages and walks of life.

St. Hilaire native Ryan Drees is currently teaching accounting to Japanese businessmen who wish to study American accounting standards. This is only one of three interesting jobs Ryan has in Tokyo. He also teaches English at an all girls junior college and appears on a cable television program that teaches English to junior high school age children.

While circumstances are slowly changing, women are still considered second class citizens in Japan. The young women that Ryan Drees teaches at a junior college are quiet and subdued and have to be brought out of their shells. The Japanese are taught that the "nail that sticks out gets hammered down."

Applications to leadership program now available

Applications to the Blandin Foundation Community Leadership program are now available to residents of the Thief River Falls area.

Twelve people from the Thief River Falls area and 12 people from the Crookston area will be selected to participate in the program. The program will focus on functions of leadership, communication, dealing with conflict, power and influence, goal setting and application of the community leadership skills. The Myers-Briggs personality inventory will be used to understand yourself better — as well as others. The total value of this program, including tuition, food and lodging, is estimated at $3,000, and is covered by a scholarship to each participant.

The program begins with a six-day leadership retreat scheduled for October 19-24 at Ruttgers Sugar Lake Lodge outside Grand Rapids.

Applications can be obtained at the School District Service Center, the Chamber of Commerce, Thief River Falls City Clerk's office, and Social Services in Thief River Falls.

A town meeting explaining this program will be held in room D-60 at 7:30 p.m. August 18 at Northland Community and Technical College. During that meeting, the program and selection process will be explained in detail by a representative of the Blandin Community Leadership program and local graduates of the program. Applications will also be available at this meeting.

Leadership program available to residents

Blandin Foundation of Grand Rapids and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation are making the Blandin Community Leadership program available to people from Thief River Falls. A team of 12 people will be selected to represent Thief River Falls at a six-day leadership retreat scheduled for October 19-24.

A town meeting to discuss the program will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 18, in room D-60 at Northland Community and Technical College. During the meeting, the program will be explained and the application process started. All those who are interested in the future of the community and the area are invited to attend.

The Blandin Community Leadership program started in 1985 and over 2,500 people from 170 Minnesota communities have participated in the program.

Paul Olson, president of the Blandin Foundation stated, "The purpose of this program is to strengthen rural communities by helping them help themselves. We believe that a community's greatest resource is its people." The program, however, is intended not only to develop individual leadership skills, but also to develop networks and teams of local leaders.

Jim Krile, director of the program, commended that, "Effective community development requires effective leadership throughout the community. The basic philosophy of this program is to encourage shared leadership within communities and to foster cooperation between communities." The program focuses on basic leadership skills as they apply to community issues.

Participants for the October 19-24 retreat will be chosen by a local selection committee. The participants will spend a week at Ruttger's Sugar Lake Lodge outside Grand Rapids studying functions of leadership, communication, dealing with conflict and other skills.

Krile explained, "It is very important that communities select their own participants and that they get as many people involved in the selection process as possible." Due to the financial support of the Blandin Foundation, participants will receive $3,000 scholarships which covers food, lodging and tuition. In addition, the Northwest Minnesota Foundation provides funds to cover transportation, child care and substitute wages if necessary.

Christopher and Nicolle Ellison at home in Grand Forks

Banners, candelabras with ivy and bows and pew bows decorated Zion Lutheran Church as Nicolle Kay Armstrong and Christopher Jace Ellison exchanged vows on June 28. Parents of the couple are Joe and Ginny Armstrong and Clair and Suzy Ellison, all of Thief River Falls.

Pastor Gary Johnson officiated at the 5:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. Crystal Finsberg, friend of the groom, sang "Somewhere Out There" and "Wedding Song." Alicia Hogan, cousin of the groom, played the piano. The congregation sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds." Organist Phyllis Dalager, friend of the bride, played "Cannon in D" for the processional and "Wedding March" for the recessional.

The bride wore a white A-line gown accented with lace, pearls and sequins. A large bow on the back was followed by three small bows on the train which was outlined in pearls and lace. Her veil was held in place by a daisy headband accented with sequins, pearls and edged netting. Her bouquet was made up of white and burgundy daisies and burgundy and hunter green roses with small clear lights.

Attending her sister as Matron of Honor was Lynell Wayne of Thief River Falls. Maid of Honor was Sara Olson of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride. Cathy Siegfried, friend of the bride, of Goodwin, SD was the bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Erica Wayne of Thief River Falls, niece of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore tea-length A-line gowns of hunter green. They carried bouquets similar to the bridal bouquet.

Dressed in a white a-line dress with short, puffy sleeves, a bow on the bodice and lace around the hem was flower girl Erin Wayne of Thief River Falls, niece of the bride. She carried a basket of daisies, roses, rosebuds of white, burgundy and hunter green. Small, clear lights accented the arrangement.

Personal attendant was Shannon Harlson, friend of the bride.

Multiple Sclerosis Society announces new programs

Minnesota Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society recently started two new programs designed to reach out to the estimated 8,000 people in Minnesota with multiple sclerosis (MS) and their families.

Through Tell-A-Peer, people with MS can talk one on one over the phone with trained volunteers who also have MS. Some of the most common topics include coping strategies, family relationships, employment issues, Social Security and community resources for people with disabilities.

Volunteers who are caregivers of people with MS are also available to talk with other caregivers. In both cases, volunteers are matched with individuals based on the needs of the caller.

With the Friendly Visitor program, people with MS may request visits at their home or assisted care facility from trained volunteers who also have MS. This program is geared toward those with more severe MS who may be experiencing some isolation due to either a disability or disease flare-up, known as an exacerbation.

To participate in these or any MS programs, call 1-800-582-5296.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

The job with many jobs

When most adults decide to become parents, we're pretty sure what the job description entails. We should because we've heard all the gruesome details from our friends who've already had children. We know that we will be caregivers who change diapers and feed the child. We know that we will provide love, support, discipline and money. We know that we will be our child's primary teachers. We know that there will be good days and there will be bad days.

But as my child grows older and is looking forward to his seventh birthday, I've discovered that there are some details those friends didn't divulge. I've found that in addition to the above-mentioned parental duties, there are a score of side jobs that come with the parent role. It almost feels like moonlighting, although I'm sure all of these will look good on a resume in the future. Some require highly-skilled training while others just test our patience.

I'm honing my skills for a possible future position as a chauffeur. Mothers and fathers spend a large slice of their life in the car shuttling children from school to day care to skating to swimming lessons to T-ball. And you really feel like a chauffeur when a child is embarrassed to be seen with his mom and sits in the back seat by himself. I know my first name isn't James.

While the children participate in the activities that we chauffeur them to, we become constant cheerleaders. I never made the cheerleading team in high school so my chance is now, and I'm getting excellent practice. "Good hit!" "Great backstroke!" "Good catch!" "Go team, go!" It's often difficult to create a new cheer after watching so many swimming lessons and so many games – especially if we weren't watching that split-second when something astounding occurred. "Of course I was watching. You did great!" How's that for creativity!

The other occupation that fits well here is social director. Scheduling the activities between the family's other responsibilities takes a lot of skill, cunning and teamwork. Between work, meetings, grocery shopping and dentist appointments, someone needs to take "junior" to swimming lessons. Then there are friends, birthday parties, programs and lunch dates to add to the equation. This job needs a calendar with big squares and a pencil with a tough eraser.

The child has to be dressed for all of these activities, so it's my job as a parent to make sure he has clothes to wear. My title, in addition to mother, is wardrobe coordinator. I prefer the "baby stage" where the infant wore what I dressed him in and didn't complain about it. Now I'm faced with a boy who has definite likes and dislikes. (Definite dislike: Denim jean shorts with stripes. Definite likes: Batman apparel.) I've resorted to stocking an assortment of jeans, T-shirts and sweatshirts to make my job easier and hassle-free.

Before I wised to the jean and T-shirt wardrobe, I became a skilled negotiator and persuader. Each morning before school we'd negotiate about what he was going to wear. "You wear the blue jeans today with that pretty shirt that grandma gave you for Christmas and tomorrow you can wear your favorite black jeans with the black sweatshirt." I'd say. "You look great in it."

I've also become a great lost and found directory. "Mom, where's my swimming suit?"

"In the bathroom where you took it off."

"Mom, where's my Batman action figure with the blue sword?"

"Did you look in your closet?"

"Mom, where's my blanket?"

"Look under your bed."

Unless it's some obscure item that isn't logged in my mind's directory, I can locate 99 percent of the items. This is a great talent to have when attending those home parties where you memorize all the items to win a prize. I just knew all these skills would come in handy.

As my child grows, life changes and becomes more interesting – requiring more skills than ever. I've become a fly swatter, at midnight saving my child from the lone mosquito buzzing his head and keeping him awake. I've become an expert luggage handler disguised as an octopus while I try to carry the groceries, toy cars and various trinkets – all at once. I'm a great short order cook, especially with peanut butter sandwiches and chicken nuggets. Most days it seems if there is nothing I can't do. Does anyone know where I can get a job?

Kyu Suk and Jared B. Erickson were married June 21, 1997 at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii. Parents of the couple are Tack Hwan and Chung Young Sung of Seoul, Korea and Bruce and Evelyn Erickson of Thief River Falls. Following a reception in Thief River Falls and honeymoon in Colorado, the couple is at home Aiea, Hawaii. The bride is employed as an accounting technician with the Defense Finance and Accounting Service at Pearl Harbor. The groom is a First Lieutenant in the U.S. Army at Fort Shafter.

Postal Service expects parcel volume increase

New procedures have been instituted at the Thief River Falls post office to handle an expected increase in the volume of parcel mail due to the employee strike against United Parcel Service, according to Richard McCloskey, postmaster.

He said customers bringing parcels to the post office should be aware of new guidelines occasioned by the strike. These include:

(1) The number of parcels taken across the window at Thief River Falls and other local post offices will be limited to four per customer per visit.

(2) Mailers with five or more parcel post items or Priority Mail parcels will be required to make appointments at specific parcel drop facilities in their area. The location of the Thief River Falls parcel drop facility is at the Grand Forks main post office.

FAA security guidelines remain in effect, meaning any stamped mail weighing one pound or more must be presented over-the-counter to a postal employee in person.

Mailers of regular First Class Mail, Priority Mail letters and flats will not be affected and there will be no restrictions on Express Mail, McCloskey said.

"These procedures, which are effective immediately, are short-term measures designed to help manage a short-term situation," the local postmaster said. "They establish new rules for customers sending parcel post mailings and will ensure the greatest efficiency and orderliness in processing this expected short-term surge in parcel post volume."

In pledging that the increased volume will not compromise existing mail service, McCloskey said that "The Postal Service is committed to maintaining service quality."

More mail can be accepted if business customers pre-barcode parcels and transport their mailings as close as possible to the delivery post office, the postmaster added.

"Naturally, the Postal Service would like to have this increased parcel post business over the long term," he said. "To handle parcel post volume at that level, the Postal Service would institute new structural improvements and efficiencies and the temporary rules enacted today would not be necessary."

While the Postal Service processes an average of more than 600 million mail pieces daily, its parcel processing infrastructure—which handles less than 10 per cent of the parcel market, equates routinely to less than one million pieces daily. Conversely, UPS holds more than 80 percent of the parcel market and delivers about 12 million pieces daily.

"The Postal Service looks forward to this opportunity to serve new customers," he added. "We appreciate their cooperation and patience as they observe these guidelines that will help us deliver the mail promptly."

McCloskey said a nationwide list of parcel drop facilities can be found on the Postal Service web site at: www.usps.gov. Customers can also contact the Thief River Falls post office at 681-3026 for details or call 1-800-485-8727 between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Publisher buys rights to Dr. Steve Levinson's book

Kensington Publishing Company of New York City has purchased the world-wide rights to a book written by Dr. Steve Levinson. Levinson is director of Northwest Medical Center's mental health division in Thief River Falls and president of Behavioral Dynamics Inc., a Thief River Falls company that manufactures and markets the MotivAider, a self-improvement product that Levinson invented.

The book, which is entitled "Following Through," is co-authored by Peter Greider of Virginia, a nationally-known performance enhancement consultant to businesses and sports teams. For the past three years, Greider has been successfully implementing a model developed by Levinson for improving individual and organizational follow through. Greider, whose clients include the Northwest Mutual Insurance Company and the Orlando Magic basketball team, became acquainted with Levinson when Greider began using Levinson's invention with his clients.

"The book explains why we humans do such a lousy job of following through on our good intentions," said Levinson. "It attributes poor follow through not to a lack of will-power or motivation, but to the very way the human mind is designed. Once you realize that the mind doesn't really work the way we've always assumed it does, it's obvious why our good intentions keep getting lost in the shuffle. The fact of the matter is, the design of the mind makes distractions more influential than intentions."

Levinson says that he and Greider wrote "Following Through" to help individuals and organizations get better results from their good intentions. "The main purpose of our book is to present proven strategies that enable people to overcome the normal human tendency to fizzle out before the job is done," said Levinson.

The book was sold to Kensington by the Barbara Bova Literary Agency, which represents Levinson and Greider. Kensington Publishing Company is the only independent full-range book publisher in the United States. Kensington, which publishes books under the names Kensington, Zebra and Pinnacle, has assigned Tracy Bernstein, executive editor of the Kensington trade line, to oversee the publication and promotion of "Following Through". Levinson expects the book to be published in 1998.

Salvation Army shows long term commitment

Relief gave way to recovery. Now, it's restoration — the third phase of an unprecedented Salvation Army Commitment for an unprecedented event — the "500-year flood", which continues to plague victims in Grand Forks, ND, East Grand Forks, and other areas of the region.

As week 24 came to a close for Salvation Army officers, employees and volunteers from the 40 states, the ministry organization's Minnesota and North Dakota Divisional Commander expects no reduction in support for those with long-term needs. "The Salvation Army's commitment to flood victims is far, far from over," said Lt. Colonel David Grindle, whose prior leadership experience includes flood-recovery stints in Missouri and Indiana. "In recent years, the Salvation Army has established a 'first to arrive, last to leave' reputation when it comes to disaster services. We intend to build on that tradition."

Indicative of that commitment is purchase of a Flood Recovery Operations Center in Grand Forks, offering case-specific social services and emotional/spiritual counseling.

"Since 1895, the Grand Forks community has been an important part of the Salvation Army's ministry," said Grindle. "We've shared the despair, the tears and now, the hope for a strong renewal. The Salvation Army considers it a privilege to be a part of the comeback. It strikes at the heart of our mission."

Sharing that heart are Captains Gregory and Lee Ann Thompson, whom Grindle appointed to direct the local effort. Both served in St. Louis during recent flooding of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

To date, more than 49,710 persons have assisted with 377,756 request from victims for supplies, counseling, meals and various forms of tangible and emotional support. Financial support for the ongoing outreach may be directed to The Salvation Army, 2300 Freeway Boulevard, Brooklyn Center, MN 55430-1793.

PARENTING TIPS
One-Year-Olds Want to Explore

One-year-olds are learning about mobility and independence. They are curious adventurers who want to find out why, yet they aren't ready for fantasy or imagination. They need toys that deal with the real world.

One year olds need toys to take apart and put together, parts* to put in and take out of, stack and unstack.

Some examples:
•pull and push toys
•small lightweight blocks
•a soft, safe ball
•sand and water toys
•plastic links
•a first shape sorter
•simple "huggable" dolls
•imitation toys such as a telephone or housekeeping toys
•toys to push on the floor when crawling

*Small parts from toys or games pose a strangulation hazard for kids under three. Use an empty toilet tissue roll to test parts and pieces: if the piece goes through the roll, it's too small.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your one-year-old as you go through your day. Your child needs to hear language before he/she can learn to talk. Sometimes you may feel silly talking to your toddler. It's almost like talking to yourself. However, it is probably the most important thing you can do to help your child learn language.

Dial-A-Story added at TRF library

Thief River Falls Public Library has announced that their newest addition is direct access to stories which don't even need to be checked out! Dial-A-Story is the newest service of the library which enables children of Thief River Falls to dial a special number on the phone (681-4985) to hear a short folktale. These great stories are available around the clock to better reach children of all ages. The stories will change on a regular basis and will also feature special seasonal selections. This services is completely free to local callers.

The Dial-A-Story service was made possible by a grant from the local Eagle Club. Says Club president Jerry Altendorf, "The Eagles Club is always trying to help as many local organizations become better for the community. That's why we felt this was a worthwhile project. It serves the kids in our community."

The library has long been concerned about outreach in the community and already does a number of outreach projects including homebound service (through the Friends of the Library), a satellite library in Goodridge, book boxes to day cares and programming for children and adults outside the library walls. However there are some who are not reached. In surveying community needs, the library staff noted to the board that many children came home after school and are home alone for an hour or so. At the same time, the library board was considering various options to offer for these children, a library patron put the request of adding the Dial-A-Story into the library's suggestion box. After investigating a similar project in Warroad, the library board decided this would be a perfect outreach for those children and began seeking funding. The Eagles were interested in the community aspect of it and agreed to fund the start-up costs.

Is the service one that will interest children? The library has had a few children — children of staffers and their friends — "testing out" the system. "Kids will like it because they're good stories," notes Calli Adamson, daughter of Don and Paula Adamson. "Parents will like it because it doesn't waste your parents' time with you calling them," she adds. Her favorite story so far: Chicken Little. Mallory Asp, daughter of Ken and Key Asp says, "I liked it! It's easy to do. I think other girls will really like it, but I don't think boys will." Peter Hoks, son of Jim and Heidi Hoks disagrees. "I think anybody who likes stories will like it. It won't matter if they are a boy or girl."

Stories range from familiar stories like Cinderella and the Three Billy Goats Gruff to stories from a specific nationality like Raggylug and Coyote and the Fox to holiday stories like George Washington and the Cherry Tree. "While not every story will appeal to everyone, there is truly a story for everyone in this set of 52," notes library manager Heidi Hoks.

To reach Dial-A-Story just dial 681-4985. It's fun, it's free and the folk tales are fantastic. For more information, please contact the Thief River Falls Public Library at 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or call at 681-4325.

Heidi Hoks, Thief River Falls public library manager, shews Jerry Altendorf, president of the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls, their newest service at the library — "Dial-A-Story". With the new service, children can dial 681-4985 to hear a short folktale. The Eagles club donated funds to support the new service.

Area Agency on Aging seeks representatives

Northwest Area Agency on Aging (a program of the Northwest Regional Development Commission) is seeking minority representation to serve on the Area Agency on Aging Advisory (AAA) committee. The AAA is an advocacy, planning, funding and program development agency and is the local administrator of Title III Older Americans Act funds provided through the Minnesota Board on Aging. The advisory committee meets in Thief River Falls and requires participation on task forces or subcommittees which engage in planning and advocacy to meet the needs of seniors in the seven northwestern counties of Minnesota. Membership terms are for three years, with a maximum of two consecutive terms.

Interested persons, with an interest and knowledge of aging issues, are encouraged to submit a letter of interest to the Area Agency on Aging. Further information may be obtained by contacting Danica Robson, 115 South Main Ave., Warren, MN 56762, or 218-745-6733.

Birth and death certificates to be easier to obtain

Legislative authorization was recently given to develop a statewide automated system over the next five years that will make it easier for people to get copies of birth and death certificates from any Minnesota county.

Currently anyone wanting a copy of a birth or death certificate must request it through the county from which the certificate originated or through the Center for Health Statistics at the Minnesota Department of Health.

The new system will make it possible to receive copies from any Minnesota county, no matter which county the certificate originates, as well as from the Center for Health Statistics.

The system will be funded by surcharges of $3 each on copies of birth and death certificates which will be in effect from July 1, 1997 to June 30, 2002. Fees including the $3 surcharge are:

- Certified copies of birth certificates: $14; multiple copies at $8 each.
- Uncertified copies of birth certificates or initial copies of death certificates: $11; multiple copies at $5 each.

For more information contact John Oswald at the Center for Health Statistics, phone (612) 296-9807.

Rep. Tunheim notes new laws took effect

Rep. Jim Tunheim is reminding residents of new laws that were enacted this past legislative session that took effect August 1. Some of these that may be of interest to citizens of Northwestern Minnesota include:

- Youth and tobacco: A new law will make it much more difficult for Minnesota teenagers to purchase tobacco products. Under the new law communities must license tobacco sellers and conduct at least one compliance check, or sting operation, on each license holder every year; the sale of cigarettes from vending machines is prohibited, except for those in locations such as a bar, where people under 18 cannot enter; cigarette manufacturers are required to disclose whether their product contains ammonia, arsenic, cadmium, formaldehyde, or lead; and single packets of cigarettes cannot be displayed in stores unless the store derives at least 90 percent of their revenue from tobacco sales. Any license holder found to have committed a first offense will draw a $75 fine. A clerk who sells tobacco to a young person will receive a $50 fine.
- Vote by mail: "This session I successfully authored a bill to allow more Minnesotans to vote by mail," said Rep. Tunheim. Under current law, rural cities and towns with 400 or fewer registered voters are able to conduct mail-in elections. The new law allows voters to vote by mail, regardless of the size of the municipality. Adding the precinct designation, even with the smaller number of voters, allows more areas to participate in mail-in voting. That's because some towns with populations of more than 400 lie in more than one county, creating very small precincts within metropolitan areas.
- Under-21 cards: Identification cards for people under the legal drinking age must now be clearly marked. The law requires state identification cards for residents under age 21 to include markings similar to driver's licenses for that age group. Identification cards for people under the legal drinking age will be a different color and will be labeled "Under 21". The cards will expire on the holder's 21st birthday.
- Access by law enforcement: Law enforcement agencies will now have an easier time to collect data on fugitives from the law if a fugitive happens to be collecting welfare benefits. The law says that the address, social security number, and photo of food stamp recipients may be disclosed to law enforcement officers if the individual is fleeing to avoid prosecution or custody, or is violating a condition of probation or parole.
- Student records: Juvenile justice officers can obtain information about students from their schools. That information could include the student's name, address, telephone number, birth date, school schedule, attendance record, photographs, and parent's names, addresses, and telephone numbers.
- Enlist and enroll: A new law increases the maximum amount of educational grant available to certain Minnesota National Guard members. Under the new law, up to 50 percent of tuition and textbook costs at any Minnesota public institution of higher education will be covered. For programs outside Minnesota, the grants will pay for the equivalent of half the cost of a comparable program at the University of Minnesota.
- Regulating brokers: Minnesota will now regulate automobile brokers. Brokers will be considered motor vehicle dealers who must be licensed by the state. Wholesalers, auctioneers, scrap metal processors, and salvage lots, along with new- or used-car sales companies, already are considered motor vehicle dealers.
- Title transfers: Car buyers who fail to promptly transfer the title on a vehicle will face new penalties under a new state law. When a title is not transferred, problems can arise for car sellers, who may be held liable for parking tickets or other infractions occurring after the vehicle has been sold. The Department of Public Safety will be able to suspend the registration on the vehicle if the buyer does not transfer the title within 10 days of the sale.

Anyone with questions about these new laws, or any other legislative matter, can contact Rep. Tunheim, at Box 66, Kennedy, MN 56733 or (218) 674-4480.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. Do you know how much of retiree income is from Social Security?

A. Understanding that income varies widely among individuals, as of 1994 agency data indicates that income shares for aged individuals was: Social Security 42 percent, pensions 18 percent, asset income 18 percent, earnings 18 percent, other 4 percent.

Q. Does everyone get Social Security once they are of retirement age?

A. No. People have to fulfill specific requirements to receive Social Security benefits. Depending on the type of benefit involved these requirements usually relate to work history, age or family relationships. For example, a person who has not been in employment covered by Social Security and also not eligible as a spouse would not receive Social Security benefits. However, most people do become eligible for Social Security. In 1994 Social Security paid benefits to more than 90 percent of those age 65 or older. It provided at least 50 percent of total income for 66 percent of them and was the only source of income for 16 percent.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . The Plant Sematary

I do not have a green thumb. If there is such a thing, I have a black thumb. Everything green and growing that I touch withers and dies.

My friends and relatives feel sorry for me and give me plants. They choose the most healthy specimens from their collections of house plants and bring them to me thinking, "This one will surely live." Sometimes they even say things like, "No one could kill this plant," or "I've had this plant for 15 years and it doesn't stop growing."

What happens? I kill them. Right now I have a plant my aunt gave me that she claimed would never die. Pieces of the plant are presently in two vases in my best, most sunny window - I'm trying to get some shoots of it to grow roots.

What happened to it? I killed it. It came to me as a huge, healthy plant, but for some reason its fat leaves started to wither and fall off. Whole branches of it lost leaves and then shriveled and turned into sticks. I figured I would cut off some of the less shriveled branches and try to start another plant - quickly before the whole thing died, so I stuck them in water to grow roots. So far about half of the branches are living and producing some sickly white strings of roots. Others died. I don't know if I dare try to put the rooted cuttings into dirt or not.

I have ivy. Everyone has given me ivy and it dies. "Oh, I have had ivy like this for many years and it is growing all over my house," they say. Right - mine doesn't do anything but sit there, and then leaves start to fall and pretty soon it is dead.

(Knock, knock - me - knocking on wood.) I do have one ivy that my aunt gave me that is still living. It has two shoots and the shoots are actually getting longer and the leaves are getting a little bigger. Only a few leaves have fallen off of it and I have high hopes for this one. Maybe it will live.

I have a plant called a "hen and chicks" from my mother. My hen has never had chicks and right now the hen is looking pretty bad. I don't know what happened to it. Ever since my daughter's cat got into it and chewed it up, it's been looking worse and worse. Right now it is in my very best, sunny window and it seems to shrivel up more each day, no matter how much I water it. It's the cat's fault.

A friend gave me a wonderfully large aloe vera plant. I shouldn't have done it, but I tried to transplant it into two containers. I had visions of healing any cuts or burns with this wonderful plant - just breaking off a fat stalk any time I needed the healing balm. I guess transplanting it didn't work very well, because the fat stalks have gotten very skinny and I haven't even dared break one off to use on a cut or sore for fear it will do more damage to the plant. In fact, several of the stalks have withered and turned brown. Is this a sign of things to come - will both of the plants all turn brown and die? Probably.

The only plants I can seem to grow are the larger-leaved philodendrons. They are the only plants that don't die for me. I even have some that I've been growing in water for years. They flourish.

I really do try to take care of my plants. First I tried to water them often. They looked sickly. Then I tried to water them less often. They looked sicker. Finally I hardly watered them at all. I even bought fancy plant food to put in the water, but it didn't help. I see ads for this plant food on television, where people have tomatoes as big as watermelon and roses like cabbages. Are they lying? The darn stuff doesn't work that way on my plants.

For a while I had some little bugs in some of my plants. They looked like dandruff and jumped around after I watered the plants. I tried to kill them with everything I could think of - a horrible-smelling bug spray from the store that nearly drove us all out of the house, a home-made concoction of mouthwash and tobacco juice, then even resorted to trying floor cleaner and Lysol spray. Finally, in despair, I poured in a capful of rubbing alcohol after I watered them and, guess what? It seems to work! I no longer have little jumping dandruff in my plants. Of course I no longer have as many plants, either.

If you came to my house you wouldn't know I have a black thumb. I have become very good at hiding the fact that I am a plant murderess. I use silk plants and stick them around here and there to make it look like I have lots of plants. No one seems to notice which ones are philodendrons and which ones are silk.

If any readers have plants they don't want any more, please bring them over to my house. I'll see what I can do with them. Don't expect them back, though.

American Cancer Society delighted with crusade

Volunteers participating in the American Cancer Society Community Crusade held in Thief River Falls during the last two weeks of May have collected over $4,000.

Julie Desrocher, local ACS board president, said the local chapter is very pleased with the result of the fund-raising effort because it was the first time in at least five years that the event was held, and it greatly exceeded expectations.

"We're very appreciative of the volunteers and community for their help and support," Desrocher said. Over 170 volunteers donated their time and effort to canvass the community of Thief River Falls — going door-to-door asking for donations to support the American Cancer Society.

Since it was the first time in at least five years that the organization conducted a community crusade, Desrocher said the board really didn't know what to expect. They didn't have the personal contacts that they used to have, and it came at a difficult time when people were recovering from the tough winter and floods. Because of these obstacles and numerous others, the small local chapter of volunteers took advantage of a state ACS offer to use telemarketers to encourage local volunteers to canvass the community. Desrocher said she believes the money for the telemarketers came from a State ACS grant. None of the money came from local donations. In addition, it was successful in encouraging volunteers to go door-to-door.

Desrocher said the local board is considering its goals for next year and anticipates that it will conduct the Community Crusade Against Cancer again.

Money raised from this project, and others, such as Daffodil Days, is spent on cancer research, education and in-patient services. Desrocher noted that it is all pretty much spent in the community.

Last year, the American Cancer Society in Thief River Falls shared cancer prevention and early detection information with over 4,000 people, provided assistance to over 50 cancer patients and their families, conducted education conferences and seminars and raised over $25,000 to support the research, education, advocacy, and service programs of the American Cancer Society.

Programs and services offered in Thief River Falls include: I Can Cope, a cancer patient education program; CanSurmount, a program offering patients an opportunity to talk with someone who has had the same or a similar cancer; the Look Good - Feel Better program, a program designed to help cancer patients deal with the cosmetic changes due to cancer treatment; distribution of and outreach with research information, and much more.

For more information about cancer call 1-800-ACS-235. American Cancer Society fund raising efforts and information can always be identified by their symbol — the sword of hope.

Lack of communication while underwater has caused near fatal consequences for divers with the Pennington County Dive-Rescue team. With the addition of new equipment purchased with donations from many local individuals and groups, most notably the Eagles Club, communication underwater has been improved. The new equipment, which includes this mask, allow divers to communicate with one another and with team members on the surface. Local dive and rescue team members tested that new equipment near the Third Street boat landing in Thief River Falls last week.

MHFA approves funding for 12 housing authorities

Board of Directors of the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) recently approved funding for 12 local housing authorities operating in 10 Minnesota counties to continue operating the Bridges Program, a rental assistance program for persons with mental illness. A total of $3.1 million has been appropriated for the 1997-99 biennium.

Eight Northwestern Minnesota counties — Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau and local mental health authorities — have been awarded $25,000 to serve eight households during the fiscal year 1999.

The Bridges Program provides temporary rental assistance payments and security deposits for participants with a serious and persistent mental illness who are on a waiting list for a permanent rent subsidy, typically Section 8. Other eligible uses include utility deposits, contract rent for up to 90 days during a medical or psychiatric crisis, or payment to utility companies for up to 90 days during medical or psychiatric hospitalization.

The maximum Bridges subsidy is the difference between the participant's rent and participant's portion of utilities, and the total rent, up to the local Fair Market Rent limit. An average rent subsidy per unit is $325.

Rural rental housing loan plan okayed

Rural Housing Service (RHS) has announced availability of the Section 538 Rural Rental Housing Guaranteed Loan Program on a demonstration basis.

Intended outcome is to produce new affordable rental housing by inviting qualified lenders and eligible housing providers to propose rental complexes that will serve rural residents with low and moderate incomes.

The fiscal year 1997 budget authority will provide up to $25 million available under the Section 538 demonstration program. Deadline for receipt of applications is 3 p.m. CDT on August 18. Applications received after that date and time will be returned.

Lenders are encouraged to submit applications prior to the deadline as they are reviewed as they are received. Notification of selected applications will be made by September 16.

Qualified lenders may call the office of the Multi Family Housing Processing Division of the Rural Housing Service at 202-720-1604 for a copy of the application package. This is not a toll-free number. Hearing or speech impaired persons may access that number by calling toll-free the Federal Information Relay Service at 1-800-877-8339.

Lenders are to submit an original application by the application deadline. A fax or e-mail copy is not acceptable. Send the application to the USDA Rural Development office, 201 South Sherwood Avenue, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

MnDOT repairs and overlays T.H. 1 stretch

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) is repairing and putting bituminous over a stretch of highway and replacing a culvert on T.H. 1. The project is located in Northome from the junction with T.H. 46 to the junction of T.H. 6.

The starting date of the project is scheduled to be August 4, 1997. The contractor, Hawkinson Construction Co. Inc., is expected to complete the project September 15, 1997.

During this project there will be flaggers and pilot cars on site for traffic control and motorists can expect short time delays with alternating lanes of traffic. Motorists are reminded to drive smart, drive safe.

Eagles Club of Thief River Falls donated $5,000 to the Pennington County Dive and Rescue team. The donation, along with a donation of the Eagles Auxiliary, resulted in the purchase of specialized underwater communication equipment. Recently, team members tested out the new equipment. Open house Sunday at Rydell Wildlife Refuge

Horse-drawn wagon tours, wildlife displays, a touch and feel table of natural finds and curiosities and stories of fond memories of "the good old days" are some of the attractions to be featured Sunday, August 10, at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge.

All are part of the "homecoming" open house being presented by the Friends of the Rydell Refuge Association. The public is welcome to visit the refuge during the open house from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The horse-drawn wagon tours will run each hour beginning at 10 a.m. with Ken Hviding, resident refuge historian, providing commentary about original homestead sites, country school, logging, market roads and much more during the tours.

Further historical accounts will be featured at a 2 p.m. program with Harold Welby and Ron Stromme, who have family ties to the refuge property, sharing a few stories of former life on the refuge. Current status of the refuge and plans for future developments will also be shared.

Visitors can hike the trails in search of wildlife and may catch a glimpse of the refuge's resident trumpeter swans, fox and deer. A variety of displays will be featured in the visitor's center including historic photos and maps. Door prize drawings will be held every hour and a raffle drawing for a wildlife print, hand carved and painted duck and binoculars will be conducted after the 2 p.m. program. Refreshments will be available. Activities are free and open to the public.

To reach the refuge go three miles east of Mentor or three miles west of Erskine on Highway 2 and turn south on Highway 210. Follow 210 about 2.5 miles south to the entrance sign and main gate of the refuge.

Persons with questions may contact the refuge at 218-687-2229 or Wayne Goeken at 218-574-2622.

Sen. Stumpf reviews distribution of surplus

At the end of the session, the Minnesota legislature had voted to return a good deal of the state's projected $2.3 billion revenue surplus to taxpayers as property tax rebates, increased the state's investment in education and made some incremental steps toward lasting property tax reform, according to Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls.

More than $500 million will be rebated to home owners and renters for property taxes paid this year, he said. It will amount to 20 percent of the total property taxes being paid this year on homes or apartments with no limits on the amount that can be collected. Instructions for claiming the rebate will be included on 1998 income tax forms.

Another $158 million will be returned as a homestead education credit, representing 32 percent of that portion of property taxes (up to $225) which was levied for education. This will be shown on property tax statements next year and be automatically deducted from the property taxes owed.

Stumpf said the legislature also made a significant reduction in the property tax rate for commercial and industrial property.

"This rate reduction is important because Minnesota has the highest commercial/industrial property taxes in the country," he said. "Hopefully the changes we made will help commercial and industrial businesses in competition along the state border and in the national and global marketplace."

Of the new spending that was approved, the lion's share went into education, the senator said. More than $130 million in new spending was approved for 0-5 education, mostly for childcare. This marks the first time that the waiting list for sliding-fee childcare will be fully funded, he noted.

K-12 education received an inflationary increase of 2.2 percent over each of the next two years—a $230 million increase over the previous biennium. The University of Minnesota and Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) received over $170 million in new funding, much of which will go toward one-time expenditures for technology. Student financial aid programs were increased by $41.8 million or 15 percent.

"These tax rebates and new spending do not, of course, represent the full estimated surplus of $2.1 billion for the current two year budget cycle," Sen. Stumpf said. "A considerable amount is being held for the state's rainy day account. Because the surplus is based on presumed future economic trends which may not actually appear, both the governor and legislature were reluctant to allocate or return all of the money before it is even deposited in the state treasury."

The latest fiscal forecast has tax collections running about $800 million over expectations. Under current law, the first $80 million will be diverted to K-12 education to help pay for tax credits and deductions the Legislature negotiated with the governor during the special session in late June. Another $120 million will go to a special property tax reserve account created by the legislature to pay for further property tax reductions in future sessions. The remaining $100 million is not dedicated toward any purpose at the moment.

Stumpf said he didn't think the DFL-controlled legislature would go along with Gov. Arne Carlson's idea to return the $100 million in a one-time income tax rebate.

"Any tax rebates in the future will most likely be based on property taxes because they hit lower and middle-income people the hardest," Sen. Stumpf said. "It's important to remember that while income taxes haven't increased during the Carlson administration, property taxes have been allowed to increase dramatically."

Stumpf said he would like to see some of the $100 million made available to fill needs of people affected by the flood of 1997.

"The governor has said he will call the legislature into session once the full cost of the flood is known," Sen. Stumpf said. "We will then pass more funding to assist the damaged communities with their clean-up and redevelopment costs."

'Sprint Car Special' at Greenbush Race Park

Third and final "Sprint Car Special" of the season will take place Saturday, August 9, when the Northern Outlaw sprint cars join the regular five classes of cars for a full night of racing action at the Greenbush Race Park, located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7. Hot laps start at 6 p.m. and racing at 7 p.m.

On August 2, Art Linert of Badger held off strong competition to win the Wissota Modified feature race. Driving car No. 20 Linert led the 14-car field all the way with Bob Smith of Bemidji and Greg Ferris of Emo, Ont., Canada on his rear bumper through 16 laps. Coming out of the second turn on the 17th lap, Smith and Ferris locked up at the same time a car spun out of the No. 4 turn and brought out the yellow flag. Smith was unable to continue but Ferris returned for a second place finish.

The Modified final included a spectacular roll-over when Elliott Baker (24) of St. Hilaire rolled his car at least twice of the top of Turn No. 1. Baker was uninjured. Linert continues to lead the Modified points standing at Greenbush.

Dean Wensloff (88) of Wannaska led the first nine laps of the Wissota Super Stock feature, but it was Brad Seng (X) of Grand Forks who led the last six laps to pick up the win in that class Saturday night. Wensloff was hit by another car on the ninth lap, bringing out the yellow flag and sending Wensloff into the tire change area. Joey Pederson (7) of Warren finished second to Seng after starting from 11th position in the 15-car field. Dean Forst (35f) of Thief River Falls was third. The points race is in a virtual tie among Forst, John Halvorson (35h) of Warren and Gordie Lancaster (29) of Bemidji.

Paul Boen (48) of Karlstad won his second consecutive feature in the Outlaw Street Class and continues to lead in the points race. Danny Lyberg of Lancaster, making his season debut, finished second with Gary Johnson of Karlstad third.

Rod Peterson of Thief River Falls finished third in the third heat but continued his domination of the Sportsman's Class by collecting his eight feature win of the season and continuing to build an almost insurmountable lead in the points race. Starting from the second row in the feature, Peterson had vaulted into the lead by the time the cars hit the first turn. Richard Jacobson of Wannaska was second and Ray Gust of Brainerd, who started 14th in the 15-car lineup, was third.

Robbie Peterson of Middle River won his first ever Mini-Sprint feature after three consecutive third place finishes. He took the lead after just a few laps and ran away from the rest of the field as he wound his way through lap traffic. Rick Bates of Badger was second and Dennis Rantanen of Thief River Falls was third. Dave Bach of Thief River Falls remains in the points lead despite a seventh place finish in the 11-car lineup.

On August 9 Wade Nygaard of Fargo returns to try for his third straight Sprint Car Special.

UMC offers new degree in sport management

The University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) is offering a new bachelor of science degree in Sport and Recreation Management. The new program was approved in April by UMC's Campus Assembly and then in June by the University of Minnesota Board of Regents. Classes will be offered in the fall of 1997.

The program is designed to provide students with the opportunity to develop knowledge and expertise in the worlds of sport and recreation with an orientation toward management. It is employment oriented, designed around active learning and responsive teaching, technology driven, focused on communication and human relations, and outcome based.

UMC's Athletic Director Marv Bachmeier said, "This program is in line with the interest of the athletes. It will be a good program for the athletic department to recruit to."

Graduates of this program will be able to manage, assist in the management of, or find employment in sport and recreation organizations. They will find positions within professional sport franchises, commercial sport and recreation facilities, college and university athletic departments, community sport and recreation programs, park and tourist attraction sites, community centers, senior centers, halfway houses, health clubs, churches and synagogues, and sport and recreation camps, clinics and seminars.

Students are admitted into the program through the normal academic guidelines and procedures of the university. Students who have graduated from an accredited or approved high school or persons with equivalent educational standing (i.e. GED), are eligible for admittance into the Sport and Recreation Management program.

The program was developed for several reasons: present and potential students expressed an interest, employers want sport and recreation employees with a broad managerial background, program conforms to the University capabilities, and it fits with the polytechnic mission of UMC and builds on the management strengths in place at UMC.

"The intent is to prepare students for immediate employment after completion of the program and to provide students with a strong academic background for those who wish to further their education," said Bachmeier.

For more information on UMC's new bachelor of science degree in Sport and Recreation Management, call the Admissions Office at 218-281-8569. Disability accommodations will be provided upon request.

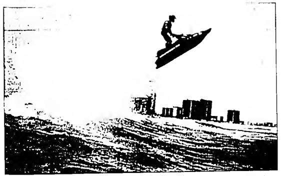
Rounding a turn on the two-mile course in the Pro 1200 class of the Hot Water Summer Offshore Series at Daytona Beach, FL, July 13, is Nathan Magner of Thief River Falls. Magner finished second in the 50-mile race, which started about an hour after he won the 50-mile Pro Runabout 785 class race. The two-race effort left him exhausted.



Able to leap tall buildings off a single wave, Nathan Magner tests Arctic Cat Tigershark personal watercraft in the ocean in Florida. A test driver for several years, Magner has also been successful as an East Coast racer and now plans to test his abilities in Pacific races.

Skimming over the surf at Daytona Beach, FL, Nathan Magner of Thief River Falls is on his way to winning the Pro Runabout 785 class championship July 13 on a Tigershark Daytona 770. Magner also won the total points title in the Hot Water Summer Offshore Series.

What goes up, must come down. Arctic Cat Inc. Tigershark test driver Nathan Magner takes a dive into the ocean while testing off the coast of Florida. Also a successful watercraft racer, Magner said ocean running is the most fun of anything he has ever done.

Nathan Magner finds success racing Tigershark watercraft

785 championship on a 770 Tigershark Daytona and finishing second in the Pro 1200 on a Tigershark 1000 Daytona.

He also won the total points championship for a two race series in the Pro 785 class (the first race of the series was June 15 in Cocoa Beach, FL) and was second overall in total points in the Pro 1200 class. The Hot Water Summer Offshore Series was sponsored by Extreme Productions.

Slow Start In Pro 785 Class

Nathan said he won the Pro 785 class despite a bad start—a LeMans type start where the racers run to their boats, start them and begin their laps. A wave had washed over Nathan's boat and he had trouble getting it started. There were 16 boats crashing waves ahead of him by the time he began the 50-mile race.

Within eight two mile laps of the 25-lap race he had passed most of the field and was on his way to victory. There was little time to savor the win, however. About an hour after finishing the Pro 785 class, he climbed aboard his 1000 Daytona and piloted it to the second place finish in the 1200 Pro class.

Magner said that offshore endurance racing as a sport is only eight or nine years old but is growing rapidly. To make it more interesting for spectators, it is done on a rectangular or triangular course marked by buoys that includes a stretch paralleling the beach. Greatest speed is attained in this stretch or coming in toward shore with the surf. These speeds can reach 50 miles per hour in the 785 class and 60 miles per hour in the 1200 class.

Consecutive Races Exhausting

At the end of his second race of the day July 13, Magner was exhausted. "All I could do was lie on the sand and rest," he said. "I just didn't have any strength left."

Other test drivers from this area who run the ocean off Florida are Troy Rolland, Chad Nelson, Kelly Kvick, Scott Pahlen, Brad Kinnekson, Mike Lacina, Daven Veselka, Dean Klaven and Scott Walker. Of these test drivers, Rolland is the only one to join Magner as a racer.

Engineers Bob Rauch, Jim Hansen, Mike Kuntekson, Jeff Quamme and Cory Green work with the test program and provide technical support for the racers.

Off-shore endurance racing may be compared more to auto racing than snowmobile racing in that there are few limitations on what modifications can be made to the units raced.

In addition to engine and hull modifications, racers pay close attention to water pump and venturi adjustment—the water exit port which provides the jet boats' thrust. If water conditions are smooth, the opening is reduced to provide more speed. If waves are high, the opening is increased to provide a more consistent speed as the boat runs in and out of the rough water.

A Few Extra Hazards

While snowmobile racers have a number of hazards inherent to their sport, jet boat racers face others. Snowmobile racers need not be concerned about skimming over a manta ray as wide as a gravel truck, for example, nor worried about Portuguese man of war or sharks if tossed from their machines.

"There are a lot of sharks in some areas where we ride," Nathan said. "We see some of them, mostly small ones. And the rays are far enough below the surface so you don't hit them, but when you go over one it makes you say 'Whoa! What was that!'"

Magner has been separated from his boat more than a few times in ocean running and spends a good deal of time on a boat which is in the air rather than in the water.

Drivers Catch A Lot Of Air

"We don't go out to deliberately smash up boats," he said, "but the nature of ocean running is that you bounce around on waves and go airborne quite a bit. If you happen to catch a wave just right you can get 20 feet off the water. But unless there is a strong wind, you come back down tail first and the landing is really pretty soft."

In the summer, Nathan and others in the test crew run Tigersharks on Lake of the Woods or other area lakes. They will run up the Rainy River nearly to International Falls or across the lake from Wheelers Point to the Northwest Angle. In Florida in the winter they may make a 60-mile run up the Halifax River for lunch.

Next winter much of that test running is expected to be taken over by drivers who live in Florida, and Nathan won't be pounding the surf as often or as much in his work. He does expect, however, to continue his racing career.

Magner's race activity so far has been on the East Coast, but he is planning to take his act on the road west and see what the competition is like on the Pacific Ocean. He has done well enough so far to believe he can be competitive in the Baja Offshore Series on the West Coast.

One race in the Baja series goes from Long Beach, CA to Catalina Island and back. Other races are at San Felipe, Mexico and San Diego, CA. The sponsors require that personal watercraft used in these races be equipped with electronic global positioning equipment.

Racing Success Improves

In 1995 Magner earned one second and one third place in offshore racing. Last year he recorded his first major win with a first place finish in the Daytona Beach Offshore Cup race. He was also the Pro 1200 Offshore Cup Classic high points champion.

Nathan says his major racing sponsors this year have been Ashland Chemical, Tigershark, Holiday Inn, K & N Air Filters, Toreo Oil, Black Magic, Scott Goggle and Skat-Trak.

If he was not a Tigershark test driver and had his choice of the field for racing, Nathan says he would still likely choose Tigershark watercraft.

"Tigershark makes very reliable, structurally strong and dependable watercraft," he said. "They would be a good choice for either racing or recreational riding. And I've had some success which shows they are capable of winning races."

Including races on the West Coast?

Nathan grinned. "Well have to see about that, but I kind of think so. It's worth a try."

Local law enforcement investigate drug, alcohol and theft cases

Law enforcement officials received numerous reports last week, including several involving drugs, alcohol, and theft.

Accidents. On July 30 at 8:06 p.m. police investigated an accident at Eighth and Dewey. Dayton James Silk, Thief River Falls, was driving a van east on Eighth, stopped to make a left turn and was struck from behind by a pickup driven by Dennis Carlyle Nabben, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Silk vehicle and $2,000 to the Nabben vehicle. The Silks drove themselves to the hospital. Nabben had abrasions from deployment of the airbag.

On July 31 at 8:12 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the 300 block of East Third Street. Thomas Richard Harbott, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup west on Third Street when a vehicle stopped quickly in front of him. The owner had apparently arranged for individuals to take care of the pets while away, but it didn't work out apparently. Sara Nicole Lucck, 19, Thief River Falls, was cited for cruelty to animals.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Defective power steering caused May bus accident

State Patrol investigators have determined a defective power-steering pump contributed to the cause of a May 15 school bus crash that injured nearly two dozen Bemidji students and their bus driver.

The crash, involving a 1986 International school bus owned and operated by the Bemidji Public Schools, happened at 7:59 a.m. on U.S. Highway 902-A east of U.S. Highway 2 in Beltrami County.

State Patrol investigator Harold Marty says the bus, driven by Arvid William Hill, 50, was traveling east on U.S. Highway 902-A just under the posted speed limit of 55 miles per-hour when it left the roadway, entering the south ditch east of Highway 2. Marty said Hill managed to bring the bus back to the roadway, narrowly missing cement columns supporting the U.S. Highway 2 overpass, but could not regain control of the vehicle. The bus left the roadway again — sliding sideways and rolling over before coming to rest on its left side.

Students on the bus at the time of the crash told investigators Hill was alert and yelled "hold on tight" as the incident developed. Tests following the crash indicated Hill was in good physical condition and not impaired at the time of the incident.

The State Patrol's inspection of the bus found the defective power-steering pump, which, according to investigators, would have caused erratic or heavy steering. Results of the investigation have been forwarded to the Beltrami County Attorney's Office for review.

Grants available for innovative local government projects

Grant applications from local officials who are willing to initiate innovative pilot projects are being sought by the State of Minnesota's Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation.

Local officials from counties, cities, townships and school districts are encouraged to collect ideas for innovative service delivery models from their citizens. The board has approximately $700,000 available for this unique grant program.

Individuals who have innovative ideas for improving the effectiveness and efficiency of public services are encouraged to present those ideas to their local officials, who may in turn request grant funds to help put the idea into practice.

Over the past three years, the Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation helped fund 67 unique pilot projects throughout the state. Among them were a vehicle maintenance facility collaboratively used by the State, McLeod county and the City of Hutchinson; state-of-the-art machinery used to recycle and reuse road sand and gravel that is swept up from city streets; and a 16-county effort to develop and implement uniform regulations for large scale animal feedlots.

Grants are awarded through a competitive application process. Due to the limited availability of funds, this year the board is particularly interested in seeking ideas for pilot projects that have not previously been tested in Minnesota.

The board's application process is designed to minimize the amount of time and expertise necessary to submit an application. The first step of the process is to submit a relatively brief pre-application describing the idea for an innovative pilot project. After reviewing all pre-applications, the board will provide feedback on how competitive the idea is likely to be. Applicants may then decide whether they intend to commit more time and effort to the development of a complete application.

Deadline for submitting pre-applications to the board is 5 p.m. October 31, 1997. Final application awards will be announced on or about March 27, 1998.

For more information about the program and to receive a complete application packet, contact Jim Gelbmann, executive director of the Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation, at 612-282-2390.

Gambling treatment programs are effective

Recent report evaluates MN treatment programs

A recent report evaluating Minnesota's state funded compulsive gambling treatment programs concludes that people who participate in treatment reduce their compulsive gambling behavior and its negative consequences, and that the state's investment in funding compulsive gambling treatment is leading to positive results.

The report, "Evaluation of the Minnesota State Funded Compulsive Gambling Treatment Programs," was conducted by Abt Associates of Cambridge, MA, an internationally recognized consulting firm. The study was commissioned by the Minnesota Department of Human Services mental health division which oversees the state gambling treatment programs to determine:

- Does treatment for problem gamblers work?
- Does one type of treatment work better than others?

The evaluation was based on data gathered from February '92 to January '97 from approximately 1,800 individuals at six state-funded compulsive gambling treatment programs. These programs were developed in response to concerns about growth in compulsive gambling activity. Major conclusions of the study include:

- Treatment reduces compulsive gambling behavior and appears to be delivered at a reasonable cost by the programs surveyed. (The average treatment program lasts six months and costs about $3,000.)
- One third of problem gamblers who received treatment for compulsive gambling also received treatment for either chemical dependency or mental health problems.
- Gamblers who wagered larger amounts (i.e., $1,000 to $10,000) in a day were more likely to complete treatment than those who did not.
- Those with more than a high school education were more likely to enter and complete treatment than those with less education.
- People with incomes below $10,000 a year were four times more likely to incur gambling debt than those with higher incomes. Low income people had higher debt to income ratios, meaning they were least likely to be able to repay their debt and might gamble even more to resolve their debt problems.

The study included people who completed treatment, left treatment prematurely, and declined treatment. Gamblers were evaluated six and 12 months after they left treatment. Seventy percent of those admitted completed treatment and:

- Had a greater reduction in their gambling behavior than those who were partially treatment or received no treatment.
- Were less likely to have legal and personal problems than those untreated.
- Would have relapsed had treatment not been provided.

Samples did not permit detailed analyses so there were no definitive conclusions on differences among the six treatment programs and no treatment model was found to be more effective than any other.

The report also describes characteristics of compulsive gamblers, the types of gambling in which they participate, and problems they experience as a result of their gambling.

"The results of this study show that treatment is helping people to stop or significantly reduce their compulsive gambling," said Sharon Autio, director of DHS mental health division. "The results will help us look to new directions in treatment and to target those services to groups who most need it."

The six state funded treatment programs include Fairview Riverside Compulsive Gambling Program (Minneapolis), Gambler's Choice, Minneapolis, Gamblers Intervention Services, Duluth, Gambling Addict Measurement, Education, Systematic Treatment and Rehabilitation of St. Cloud, Upper Mississippi Mental Health Center Gambling Treatment program of Bemidji, and Vanguard Compulsive Gambling Treatment Program of Granite Falls.

Employment rate at highest in Minnesota

Governor Arne H. Carlson has announced that the state's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 3.2 percent in June, down from 3.3 percent in May and 4.1 percent a year ago.

Minnesota's unadjusted unemployment rate was 3.6 percent in June, up from 2.7 percent in May but down from 4.5 percent a year ago.

Despite the increase in the unadjusted unemployment rate, which is normal for June, both rates are new monthly lows for June. In addition, the number of employed people in Minnesota is at an all-time high.

"These continuously record-breaking lows in the state's unemployment rates and the all-time high in the number employed this month are more evidence of Minnesota's robust economy," Governor Carlson said.

Mulligans sold by Miss Thief River Falls, Keri Thompson were in big demand at the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers Golf Tournament held recently at the Thief River Falls Golf Club. About 150 growers and agri-business members participated in the tournament, which was sponsored in part, by many local businesses.

Your Body and Medication

When you're sick, you take medication. But just what happens to that medication inside your body? When you swallow medication, it travels to your stomach. It dissolves in your stomach or intestine and is absorbed into your blood. While in the blood it passes through your liver and is distributed throughout the body – to the muscles, fat and major organs.

Some drugs are chemically changed as they pass through the liver, changing the drug into a more or less active form. Most medications are eliminated through your kidneys in urine.

As your body ages, it handles medication differently – the effects of the medication may be delayed, prolonged or exaggerated and your kidneys' ability to clear drugs from your system decreases. Your physician considers all this when deciding on your medication dosage and frequency. That's why you should take your medication as prescribed.

Tobacco Settlement Opposed From Varied Viewpoints

The negotiated "settlement" by which America's tobacco companies would pay $368 billion dollars over 25 years as a penalty for their role in damaging the health of Americans has drawn opposition from a number of quarters outside the tobacco industry. Two of the opponents are as diverse as the Minnesota Medical Association (MMA) and the Libertarian Party.

MMA contends that the settlement "gives far too many concessions to the tobacco companies and will not deter them from attempting to addict future generations of smokers."

The Libertarian Party, on the other hand, expresses the belief that "This settlement establishes a perilous precedent: That the government can levy massive punitive damages against a popular product because of the so called public health consequences."

The American Medical Association (AMA) — which internally announced its support for the tobacco settlement — has appointed a task force to take a critical look at it. MMA said it convinced the AMA House of Delegates that approval had been given too hastily.

"We wanted the AMA to take a strong public health position and be in the forefront on this issue," stated A. Stuart Hanson, MD, who chaired Minnesota's delegation and chairs the Smoke-Free 2000 Coalition. He said the AMA will now press for the inclusion of seven key provisions recommended by MMA as being needed for an acceptable settlement. The seven points are as follows:

(1) No legal immunity from product liability;

(2) Full disclosure of the industry's documents and research regarding nicotine and the harmful effects of tobacco use;

(3) Payments that are commensurate with past and continuing harm done by tobacco;

(4) Acceptance of federal Food and Drug Administration regulation of nicotine as a drug;

(5) Restrictions that guarantee the tobacco industry will not market its products to children;

(6) No preemption of state and federal laws;

(7) A tobacco industry-funded tobacco use prevention and education campaign.

MMA says a major flaw in the current settlement concerns proposed changes in the FDA's authority to regulate nicotine. As part of the Smoke-Free 2000 Coalition, MMA is working to decrease tobacco use and to ensure that tobacco companies start to be held accountable for their products.

The Libertarian Party contends, however, that the biggest losers in the settlement would not be the tobacco companies nor America's 50 million smokers, but the 210 million Americans who don't smoke.

"You're next," states Steve Dasbach, the party's national chairman. "This settlement vastly expands the power of the federal government — and whatever your bad habit is, the politicians and lawyers will come after you next.

"Ask yourself: Who's next? Will the government go after the fast-food industry for selling fatty hamburgers? Ban dangerous sports like hang-gliding and skate boarding? Outlaw alcohol again? Make it illegal to get a suntan?

"Once the government has total power to punish or prohibit personal habits in the name of public health, it's only a matter of time until you're their next target. Thanks to this settlement, your right to choose may go up in smoke ...If Congress ratifies this agreement, Americans will suffer from the second-hand smoke of the Bill of Rights being torched."

How so?

The agreement:

- Makes it illegal for tobacco companies to advertise on billboards or the Internet, and prohibits the use of human or cartoon images in cigarette advertising;
- Prohibits tobacco company sponsorship of sporting events, and tobacco product placements in movies and on TV;
- Makes it illegal to sell clothes that feature cigarette brand names;
- Expands the regulatory power of the Food & Drug Administration, giving it the ability to ban nicotine by 2009.

"This is a free speech issue, plain and simple," Dasbach said. "It's hard to imagine any American giving the government the power to outlaw t-shirts and baseball caps ... Even if you don't smoke, don't like cigarettes, and hate the tobacco companies, you should oppose this agreement. You should tell the politicians that you don't approve of their blackmail of the tobacco industry and don't like this government power grab. The only winners are lawyers and politicians. The loser is every American who values freedom of choice for adults."

We have several thoughts about the overall tobacco situation and the so-called settlement.

First, we believe it has been well established that cigarette smoking causes significant health problems in a majority of users, and perhaps most users. As such, it is a national health risk concern.

Second, if it is legal to grow and sell tobacco, to make and sell tobacco products, it should be legal to advertise those products in magazines or newspapers or on billboards, radio, television, shirts, caps, baby bibs or anywhere else.

Third, it makes absolutely no sense to create a penalty for a perceived past wrong-doing and still allow the same type of activity to continue.

Fourth, in the light of all the research and publicity, persons who choose to use tobacco are knowingly harming their own health. That is their choice, and government under our Constitution should not interfere with that.

Alcohol abuse, on the other hand, causes harm to both the user and those around him or her — from unborn children doomed to suffer from Fetal Alcohol Syndrome to abused spouses and children and victims of drunk drivers. Tobacco use is a health concern; alcohol abuse is a national crisis. Our government is fighting the wrong public enemy.

HISTORICAL REVIEW OF THE TIMES AND ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • AUGUST 7, 1947

by Jerome and Donna Myhrer

Council Buys Palm Garden Cafe Building

"At an adjourned session of the city council Monday evening, a contract was signed with Carl Kretzschmar for the purchase of the Palm Garden cafe to supply quarters for the new municipal liquor dispensary to be opened later in the year.

"Under terms of the contract, the purchase price of $40,000, which includes fixtures, dishes and other items except current supplies, will be paid in semiannual installments of $5,000 extending over a period of four years, with interest at the rate of four per cent per year.

"The structure, which was built in 1933 by Martin Bothun, is one story in height with a full basement, and is centrally located on Main avenue near Third street. It is of brick construction, and has a frontage of 49 feet."

Building Of Road Through Millyard Now In Progress

"Following the assembling of equipment, the Anderson Construction company Monday started work on the building of the new highway across the old millyard, .6 mile in length. The road, to be known as Pennington avenue, is expected to be completed within the next few weeks if weather conditions are favorable."

Northwest Swelters In Heat Wave Monday

"Northwest citizens sweltered Monday in the hottest weather of the season, a high of 94 being recorded at the KTRF weather station here, compared to 102 at Grand Forks and 105 at Fargo, N.D. On Friday 84 was recorded in this city, followed by 87.5 Saturday and 86 on Sunday. After Monday's heat, the maximum Tuesday was a cool 77, and on Wednesday a high of 80 was reached. During the week .05 inch was recorded on August 1 and .53 inch on August 3."

From The Editorial Page

"In a few weeks we will have a new approach to the city from the south, the long-looked-forward-to shortcut across the millyard. This is going to be a busy road, serving a large farm area as well as the cemetery and airport. It also means the development of a large tract for industrial purposes within the city. After thirty years of inactivity the old millyard is coming to life again. As an addition to the street system the highway has been officially designated as Pennington avenue, but it will probably be better known as the Airport Road."

More Than $1,000 Turned In For New Gospel Tent

"More than $1,000 was received Sunday, most of which came in cash, toward the new tent which the Union Gospel Tent Mission last week decided to purchase. Special offering was received in last Sunday afternoon's meeting and more has come since then.

"In commenting on this response, L. W. Lindholm, committee chairman, commended the interest shown by people of this community and by those who have sent contributions through the mail."

New Solum Farm Raises Corn Over Six Feet Tall

"An excellent sample of the Minnesota 13 variety of corn, with the stalks measuring six and one half feet in height and raised on the Morris Rodman farm in New Solum township, Marshall county, was brought into the Times office late last week. The specimen was the tallest in a 12-acre patch."

Prosperity

"McKinley-Hanna prosperity has struck us and we now use less sugar and kerosene then we did before. There is nothing that helps prosperity like taxation. Taxation will cover more sins then charity, and it is not as cold either. Owing to the election of Hanna and McKinley, the wheat crop of the Argentine and the Balkans is 'short' and the demand for American wheat has increased and of course the price has risen and this will enable the farmer who has heretofore raised wheat by living in a sod house without windows, to pay a good round tax for lumber, window glass, and all other articles he wants to build with and which are controlled by trusts."

"Negotiations for the sale of THE NEWS are in progress and it is possible that this may be our last issue." [The paper is being sold to John Eastman of St. Cloud.]

Memorials

DAD

Dad's golden gates did open
10 years ago today
With farewells left unspoken
You quietly slipped away
You suffered much in silence
As we watched with great despair
But now God has you up above
In his tender loving care
We cannot bring the old days back
Your hand we cannot touch
But we'll always have the memories
Of the one we loved so much
Our hearts still ache with sadness
And silent tears still flow
For what it meant to lose you Dad
No one will ever know
So you who have a father
Cherish and love him with care
For you'll never know the heartache
Til he is no longer there
We love and miss you so much, Dad

Gully News

Sanna Brovold

On June 9th, Irene Carlson and her sister Gladys Haugen of Duluth boarded the Am Track train for a trip to Seattle, WA. They went to visit their cousins, the Pete Erickson family. The Ericksons were former residents of Hickory Township north of Gully. In 1921 they loaded their belongs and family in a model "T" Ford and moved to Issaquah, Washington. The roads in "21" were not of the best and the trip through the mountains got to be quite exciting. Now Irene and Gladys visited Ed and Ayleen Erickson at Bellevue, Ida Erickson and husband Wes Juno in Issaquah and Ellen Erickson Dellavonti in Renton. The Paul Whealen family in Kent, WA, Anna and Trelice Flavons, Mick Santa family in Bellevue. Ida and Wes Juno took them to Kennewick, WA to visit Ida's son Ken Brocken and family. They also spent time sight seeing before returning home on July first when David and Patty Carlson met them in Detroit Lakes in the "wee hours" of the morning.

95th Birthday Party

The Haugen and Solien families got together on Sunday forenoon for a potluck dinner at the Community Center in Gully. Later that day from one to four o'clock Sandra Grall and husband Dave from Raymond hosted a birthday party for her great aunt Alma Solien for her 95th birthday. Much time had been spent for a very enjoyable day for Alma and all the guests. Corky Ringstad had prepared a six page document using important historical and family events happening during each of the years Alma had lived. He started out with Alma's birth in 1902 when Teddy Roosevelt was President, then in 1903 "the Wright Brothers fly" etc. There were seventeen different U.S. Presidents during her life and excepting for the very first ones I believe she can remember something happening during their terms.

What a blessing to be permitted to live 95 years or more and have a memory like Alma. They enjoyed a program and Sandra served coffee, ice cream and cake. Among those present were Mildred Solien, sister of Alma and the only two left of the original Anton Haugen family and a sister-in-law Gladys Haugen. Also LuVern and Clara Solien of Buffalo, Robert and Barbara Solien of Oklee, James and Sharon Solien of Gonvick, Lilly and Donna Cantwell of Oklee, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Rodr of Lake Park and their son Jeff and two girls from North Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wittenberg and boys Ankeny, IA, Corky and Pam Ringstad of Dayton, Kerry, Mary, Arnold and Tylar Ringstad of St. Paul, Delores Ringstad and David Haugen of Gully. An 80 year old cousin of Alma's from Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rosmuson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wiborg of Fosston and Dianne Waine of Gully.

Members of Lund Ladies Aid decided to have the July meeting in the form of a picnic at the Gully Park. The basement of the church has been on the "moist order" since all the rain, even on top of the hills there seems to be moisture. On Wednesday we were blessed with the right kind of weather for a meeting outside. Florence Berg and Delores Ringstad arranged for a barbecue and buns and we all brought something to make a tasty lunch.

We spent an enjoyable evening at the Marlene and Dallas Romuson home helping Marlene celebrate her birthday. Dallas gave her a nicely decorated birthday cake and we thought he had made it but found out he had made a quick trip to the bakery. Sorry but there wasn't a soloist there to sing "Happy Birthday", we'll practice for next year! Others there to enjoy a good lunch were their son Corey, Harlan and Viola Rasmuson of Fosston, KC Looschel of Bemidji and Sanna and Arnold.

Visitors and lunch guests at the Arnold Brovold home on Sunday afternoon where Evelyn Hanson of Clearbrook, Harry and Nora Hanson, Carol and Luke Torgerson of Thief River Falls.

John Van Dam (left), north oils division manager for Calgene Oils of Davis, CA, reviews canola production for laurate oil with Perry Aasness, Assistant Minnesota Secretary of Agriculture. Both men spoke at a "Farming for Oil" field day Wednesday, August 6, at the canola test plot site south of Goodridge. Laurate is the fatty acid that is found in the seed oils of only a few plant species, mostly coconut and palm kernel oil from tropical regions. Calgene Oils has genetically engineered its canola to produce oil with approximately 40 percent laurate.

Genetically engineered canola starts oil boom

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Anyone prospecting for oil in northwestern Minnesota would do better looking at what is growing on top of the ground rather than what lies buried beneath it.

Oilseed crops such as sunflower and soybeans are familiar fare, but a relatively new crop to the area is taking on increasing importance. And as new as the crop is to the area, there is already a new wrinkle to be considered.

Those fields which looked suspiciously like the farmer neglected to spray for mustard may well be planted to that crop—canola, not long ago known as rapeseed.

Encouraged by early success with the crop—especially when traditional small grain crops of wheat and barley have been hurt severely by plant diseases, most notably scab—farmers have been increasing acreage and their neighbors have been planting a few acres of the crop themselves.

An informational field day at the canola test plots off Highway 219 south of Goodridge Wednesday, August 6, was conducted by Calgene Oils of Davis, CA, and sponsored by Farmers Union Oil Company. A large turnout of farmers was indicative of the interest in alternative crops for the area.

Calgene Oils, now owned by and a division of Monsanto, has been specializing in agricultural biotechnology since 1984. It attained notable success with the trademarked Flavr Savr tomato and has been constantly working to enhance the properties of plants using genetic engineering.

One of its achievements is the genetic engineering of canola to produce an oil which contains approximately 40 percent laurate—a fatty acid found in the seed oils of only a few plant species, mostly coconut and palm kernel oil from tropical regions. Calgene isolated the gene responsible for laurate production from the California Bay

Businesses cope despite strike

Although inconvenienced and sometimes unable to receive timely shipments, Thief River Falls businesses appear to be coping despite the Teamsters Union strike against United Parcel Service (UPS) which started Monday, August 4.

While union members continue to picket the local UPS terminal, management has been making limited deliveries locally.

Thief River Falls major UPS shipper, Digi-Key Corporation, has been inconvenienced by the strike but has been able to make alternate arrangements to ship its orders to customers on a timely basis, according to company president Mark Larson.

"So far, so good," Larson said about order shipping which normally involves about 3,200 packages a day leaving the local electronics supply company. He said shipping on Saturday, August 16, cleared any backlog the company had and that this week shipments are current on a daily basis.

Alternate carriers, principally Federal Express and the U.S. Postal Service but also including RPS and Speedee Delivery, are being utilized to fill the void created by the UPS work stoppage. Use of these carriers requires a good deal more manual handling than normal and many trips to the Grand Forks, ND, post office which is the drop point for parcel post shipment beyond four parcels per customer.

"Our shipping operations have

School Dist. 564 calls for levy referendum

The current course being followed within School District 564 is on a financial roller coaster. Monday night School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau asked the board to support a resolution calling for a levy referendum, which would help the district get off that roller coaster.

Robicheau said the levy is needed in order to provide quality education, continue to offer student courses and other educational opportunities which they are entitled to, and provide financial stability for the district. The district is also committed to offering program improvements so students can be successful in a global society.

Robicheau said the additional revenue from the levy referendum would be used to provide financial stability and address program opportunities in the following areas:

- adult to student ratio in K-12 technological expansion
- improvements in teaching
- language in earlier grades
- improvements or expanded curriculum,
- provide an integrated agriculture/vocation program,
- a program for at-risk students in K-12,
- respond to general equity in co-curricular activities,
- provide additional advanced placement courses,
- support a parent resource or involvement center
- remediation for students who fail basic skills tests, and
- a K-8 social worker

Currently, he said these issues cannot be addressed because of a lack of resources.

Robicheau said district residents can expect in return a partnership in an educational system that is second to none. Residents can also expect in return greater accountability. Robicheau said passage of the levy would assure financial responsibility, increased student achievement, financial stability, an opportunity for meaningful input, and quality teaching by qualified staff. Residents of the district, he said, can also expect extensive community involvement. "This is the community's school," he said, "and we need their involvement." This is also their opportunity to invest in their future by assuring a quality educational system.

Due to a lack of resources, the district has undergone substantial budget reductions in the past four years. During the 1994-95 budget process, $130,000 was cut. During the 1995-96 budget process, $295,000 was cut. During the 1996-97 budget process, $396,000 was cut. During the 1997-98 budget process the target was $200,000, but the state came through with additional funds and $80,000 was cut from the budget.

It seems that Thief River Falls is in the minority of the districts which haven't passed a levy referendum. Robicheau presented a list of districts which have supported a levy referendum. The following shows the list of districts and the referendum dollars per student that he provided the board: Detroit Lakes $296, East Grand Forks $319, Fergus Falls $314, Goodridge $319, Middle River $613, New York Mills $318, Roseau $255, Underwood $193, Warroad $100, Willow River $117, Warren $707.

Robicheau also said he would like to send out a survey to district residents, which would ask what they feel are the district's strong areas, its strengths, needed areas for improvement, and how they would prioritize programs. He said it would be a short survey and take only a couple of minutes to fill out.

Hank Hallstrom called for a vote by the board on the resolution to call for a levy referendum saying that the board needed to support quality education. There was a unanimous vote in support of the resolution.

Voters will be faced with making a decision relating to increasing the general education revenue of the school district during the November 1997 election.

Passage of the issue would increase general education revenue by $234.95 per actual pupil unit

School board recognizes youths for saving life

Bill Hahne's resignation accepted by school board

Alecia Bakken, Julie Chrzanowski and Sam Kezar, lifeguards at the Franklin Middle School swimming pool were thanked for their quick and decisive actions which resulted in saving a young child from drowning at the pool.

School District Board Chairman Carl Clark shook their hands during a school board meeting Monday night and thanked them for their quick and proficient actions, which are credited for saving the life of the child.

At about 7:30 p.m. August 4, law enforcement officials were notified of a swimming accident at the Franklin Middle School pool. A seven year old girl had been found on the bottom of the pool. Lifeguards pulled the child from the pool and administered CPR. The child recovered and was taken to Northwest Medical Center.

Asked to share any comments, Kathy Huschle, pool director, said she was very proud of all of her lifeguards. They kept their emotions in check and let their training take over.

But, following the recognition, Jane Aandal, a local citizen and parent of two young children, voiced her concerns, stating that safety issues at the pool need to be addressed. Specifically, Aandal asked the board to install elevated lifeguard chairs, which have evidently been cut from previous budget requests. The elevated chairs would allow lifeguards a better view of the pool including difficult areas to observe from a low chair, such as areas next to the walls. Aandal also provided the board with two quotes for elevated lifeguard chairs. The cost for two chairs seemed to range between $1,200 and $5,200.

The board thanked her for expressing her concerns and seemed to agree with her that the chairs were needed, but research was needed into safety standard requirements for the chairs.

■ The resignation of Bill Hahne, principal at Franklin Middle School, was accepted by the board Monday night. Hahne had been placed on administrative leave, but Monday night a resolution accepting his resignation was signed by the board. The resolution states that the board and Hahne had reached a "Separation Agreement." It also states that Hahne had executed a Release of Claims arising out of his employment with Independent School District 564. At the time, the board did not discuss the matter or any of the reasons for

Dick and LaVonne Radniecki receive beautification honors

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Pondering why their yard was selected as the 1997 beautification winner by the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District, Dick and LaVonne Radniecki speculated that it must be because the six-acre site "looks neat."

It's true the yard and its many plantings do indeed look neat. But the yard also looks nice, and we could toss in a few other descriptive words like creative and tasteful as well.

The Radniecki residence is located on the south side of the Smiley Bridge road about two and a quarter miles east of Highway 59. All of the acreage that isn't intentionally left to grow is mowed regularly. Flower beds and a large vegetable garden are part of the landscape—as are the approximately 3,500 trees and shrubs that the Radnieckis have planted.

There are lombardy poplar, green ash, flowering crab, lilac, chokecherry, plum, cotoneaster, blue spruce and others, not to mention the native oaks which were carefully avoided as the building site was developed. All of the elms which were an attraction for the property when the Radnieckis moved there 10 years ago have since been lost to Dutch Elm disease.

Dick was born in Deer Park township of eastern Pennington county and LaVonne (Horswill) is from rural Rolette, ND. They lived in Deer Park and had a Trail address from the time they were married in 1947 until they moved to the present site in 1957.

35 Years In Construction

For 35 years Dick was in the construction business, working on earth moving projects throughout a wide area. Dick earned a reputation as a good finishing operator, and although he tried to retire four years ago, a former competitor has found his abilities valuable enough to coax him back onto the seat of dozers, motorblades, cranes and back hoes.

Dick helped build the airport in Aberdeen, SD, in 1995 and 1996 and most recently he has been working on the access road between Devils Lake and the Indian reservation in that flooding North Dakota area. This year's project is to add five feet in elevation to the road that was raised five feet a year ago.

Prior to going into the construction business, Dick taught rural school for one year and he and LaVonne raised turkeys (up to 12,000 a year), being one of the first growers in the area to raise white turkeys. After that enterprise was abandoned, Dick said it took a long time before he could eat turkey again. There were always birds with deformities or broken legs that were salvaged for the family dinner table in one form or another.

An Affinity For Flowers

LaVonne has always had a liking for flowers. She raises poppies each year from the prior year's seed, having done so since she brought the first poppy seed from her home farm in North Dakota in 1949—48 years ago. She also annually raises calendula which came from her father's farm.

Inside the circular driveway in front of their 28x56 modular home is a bed of prairie flowers planted this year and blooming in profusion. It replaces an English garden which required too much attention. The prairie flowers need simply to be cut down in the fall to make room for growth of the self-seeded varieties next spring.

Flowers surround the home and are in various places in the yard

PANTRY FERTILIZER
RECIPE

1 tsp. Epsom salts
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt peter
1/2 tsp. ammonia

METHOD

Dissolve ingredients in one gallon of warm water. Apply to plants in place of regular watering not more often than 4 to 6 weeks

(Recipe provided by LaVonne Radniecki, Pennington SWCD farm beautification winner along with husband Dick.)

Dick and LaVonne Radniecki, who won the 1997 beautification contest sponsored by the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District, are pictured on the deck outside the modular home they erected in 1987. The single-tree which balances two potted plants is one of a number of remnants from LaVonne's home farm near Rolette, ND. She skillfully blends the artifacts into the landscape for a unique and interesting appearance.

Radniecki Construction had offices in a number of locations in [illegible] and Thief River Falls over the years but when Dick and LaVonne built in their present location they also built a 28x48 frame building for a shop and office for the construction company.

Converts Office To Kitchen

Following his retirement, Dick converted part of that office space into a canning kitchen for his wife. The building is just a few steps from the garden and the kitchen is complete with sink, running water, stove, refrigerator-freezer, counter and shelf space.

LaVonne makes a lot of jelly and jam from fruit and berries in the yard, taking an ample supply along when they winter in Apache Junction, Arizona in their camper.

Other features of the yard include a 24x26 two-stall garage and an L-shaped wildlife pond of about three-fourths of an acre which Dick created with his earth-moving equipment. It has 8-to-1 slopes on all sides and at eight feet deep in the center provides some open water so [illegible] not freeze [illegible].

The Radnieckis are members of St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls. Dick is a past chairman of the Deer Park township board and, although years on the road restricted his opportunities for local involvement, he served on the national executive board of the Land Improvement Contractors of America.

Award-Winning Gardener

LaVonne has been an active member of the Deer Park Garden Club since 1960 and held all offices in the club at least once. She also is vice president and a member of the executive board of the 13th District Horticultural Society and chairman of the awards committee.

She received a Life Membership in the Minnesota State Horticultural Society in 1995 and has received its Award of Merit. She has also received the District Service Award, Outstanding District Gardener Award and the District Gold Medal Award.

Her friend and active gardener Lois Swanson of Goodridge is a national seed tester for the National Gardening Association of Burlington, VT. Lois receives packets of new variety seeds to test, evaluate and report on each year, and when she has extras she gives them to LaVonne. Peppers, cucumbers, squash, lavender and other plants, mostly vegetables, have been grown over the past several years.

Dick and LaVonne have two sons, two daughters, seven grandsons and two great-granddaughters.

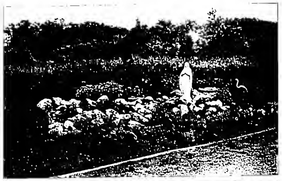
Their son Gregory and his wife Donna live at Thief River Falls, have three sons and one granddaughter.

Daughter Patricia and her husband Greg Nelson live in Duluth and have three sons and one granddaughter.

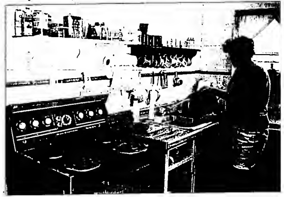
Daughter Becci Messrent lives in Mesa, AZ, and has one son, and son Jack also lives in Mesa and is single.

How about a growing tip from a plant enthusiast? See the recipe for "Pottery Fertilizer" accompanying this story. LaVonne says it does wonders for her houseplants.

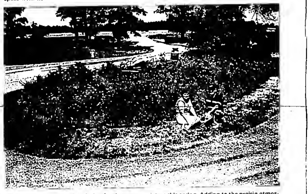
Dick and LaVonne will be recognized for their award at next spring's annual meeting of the soil and water conservation district.



Rock garden at the Dick and LaVonne Radniecki home southeast of Thief River Falls looks carefully planned, but looks can be deceiving. The area began as a dumping ground for rocks cleared from the yard for later disposal. One of the Radniecki children believed a rock garden was the intent, however, and hauled in many more rocks while Dick and LaVonne were away.



Canning kitchen is much appreciated by LaVonne Radniecki, who utilizes part of the space from her husband's former construction business office for her canning and freezing work. The building is just a few feet from the Radniecki's vegetable garden.



Prairie circle is a fitting description for the central area of the circular drive at the Dick and LaVonne Radniecki home southeast of Thief River Falls. The area had been an English garden for a number of years but the Radnieckis were looking for something requiring less care. The solution was planting of a prairie flower seed mixture this spring. Adding to the prairie atmosphere is a wagon from LaVonne's home farm near Rolette, ND. The native prairie flowers are blooming profusely. Later this fall all that will be required will be to mow the plot after the flowers have self-seeded for next year's growth.

In front of their home on the Smiley Bridge road southeast of Thief River Falls, Dick and LaVonne Radniecki pose for the Times' camera. The 28x56 modular home is surrounded by shrubs and flowers and a deck adds character and living space to the home. The Radnieckis are winners of the 1997 beautification contest sponsored by the Pennington County SWCD.

Businesses cope despite strike of UPS

been set up for the high percentage of packages which leave our building by UPS," Larson said, "and most of UPS parcel handling had been automated. This system has been interrupted by the strike."

Larson said that order numbers are down as customers seem reluctant to order, apparently expecting difficulty in receiving delivery. He said that Digi-Key has given its customers a choice of delivery service as a matter of course, and therefore has been using a number of carriers in addition to UPS in the past.

"We certainly can't say that it is business as usual," he said, "but we are keeping up with order shipment." He said he would not make long-range decisions on the company's future use of carriers "under duress."

Arctic Delay Unrelated

Rumors that the strike against UPS had caused a line shut-down at Arctic Cat Inc. were unfounded, according to Paul James, public relations representative for the company.

James said that a line shut-down did occur last week, but it was due to a problem with a vendor and was totally unrelated to the strike. He said vendors who formerly used UPS have found alternate means to make deliveries so far.

"There is always the continued risk that manufacturing components may not be available in the future," James said. "Right now, however, that is not the case."

All of the company's parts, garments and accessories are distributed from the company's facilities in Bucyrus, OH, James said. As a result, there has been little outgoing shipment by the company here.

Retailers Stay Supplied

LeeAnn Nelson, owner of Diamonds & Designs, said that much of her store's merchandise has been received by UPS in the past, but that her suppliers have also been able to make other arrangements to provide timely shipments so far.

She said she would like the strike to be settled from the standpoint of the employees who are out of work moreso than a restoration of normal delivery service.

Cliff Swanson, owner of Purdy's Shoes, said that UPS management has made two deliveries to his store, the most recent on Tuesday morning, August 12. He said that UPS normally provides a substantial amount of delivery of product to the store, but that major shipments involving a number of cartons are generally received by truck freight.

Despite the expected business increase for back-to-school shoes, Swanson said he anticipates no shortage of product selection as a result of the strike.

Nick Bosh, manager of the Kmart store, said that back to school supplies and other merchandise are not in short supply. He said the store receives most of its volume merchandise by truck from the company warehouse and only smaller items by UPS.

Employee paychecks have been delivered by UPS in the past, he said, but last week were received through the U.S. Postal Service without a problem.

United Parcel Service and the Teamsters Union are at impasse over management of the employees' pension funds and the number of part-time employees hired by the company.

School District 564 calls for levy referendum

The additional revenue would be used to finance school operations. The property tax portion of the issue would require an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0494 percent.

The levy would generate an estimated $621,567 in additional revenue, but taxpayers in the district would not pick up the entire amount. If the referendum is passed, state aid would amount to $484,187. Local taxpayers would pick up roughly 22 percent of the levy amount or $137,380.

Similar proposed increases in the levy for School District 564 have been defeated in three previous elections.

In 1993, the school board proposed a levy referendum that would have increased its general education revenue by $284.29 per actual pupil unit. The property tax portion of the levy would have required an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0566 percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district. It would have been in effect for 10 years unless otherwise revoked or reduced as provided by law. Voters defeated the proposal 2,700 to 1,7[illegible].

In 1995, the school board also proposed a levy referendum. It [illegible] by a vote of 3,371 [illegible] to 1,95[illegible]. The school board had proposed to increase its general education revenue by $281.24 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue raised by the levy increase would finance school operations. The proposed increase would have required an increase of approximately 0.0586 percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district. The referendum would have been in effect for 10 years, unless revoked or reduced by law.

In 1996, the school board attempted to pass another levy referendum. It [illegible] by a vote of 2,793 [illegible]. The levy would have [illegible] an estimated $62[illegible] [illegible] operating expenses. [illegible] the levy was to increase [illegible] education revenue by $2[illegible] per actual pupil unit. The property tax portion of the levy would have required an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0[illegible] percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district.

Old Mill stones to grind grain again August 24

Annual grinding day for the old mill at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden will take place Sunday, August 24, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the building of the mill by John Larson.

The public is invited to visit the park during the day and participate in the several activities planned. A hike on the Agassiz Trail at 10 a.m. will include viewing of many wild flowers. At 1 p.m. park naturalist Gladwin Lynne will lead a children's activity on symbols used by Native Americans to express their feelings and send messages.

The mill is powered by a restored eight-horsepower steam engine—a Case brand with the serial number 359. When Larson bought the engine to power the mill it was the first of its kind in the area.

For a number of years the mill was not used, but was restored in 1958 and has been operated annually since then by park staff and volunteers from the Marshall County Historical Society. On August 24 birthday cake will be served while supplies last in recognition of the 100-year history of the mill.

Fresh ground wheat flour and bran may be purchased by visitors at the site. At the Larson cabin, historical society volunteers in period dress will offer a taste of whole wheat bread, fresh churned butter or chokecherry jelly.

The swimming pool will be open, the picnic area offers a shady place to relax and Bakke Carriage Company will offer horse-drawn carriage rides for a small fee from the old cottonwood tree in the parking lot.

Vehicle permits are required for all vehicles entering any Minnesota State Park. A daily permit is $4 and an annual permit is $20. Both are for sale at the park office.

Jean Schindler receives award as volunteer

Jean Schindler of Red Lake Falls has been named a recipient of the 1997 Acts of Kindness, Governor's Volunteer Award. She was selected because of her exceptional volunteer commitment to the residents of Hillcrest Nursing Home in Red Lake Falls.

The Acts of Kindness statewide award program honors volunteers who make life better for others by giving of themselves to improve their neighborhoods and communities. Lt. Gov. Joanne Benson will present Schindler with her award at the Minnesota State Fair in Carousel Park near the grandstand on Tuesday, August 26, at 1:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the ceremony.

Schindler, who volunteers more than 100 hours a month at Hillcrest Nursing Home, is always looking for ways to enhance the quality of life for the residents. She assists with activities and outings, provides transportation to medical appointments and stores, serves meals and leads the rosary service every evening.

As a result of her one-on-one involvement, more residents are involved in activities at the home. They look forward to her visits each day because of her ability to lift their spirits. Schindler is also active in other areas of her community by volunteering for the American Legion, Catholic Daughters and the area 4-H club.

"Jean definitely goes the extra mile," says Cindy Arlt, volunteer coordinator at Hillcrest and the person who nominated Schindler for the award. "She is a real motivator and has a great impact on the lives of all residents, helping them to build confidence and self-esteem. Her attitude, openness and dedication to all describes her true spirit of caring."

"We were overwhelmed by the many citizen initiative stories we learned about through the nominations," said Gov. Arne H. Carlson. "People helping people through their acts of kindness has a tremendous impact on our neighborhoods and communities throughout Minnesota."

Acts of Kindness, an annual awards program, is sponsored by the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services (MOCVS), Department of Administration. MOCVS provides statewide leadership and service to the volunteer community.

Sixth Neighborhood Block Party Held On South Maple

By Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

It's not often in our hurry-up world that neighbors get the chance to be neighbors anymore. A rushed "hello" every now and then is often about all we can handle.

Yet, once a year the neighbors on several blocks of South Maple and South Spruce set aside an evening for a neighborhood block party.

Six years ago, neighbors Linda Johnson and Arnie and Linda Geske were visting and talked of how nice it would be to have a neighborhood get-together. They acted on their idea and issued invitations to a "get acquainted" party. Their gathering has turned into an annual event, and Linda, Linda and Arnie are still doing the planning.

The block party is now held on the first Monday evening in July following the 4th. By having it on a specific night, neighbors are able to plan ahead and make certain the much anticipated gathering is on their calendars. According to Linda Johnson, "Even neighbors who spend most of the summer at the lake make it a point to be at the party."

The gathering is held on the street on the double 200 and 300 block of South Maple. The roadway is barricaded by cones provided by the City Street Department. In addition to the 200 and 300 blocks, guests are invited from the 400 and 500 blocks of South Maple and the 200 and 300 blocks of South Spruce.

Invitations are made every year, and Linda, Linda and Arnie hand deliver the flyers up and down the avenues. Going door to door, Johnson said she receives such comments as ,"Oh, good!" and "Is it already that time of the year again?" Because hamburgers and buns are purchased, the planners ask that guests RSVP.

The rest of the meal is pot luck. "There were a lot of beans that first year," Johnson laughed, "and since then it's been pretty good." A collection is taken up at the end of the evening to cover the costs of the burgers and buns.

The gathering takes place at 6 p.m. enabling anyone who has a meeting or other engagement to attend the party. They are allowed to block off the street until 9:30 or 10 p.m. "Usually, the mosquitos have chased us off by then!" said Johnson. In case of inclement weather, the gathering is held in the Geskes' three car garage.

This year the weather was beautiful, and as they ate and visited, guests were unaware that a tornado touched down near Goodridge.

Sixty-three people attended this year's event. Johnson commented that the turnout is always good. Picnic tables are borrowed from nearby homes, and everyone brings their own lawn chairs. Even Johnson's 92-year-old mother brings out her chair and wouldn't miss the party. Linda said, "People don't fill their plates and just sit but mingle and make it a point to visit with as many neighbors as possible."

Because of the party, the neighborhood is mostly on a first name basis, and while there wasn't anyone new this year, the gathering is an excellent opportunity for newcomers to become acquainted with their neighbors.

Johnson commented that on the double 200 and 300 block of South Maple where she lives only three people have to go to work every morning. While there are a few families with children in the neighborhood, the area is mostly occupied by retirees.

New to this year's gathering was the attendance and participation of Police Chief Ken Froschheiser and Officer Allen Melbye who manned the grills. In January, the neighborhood had organized a Community Policing Block Organization. Neighborhood crime prevention is the purpose of the organization. The groups meet three times a year, and the block party was the perfect opportunity to incorporate a meeting.

In addition to his cooking duties, Chief Froschheiser brought a bicycle for a short safety course with the youth, and Officer Mike Puetz brought over a squad car for the children to check out. Curious kids were responsible for the lights and sirens that evening in the otherwise quiet neighborhood.

In a telephone conversation, Chief Froschheiser told me about the new Community Policing Block Organizations and that five or six such crime prevention groups have been organized in Thief River Falls. Anyone interested in forming an organization in their neighborhood is encouraged to call the police department, and they will be happy to help you getting started. Studies have shown that in areas where neighbors know each other, they are much more apt to look out for each other.

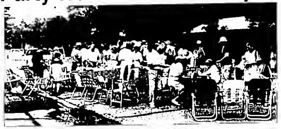
When Johnson mentioned that Mayor Reeve and his wife, JoAnn attended the block party it was without my knowledge that the dignitary is also a neighbor.

Johnson commented that all of the neighbors are very appreciative of the organizers' efforts. After so many years, the planning for Johnson and the Geskes has gotten easier, and it would probably be more difficult to find someone else to take over than it would be to continue to organize the party themselves.

Linda Johnson has lived in the neighborhood since 1974 and is the manager and controller at Thief River Jobbing where she has worked for 32 years. Longtime neighbors, Linda Geske works at Digi-Key and her husband, Arnie, is employed by Northwest Grain in St. Hilaire.

Many of the houses in this neighborhood were built in the 1950s, and many are of similar design. Over the years the homes have been well maintained and many have been remodeled. As new siding, shutters and decks have been added, the houses have taken on more individual looks. Trees, shrubbery and beautiful multi-color flowerbeds and planters enhance the lush green lawns. Their pastime pride? neighborhood is one to be proud of.

No one is better suited to comment on the block party than someone who lives there. Dr. Charles Samuelson and his wife, Stella, have made it a point to attend the block party every year. Stella says, "It's wonderful. You get a chance to see your neighbors. Just because you are neighbors doesn't mean you see each other that often. It's wonderful—just wonderful!"



Sixty-three neighbors gathered recently for the 6th annual neighborhood block party held on the barricaded roadway in the 200 and 300 block of South Maple. Planners Linda Johnson and Linda and Arnie Geske hand deliver invitations to the homes on the 200, 300, 400 and 500 blocks of South Maple and the 200 and 300 blocks of South Spruce. Hamburgers are made on grills and the rest of the meal is potluck. Appreciative neighbors make a special point to be in town for this much anticipated and well-attended annual event.

Soviet students seeking homes for school year

Students from the former Soviet Union will spend the 1997-98 academic year in the Thief River Falls area living with volunteer host families and attending local high schools.

Last year Lincoln high school hosted five of these students, according to Laura Lerswick of Minneapolis, area coordinator for AYUSA International.

Through the U.S. Freedom Support Act, teenagers from the Newly Independent States are awarded scholarships to study American culture and education. The program's success has a great impact on the lives of the students, host families, schools and communities.

AYUSA was selected by the U.S. government to sponsor 170 NIS scholarship students arriving this fall. Families which would like to host a student may call Lerswick at 612-561-2374 for more information.

DFL banquet/ fund-raiser set

Pennington County DFL board of directors has announced that they will have a special banquet and fund raiser Saturday, September 6, 1997, at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls. This special event will honor Edith and Wally Fitter, long time board members and activists in the DFL party in Pennington County and the State of Minnesota.

Tickets for this special event will be available from county board members. Tickets are $20 per person or $35 per couple. The event includes a social hour, beginning at 6 p.m., dinner, recognition awards, and special guest speakers, including Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and other DFL leaders from the State of Minnesota.

For more information and details, contact Gayle Burchert at 681-4349 or Rick Nelson at 681-6543.

Manning the grills at the 6th annual neighborhood block party held on South Maple are Officer Allen Melbye and Police Chief Ken Froschheiser. The block party was the perfect opportunity to incorporate a meeting of the area's Community Policing Block Organization which organized in January. Five or six of the new crime prevention programs have been organized around town, and the police department is anxious to help any interested neighborhood get a group started. Officer Mike Puatz (left) brought a squad car to the party for the neighborhood kids to look over and test its lights and sirens.

McKnight funds used to assist in welfare to work

Minnesota Workforce Center/Job Service in Crookston is among a number of agencies receiving a total of $658,250 in grants from the McKnight Foundation to help welfare recipients find and keep jobs.

Grants range in size from $5,500 to $50,000 and 86 of Minnesota's 87 counties are included in the partnerships. The Crookston Workforce Center serves Polk, Kittson, Red Lake, Marshall, Norman, Roseau and Pennington counties.

The grants complete the first phase of McKnight's two-year, $20 million pledge announced in late March to assist with the transition to a new welfare system in Minnesota. Once plans are in place, partnerships may request larger grants to help implement them.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

In The Good Old Summertime

Summer. It's what we live for in Minnesota. It's why we struggle through seven months of winter. And in the Upper Midwest, it's what life is all about.

Summer means sitting on the deck in a comfortable lounge chair enjoying the outdoors - the blooming flowers, trees and fresh air. It's pleasant sitting there sipping a can of Diet Coke and visiting with the conglomeration of friends and family who have gathered for the day or the weekend.

Summer means watching the kids perform cannonballs off the dock, swoosh down the slide into the water, dive for shells, perfect their swimming moves, collect rocks and erect sand castles. You have to watch because they're always yelling, "Mom, watch me! Mom, watch me!"

Summer says baseball. It's making the trek to Minneapolis to watch the Twins, or to Grand Forks to take in a Varmints' game or to Fargo to see the Red Hawks. It's setting up lawn chairs to watch your child play tee ball. It's playing catch outdoors and hitting the ball.

Summer means boat rides. With the wind blowing in your face on a summer evening, there isn't a better place than riding in a boat on a Minnesota lake. Summer also says water-skiing and tubing.

Summer means picnics and meals on the grill: burgers, chicken, bratwurst, pork chops, kabobs, and hot dogs. It's watching out for that one hot dog that always falls through the grill's grate or rolls onto the ground. It's potato salad, lots of ice cream and root beer floats. It's food served on a paper plate, with the knees becoming the table.

Summer means a lot of activity. It's a bike ride through city streets, on bike trails and a cruise through Itasca State Park. Summer is also playing in the park, golfing, fishing, swimming, tennis, water-skiing, canoeing, baseball, floating on an air mattress, and just being a kid. There doesn't seem to be enough time to do everything.

Summer means independence and celebration. Summer wouldn't be summer without a few sparklers and bottle rockets or watching the town's big display. The kids know there's something special about it, and as they grow they'll appreciate why.

Summer means sunny days. These days give you permission to lay on the couch all day with a good book you picked up at that rummage sale over the weekend. Rains a welcome sight that makes our summer memories green.

Summer means outings. From garage sales to auctions to outdoor craft shows, town festivals, parades and county fairs - there's always something to do. It's the cotton candy, the ferris wheel, the surprises, and fellowship.

Summer means vacations. It's loading up in the car without worry of a snowstorm to visit relatives, see something new, revisit something old, and travel somewhere as a family.

Summer means watching a garden grow, waiting for the crop, but knowing that mature gardens signal a move toward fall. It's the longed-for sweet corn (a meal in itself) and the vine ripened tomatoes that make a BLT the best.

Summer is swatting mosquitoes and flies, but tolerating it because it's better than shoveling the driveway or scraping ice off the windshield. Summer is mowing the lawn - and liking it.

Summer means a lot of things to many different people. Summers make my memories. Catch it while you can!

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Nearly A Cat-Astrophe

We nearly had a bit of a disaster at our house Sunday evening. We were having a nice visit and supper because my daughter from Langdon came for a rare visit, and so did my other daughter and her husband from Grand Forks. They brought their kitty from Grand Forks too.

You know about this kitty - it was one of the two cat evacuees that lived here during the flood, along with their owners, of course. Since this kitty is an indoor kitty, it sometimes comes with them to visit me, along with its own private cat carrier, litter box, food and treats. Its name is Moochie, by the way.

Moochie rarely goes outdoors. She has no claws on her front paws. This came about because she just wouldn't confine her scratching to a carpet covered post, but decided to scratch any piece of furniture she saw in the house, despite getting doused with frequent squirts of water. Her favorite pastime is sitting in the window watching the outdoors go by. Her second favorite pastime is catching flies, so I like to have her around. She also likes to play inside plastic bags and cardboard boxes.

Sunday afternoon things began to go bad after our meal. My daughter from Langdon noticed something leaking from her car. This had to be checked out, so the three of them were in and out of the house several times trying to find out what was wrong with the car and trying to fix it.

In the meantime, Moochie sat by the doors, thinking she might be able to take a little walk out there and see the world first hand. I kept an eye on her, but, not being used to cat sitting, began to do the dishes and forgot about her.

Dishes were done, car was somewhat repaired, and people were preparing to leave. The kitty carrier was ready, door open. "Moochie, Moochie." No Moochie. A search was begun.

First we called for her - upstairs, downstairs and in the middle. When no cat appeared, we searched - upstairs, downstairs and in the middle. Soon we were searching everywhere - in cupboards and closets, under beds, chairs and couches, inside of drawers, in plastic bags and boxes, and even in the sump pump hole, where other kitties and even hamsters were known to have met their Waterloo.

Could she have gotten outside? Our search went outside - up and down several blocks of alleys, through the neighbors' yards, across streets, in bushes, up trees (despite the fact that she had no front claws, maybe she used her back claws and jumped) into gardens and through flower beds. No Moochie.

After an hour of searching, the police were alerted to our plight and they nicely promised to keep their multitude of squad car eyes open. The couple was sadly preparing to go, leaving me the cat carrier, litter box and food in hopes that I would soon have Moochie back with me. Tears were shed.

Just before leaving, my daughter decided to make one last search of the house. I started in the basement, she started upstairs. We searched and called for the kitty - nothing. By the time we met in the middle of the house, we were sure the cat was not inside. Searching through the living room, dining room and kitchen - nothing. No Moochie. Suddenly I heard strange words coming from my son's bedroom, which is in the middle of the house. "Moochie, blah, blah, blah, blah!" (Very unladylike words.)

The cat was found. Moochie was having a nap tucked back far back in the corner behind the headboard of my son's water bed. When one got on one's old knees and aimed a flashlight into the dusty corner, the cat's face could just barely be seen, blinking as if angry at being disturbed. I'm sure those of us who did the searching were much more angry, though, when Moochie decided not to come out of the corner.

After much bribing with cheese and milk and coaxing with (teeth clenched) sweet words, Moochie was removed from behind the bed and placed firmly in her carrier. Next time she comes I'm going to have a new collar ready for her - one with several bells and maybe a long leash attached to it.

PARENTING TIPS

Preparing For Success In School

There are many things a parent can do in the home that can help to prepare a child for success in school. Here are five things your child will be expected to do in a classroom setting, as well as what you can do to help him get ready as he nears school age:

1. Follow simple directions precisely. (I want you to go to your room and bring me your red sweater.)
2. Wait a reasonable length of time. (I can't read you a story until I have finished washing these dishes.)
3. Listen to a story and respond to simple questions. (Listen carefully because I will ask you some questions about the story I'm going to read to you.)
4. Complete a task. (Pick up all your toys and put them in the toy box.)
5. Take turns. (I will ask each of you a question: first Mary, then Jim, and then Joe.)

Children who develop these five skills in the home will more easily adjust to the classroom setting. As a result, they will be more likely to enjoy their school experience.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk with your child about school and what it will be like. Help your child to look forward to this new experience. Don't threaten your child with school.

Laurate canola reviewed

Laurel tree

Laurate possesses unique properties which make it desirable in edible and industrial products. Laurate oil is ideal for use in the soap and detergent industries as it is responsible for the cleansing and sudsing properties of shampoos, soaps and detergents.

The oil can also be used as a safe food substance, in a base for chocolate flavored coatings in the confectionery industry and as a dairy fat substitute in simulated dairy products. Other edible applications include confectionery coatings, coffee creamers, icings and frostings, and whipped toppings.

Although laurate occurs naturally in dairy products, it is not found within oilseeds grown in North America, and there were no domestic sources of laurate. The United States imports about $400 million worth of lauric oil annually, mostly from the Philippines, Malaysia and Indonesia.

John Van Dam, north oils division manager for Calgene, says that in the genetic engineering of Canola "...we created a cool season crop that produces a tropical oil." He said canola was picked as a host for the laurate gene because it is an indigenously rich, oil-producing crop, and because its genetic makeup is easier to engineer than most other crops.

The first field trial of laurate canola took place in 1992 and the first commercial planting was in 1994. As the first DNA-modified oilseed crop, Calgene needed approval from three federal agencies—U. S. Department of Agriculture, Food and Drug Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency — to propagate laurate canola seed.

Last year Calgene contracted about 7,300 acres of laurate canola with about 78 growers in northwest Minnesota and northeast North Dakota. The production of about 10 million pounds of seed was harvested, then hauled to regional delivery points in about a three-week time span. The laurate canola was custom processed at CanAmera Foods at Altona, Manitoba.

This year, Van Dam told the people attending the Goodridge meeting, the laurate canola acreage has jumped to 55,000 acres. Biggest concern of his company is that of a physical admixture of laurate canola with commercial canola. Such a mixture would spoil the unique properties of the oil and severely reduce its value.

Theme of the company is "Don't Spoil the Oil," Van Dam said. "If we can't maintain the purity and quality necessary to satisfy customers while furnishing them with the quantity of oil they need, then the program dies and the opportunity to take advantage of a new and untapped market will not exist."

Van Dam said the company will sample at harvest time and at the time of delivery, which is expected to be from mid to late November. The company plans to do two crushes at the CanAmera plant at Altona—one at the end of November and the other in February—but will take delivery of all of the seed in November. Among delivery sites in this area are Northwest Grain in St. Hilaire and elevators in Oklee, Clearbrook, Kennedy and Salol.

Contracts for the 1997 crop of laurate canola are at 14 and 15 cents per pound. Commercial canola is expected to be at 10.5 to 11.5 cents. Van Dam said he is comfortable with predicting yields of 1,500 pounds per acre with 2,000 pound yields possible with good management and a little bit of luck.

In efforts to avoid contamination of the crop with commercial types of canola, Van Dam said field should have a physical separation such as an open space, fence line or other barrier to prevent accidentally mixing crops. He said he was less concerned with cross-pollination or contamination from wild mustard than commercial admixture.

Cutting of canola in the area is expected to be underway within the next few days. Van Dam said his company plans to contract the 1998 crop with a 25 to 50 percent acreage increase over this year. Contract price will be based on the oil market prior to planting time. He said this year's price was based on projections for an oil market price increase which failed to materialize. If such movement does not take place, next year's contract price can be expected to be reduced.

Assistant Minnesota Secretary of Agriculture Perry Aasness told the group at Goodridge that canola can provide a new crop option to break up the small grain rotation which has suffered lately from scab and other plant diseases. He said the department wants to learn more about canola and to be responsive to the needs of growers and contractors.

Assistant Commissioner of the Minnasota Department of Agriculture, Perry Aasness speaks to farmers end other interested persons attending a meeting on Canola production Wednesday, August 6 neer Goodridge. The information field day included a speaking program in a tent erected at the field plot test site and inspection of the canola varieties on test at the site. The program was sponsored by Fermers Union Oil Company.

TRF swimmers compete at national level

Two members of the Thief River Falls swimming programs returned Monday from national level competition.

Chelsea Haviland, who will be an eighth grader at Franklin Middle School this fall, competed in the Speedo National Junior Diving Championships in Austin, Texas, where the she placed 21st on the one meter board in the 13-under age group Friday.

Haviland was a gold medal winner on both the one-meter and three-meter boards at a regional meet in Minneapolis earlier this summer, qualifying her to compete at the zone level in Milwaukee, WI, recently.

At Milwaukee, Haviland placed fifth in the one-meter event and ninth on the three-meter board. Top five finishers in each event qualified for the national meet.

She was accompanied at the national meet by Brian Strom of the University of North Dakota, her summer diving coach.

Olson, who will be a sophomore at Lincoln High School this fall, competed in the USS Central Zone Swimming Championships at Indianapolis, IN.

A busy Friday, Saturday, Sunday schedule found Olson swimming in no less than nine events — five individual freestyle races (50, 100, 200, 400, 800) and four relays as part of the North Dakota delegation that he joined for the trip.

Olson, competing in the 15-18 age group, did not come up with a place finish at Indianapolis, but did turn in personal best times in the 100 and 800 Friday before fatigue began to set in.

The meet featured 928 competitors from across the midwest.

Olson earned a trip to the zone event with his performances earlier this month at the North Dakota state meet, where his Thief River Falls United States Swimming team was a participant.

Haviland will jump right into the 1997 girls high school swimming season, which is held in the fall.

Olson's competitive swimming will be put on hold until the Lincoln high school swimming season in the winter.

Franklin volleyball will start Monday, Aug. 25

A reminder to Franklin Middle School seventh and eighth grade volleyball players that practice will begin Monday, Aug. 25.

Practice sessions are planned from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Aug. 25, 26, 28 and 29. Drills are scheduled from 1:00 to 5 p.m. Aug. 27.

Players are reminded to pick up the necessary forms and pay the required fees at Lincoln.

Zach Olson, shown with Thief River Falls coach Brian Olson, qualified to compete in the United States Swimming Central Zone championships in Indianapolis with his performances at the 1997 North Dakota Long Course state meet in Grand Forks. The state meet was held Aug. 1-3. The zone competition was held Aug. 8-10. (Submitted photo).

■ USS team wins in N.D. state title

A small group of Thief River Falls swimmers made a big splash at the 1997 North Dakota State Long Course Championships Aug. 1-3 in Grand Forks.

Led by Zach Olson, who qualified in a number of events for the USS Central Zone Swimming Championships in Indianapolis, IN, the seven-member Thief River Falls delegation earned the small-team title at the meet – awarded to the highest-scoring team among the six smallest squads competing at the Hyslop pool.

Olson won age-group titles in the 100, 200 and 400 freestyle races. He also placed second in the 50 and the 800 freestyle, and was third in the 200 individual medley.

Chris Pribula came up with a second in the 800 and 1500 freestyle and had third place finishes in the 200 individual medley and 400 freestyle.

Other Thief River Falls place finishes included a fifth by Andrea Olin, Andi Sorvig, Julie Chrzanowski and Jenny Sorvig in the 400 freestyle relay, a second by Olin in the 1500 freestyle, and a 12th by Andi Sorvig in the 200 breaststroke.

"Zach was the biggest winner," noted Thief River Falls United States Swimming team coach Brian Olson. "But everybody swam really well. Just about everybody dropped times in all the races."

Escapee quickly caught by law enforcement officials

Public may have observed several law enforcement officials on foot and in vehicles in downtown Thief River Falls Monday, August 11. Officials were searching for an escaped prisoner.

According to the report, Justin Lane, 21, Thief River Falls, was at the courthouse on a charge of furnishing alcohol to minors, a gross misdemeanor. While the deputy with Lane went across the hall to deliver some papers, Lane escaped, leaving behind a pair of orange jail-issue sandals. As the deputy notified other law enforcement, Lane was observed in an alley by a local citizen changing from his orange jail clothing into a pair of shorts. Lane was later apprehended at a downtown apartment complex hiding behind a door. He did not struggle or offer any resistance.

Now, instead of facing just one relatively minor offense, Lane is being held in jail and facing another charge — escape.

Thefts. The following individuals have been cited by the Pennington County Sheriff's department for writing bad checks: Rhonda Lee Anderson, 39, Thief River Falls, $63.45; Martin Almendarez, III, 21, Thief River Falls, $29.24; John David Borthwick, 21, Oklee, $323.93; Chad Kim Bakken, 26, Thief River Falls, $12.33; Ordell Duane Cutlman, Jr., 22, Brooklyn Park, $68; Celeste Marie Bjerken, 25, $87.35; Robert Lane Christianson, 27, McIntosh, $51.63; Roberta Jean Frey, 45, Lake Bronson, $134.

Vandalism. On August 5 at 4:22 p.m. police received a report that a mirror and window on a 1991 Ford Festiva had been broken while parked in the Arctic Cat parking lot. Damage loss was estimated at $530.

Consumption under age. On August 7 at 1:08 a.m. police received a report of a disturbance in the South Conley area. Three individuals were cited for consumption under age. William Marvin Yunke, Thief River Falls, was cited for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and furnishing alcohol to an individual under the age of 21.

Driving while intoxicated. On August 9 at 9:31 p.m. police received a report that a car had been running around by Northland Community and Technical College and was in the ditch. Officers found the vehicle in a ditch. Michael George Guillemette, 37, Thief River Falls, was arrested for gross driving while intoxicated, refusal to test, and having a minor in the vehicle. A two-year-old child was in the back seat of the car.

On August 9 at 2:39 p.m. Bart Vernon Cilden, 31, Thief River Falls, was arrested for aggravated driving while intoxicated, and driving after cancellation.

Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Comment sought on lowered speed limit

Signing Pennington Avenue from First Street to County road 61 to 30 miles per hour is being considered.

Officials cite safety reasons for lowering the speed limit from 35 and 45 miles per hour to 30 miles per hour. Officials say they are seeing increased traffic due to the new modular home park, Challenger Elementary school, and more students attending the school at the Regional Airport.

Individuals interested in making a comment about the proposal should contact Ron Lindberg, public works director at 681-8506, Ken Schmalz at 681-2522, or Police Chief Ken Froschheiser at 681-6161.

Database for hay supplies on Internet

University of Minnesota Extension Service has created an online database for hay supplies which can be utilized by persons either having hay for sale or looking for a source of hay supplies.

On the Minnesota Haylist producers can list the hay they have for sale, including price, tons available, type of hay, type of bales, where the hay is located and other information.

Livestock producers who are looking for hay can search for hay in their local areas, statewide or even in surrounding states utilizing this database. The system can reduce time spent in calling to locate hay, since the database can be updated by each seller as hay is harvested or sold.

Minnesota Haylist is accessible at www.mes.umn.edu/Haylist on the Internet. Persons interested in selling or locating hay and who do not have Internet access themselves may visit their county extension office for assistance. Help is also offered by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District at Grygla.

Hahne being placed on administrative leave.

— The superintendent would only say that there wasn't a criminal investigation. It was learned later that under the Separation Agreement, Hahne would receive his salary for the year, which amounts to $60,000, plus his severance, which he is entitled to receive.

■ Bruce Felt, music director at Lincoln High School, said the district was apparently the recipient of a two year $40,000 per year grant from the MacPhail Center for the Arts. The grant would cover the cost for bringing artists and composers to the district, in-service training, technology and expenses. The school district's co-pay, he said, would be $1,500. The music composition enrichment program supported by the grant would impact 17 students in the Magnate Arts program, primarily, but also affect students in other arts related programs. Felt said the program would begin sometime during the first or second week of the school year. He added that it would be fun, a little intimidating, and exciting. Felt said he would be receiving more information about the grant in the near future.

■ School Board Chairman Carl Clark announced that the district had reached a tentative agreement with the teachers union. Clark said the negotiating team, which also includes Hank Hallstrom and Darla Twomey, had been meeting regularly and now had a tentative agreement for two years. The agreement will now be brought to the teachers for ratification.

This is the first time in many years that an agreement has been reached before December, and even longer since an agreement was reached prior to the start of school.

■ The school board approved a recommendation to increase the pay to substitute teachers. Superintendent Robichean recommended a $10 per day increase in pay for teacher substitutes. He explained that the district has experienced a shortage in the availability of substitutes over the last year. He added that part of the shortage may be related to supply. He also provided the board with a chart showing that the average rate for 11 area schools is $69. The $10 rate increase for Thief River Falls substitutes would increase the total from $60 to $70 for a full day and $36 for a half day.

■ The school board approved a resolution establishing the dates to file for the school board. The filing period opens on August 26 and closes on September 9.

December 2 has been set aside as the date for the district's Truth-in-Taxation hearing. The superintendent recommended setting the Truth-in-Taxation hearing for 7 p.m. Tuesday, December 2, in the District Service Center. If necessary, the continuation of that meeting will be 7 p.m. Tuesday, December 9.

The school board recognized the following: Lifeguards Alicia Bakken, Julie Chrzanowski and Sam Kezar and Pool Director Kathy Huschle for saving the life of a child at Franklin Middle School, and Hanz Foundation, which donated $3,000 to purchase computers for district libraries.

Local TRF ambulance service changes name, adds vehicle

EMS of Thief River Falls, now known as Great Plains EMS

Due to the acquisition of the Crookston ambulance service by EMS of Thief River Falls, the company has decided to change its name. The name of the ambulance service in Thief River Falls and Crookston will now be known as Great Plains EMS.

According to Jim Van Schaick, paramedic and Thief River Falls operations manager, the name change goes into effect immediately, but the name will be printed on the vehicles over the next few months. "For those of us here in Thief River Falls, the change will only be that of a name and vehicle colors. The owners, staff and daily operations will not change."

In addition to the name change, the company has added a QRV (Quick Response Vehicle) to their services. "While the company remains committed to quality care we feel this is the right thing to do, it will not be a fee-for-service or a chargeable item of any sort. The patient and law enforcement will only notice a faster response time. We are proud to be the first ambulance service in Minnesota to begin offering QRV services," said Van Schaick.

Van Schaick explained that the QRV is a 4x4 Jeep equipped with trauma and medical equipment, heart monitor and defibrillator, oxygen, drug box, warning lights, siren and radio. It is equipped with an engine and interior heaters for sure starts and warm equipment in the winter.

The policy for the QRV is as follows, as outlined by Van Schaick:

- It is checked out daily and operated by the paramedic on first call and kept with him at all times. (This includes while at the station, on errands or at home.)
- When a call is received the medic responds in the QRV directly to the scene and begins patient care.
- The first call EMT responds to the station and proceeds to the scene with the ambulance.
- The QRV is left at the scene and after the call is complete the crew returns to the scene to recover the QRV.

Federal spending cutbacks to pinch state/local governments

America's [illegible] downsizing isn't just a corporate phenomenon. The federal government is also heading in the direction of smaller and leaner. While the federal presence in Minnesota falls well below national norms, Carole Yoho, economist in public policy with the University of Minnesota Extension Service, says that the state will be impacted. "Spending reductions of the size necessary to balance the federal budget will create significant reductions in state and local budgets," says Yoho.

The degree of impact locally depends on how you measure federal spending. Hennepin county residents and local governments were number one in total dollars received for fiscal year 1995 with $5.25 billion in federal payments. At the other end of the scale, Lake of the Woods county received less than $16 million.

When the importance of the federal dollars in the local economy is considered, the picture changes. Federal spending in Hennepin county was only 17 percent of personal income, slightly below the statewide average of 19 percent. In Lake of the Woods county, it was 23 percent, and in Red Lake county federal spending exceeded 19 percent of personal income.

Kittson county received $38,350,767 in total federal funding, 38 percent of personal income. Pennington county received $56,613,681 in total federal funding, 24.9 percent of personal income. Polk county received $159,210,234 in total federal funding, 28.8 percent of federal funding. Roseau county received $49,838,916 in total federal funding, 19.5 percent of personal income.

Yoho and her colleagues, Tom Stinson and Barry Ryan, note that Social Security and Medicare comprise a larger portion of the economy in counties with large segments of residents over the age of 65. Agricultural program payments are important where corn and wheat are major crops. Research funding is concentrated in Hennepin and Olmsted counties, locations of the University of Minnesota and the Mayo Clinic.

Federal employees in Minnesota received $16 million in wages and salaries in 1995. More than 60 percent of that was paid to postal workers. Hennepin and Ramsey counties had the largest concentrations of federal employees. Wages for federal employees as a percentage of a county's total personal income were greatest in [illegible] county, with six percent.

Upcoming changes in federal funding, program provisions, and rule making rules will affect states and their localities in various ways. Yoho says that it's not realistic to believe that state funds will be available to fully cover all the projected federal cutbacks. She cautions that careful planning at both the state and local levels will be necessary if severe disruptions and dislocations are to be avoided. "Public officials everywhere need to be alert to where cutbacks are occurring and begin to identify how they might be affected," urges Yoho, "and they should plan strategies to deal with their situations accordingly."

Yoho, Stinson and Ryan are faculty members in the university's College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences.

Alice Forsberg has just returned from a trip to Sweden. Alice and her daughter Donna Miller of Buffalo and her sister Doris Terril of Port Angeles, WA, visited for two weeks with relatives in the Sundsvall area in the Providence of Medelpad, Sweden. Their sister Barbara Peterson of Bagley was all packed to make the trip too, which turned out to be a disappointment for her when she got as far as Minneapolis she had to have gall bladder surgery at the Buffalo Hospital. Doris and Donna found the trip very exciting since they hadn't visited Sweden before. Alice came to their assistance often when they conversed with those that didn't speak English. Alice came to the U.S. with her parents in 1926 so could speak Swedish. Doris had tried to practice the language. Donna visited much with the younger set that spoke English. Their dad's brother Roland was still living but he was not very well. Their cousins Arne and Britt Salm provided them with a neatly kept 200 year old house to live in while in Sweden and had something interesting planned for each day, sightseeing, swimming, shopping and a 4 o'clock there would be a festive dinner. Everyday someone would stop by the house with fresh linen, flowers and goodies for them and also to visit. Several of the relatives have visited the U.S. There were many occupational places to visit. Soga had a dress shop in Slede, Eva and Kjell were teachers, Elsa attended evening classes. Kjell was a jail master and could fax messages to America for them so they could check on Frank Forsberg who was having bladder surgery that week. It was a good fast way to learn everything was well with Frank. They visited Arne and Kornia's large pig farm. They were shipping 1000 hogs out that day. He had automatic feeders and they learned milk whey was part of the hogs diet. During the last three days they enjoyed time in Stockholm, the subway rides there reminded Alice of Kenneth's days in the service when they lived in New York City. They had a chance to spend time around the beautiful Royal Castle and saw the changing of the Guards. Jimmy a cousin of Olices was one of the guards. They had a boat trip around the Island of Brumnsvikan. One third Stockholm is water and Stockholm means "Beauty on Water." It is a candidate to host the Summer Olympic Games in 2004, the final vote will be September 5, 1997. In the old town they were able to get Beda and Orrifors glass and fancy wool sweaters which Sweden is noted for. On the 29th they paid the cab driver 350 kroner and a 50 kroner tip to take them to the airport for their trip home. It was hard to leave the friendly people so far away. Those who have visited the States sent greetings to the people they had met here.

Irene Carlson has enjoyed having company with her nephew Dick Ware who is from Duluth and is the son of Irenes sister Doris has been here. Also Harley and Sylvia Vanessa from Cancun, Mexico. Her niece Crystal Ware and family from Duluth, Audrey Svien was here and brought Petra Eck and the Klemas over and treated them all to breakfast at the Gully Cafe.

Visitors at the Ellie Handy home the past week have been Alida Samson, Mrs. Ken Becker, Megan and Adam from Maquon, WI, Mrs. Dean Bruggeman of Thief River Falls, Marian Handy of Fosston. On Saturday, Shoko, Nena and Moma Shimizo and Lyn Turenne stopped on their way to Clearwater Lake. The Shimizo's are from Hamamotsiro Japan and are visiting at Turennes for two weeks.

Descendants of the Thora and Jacob Brovold family met on Sunday evening and Monday at the Inn at Maple Crossing near Mentor. An interesting time was spent visiting, reminiscing and recording interesting events and family history. Five of the original sisters were present Doris and Esther Rindahl, Luverne Fore, Audrey Siverson and Verna Gore from the Cities, also Beverly Bromseth of Plymouth, Barbara Berg of Elbow Lake, Linda Severson of Minneapolis, and Carol Torgerson of Thief River Falls.

Dennis and Darlene Haugen of New Rockford, ND visited with Delores Ringstad on Monday.

The Abiding Power Of Freedom....

What once appeared to be the irresistible march of communism has in the span of a quarter century turned into a retreat. The transformation is testimony to the irrepressible human desire for freedom, a craving that even generations under repressive government can not squelch.

President Richard Lesher of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recalls that when he assumed that role 22 years ago communism was spreading like a disease.

"Even in the United States, the world's citadel of political and economic freedom," he writes, "there was a wide-spread assumption that capitalism was on its last legs.

"Communism seemed to be coming into its own while our free enterprise system seemed to be fraying at the seams. Runaway inflation, unemployment and interest rates were eroding our standard of living. Twice in the 1970s our economy was practically brought to a standstill by international oil boycotts. Foreign-made products were flooding into the country and middle class jobs were flooding out.

"University professors, respected philosophers and influential political commentators spoke in awed tones about our inevitable transition to a statist economy," Lesher notes. "The only serious question, they said, was whether it would be based upon the more humane models of Western Europe or the repressive regimes of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe."

Dr. Lesher says that people in the United States were fully aware of our difficulties because our free press exposed them relentlessly. In the absence of a free press in communist nations, the weaknesses of that system were hidden from the people.

"Thus, it came as a shock to many when international communism suddenly disintegrated as if zapped by some cosmic ray gun," Lesher says. "Almost overnight the Soviet Union disappeared and its satellites in Eastern Europe discarded Marxism. Throughout the world the shift to free markets and open political systems is virtually complete, except in the North Korea and Cuba, and even there communism's days are numbered.

"In less than a quarter of a century, we have come full circle. All over the world nations are eagerly embracing free enterprise values and institutions in a veritable explosion of capitalism. Everywhere you go the impact is conspicuous—buildings are going up, new roads are under construction, new companies are marketing their products and services, jobs are abundant and people are living better with real hope for the future.

"Yes," he notes, "China maintains official adherence to communism but in reality it is shifting to an open economy, which in turn will foster political freedom as well. Political and economic freedom are two sides of the same coin —you cannot long have one without the other."

Having discussed the world changes, Dr. Lesher places his finger squarely on the reason for the demise of communism and explosion of capitalism.

"The essence of this most promising miracle," he writes, "is the abiding power of freedom. The U.S. may have been down at one point, but because our institutions are free to address our shortcomings, because our businesses are free to respond to challenges, because our people are free to learn new things, test new ideas and pursue new dreams, we have triumphed over adversity and are today stronger than ever.

"The world stands in awe of our example and is eager to follow the path we have chosen. It is the one true path of hope for mankind—the path of political and economic freedom."

We should all be acutely aware of our need for freedom and resist attempts by governments to take parts of it away from us, whether by law or regulation or in exchange for claims of help or security. Free people in a free society control their own destiny, and it will ever be so.

People Of Letters, Take Note

"I walk down my driveway in the late afternoon to the mailbox sitting on its wooden post with a little red flag on the side," writes Connie Guglielmo in the Hyperspace column of Interactive Week, an Internet newsletter. "I always hope I'll get the prize: a long letter, handwritten on crinkly paper. It puts me in a good mood to think someone actually took the time to write me that letter, fold it, put it in an envelope and get it to the post office somehow.

"But lately I've been wondering whether the art of letter-writing may be lost because of e-mail and the Internet. ... I appreciate e-mail. There's no question that it's more convenient than snail mail—no stamps, no jaunt to the driveway or post office. It doesn't matter if you want to send a quick note or a book—the cost's the same.

"... But being about as wired as you can get, I blanched when my six-year-old daughter's playmate asked if she could send Laura an e-mail message.

"My daughter is just learning to read and write, and she has spent the summer composing letters to her friends. She has her own paper and a box of envelopes. She painstakingly folds her letter so it sort of fits in the envelope and then carefully writes out the address. She takes her time choosing from my assortment of stamps. It's exciting for her to walk to the mailbox. It's even more exciting to receive something—a picture she can put up on her bulletin board or a stamp she can cut out and reuse in an art project.

"Somehow, a blinking cursor forwarded by an e-mail server and a printout of an e-mail message just aren't the same.

"I worry that her generation might give up on handwritten letters and correspond completely by e-mail. She won't have a shoe box filled with old letters and cards wrapped in ribbons...."

Guglielmo strikes another chord in the nature of computers. While they can store information for years that may be retrieved in seconds, they can also be messengers of the moment and their memories forever erased. Letter-writing can be preserved if people are willing to practice it. 'Snail mail' has its advantages after all.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Now is the time!

Now is the time for the members of the Thief River Falls City Council to repeal the open burning law. (This is the law that allows one's neighbors to burn those hill-like piles of green leaves in an open fire in Thief River Falls during the month of October.)

This has been a great year for plant growth. Look at all the leaves on the trees! Now, look ahead to October! You may have a neighbor who likes fire and, for no other reason, will burn his leaves in his back yard, producing that thick, heavy smoke that drifts over your house and yard. Something to look forward to, right? I think not.

A spokesman for the DNR suggested that these people who practice open burning should be and could be charged with creating a public nuisance.

Since people are fascinated by fire and show no concern about the air you and I breathe. Remember, your freedom to create smoke ends where my nose begins.

Why the members of the TRF City Council permit this is beyond me. The city already has a very good and efficient vacuum system for picking up leaves. All one needs to do is pile the leaves on the berm and these leaves will be picked up free. Yes, free of charge. No smoke, no unhappy neighbors, right? Right!

If the members of the city council act now this ordinance can be repealed this fall. No other city our size allows any kind of open burning within the city limits. Burning is already controlled outside the city limits. Why is it so important to allow the citizens of Thief River Falls to produce smoke anyhow? What good is this smoke? You tell me.

We are all in this world together and we must get along as best we can. It is not fair to allow a few people to ruin the air for the rest of us, especially since there is a smokeless way to get rid of leaves already in place. I'm for clean air. I hope you are too. If we wait until October it will be too late.

Sincerely,
Charles Samuelson

Wedding

A five o'clock wedding was held at Lund Church on Saturday when Tammy Miller of Fosston became the wife of Lonny Carlson. The Church was decorated with flowers as a background for a pretty wedding. The men in the wedding party were in black suits with brocaded vests, white shirts and black bow ties. The women wore navy satin formals. The bride's gown of white satin trimmed on bands and lace had a long ruffled train and crowned veil. Tom Kipp made the piano come alive with his own message of love and was the pianist for Kim Wietzema as she sang "The Rose". The three Weld brothers Kenneth, Vernon and Lloyd also played and sang. The little flower girl dressed like the bride and the little ring bearer in his black suit looked like dolls all dressed up. The ceremony was performed without any noticeable or embarrassing mistakes. Often someone will faint at a wedding or trip on the white carpet runner or get the giggles during the serious part of the ceremony. The crowd then moved to the Gully Community Center for punch, supper and coffee.

The Center had been decorated in bells, balloons and streamers and looked festive. The long tables had been decorated in flowers and miniature swans each with a lot of ruffled net and beads. The serving table looked like one set for royalty, the croissants sandwiches were served from a tall layer pyramid looking like a castle, the fruit kabobs and vegetable salad added colors and the wedding cake in the form of a swan with a castle cake top was really too pretty to eat. The wedding dance was enjoyed by a large crowd and the bride and groom drove off in a polished up 1930 Chevy.

Dave and Dianne Karlsson were happy to have their whole family home last week. They even found time to have a family picture taken. Their son Tim was even able to be home for a few days he is serving our country and is in the Air Force stationed at Mountain Home, ID. On Saturday night their son, Tony and daughter, Tina Otto, were also home besides Tim.

Colorado Trip

Burnel and Ellie Byer returned on Thursday from a 9 day trip to Colorado. We left on the 16th and drove to Cully's Resort on Lake Okoboji at Spirit Lake Iowa the first day. The next day we drove to Washington, Kansas and were overnight guests of old friends John and Edith Dilman. The next day we arrived at daughter Beverly and Benn Tillemann's home in Aurora, CO. They entertained us royally and showed us some of the sights of the area, a drive up into the mountains west of Denver to Georgetown where we picnicked on Sunday, a visit to Colorado Springs on Monday to see the Cliff Dwellings, Garden of the Gods and the U.S. Naval Academy. The scenery in that area is breathtaking. There was much more to see such as Pike's Peak and the Royal Gorge but we couldn't make it all. On Tuesday we drove to Firestone south west of Denver for the wedding of my granddaughter Patrice Vigstol and Tim O'Reilly both of St. Francis. It was an outdoor wedding ceremony at the Mountain home of Tim's parents far up in the mountains of 10,000 feet. Patty is the daughter of Richard and Valerie Vigstol of Oak Grove near Anoka. The hot weather that you've been experiencing stayed with us all the way except for up on the mountain. Summertime travel is so beautiful! Our route took us down thru our lovely lake country and the ripening grain fields of Southern Minnesota and Iowa and Eastern Nebraska to highway 36 where we went across the state of Kansas. Mark Josephson applies a torch to a cut barrel filled with water and diesel fuel. The scene was that of an emergency drill at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls on Wednesday evening. The school bus was used as an airplane and contained several "victims". The fire and smoke provided a little more realism to the activity.

Emergency drill tests airport preparedness

A full scale emergency drill involving emergency personnel from throughout the region was held at the regional airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday, August 13. The scenario involved the crash of an aircraft with 20 passengers on board and a crew of three.

According to the scenario developed by the exercise design team, just a few minutes after passing the [illegible] a loud explosion is heard in the aircraft. A call from the flight attendant in the rear of the aircraft indicates that the left engine has separated from the aircraft and part of the trailing edge of the wing is damaged. Controllability of the aircraft is difficult. An emergency is declared as an approach is started into the Thief River Falls airport.

After descending and maneuvering, the pilot is able to line up with runway 31 left. It is extremely difficult to maintain heading and altitude. Just as the aircraft passes over "Lake Plummer" controllability of the aircraft becomes more difficult and the aircraft descends to tree top level and crashes just short of the runway on airport property. The wing separates from the aircraft as the fuselage slides onto runway 31 left.

The fuselage which is smoking but not on fire, comes to rest right side up about 3000 feet down the runway. The fuselage is broken in two just aft of the wing roots. There is a heavy smell of JP-4 aircraft fuel in the air. Some people are exiting from the main pieces of the aircraft.

The wind is from 190 degrees at five miles per hour, the skies are clear and the temperature is 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

As it turns out, the plane was really a bus parked on the airport apron, members of Troop 190 were victims, [illegible] as a wing, and diesel fuel mixed with water in split metal drums provided heat and smoke.

All of these facts were shared with responding crews, which gathered at the airport prior to the start of the drill. Past drills have been kept secret and required emergency responders to travel to the scene with lights and sirens on as if it was a real emergency. Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe, and co-team leader, explained that this year they didn't have the emergency responders travel to the scene with emergency lights and sirens because their equipment is expensive and their response could cause unnecessary damage to that equipment. The purpose of the drill was to bring different emergency response teams together and to evaluate their performance as a training tool. He said they would not dwell on the negative only, but discuss what was good and bad about their response. Overall Moe rated their performance as very good.

Response teams acted quickly and professionally upon their arrival at the scene. They secured the area, put out flames, removed victims and set up a temporary triage area before transporting victims from the scene, while a team of evaluators watched every move.

There were a few lighter moments. Andrea Liston of KKAQ/KKDQ who along with other members of Two Rivers Area Theatre, charged onto the scene as if they were frightened and desperate parents of children on the plane. They had to be removed from the area several times and eventually, in a rare humorous instance, were handcuffed to the fence. In reflecting upon the event, Liston said she learned that, "Even if you think you need to be there, you're really in the way."

Red Lake County Sheriff Al Marken, who was one of the evaluators, said he thought the exercise went well. Activities like these are valuable learning experiences, he said. It's important when these things happen, he said, that participants, which often come from different jurisdictions, work together. "You know that when something like this really happens we'll all be there," said Marken.

Following the exercise, participants met in the fire hall at the airport to review what went well and what needs work. Overall, there were many positive comments.

Details of agreement with SwisPennCo. released

Penalties and requirements in the legally binding document between SwisPennCo and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) were released recently. The agreement includes a compliance schedule, a civil penalty of $3,960 for past alleged violations, and stipulated penalties of $2,500 for compliance violations and $500 for litter control violations of the agreement. The agreement also states that the MPCA will not issue a new permit for the facility, which is due in November, until all of the compliance issues addressed in the agreement are resolved.

The agreement also states a summary of facts upon which the agreement is based. According to the statement of facts, on August 14, 1996, SwisPennCo experienced a fire in its densified refuse derived fuel storage building, which destroyed the building and damaged the fuel pellets in the building. On September 3, SwisPennCo requested permission to compost the damaged fuel pellets on the site as part of the clean up. On September 26, 1996 the MPCA granted permission to compost the fuel pellets in an area west of the pellet processing building. During an inspection on October 29, 1996, MPCA staff observed employees placing newly produced pellets into the damaged fuel composting area. MPCA warned them not to continue this practice.

In December of 1996, SwisPennCo began installation of a pellet fluff dryer to alleviate a moisture problem with the pellets. While the dryer was being installed, they requested permission to store the fluff outside the processing building under a tarp for a two week period. MPCA verbally approved this temporary measure. In late January, 1997, the MPCA received complaints that litter was blowing over homes in the vicinity of the facility from the fluff pile. On February 12, during an MPCA inspection staff observed that from 2,500 to 3000 tons of fluff were located on the north side of the processing building. The pile was not tarped. Staff also observed that the County board delays action on agreement

Pennington County Board of Commissioners are apparently in general agreement with the penalties and stipulations set forth in an agreement between SwisPennCo, the county's solid waste handler, and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). Despite their approval, however, the board decided not to sign off on the agreement until they could discuss one stipulation in the agreement with MPCA.

The stipulation which is causing the hold up involves the handling of 4,000 cubic yards of pellets burned in fire or damaged later at SwisPennCo in August of 1996. The agreement allows SwisPennCo to dispose of the pellets by landspreading them on property owned by SwisCorp immediately adjacent and to the west of the pellet processing facility. Under the landspreading proposal, the burned pellets, which have been composted, would be plowed into the soil and grass or vegetative cover planted over it.

During a Thief River Falls City Council meeting, Bob Kruse of SwisCorp, and Don Stewart, community development director, explained that they were concerned that it would affect the marketability of the property.

Under the terms of the stipulation agreement between SwisPennCo and MPCA, in the event the property was sold, SwisPennCo would be required, of course, to explain that the pellets had been composted and plowed into the land.

During the city council meeting, Stewart said there are very few pieces of property adjacent to the railroad tracks, like this property. Because of increased concerns or fear regarding regulations, commercial or industrial interest in the property would shy away from the property.

Stewart said the MPCA seems at least amenable to changing where the compost could be plowed under.

City Council looks at new signs to entrance of city

Tuesday night, Thief River Falls City Council heard plans for new entrance signs to the city, a proposal to increase the electric deposit, and concerns about a vegetative buffer around Challenger Manufactured Home Park which doesn't seem to be going anywhere.

Plans for the Challenger Manufactured Home Park which were approved by the city council, included a vegetative buffer. Deadlines for those buffers have passed and neighbors and city officials are demanding that something be done.

Tuesday night the council discussed the matter, and several council representatives stated that they had received some communications either from developers, Les Snetting and Regan Rohl, or residents in the area about the matter.

Challenger Manufactured Home Park is located on the south side of Pennington Avenue near the entrances to Challenger Elementary school. Plans for its development required the developers to place a vegetative buffer around the development. To assist the developers, plans were drawn up by the city's forester. Those plans called for a variety of trees, some of rather significant size, to be place around the development.

Community Development Director Don Stewart said he had received numerous communications regarding the matter. After some deadlines passed without action being taken, he consulted the city's attorney and sent a letter to the developers, which stated in part that without action being taken on the buffer the city would no longer allow connections to be made to city utilities.

After discussing the matter, the council approved a resolution setting September 30 as the deadline for establishing the proposed vegetative buffer with four to six foot high spruce or evergreen trees along Pennington Avenue, and for the developers to submit a formal plan, with mutually agreed upon deadlines, for the balance of the perimeter planting.

Several other problems regarding the development were also identified by council members. Those issues were turned over to committees.

The city utilities committee has proposed an increase in utility deposits the city requires that the city obtain a deposit as a condition for utility service to all rental property, manufactured homes, and owner occupied property. The deposits would be $100 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes, and $200 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes with electric heat. The $100 and $200 deposits would apply only to new customers. All customers with current deposits would stay as they are now as long as prompt payment continues even if they relocated within the city.

There shall be no deposit required for service to owner occupied property unless delinquency occurs in payment of accounts. In addition, the requirement to take a deposit may be waived if the customer provides a satisfactory credit reference from the customers former utility, or, the owner of the property agrees to be personally responsible for the utility bills of his tenants should they become delinquent.

The proposal also states that after a customer has been delinquent two times on any premises being served, a deposit will be required for up to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises being served. For businesses that rent, the deposit will be equal to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises served. (The maximum deposit will be $5,000.)

Interest of six percent per year would be paid on deposits, as required by Minnesota State Statute.

The city is proposing to use funds from an auction and Centennial fund to purchase two city entrance signs. Each sign would be made of granite, eight feet long and four feet high. It would have a base that would be six-feet long and six-inches high, and a foundation made of brick and concrete. Tuesday night, the council approved the purchase of the signs but asked the Parks and Recreation

"Love Letters" presented at Thief River Golf Club

That's Entertainment, the theater company that presented the Thief River Falls productions of "Nunsense" and "Nunsense II: The Second Coming", and "Steel Magnolias", will present "Love Letters" August 21 and 23 at the Thief River Falls Golf Club.

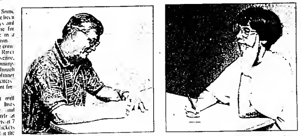
"Love Letters", by A.R. Gurney, is a beautiful and powerful discernment of human nature. This two person show lets the audience peer in through a window created by letters written by its characters. Through these personal letters, which span an entire lifetime, the audience comes to know Andrew Makepeace III and Melissa Gardner as well as if they were our own friends. Unlike most theatre productions, "Love Letters" harnesses the emotional impact of the English language instead of the grandeur of the setting within the play. Wrought with wit and honesty, this show is an exciting adventure sure to keep the audience talking.

Over the past few decades many famous people have starred in this award winning play. Some of these stars include Jason Robards, Colleen Dewhurst, Robert Wagner, Stockard Channing, Jane Curtin, Julie Harris, John Heard, William Hurt, Timothy Hutton, Swoosie Kurtz, Christine Lahti, Marsha Mason, Elizabeth Montgomery, Lynn Redgrave, George Segal, Richard Thomas, Joan Van Ark and Christopher Reeve.

Local performers presenting "Love Letters" are Jerry Wigness and Jan Peterson. Jerry has performed in shows prior to Love Letters, most recently the Centennial show "Beautiful City" and before that the variety show "Northern Reflections of Christmas". Jan has also been involved in numerous productions in the community. Her last role was as Sarah in Thief River Falls' musical production of "Quilters". Some of her other favorite roles have been in "South Pacific", and "Guys and Dolls". This is the first time for Jerry and Jan to participate in a That's Entertainment production.

That's Entertainment is the company that brought the Thief River Falls productions of Nunsense, Nunsense II: The Second Coming and "Steel Magnolias". Although all of these shows were a dinner theatre production, "Love Letters" will be presented in a different format.

The price of the ticket will include the production, hors d'oeuvres before the show and dessert and coffee and punch at intermission. Social hour starts at 7 p.m., the show at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 and can be purchased at the door, however reservations are recommended. To reserve your ticket call 681-6601.



Jerry Wigness and Jan Peterson will be the cast members in That's Entertainment's production of "Love Letters". "Love Letters", by A.R. Gurnay is a document of human nature. It will be presented at the Thief River Falls Golf Club August 21 and 23

Burnel and Ellie Dyer returned on Thursday from a 9 day trip to Colorado. We left on the 16th and drove to Cully's Resort on Lake Okoboji at Spirit Lake Iowa the first day. The next day we drove to Washington, Kansas and were overnight guests of old friends John and Edith Dilman. The next day we arrived at daughter Beverly and Dean Tilleman's home in Aurora, CO. They entertained us royally and showed us some of the sights of the area: a drive up into the mountains west of Denver to Georgetown where we picnicked on Sunday, a visit to Colorado Springs on Monday to see the Cliff Dwellings, Garden of the Gods and the U.S. Naval Academy. The scenery in that area is breathtaking. There was much more to see such as Pike's Peak and the Royal Gorge but we couldn't make it all. On Tuesday, we drove to Fairplay, southwest of Denver, for the wedding of my granddaughter Patrice Vigstol and Tim O'Reilly, both of St. Francis. It was an outdoor wedding ceremony at the Mountain home of Tim's parents far up in the mountains at 10,000 feet. Patty is the daughter of Richard and Valerie Vigstol of Oak Grove near Anoka. Mark Josephson applies a torch to a cut barrel filled with water and diesel fuel. The scene was that of an emergency drill at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls on Wednesday evening. The school bus was used as an airplane and contained several "victims". The fire and smoke provided a little more realism to the activity.

Emergency drill tests airport preparedness

This year's emergency drill involving emergency personnel from throughout the region was held at the regional airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday, August 13. The scenario involved the crash of an aircraft with 20 passengers on board and a crew of three.

According to the scenario developed by the exercise design team, just two minutes after passing the [illegible] a loud explosion is heard on the aircraft. A call from the flight attendant in the rear of the aircraft indicates that the left engine has separated from the aircraft and part of the trailing edge of the wing is damaged. Controllability of the aircraft is difficult. An emergency is declared as an approach is started into the Thief River Falls airport.

After descending and maneuvering, the pilot is able to line up with runway 31 left. It is extremely difficult to maintain heading and altitude. Just as the aircraft passes over "Lake Plummer" controllability of the aircraft becomes more difficult and the aircraft descends to tree top level and crashes just short of the runway on airport property. The wing separates from the aircraft as the fuselage slides onto runway 31 left.

The fuselage which is smoking, but not on fire, comes to rest right side up about 3000 feet down the runway. The fuselage is broken in two just aft of the wing roots. There is a heavy smell of JP-4 aircraft fuel in the air. Some people are yelling from the main pieces of the aircraft.

The wind is from 180 degrees at five miles per hour, the skies are clear and the temperature is 59 degrees Fahrenheit.

As it turns out, the plane was really a bus parked on the airport apron; members of Troop 190 were victims, [illegible] was utilized as a [illegible], and diesel fuel mixed with water in split metal drums provided heat and smoke.

All of these facts were shared with responding services, which gathered at the airport prior to the start of the drill. Past drills have been kept secret and required emergency responders to travel to the scene with lights and sirens on as if it was a real emergency. Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe, and co-team leader, explained that this year they didn't have the emergency responders travel to the scene with emergency lights and sirens because their equipment is expensive and their response could cause unnecessary damage to that equipment. The purpose of the drill was to bring different emergency response teams together and to evaluate their performance as a training tool. He said they would not dwell on the negative only, but discuss what was good and bad about their response. Overall Moe rated their performance as very good.

Response teams acted quickly and professionally upon their arrival at the scene. They assessed the site, put out flames, removed victims and set up a temporary triage area before transporting victims from the scene while a team of evaluators watched every move. There were a few lighter moments. Andrea Liston of KKAQ/KKDQ who along with other members of Two Rivers Area Theatre, charged onto the scene as if they were frightened and desperate parents of children on the plane. They had to be removed from the area several times and eventually, in a very humorous instance, were hand cuffed to the fence. In reflection upon the event, Liston said she learned that, "Even if you think you need to be there, you're really in the way."

Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken, who was one of the evaluators, said he thought the exercise went well. Activities like these are valuable learning experiences, he said. It's important when these things happen, he said, that police units, which often come from different jurisdictions, work together. "You know that when something like this really happens, we'll all be there," said Morken.

Following the exercise, participants met in the fire hall at the airport to review what went well and what needs work. Overall, there were many positive comments.

Details of agreement with SwisPennCo. released

Penalties and requirements in the legally binding document between SwisPennCo and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) were released recently. The agreement includes a compliance schedule, a civil penalty of $3,900 for past alleged violations and stipulated penalties of $2,500 for compliance violations and $500 for litter control violations of the agreement. The agreement also states that the MPCA will not issue a new permit for the facility, which is due in November, until all of the compliance issues addressed in the agreement are resolved.

The agreement also states a summary of facts upon which the agreement is based. According to the statement of facts, on August 14, 1996, SwisPennCo experienced a fire in its densified refuse derived fuel storage building which destroyed the building and damaged the fuel pellets in the building. On September 3, SwisPennCo requested permission to compost the damaged fuel pellets on the site as part of the clean up. On September 26, 1996, the MPCA granted permission to compost the fuel pellets in an area west of the pellet processing building. During an inspection on October 29, 1996, MPCA staff observed employees placing newly produced pellets into the damaged fuel composting area. MPCA warned them not to continue the practice.

In December of 1996, SwisPennCo began installation of a pellet fluff dryer to alleviate a moisture problem with the pellets. While the dryer was being installed, they requested permission to store the fluff outside the processing building under a tarp for a two week period. MPCA verbally approved this temporary measure. In late January, 1997, the MPCA received complaints that litter was blowing over homes in the vicinity of the facility from the fluff pile. On February 12, during an MPCA inspection staff observed that from 2,500 to 3000 tons of fluff were located on the north side of the processing building. The pile was not tarped. Staff also observed that the

Pennington County Board of Commissioners are apparently in general agreement with the penalties and stipulations set forth in an agreement between SwisPennCo, the county's solid waste handler, and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). Despite their approval, however, the board decided not to sign off on the agreement until they could discuss one stipulation in the agreement with MPCA.

The stipulation which is causing the hold up involves the handling of 4,000 cubic yards of pellets burned in fire or damaged later at SwisPennCo in August of 1996. The agreement allows SwisPennCo to dispose of the pellets by landspreading them on property owned by SwisCorp immediately adjacent and in the event of the pellet processing facility. Under the landspreading proposal, the burned pellets which have been composted, would be plowed into the soil and grass or vegetative cover planted over it.

During a Thief River Falls City Council meeting, Bob Krure of SwisCorp, and Don Stewart, community development director, explained that they were concerned that it would affect the marketability of the property.

Under the terms of the stipulation agreement between SwisPennCo and MPCA, in the event the property was sold, SwisPennCo would be required, of course, to explain that the pellets had been composted and plowed into the land.

During the city council meeting, Stewart said there are very few pieces of property adjacent to the railroad tracks, like this property. Because of increased concerns or fear regarding regulations, commercial or industrial interest in the property would shy away from the property.

Stewart said the MPCA seems at least amenable to changing where the compost could be plowed under. Other sites were suggested at the

City Council looks at new signs to entrance of city

Tuesday night, Thief River Falls City Council heard plans for new entrance signs to the city, a proposal to increase the electric deposit, and concerns about a vegetative buffer around Challenger Manufactured Home Park, which doesn't seem to be going anywhere.

Plans for the Challenger Manufactured Home Park, which were approved by the city council, included a vegetative buffer. Deadlines for those buffers have passed and neighbors and city officials are demanding that something be done.

Tuesday night the council discussed the matter, and several council representatives stated that they had received some communications either from developers, Les Snetting and Regan Rohl, or residents in the area about the matter.

Challenger Manufactured Home Park is located on the south side of Pennington Avenue near the entrances to Challenger Elementary school. Plans for its development required the developers to place a vegetative buffer around the development. To assist the developers, plans were drawn up by the city's forester. Those plans called for a variety of trees, some of rather significant size, to be placed around the development.

Community Development Director Don Stewart said he had received numerous communications regarding the matter. After some deadlines passed without action being taken, he consulted the city's attorney and sent a letter to the developers which stated in part, that without action being taken on the buffer the city would no longer allow connections to be made to city utilities.

After discussing the matter, the council approved a resolution setting September 30 as the deadline for establishing the proposed vegetative buffer with four to six foot high spruce or evergreen trees along Pennington Avenue, and for the developers to submit a formal plan, with mutually agreed upon deadlines, for the balance of the perimeter planting.

Several other problems regarding the development were also identified by council members. Those issues were turned over to committees.

The city utilities committee has proposed an increase in utility deposits. The city requires that the city obtain a deposit as a condition for home service to all rental property, manufactured homes, and owner occupied property. The deposits would be $100 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes, and $200 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes with electric heat. The $100 and $200 deposits would apply only to new customers. All customers with current deposits would stay as they are now as long as prompt payment continues even if they relocated within the city.

There shall be no deposit required for service to owner occupied property unless delinquency occurs in payment of accounts. In addition, the requirement to take a deposit may be waived if the customer provides a satisfactory credit reference from the customer's former utility, or, the owner of the property agrees to be personally responsible for the utility bills of his tenants should they become delinquent.

The proposal also states that after a customer has been delinquent two times on any premises being served, a deposit will be required for up to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises being served. For businesses that rent, the deposit will be equal to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises served. (The maximum deposit will be $5,000.)

Interest of six percent per year would be paid on deposits, as required by Minnesota State Statute.

The city is proposing to use funds from an auction and Centennial fund to purchase two city entrance signs. Each sign would be made of granite, eight feet long and four feet high. It would have a base that would be six feet long and six inches high, and a foundation made of brick and concrete. Tuesday night, the council approved the purchase of the signs but asked the Parks and Recreation

That's Entertainment, the theater company that presented the Thief River Falls productions of "Nunsense" and "Nunsense II: The Second Coming" and "Steel Magnolias", will present "Love Letters" August 21 and 23 at the Thief River Falls Golf Club.

"Love Letters", by A.R. Gurney is a beautiful and powerful document of human nature. This two person show lets the audience peer in through a window created by letters written by its characters. Through these personal letters, which span an entire lifetime the audience comes to know Andrew Makepeace III and Melissa Gardner as well as if they were our own friends. Unlike most theatre productions, "Love Letters" harnesses the emotional impact of the English language instead of the visualization of the action within the play. Wrought with wit and honesty, this show is an exciting adventure sure to keep the audience talking.

Over the past few decades many famous people have starred in this award-winning play. Some of these stars include: Jason Robards, Colleen Dewhurst, Robert Wagner, Stockard Channing, Jane Curtin, Julie Harris, John Heard, William Hurt, Timothy Hutton, Swoosie Kurtz, Christine Lahti, Marsha Mason, Elizabeth Montgomery, Lynn Redgrave, George Segal, Richard Thomas, Joan Van Ark and Christopher Reeve.

Local performers presenting "Love Letters" are Jerry Wigness and Jan Peterson. Jerry has performed in shows prior to Love Letters, most recently the Centennial show "Beautiful City" and before that the variety show "Northern Reflections of Christmas". Jan has also been involved in numerous productions in the community. Her last role was as Sarah in Thief River Falls' musical production of "Quilters". Some of her other favorite roles have been in "South Pacific", and "Guys and Dolls". This is the first time for Jerry and Jan to participate in a That's Entertainment production.

That's Entertainment is the company that brought the Thief River Falls production of Nunsense, Nunsense II: The Second Coming and "Steel Magnolias". Although all of these shows were a dinner theatre production, "Love Letters" will be presented in a different format.

The price of the ticket will include the production, hors d'oeuvres before the show and dessert and coffee and punch at intermission. Social hour starts at 7 p.m., the show at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 and can be purchased at the door, however reservations are recommended. To reserve your ticket call 681-6603.

Jerry Wigness and Jan Peterson will be the cast members in That's Entertainment's production of "Love Letters". "Love Letters", by A.R. Gurney is a document of human nature. It will be presented at the Thief River Falls Golf Club August 21 and 23.

Colorado Trip

Burnel and Effie Byer returned on Thursday from a 9 day trip to Colorado. We left on the 16th and drove to Cutty's Resort on Lake Okoboji at Spirit Lake Iowa the first day. The next day we drove to Washington, Kansas and were overnight guests of old friends John and Edith Ditmar. The next day we arrived at daughter Beverly and Bonn Titleman's home in Aurora, CO. They entertained us royally and showed us some of the sights of the area, a drive up into the mountains west of Denver to Georgetown where we picnicked on Sunday, a visit to Colorado Springs on Monday to see the Cliff Dwellings, Garden of the Gods and the U.S. Naval Academy. The scenery in that area is breathtaking. There was much more to see such as Pike's Peak and the Royal Gorge but we couldn't make it all. On Tuesday we drove to Fairplay, southwest of Denver, for the wedding of my granddaughter Patrice Vigstol and Tim O'Reilly, both of St. Francis. It was an outdoor wedding ceremony at the Mountain home of Tim's parents, far up in the mountains of 10,000 feet. Patty is the daughter of Richard and Valerie Vigstol of Oak Grove near Anoka. Her sister Jodi Hauschild of Mankato was her matron of honor. The couple will make their home at St. Francis. The hot weather that you've been experiencing stayed with us all the way except for up on the mountain. Summer time travel is so beautiful! Our route took us down thru our lovely lake country and the ripening grain fields of Southern Minnesota and Iowa and Eastern Nebraska to highway 36 where we went across the state of Kansas. There the fields were mostly harvested but in Colorado we saw combines busy in the fields. We left on Wednesday morning after the wedding and went north into Wyoming stopping in Wheatland in the hopes of finding Carol Clemetson, formerly of Plummer. Many of you remember her, I'm sure, she wasn't at home, tho, so we went on north and east thru the Black Hills, north to Interstate 94 and on home. A good trip!

A number of people from Plummer attended the Red Lake County Fair's Senior Citizen program in Oklee on Friday. Our club was in charge of the registration. A fine program was given which included our own Florence Tvedt on her accordion and other musical numbers. Congratulations to Wally and Marie Seeger who were chosen the Outstanding Seniors for 1997!

[illegible] Two Sections [illegible] Main Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 75 Cents Wednesday, August 20, 1997

Mark Josephson applies a torch to a cut barrel filled with water and diesel fuel. The scene was that of an emergency drill at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls on Wednesday evening. The school bus was used as an airplane and contained several "victims". The fire and smoke provided a little more realism to the activity.

Emergency drill tests airport preparedness

Full-scale emergency drill involving emergency personnel from throughout the region was held at the regional airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday, August 13. The scenario involved the crash of an aircraft with 20 passengers on board and a crew of three.

According to the scenario developed by the exercise design team, just a few minutes after passing the Bemidji area a loud explosion is heard in the aircraft. A call from the flight attendant in the rear of the aircraft indicates that the left engine has separated from the aircraft and part of the trailing edge of the wing is damaged. Controllability of the aircraft is difficult. An emergency is declared as an approach is started into the Thief River Falls airport.

After descending and maneuvering, the pilot is able to line up with runway 31 left. It is extremely difficult to maintain heading and altitude. Just as the aircraft passes over "Lake Plummer" controllability of the aircraft becomes more difficult and the aircraft descends to tree top level and crashes just short of the runway on airport property. The wings separate from the aircraft as the fuselage slides onto runway 31 left.

The fuselage which is smoking, but not on fire, comes to rest right side up about 3000 feet down the runway. The fuselage is broken in two just aft of the wing roots. There is a heavy smell of JP-4 aircraft fuel in the air. Some people are exiting from the main pieces of the aircraft.

The wind is from 090 degrees at five miles per hour, the skies are clear and the temperature is 59 degrees Fahrenheit.

As it turns out, the plane was really a bus parked on the airport apron, members of Troop 199 were victims, a baggage cart sufficed as a wing, and diesel fuel mixed with water in split metal drums provided heat and smoke.

All of these facts were shared with responding crews, which gathered at the airport prior to the start of the drill. Past drills have been kept secret and required emergency responders to travel to the scene with lights and sirens on as if it was a real emergency. Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe, and co-team leader, explained that this year they didn't have the emergency responders travel to the scene with emergency lights and sirens because their equipment is expensive and their response could cause unnecessary damage to that equipment. The purpose of the drill was to bring different emergency response teams together and to evaluate their performance as a training tool. He said they would not dwell on the negative only, but discuss what was good and bad about their response. Overall, Moe noted their performance as very good.

Response teams acted quickly and professionally upon their arrival at the scene. They secured the site, put out flames, removed victims and set up a temporary triage area before transporting victims from the scene while a team of evaluators watched every move.

There were a few lighter moments. Andrea Liston of KKAQ/KKDQ who along with other members of Two Rivers Area Theatre, charged onto the scene as if they were frightened and desperate parents of children on the plane. They had to be removed from the area several times and eventually, in a very humorous instance, were handcuffed to the fence. In reflecting upon the event, Liston said she learned that, "Even if you think you need to be there, you're really in the way."

Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken, who was one of the evaluators, said he thought the exercise went well. Activities like these are valuable learning experiences, he said. It's important when these things happen, he said, that participants, which often come from different jurisdictions, work together. "You know that when something like this really happens, we'll all be there," said Morken.

Following the exercise, participants met in the fire hall at the airport to review what went well and what needs work. Overall, there were many positive comments.

Details of agreement with SwisPennCo. released

Penalties and requirements in the legally binding document between SwisPennCo and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) were released recently. The agreement includes a compliance schedule, a civil penalty of $3,960 for past alleged violations, and stipulated penalties of $2,500 for compliance violations and $500 for litter control violations of the agreement. The agreement also states, that the MPCA will not issue a new permit for the facility, which is due in November, until all of the compliance issues addressed in the agreement are resolved.

The agreement also states a summary of facts upon which the agreement is based. According to the statement of facts, on August 14, 1996, SwisPennCo experienced a fire in its densified refuse derived fuel storage building which destroyed the building and damaged the fuel pellets in the building. On September 3, SwisPennCo requested permission to compost the damaged fuel pellets on the site as part of the clean up. On September 26, 1996, the MPCA granted permission to compost the fuel pellets in an area west of the pellet processing building. During an inspection on October 29, 1996, MPCA staff observed employees placing newly produced pellets into the damaged fuel composting area. MPCA warned them not to continue this practice.

In December of 1996, SwisPennCo began installation of a pellet fluff dryer to alleviate a moisture problem with the pellets. While the dryer was being installed, they requested permission to store the fluff outside the processing building under a tarp for a two week period. MPCA verbally approved this temporary measure. In late January, 1997, the MPCA received complaints that litter was blowing over homes in the vicinity of the facility from the fluff pile. On February 12, during an MPCA inspection staff observed that from 2,500 to 3000 tons of fluff were located on the north side of the processing building. The pile was not tarped. Staff also observed that the

Pennington County Board of Commissioners are apparently in general agreement with the penalties and stipulations set forth in an agreement between SwisPennCo, the county's solid waste handler, and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). Despite their approval, however, the board decided not to sign off on the agreement until they could discuss one stipulation in the agreement with MPCA.

The stipulation which is causing the hold up involves the handling of 4,000 cubic yards of pellets burned in fire or damaged later at SwisPennCo in August of 1996. The agreement allows SwisPennCo to dispose of the pellets by landspreading them on property owned by SwisCorp immediately adjacent and to the west of the pellet processing facility. Under the landspreading proposal, the burned pellets, which have been composted, would be plowed into the soil and grass or vegetative cover planted over it.

During a Thief River Falls City Council meeting, Bob Kruse of SwisCorp, and Don Stewart, community development director, explained that they were concerned that it would affect the marketability of the property.

Under the terms of the stipulation agreement between SwisPennCo and MPCA, in the event the property was sold, SwisPennCo would be required, of course, to explain that the pellets had been composted and plowed into the land.

During the city council meeting, Stewart said there are very few pieces of property adjacent to the railroad tracks, like this property. Because of increased concerns or fear regarding regulations, commercial or industrial interest in the property would shy away from the property.

Stewart said the MPCA seems at least amenable to changing where the compost could be plowed under. Other sites were suggested at the

City Council looks at new signs to entrance of city

Tuesday night, Thief River Falls City Council heard plans for new entrance signs to the city, a proposal to increase the electric deposit, and concerns about a vegetative buffer around Challenger Manufactured Home Park, which doesn't seem to be going anywhere.

Plans for the Challenger Manufactured Home Park, which were approved by the city council, included a vegetative buffer. Deadlines for those buffers have passed and neighbors and city officials are demanding that something be done.

Tuesday night the council discussed the matter, and several council representatives stated that they had received some communications either from developers, Les Sneiting and Regan Rohl, or residents in the area about the matter.

Challenger Manufactured Home Park is located on the south side of Pennington Avenue near the entrances to Challenger Elementary school. Plans for its development required the developers to place a vegetative buffer around the development. To assist the developers, plans were drawn up by the city's forester. Those plans called for a variety of trees, some of rather significant size, to be place around the development.

Community Development Director Don Stewart said he had received numerous communications regarding the matter. After some deadlines passed without action being taken, he consulted the city's attorney and sent a letter to the developers, which stated in part, that without action being taken on the buffer the city would no longer allow connections to be made to city utilities.

After discussing the matter, the council approved a resolution setting September 30 as the deadline for establishing the proposed vegetative buffer with four to six foot high spruce or evergreen trees along Pennington Avenue, and for the developers to submit a formal plan, with mutually agreed upon deadlines, for the balance of the perimeter planting.

Several other problems regarding the development were also identified by council members. Those issues were turned over to committees.

The city utilities committee has proposed an increase in utility deposits the city requires that the city obtain a deposit as a condition for future service to all rental property, manufactured homes, and owner occupied property. The deposits would be $100 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes; and $200 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes with electric heat. The $100 and $200 deposits would apply only to new customers. All customers with current deposits would stay as they are now as long as prompt payment continues even if they relocated within the city.

There shall be no deposit required for service to owner-occupied property unless delinquency occurs in payment of accounts. In addition, the requirement to take a deposit may be waived if the customer provides a satisfactory credit reference from the customers former utility, or, the owner of the property agrees to be personally responsible for the utility bills of his tenants should they become delinquent.

The proposal also states that after a customer has been delinquent two times on any premises being served, a deposit will be required for up to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises being served. For businesses that rent, the deposit will be equal to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises served. (The maximum deposit will be $5,000.)

Interest of six percent per year would be paid on deposits, as required by Minnesota State Statute.

The city is proposing to use funds from an auction and Centennial fund to purchase two city entrance signs. Each sign would be made of granite, eight feet long and four feet high. It would have a base that would be six-feet long and six-inches high, and a foundation made of brick and concrete. Tuesday night, the council approved the purchase of the signs, but asked the Parks and Recreation

That's Entertainment, the theater company that presented the Thief River Falls productions of "Nunsense" and "Nunsense II. The Second Coming", and "Steel Magnolias", will present "Love Letters" August 21 and 23 at the Thief River Falls Golf Club.

"Love Letters", by A.R. Gurney is a beautiful and powerful document of human nature. This two-person show lets the audience peer in through a window created by letters written by its characters. Through these personal letters, which span an entire lifetime the audience comes to know Andrew Makepeace III and Melissa Gardner as well as if they were our own friends. Unlike most theatre productions, "Love Letters" focuses on the emotional impact of the English language instead of the visualization of the action within the play. Wrought with wit and honesty, this show is an exciting adventure sure to keep the audience talking.

Over the past few decades many famous people have starred in this award-winning play. Some of these stars include: Jason Robards, Colleen Dewhurst, Robert Wagner, Stockard Channing, Jane Curtin, Julie Harris, John Heard, William Hurt, Timothy Hutton, Swoosie Kurtz, Christine Lahti, Marsha Mason, Elizabeth Montgomery, Lynn Redgrave, George Segal, Richard Thomas, Joan Van Ark and Christopher Reeve.

"Local performers presenting "Love Letters" are Jerry Wigness and Jon Peterson. Jerry has performed in shows prior to Love Letters, most recently the Centennial show "Beautiful City" and before that the variety show "Northern Reflections of Christmas". Jan has also been involved in numerous productions in the community. Her last role was as Sarah in Thief River Falls' musical production of "Quilters". Some of her other favorite roles have been in "South Pacific", and "Guys and Dolls". This is the first time for Jerry and Jan to participate in a That's Entertainment production.

That's Entertainment is the company that brought the Thief River Falls production of Nunsense, Nunsense II: The Second Coming, and "Steel Magnolias". Although all of these shows were a dinner theatre production, "Love Letters" will be presented in a different format.

The price of the ticket will include the production, hors d'oeuvres before the show, and dessert and coffee and punch at intermission. Social hour starts at 7 p.m., the show at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 and can be purchased at the door, however reservations are recommended. To reserve your ticket call 681-6604.

city council meeting but none were immediately agreed upon. Those sites included a site near Viking, a couple by the regional airport and a gravel pit site.

While the stipulation agreement remains on hold, the final touches are being put to an agreement between SwisPennCo and Pennington County. This agreement provides financial support to SwisPennCo upon the successful completion of specific goals set forth in the stipulation agreement. Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson said the $150,000 in funds set aside in the agreement are SCORE funds. SCORE funds come from the state. He said $50,000 would be given to SwisPennCo immediately, $35,000 on October 1, $35,000 on November 1, and $30,000 upon completion of the permit process. He said awarding of these funds to SwisPennCo are based on completing goals set by MPCA.

compost in the composting building was not in windrows but was instead in static piles. In addition, compost that had not been demonstrated to be mature was store on the area east of the compost hangar.

On February 28, 1997, the MPCA notified SwisPennCo that they were in noncompliance. They acknowledged they were attempting to address the areas of noncompliance. Yet, MPCA established May 12, 1997 as the date the compost portion of the facility would be back into compliance with all compost stored outside the hangar screened and all compost stored inside the hangar windrowed, and that by June 12, the fluff stored outside the building would be pelletized and the pellets either marketed or stored in the approved area to the west of the compost hangar or removed to a landfill.

On May 15, 1997, SwisPennCo notified the MPCA that they had not met the compost compliance date of May 12 and would not be in compliance with the June 12 date for removal of the fluff and pellets.

These facts constituted numerous violations of MPCA regulations, and assessed penalties SwisPennCo agreed to pay $3,960 as a civil penalty for the alleged violations. MPCA also established numerous requirements for SwisPennCo.

MPCA has required that SwisPennCo remove the fluff pile presently stored on the north side of the processing building according to the following schedule: one third or 5,500 cubic yards by September 1, two thirds, or an estimated 11,000 cubic yards by October 1, and the remainder removed by November 1.

MPCA stipulated that the compost shall restore all compost in the hangar to windrows by November 1, and conduct the required tests by procedures set out in the agreement.

MPCA has agreed to allow the burned pellets stored to the west of the processing facility to be landspread.

The problem with litter was also addressed in the agreement. The agreement states SwisPennCo shall inspect the facility grounds and adjacent properties for litter each operating day, and promptly remove and dispose of any litter discovered during the inspection. They must also maintain a log documenting who conducted the litter inspection, when it was conducted, what was picked up during the litter inspection, any complaints received by the facility personnel regarding litter, and the facility's response to those complaints. After all of the wastes have been removed from the outside of the facility buildings for a period of one year, the SwisPennCo may request permission to inspect for litter on a less-than-daily basis, provided that they can demonstrate there is no need for daily inspection.

The agreement stipulates that SwisPennCo shall store not more than a total of 1,000 tons of pellets at either the facility or at any other location. Before storing any pellets at another location, they must notify MPCA and receive approval. To obtain approval, the proposed location must be indoors, dry and secure. They don't need approval for storage of pellets which are delivered to a customer and stored by the customer upon the customer's premises. Until otherwise established in a permit for the facility, SwisPennCo shall store no more than 30 tons of processed recyclable materials per material type at the facility. With the exception of scrap metal, appliances and tires, all recyclable materials shall be temporarily stored inside the processing building or the compost screening building.

SwisPennCo is required to repair and restore all exterior doors to the building, and repair any other structural damage that may have occurred during the winter.

By September 1, 1997, SwisPennCo is required to provide all items necessary for issuance of a new facility permit.

SwisPennCo is required to report on its progress as related to completing the requirements of this agreement on a monthly basis until three months after the permit is issued or after all of the terms of the agreement have been met.

The agreement also stipulates penalties for future violations.

Details of agreement with Hahne released

Details of a separation agreement between School District 564 and Bill Hahne were released Tuesday after protests from local media. Elements of the agreement had been released prior to Tuesday, but not the entire agreement. The cause of the separation agreement, however, has not been released.

Hahne submitted his resignation to the school board, which was accepted by the board Monday night. That resignation includes a release of claims by Hahne. In consideration of his resignation, release of claims, and "other promises and covenants contained" in the agreement, the school district:

- agreed to pay Hahne $63,414, less applicable payroll withholding and deductions;
- allow Hahne to continue to participate in the district's group health insurance plan for 18 months and the district to contribute to the insurance carrier for the group health insurance premium in the amount of $135 for a period of 12 months from the date of his resignation, or the first date he is employed by an employer who offers any form of health insurance coverage;
- pay Hahne $10,803.15, which represents severance pay pursuant to the negotiated agreement between the district and the Thief River Falls Principals and Directors Association; and
- provide Hahne a letter of recommendation.

Acceptance of the settlement represents complete settlement and satisfaction between the district and Hahne.

Hahne could not be reached for comment on the settlement or cause for the settlement.

Nopers share history at Pioneer Village

Randall and Catherine Noper enjoyed a ride on Sunday to Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village in a 1912 Plymouth driven by Dave Strong (right).

The Nopers were honored at a reception hosted by the Pennington County Historical Society for their many years of volunteer work.

By Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

Every now and then, a couple can be spotted walking hand in hand through Pioneer Village.

That couple is Randall and Catherine Noper. Married in 1990, they share a friendship that has spanned over 50 years and a love for history and its preservation.

On Sunday the Nopers were honored at a reception at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village for their many years of volunteer work and contributions to the village.

The presentation was made during "Music of the Century"—an afternoon program which included the musical performances of various musical groups and individuals from the community.

The Nopers arrived at the village in grand style in a 1912 Plymouth chauffeured by Dave Strong. The short program included a brief history by City Councilman Dale Wennberg, comments by Mayor Bob Reeve and the presentation of a plaque by Charles Naplin, president of the Pennington County Historical Society.

Randall and Catherine then enjoyed cake and coffee and visiting with the many friends who had come to share the afternoon with them.

Randall Noper was born on September 15, 1910 in Good Hope, Illinois. Before he was two years old, he came to Thief River Falls with his parents, V.C. and Ruby Noper.

The family lived in a log cabin and farmed a section of land. The building site included a 32 by 116-foot barn which housed 30 head of cattle and horses. The home was located near where R.V. Sports is today.

Randall lived in the log home until he was 25 years old. Over the years, the house was remodeled and added on to several times. The cabin remained on its original site until 1976.

Catherine came to Thief River Falls from Duluth in 1941. She and her first husband, Mel Simon, raised three children.

Randall grew up to be a Thief River Falls businessman. He purchased a motel which consisted of five cabins and a gas station. Noper's Motel was gradually expanded to 34 units where he and his first wife, Verna, worked side by side. The motel also featured a fireside room where various events were held. The Nopers raised two daughters.

Catherine laughed as she told of a time when the motel was full and Randall and Verna's daughters were home with their families. With the motel full of guests and their home full of family, the Nopers stayed with their friends, Mel and Catherine Simon.

The Nopers and Simons friendship included church activities at the Methodist Church, various other community events and a special enjoyment of square dancing.

The couples would drive to Winnipeg for an evening of dancing and return home that same night. They spoke fondly of the fun at three-day square dancing conventions. Randall and Catherine still have friends in Winnipeg from their square dancing days.

Selling his motel in 1974, Randall remained very active in the community. He has served on various committees and boards. He was on the building committees for both Valley Home and the Methodist Church.

During the '70s when Randall and Verna were driving home from visiting relatives in South Dakota, Randall saw a big sign advertising Minden, Nebraska and its "Pioneer Village." Intrigued, the Nopers detoured to Minden where they visited the historical village.

Randall returned to Thief River Falls with a brochure from the village in Minden and an idea. He convinced City Councilman Art Rambeck that Thief River Falls should have its own "village." When the old sewerage plant on the edge of town became available and was donated by the city, Pioneer Village was born in the "perfect spot."

While Pioneer Village may have been his brainchild, Randall Noper is quick to share the credit with a host of other hard-working volunteers who helped make it a reality.

In addition to providing the idea for the village, Randall brought his boyhood home there in 1976. Instead of letting it "sink into the prairie," it is lovingly cared for—and appreciated by many at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village.

Randall and Catherine continue to donate their time and artifacts to the village. They are proud of the way it has changed and grown over the years. Additions and improvements are frequently noted, and the increased number of activities that have taken place there have made it increasingly prominent.

Randall and Catherine both expressed their appreciation to the Pennington County Historical Society for their recognition on Sunday—the preparation and planning, those who worked at the reception and the friends who shared the occasion with them.

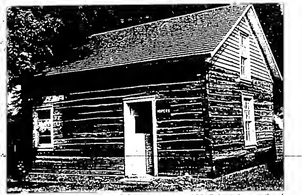
When Randall and Catherine married in 1990 he provided their home in Thief River Falls on Oakland Park Road just down the road from Pioneer Village. Catherine had a home in Holiday, Florida, and thus, the Nopers are "snowbirds." With fall around the corner, it won't be long before they're off to their winter home.

In the meanwhile, the Nopers can be spotted occasionally walking hand and hand through Pioneer Village talking about the "good old days" and the good days to come.

On Sunday, August 17 Randall and Catherine Noper were honored for their many contributions to Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village at a reception. Following comments by City Councilman Dale Wennborg and Mayor Bob Roove, Charles Neplin, president of the Pennington County Historical Society, presented a plaque to the Nopers. The presentation was made during a special afternoon of "Music of the Century" at the village.

MECC Joint Powers board to meet Aug. 26

Joint Powers Board for the Multi-Events Cultural Center will meet 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, August 26, in the lower level of the Evergreen Eating Emporium. The agenda includes an opportunity for input from the public, an update on bid results, an update on fundraising activities, and an update on amateur sports.



In 1976, Randall Noper brought his boyhood home to Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village. The log home was originally located on a section of land near where R.V. Sports is today.

Kristy Johnson and Tyson Treat wed July 12 in TRF

St. Bernard's Catholic Church was the scene of the July 12 marriage of Kristy Johnson and Tyson Treat. Parents of the couple are Leon and Naomi Johnson of Goodridge and Vern and Kathy Treat of Bemidji.

Adorning the church at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony were white globe candleabras decorated with white lilies, green ivy and white netting. Father Dennis Wieland and Tim Treat officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vocal selections, "The Wedding Song", "Only God Could Love You More"; "He Has Chosed You For Me" and "Our Father", were sung by Monica Rogus and Jon Anderson, friends of the couple. Todd Evenson played the saxophone, and Elizabeth Odelte was the organist. Processional selections were "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell and "Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin" by Wagner with "Wedding March from a Midsummer Nights Dream" by Mendelssohn the recessional.

The bride wore a white matte satin Amy Lee gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline, long fitted sleeves and an enclosed illusion back with 48 traditional buttons. The basque waist lead to a full-length sweeping skirt with illusion cutouts and a beaded lace hem and cathedral length train. Pearls and sequins embellished the schiffi lace of the entire gown. A beaded pearl and sequin tiara held the traditional two-tier, waist length veil. The bridal bouquet was a cascading design of white stargazer lilies, white stephanotis, white alstroemeria florets, green ivy and white filler flowers.

Attending the bride as Maids of Honor were Michelle Coan of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple and the bride's sister, Jenny Johnson of Goodridge. Brides maids were Monica Rogus of Stephen, Kelly Wheeler of St. Cloud, Carrie Olson and Marcy Olsen of Starbuck and Jamie Berndt of Goodridge, all friends of the couple.

The bride chose sheathes of hunter green crepe georgette for her attendants. The sleeveless gowns featured empire waists and sweetheart necklines. Bow tie drapes on the backs enhanced the pearl drops. They carried round bouquets of deep pink stargazer lilies, pink alstoemeria, deep burgundy miniature carnation blossoms, pink rice flowers, white filler flowers and greens.

Flower girl was Sara Johnson of Davenport, IA, cousin of the groom. She wore a white satin dress with lace around the sleeves and skirt. The dress had a pearldrop neckline and lace cutouts covered the train. She carried a basket with clusters of deep pink stargazer lilies, deep pink roses, white alstroemeria and burgundy miniature carnations.

The bride's personal attendants were her friends, Amber Wilkens and Melissa Bernstein.

The groom was attired in a black full dress peak tuxedo with a white Winsor paisley vest. His boutonniere was white stephanotis and babies breath.

Bestmen were Pete Balmer of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple and Preston Treat of Bemidji, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mark DannHoff of LaCrosse, WI, Mike Swanson of Detroit Lakes, Jon Harris and Tim Benson of Thief River Falls, all friends of the couple and Chad Johnson of Goodridge, brother of the bride.

Ushering the guests were Chuck Lundgren and Darrin Haagenson of Fargo and Dan Hoffard and Josh Balmer of Thief River Falls, all friends of the couple. The wedding programs were distributed by Danika and Kayla Stelton, cousins of the groom.

All men of the wedding party and the fathers of the couple wore black full dress peak tuxedos with hunter green Winsor paisley vests. Their boutonnieres were white roses with babies breath.

The mother of the bride wore a black sleeveless knee-length dress with scoop neckline. Complimenting the dress was a long-sleeved jacket with white trim and decorative rhinestone buttons. A long-sleeved pink lace jacket covered the sleeveless knee-length dress worn by the mother of the groom. The mothers corsages were white stephanotis and pink alstroemeria florets.

Honored guests were Donald and Angeline Verhout of Grygla and Mabel Johnson of Goodridge, all grandparents of the bride, Mary Polansky of Grygla, great-grandmother of the bride, and Vern Sr. and Margaret Treat of Big Falls, grandparents of the groom.

Linda and Tim Hermanson, aunt and uncle of the bride and Don and Sonia Balmer, friends of the couple hosted the reception.

Attending the guest book were Lisa Verhout, aunt of the bride and Kym McKercher, friend of the couple.

The four-tier cake was supported by white decorative pillars. A four-tier water fountain on the base was lit with white lights and trickled clear water. The stairs of the cake led to grooms cakes—one on each side—which each featured the couples' names in decorative writing. The white frosting flowers that decorated the cake had been dipped into hunter green coloring. The flowers that decorated the grooms cakes and the second and third tiers were clusters of deep pink stargazer lilies, deep pink roses, white alstroemeria, pink rice star flowers, burgundy miniature carnations and green foliage. A Precious Moments figurine, "Forever in Love," topped the cake.

The cake was cut by Florence Easthouse, aunt of the bride and Teresa Johnson, cousin of the groom. Gayle Ferguson, aunt of the groom and Becky Stickler, friend of the groom served coffee. Becky Brandt, friend of the bride, and Lydia Balmer, friend of the couple served punch.

Carrie Thompson, cousin of the groom, was the flower hostess. Waitresses were Jamie Easthouse and Jill Kertz, cousins of the bride and Kayla Stelton, cousin of the groom. The videographer was Jason Kainz, cousin of the bride.

The Treats have a trip to Mexico planned for the winter. They are at home at 1108 Belsly Boulevard in Moorhead. Elk's receive $10,000 to aid flood victims

Thief River Falls Elks Lodge 1308 in conjunction with the Elks Red River Relief Fund to aid flood victims has been given a grant of up to $10,000 to assist flood related victims in the Red River Valley areas of North Dakota and Minnesota. These areas include East Grand Forks, Ada, Warren, Grand Forks, and possibly some organizations who gave relief to those victimized by the flood.

The Elks Red River Relief Fund was started through the efforts of the North Dakota Elks Association and the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The money raised has come from Elk's Lodges and its members throughout the United States, which includes close to 3,000 lodges, or approximately 1 million members.

The first major concern of the B.P.O.E. was the unavailability of child daycare centers in the East Grand Forks and Grand Forks area. Over 100 child daycare center agencies were not able to function due to the floods and it was felt that kids needed a place to go while families started putting their lives back together. For this reason, the first $100,000 was given to daycare providers to once again provide an essential service to these communities.

The Thief River Falls Elk's lodge will be working along the same line as did their brother and sister Elks in North Dakota. They hope to fill the void for some in their nearby neighboring communities.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

It's not a diet?

About every two or three months I resolve to get rid of the "roll" around my middle. This resolution usually occurs as I'm lying on the bed struggling to zip up a pair of blue jeans. (It's a well-known fact among people who share this affliction that lying flat temporarily displaces the roll, thus easing the strain on the zipper.)

The situation becomes more apparent as fall approaches. My elastic-waisted shorts have given me a false sense of security throughout the summer – making me feel slimmer than I actually am. I'm prepared for a shock as I try to squeeze into real pants in September. But because wearing oversized sweatpants is not acceptable work attire, I must muster some resolve for a shape up.

I know what needs to be done (I should, I've tried it so many times before.) I have to exercise more and eat less fat. That's what the magazines profess anyway. Say "goodbye" to potato chips and French fries. Say "hello" to more fruits and vegetables and a steady diet of chicken breast. It doesn't sound fun at all.

The intended outcome sounds appealing, so it's worth a shot I decide. I don't consider it you're dieting. If you ask the experts it's not dieting, it's changing my lifestyle – for life. So what if it usually only lasts a week?

The attempt begins on a Monday. That way I have the weekend to load up on all the food that becomes taboo with my new slimming down mode. In preparation for "Operation Remove the Roll" I stock up on apples, turkey, chicken and low-fat snacks.

On Monday I eat my whole grain cereal with skim milk for breakfast. For lunch I feast on a turkey sandwich (no mayo) on whole wheat bread topped off with a carton of raspberry yogurt. Supper is grilled chicken breast served with a wild rice concoction and a vegetable. Jello serves as dessert.

Tuesday proceeds about the same way, with a slight change in the menu – for variety's sake I think salad is allowable, as well as low fat soups. Boy, do I feel good. I can just feel that unsightly roll disappear from my mid-section.

By Wednesday, my resolve weakens. I start thinking about all the foods I can't have. All I think about is food and what I'm going to eat next. French fries sound more appetizing than yogurt. I know an ice cream cone would taste better than Jello or fat-free pudding. I barely make it through this day without dipping into the cookie jar or sneaking to the convenience store to grab a bag of licorice. I can't believe that I have to do this for the rest of my life. After all, it's not a diet, it's a lifestyle change.

Thursday is deadly. Those fat cravings call out loud and strong. They win. I weaken. I allow myself just one small bag of French fries. But when my son doesn't finish his, I can't let them go to waste. I eat those fries and I've fallen off my resolve to lose the roll at the mid-section.

From that day on, I'm still conscious that on Monday I changed my lifestyle – for life. But that's tucked far behind in my brain as I slip back into my old eating habits – consuming the foods I like the best.

But not to worry. I know that in two or three months, when the jeans get a little snug, I'll make a resolution to lose the roll around my middle. I'll resolve to change my eating lifestyle. Again.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Alvis Peasley

I have had entirely too much of nostalgia this weekend. It seemed like all the television shows were about Elvis Presley or other old-time rock and rollers from the fifties. All of this rowdy music brought back memories of my teen years. I was a little teeny-bopper when rock and roll was born and seeing Elvis and all of those other performers made me feel like a teeny-bopper again. I'm exhausted!

I first saw Elvis on that fancy new thing my grandparents got called a television set. My grandmother liked to watch the "entertainment shows," and we were watching one of them one Sunday night and there was Elvis. Of course I had no idea who he was, but when he started to sing and bounce around, I knew I liked him. I tried to listen to hear his name and write it down. What I wrote down was "Alvis Peasley." He looked like a country bumpkin and dressed funny, but he certainly could sing and jump around.

I told all my friends about this great singer I had seen. I checked the record store for any records by "Alvis Peasley," but there were none. I read magazines, hoping to see "Alvis Peasley" mentioned somewhere, but he wasn't. Finally I heard "Alvis" was to appear on the Ed Sullivan show and, naturally, I watched his first appearance on Ed Sullivan, as well as any other television appearances he made.

When "Alvis" came on the set, I was very excited. I hummed and jumped around in the living room, even going so far as to squeal a little. My mother and grandparents didn't think "Alvis" was so hot. My mother mentioned something about how girls reacted to Frank Sinatra. My grandmother said she didn't think "Alvis" had such a good voice and it was a shame the way he wiggled around. My grandfather left the room. My grandmother did, however grudgingly, admit that she enjoyed the gospel music he sang on one show.

I finally figured out that his name was Elvis Presley and found his records in the store. I bought every one for a long time and now I wish I had kept them. Those old 45s on the Sun label would have been worth big money. One Christmas my mother bought me an Elvis long-play, 78 rpm album and I was in heaven. She also bought the same album for my brother, saying she didn't know what kind of music he would like and thought he would like the same as I did. Being six years older than I, and somewhat more sedate, however, he had a fit. He exchanged it for something less wild. I bet he still remembers that album.

After Elvis, I was hooked on rock and roll, especially "rhythm and blues," and so were some of my friends. We would listen to scratchy radio stations with funny names from some southern states trying to hear the "real stuff." We hurried home after school to watch "American Bandstand" and learned how to dance the way they did in Philadelphia. We went to see area rock and roll performers every chance we had. Saturday night dances at the Maple Lake pavilion where they had live rock and roll performers were gathering places for teens from around the area.

When I and my friends heard that Elvis was to appear in Minneapolis, we planned to attend, no matter what. We saved our babysitting money and planned what we would wear. We tried our hardest to find someone who would take us there, but we just couldn't get anyone old enough to drive a car full of squeaking teenagers to the Cities. Lucky we couldn't get a ride there, because Elvis couldn't make it and the show was cancelled anyway.

As I grew older and Elvis began to make movies and date Hollywood stars, the Elvis thrill wore off. When he went into the Army, married and had a child, I hardly noticed because by that time I was busy with my own babies. I was sad when I heard about the drugs and the bad times he was having. "What a waste," I thought, and I thought the same thing when I heard he had died.

But whenever I hear some of the first songs he sang, they still bring back memories of my teen days when I thought "Alvis Peasley" was the best thing ever.

Rev up your child's engines with these traffic light treats.

You will need graham crackers, peanut butter, one each of red, yellow and green candy coated chocolate pieces per child, a napkin and a plastic knife.

PARENTING TIPS
"I Love You"

Parents may sometimes mistakenly presume that their child knows she is loved and appreciated. Studies of children, however, indicate that in order to develop a positive self concept, they need to be reminded repeatedly that they are loved by the most important adults in their lives.

There are many ways to communicate your love for your children every day. Here are some suggested messages you can say out loud: You're terrific • You're a very good listener • I like you just the way you are • Good job • You're very special to me • Thanks for putting away your toys • I'm very proud of you • You're my big helper • You brighten my day • You're incredible • I'm very glad we're good friends • You are very thoughtful • Have I told you lately how much I love you? • I want to give you a great big hug • You make me happy • You're important • Hurray for you! • You're wonderful • You mean the world to me • You're a winner • I love you.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Remember that there are many ways to tell your child that he/she is loved. Remind yourself to use as many of them as you can think of. During the preschool years your child's personality is being formed. You have the opportunity to influence that development either positively or negatively.

Josie – Part 3

The story of the Phillipsons continues as Josie Phillipson Burmgard's family gets started in farming 15 miles north of Thief River Falls. The year is 1899. Josie is 16 years old. This is taken from memoirs Josie wrote at age 89 years.

That spring and early summer were not easy as the Phillipsons had very little money left. They spent what they had on a cow. The cow soon had a new born calf and most of the milk had to be fed to it.

The Phillipsons had flour and potatoes but no butter and very little meat. Father had never cared for hunting, but when meat was scarce he decided to get a gun and hunt. After that they had rabbit meat often which was very tasty the way Mother prepared it.

Some of the land was ready for seeding, and small places were available where they cut hay. When they started to clear brush for more hay land, Father bought Josie a grub hoe and together they cleared enough so by the second fall they stacked a hundred loads of hay. Henry, 11, was not yet strong enough to help.

What helped the most that fall was that they were given six good cows to care for when a farmer, Mr. Risberg, started a small grocery store near them. He proposed that if they would take his cows for the winter, the Phillipsons could have the milk and also the calves. They took him up on his offer and how lucky they were as twin heifers were born to one cow. Father gave one heifer calf to Josie.

The Thief River was about two miles east of the farm. It had low banks and at that time there were no ditches through the countryside. After a great deal of snow and then rain, the river overflowed, covering many farms, part of theirs included. But surprise! The land was almost covered with fish. People came with them by the wagon load full and brought them home, salted them in small barrels and put them in the cellar. The family had fish the rest of the summer. They got rather tired of fish but were glad to have it as that was all the meat they had until fall when they butchered a pig they had managed to get that spring.

After a year on the farm Josie, 14, started working at different places to earn money for clothes for herself and her brothers, Ernest, and George. Her sister, Marie, worked out too, but then she got a chance to work for room and board in Thief River and finish her schooling to become a teacher. Josie had the same chance but had to work and help pay for Marie's clothes. Marie paid this back later to Josie many times when Josie was in nurse's training.

The first time Josie worked out she helped an old couple who lived 6 miles from the farm. The lady had broken her arm and her husband came and asked if Josie would help them out. Josie worked there two months and was not very happy as it was lonesome and the lady was so fussy and the eats were mostly sour milk and mush, besides bread and butter. But as she worked Josie kept thinking how nice to get money so she could get some clothes. However she was sure disappointed when the lady told her they did not have money to pay her, but would pay with butter. So Josie trotted home walking six miles carrying a five pound crock of butter. She had to walk the 6 miles several times that summer to get the five pounds of butter until her earnings were paid up.

The next summer she worked with her father on the farm while her brother Henry hired out to a farmer near Grafton for seven months. The Phillipsons had a good crop that year so between haying and grain they were up early in the morning until late at night but Josie enjoyed it and was happy.

She and her younger brothers helped Mother pick strawberries, chokecherries and highbush cranberries. Every extra minute she had in the fall, Josie picked hazel nuts so when winter started she had a hundred pound flour sack full of hazel nuts to be enjoyed all winter.

After that Josie was not on the farm much except when she was called home to help.

Work on the second floor of the depot seems to be progressing much more quickly than on the rest of the project. Rumors that the cost of the project will escalate to $3 million are exagarations. The total cost of the project, from the moment the city began discussing renovation, to the moment it is completed will have cost the city about $1.5 million.

Don't judge depot project by outward appearances

By David Hill
Associate Editor

To outward appearances not much appears to be happening at the Thief River Falls' Soo Line Depot. What is not obvious is the work being accomplished within the structure which will someday become City Administrative Offices.

Construction crews spent the first six weeks involved in demolition. Crews discovered the building to be in excellent condition. The only negative surprise they received occurred when they began to remove some of the plaster and discovered parts of the roof had not been put together "real well". Those problems have been, or are in the process of being corrected.

During a recent tour of the building, the second floor of the building appears to be ahead of the main floor, in terms of renovation. Much of the electrical work and conduits are now in place along with plaster board. Rooms are now identifiable and not mere marks on the floor and imagination. The second floor will house the city administrator's office, finance officer's office, community development, reception area and building official.

Work downstairs is also progressing, but taking more time due to work that needs to be completed outside for or along the ceiling of the first floor. Peeling paint might have caused another delay, because it contained lead, but workers are simply putting sheet rock over the problem areas. It was a fortunate solution to another problem. The original building did not have enough space between the ceiling of the first floor and the floor of the second floor to allow for electrical conduit and duct work.

Nevertheless, at this point of construction, visitors would have to use more of their imagination to see the public work director's office, utilities billing office and other first floor offices. The north end baggage room and express area takes even more to imagine it as the city council chambers and history room. Last Friday part of the roof remained uncovered and rain water and mud covered parts of the floor. In the near future, however, it will contain a council area with seating for about 60 and a history room. Suggestions for that area are still being sought. At this time, one element of the history area includes room for a plaque recognizing all of those people who made contributions to the renovation of the depot.

In outward appearances it seems like construction employees have been turning over the same pile of dirt every day. In fact, however, much has been accomplished. The geothermal wells have been drilled and utilities prepared for connections. The elevator shaft has been dug and now work on the main entrance facing Atlantic Avenue is progressing.

The new entrance will be facing Atlantic Avenue, not Third Street. It will look something like the old entrance on Third Street, but the State architects said the new edition to the building, which includes the new entrance, handicapped accessible bathrooms, stairways and elevator, could not resemble too closely what the rest of the building looks like. The brick color will be somewhat similar, but the addition will have to be "identifiable as an addition." It was one of those problems during planning, which resulted in a delay for the project. The new entrance, however, will make the building more accessible and will be easier for people using the parking lot, which will have about 34 parking stalls including two handicapped stalls.

Within the next few weeks, residents and visitors will see more noticeable changes because those changes will be to the exterior of the building. Much of the preparatory roof work has been finished and the new metal roof, which looks like an old copper roof, will be installed.

Local officials have videotaped progress at the building on a weekly basis, and no doubt will eventually show the tremendous change that took place at the depot.

The contract calls for completion of the project by December 1. Officials speculate however, that because of a number of delays, the project won't be completed on time. Secretly they hope for completion around the holidays. Not only would it be a good time to celebrate, it's generally a slower time of the year for city offices and a good time to move.

In the near future, this room at the Soo Line Depot will house Thief River Falls City Council chambers. The depot is currently being renovated.

From the second floor of the Soo Line Depot, which currently is being remodeled, elements of the new addition can be observed. The 1024 engine was moved to its current location last year. Despite a verbal offer to purchase the engine, no further communications regarding the engine have been received. More progress at the depot will be soon visible.

Emergency drill tests airport preparedness

A paramedic and two firemen respond to the needs of an injured victim during the emergency drill at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport on Wednesday.

There were several objectives to the drill including evaluating Pennington County and the City of Thief River Falls Emergency Operating Plan, evaluating the resource list and resources available to Pennington County and the City of Thief River Falls, evaluating the communications capability of Pennington County and the City of Thief River Falls, exercise and evaluate the Incident Command System, evaluate the water supplies available to the county fire departments, evaluate EMS simple triage and rapid treatment procedures, and satisfy FAA airport emergency preparedness requirements.

Participants in the emergency drill included the Thief River Falls Fire department, and police department; the Pennington County Sheriff's department, the St. Hilaire Fire department, the regional airport crash fire rescue vehicle; Great Plains EMS of Thief River Falls, Tri-County EMS, Red Lake Falls EMS, and Mesaba Airlines. The Civil Air Patrol was also asked to be on standby. Other participants included members of Troop 199, which acted as victims, Minnesota Paul Jacobs of the Department of Emergency Management; Northwest Medical Center; Red Lake County Sheriff Al Minken; and Andrea Liston of KKAQ/KKDQ.

Justin Billie, 14, Thief River Falls, and a member of Troop 199, displays some gruesome injuries applied with plastic parts and makeup. Billie was one of many Troop 199 members who acted as victims in an emergency drill at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport Wednesday, August 13.

St. Hilaire Fire department participated in an emergency drill at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday. They were among many participating agencies involved in the emergency drill that simulated an airplane crash and rescue effort.

Local and area paramedics, firemen and law enforcement officials participated in an emergency drill at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday, August 13. Victims appearing on the ground are all members of Troop 199 who volunteered for the assignment. Many wore fake injuries and make-up to simulate injuries.

committee to recommend possible locations for the signs. Some sites have been identified, but not formalized.

A recommendation to consider reducing the speed limit from Nora to County road 61 to 30 miles per hour has become a moot point. No changes by the council can be made as the areas they would have changed are in the county's jurisdiction.

The council approved a variance request by Slumberland Furniture to install a free-standing sign with a height of 30-feet. The variance would allow the sign to be at the approximate level of free-standing signs on adjacent properties.

The council approved a conditional use permit by T.R. Mini Storage, represented by Tom Greelis, to construct a 38-foot by 100-foot mini-storage facility near the southerly property line west of the existing mini storage facilities.

The council approved application for a Minnesota State Bureau of Justice Assistance local law enforcement block grant in the sum of $10,000. The grant would provide funds for additional law enforcement equipment.

The following items were approved from the consent agenda: a progression raise for John Meveski, declaring the existing Engelstad park warming house as surplus property, advertise for a category II part-time patrol officer as part of the transition covering Dennis Kiesow's retirement, approved a dance permit for NCTC college dance on September 4, approved beer in the park for Ram Builders at Oakland Park on August 15, approved a construction engineering services agreement with Bonestroo, Rosene, Anderlik and Associates for flow control manhole modifications at the waste water ponds, approved a salary progression raise for Steve Swanson, approved a job description for city administration, accounts payable and data processing clerk, payroll and secretary, and building official, approved a salary progression raise for John Hruske, approved a job description for the public works airport maintenance, approved advertising for a category II public works maintenance employee for the sanitation department to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation and approved a request for beer in Oakland Park for the Elk's Lodge for an annual picnic on Sunday, August 17.

"Even if you think you need to be there, you're really in the way," said Andrea Liston, KKAQ/KKDQ. Liston's comment has a practical and important message for individuals who show up to "see the action" at accidents. During an emergency drill at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, Wednesday, August 13, Liston played the part of a distraught parent. She played the part well and so did the officer, who finally, in a fit of frustration, handcuffed her to a fence. It was all in fun and no one was seriously injured. While it had its fun moments, such as the incident with Liston, the emergency drill was a serious test of local and area emergency personnel and equipment.

Local firemen went through all the motions of hooking up and distributing equipment at the scene of an emergency drill held at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday.

Stumpf has reservations on electric deregulation

Many legislators, especially rural legislators, are viewing the call to deregulate electric utilities with a good deal of skepticism, according to Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls.

Sen. Stumpf said the rush toward deregulation of whole industries continues under the theory that, in any industry, if we replace government restrictions with open competition, the cost of doing business will drop and consumers will benefit from lower prices.

"We've seen how deregulation works in the airlines industry," Sen. Stumpf said. "You can fly from Minneapolis to most parts of Europe for under $500. But if you have to fly from here down to the Twin Cities to catch the plane, it will cost about $500 more. Last weekend, round trip tickets from Minneapolis to Paris, London or Madrid were advertised for $399. The standard round-trip fare from Thief River Falls to Minneapolis stands at $533."

With the airline deregulation results firmly in mind, legislators are reluctant to be a part of contributing to similar disparate problems in the electric industry.

"Supporters of deregulated electricity promise, in addition to lower rates, that new products will be sped to market that will improve the efficiency of delivery and conserve energy to lower costs and [illegible] lower demands on the environment," Stumpf said.

"Opponents aren't quite so sure. They question the power companies' financial incentive to replace old equipment, which may be cheaper to run, even if it generates high levels of pollution as well as electricity.

"One also has to wonder," he says, "how utilities will pay for their investments such as nuclear facilities and still manage to provide lower rates to customers. In some areas the issue is further complicated by long-term contracts to buy supplemental power from high cost producers."

The senator believes another potential problem is Minnesota's relatively cheap power costs and large reserve of generating capacity.

"Other parts of the country would like to buy power from the utilities which now can sell only to us," he said. "Deregulation could serve to start a bidding war that would drive up prices here, while the increased output from the power plants would generate more pollution."

The bottom line for most customers obviously will be the real bottom line—who will reap the benefits and how great those benefits actually will be.

Some estimates suggest that when full deregulation of the industry would be complete—which may take more than 10 years—electric utility customers could save as much as $5.4 billion a year. Other estimates, however, indicate that it will be only the high volume industrial users who may cut their electric bills—by 25 percent. Residential users and small businesses, they say, will be lucky to save a little over three percent. Other experts have suggested that, except for high volume users, deregulation will mean higher electric bills for residential and small business customers.

Some states which are exploring deregulation would prevent this by mandating that the bulk of any savings go to smaller customers of electricity, Stumpf said, but including mandates seems to contradict the term "deregulation" and would simply be another form of regulation.

"I think those of us who live in rural areas are the most skeptical," the senator said. "Many can remember that until the creation of REA, nobody was even interested in providing farmers and smaller towns with electricity. It cost too much to string the wires and build the power plants to make it worthwhile for the private sector. If the deregulation of electric utilities has the same result as the deregulation of the airlines industry—cheap tickets if you live in the cities, horrendous cost if you live in Northwestern Minnesota—it is not a proposal that interests me."

A special task force of the legislature is looking into the issue and trying to determine what the results would really be.

"I, for one, want to know exactly what we're getting into before we charge ahead," Sen. Stumpf said.

TRF football team will face new opponents this fall...

Prowlers ready for challenge

Thief River Falls has made the Section 8A finals each of the past three years, but new regular-season opponents and a revamped sectional alignment will challenge the Prowlers' success during the upcoming 1997 high school football season.

However, head coach Jeff Mumm is not waving a white flag. The Prowlers, he said, will be competitive.

Thief River Falls went 6-5 a year ago when they lost to Detroit Lakes 42-0 in the sectional finals. It was the third straight year and the fourth time in five years the Prowlers and Lakers met in the finals.

But the two rivals face a more formidable post-season task this time around after being bumped into Section 8AAAA under the new six-class Minnesota State High School League playoff system. They are grouped with Alexandria, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Rocori and Sauk Rapids.

And during the regular season, the Prowlers have added Bemidji and Virginia to a schedule that already included Sartell, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Grand Rapids, Fergus Falls, and East Grand Forks.

With Sartell, Crookston, Bemidji, Grand Rapids, and East Grand Forks all visiting Prowler Field, it's an attractive schedule for Thief River Falls football fans. The only regular-season road games will be at Detroit Lakes, Virginia and Fergus Falls.

It looks tough on paper, but Mumm is confident the Prowlers will be able to compete at that level. "We've got a lot of potential," he said.

Especially in the offensive backfield, where Wade Chodo, Kyle Anderson, Trevor Lee and Andy Harbott supply the Prowlers with a deep pool of talent at runningback and Chris Mumm and Trevor Peterson have both shown signs of being top flight quarterbacks.

"We're as quick and as strong as we've ever been in the backfield," said Jeff Mumm.

Chodo, a 5-9, 171-pound junior, is coming off a team MVP sophomore season when he rushed for 989 yards and scored 11 touchdowns. Anderson, a 6-3, 205-pound senior, finished with 729 yards rushing and seven touchdowns last fall, while Lee, a 5-11, 155-pound senior, contributed 413 yards to last year's attack. Harbott is a 5-8, 180-pound senior who could be a valuable addition as a blocker and tough yardage runner.

Chris Mumm, a 5-11, 165-pound senior, picked up playing time last year when he was used in a rotation system with senior starter Jon Blomker. Peterson is a 6-3, 179-pound junior.

The linebackers and secondary will be as strong as the offensive backfield, with seniors Paul Frank, Seth Mattell and Nick Swanson joining Lee, Chodo and Harbott as experienced defenders.

Biggest graduation losses came in the line, where 6-2, 224-pound senior Chad Skeim is the lone returning starter on offense and 5-7, 205-pound senior nose guard Ryan Olson is the most experienced player in the defensive line. However, size will not be a problem, with Skeim being joined by the likes of 6-3, 255-pound Andrew Sulem and 6-7, 210-pound Todd Christensen, a pair of non-lettering juniors, along with 6-8, 277-pound Matt Myers, a junior transfer student from Warroad.

"We lose a lot of guys every year, but we have good numbers, and the next group is ready to step in," explained Jeff Mumm. "We're awfully, awfully big. We're strong, and we're physical. The kids put in a lot of hard work in the off-season, and it shows."

Other lettermen on hand include seniors Robert Spry, Bret Newton, Jay Radniecki, Michael Morris, Tony Fletcher, Adam Nordin, Eric Rouland, Travis Fornberg, Cody Hurchle, Kyle Williams, and Jonathan Lee.

Rest of the squad members include seniors Jeremy Swanson, Kelly Fossum, Eric Barber, and Kjell Hanson, juniors Wade Haviland, Allen Bolar, Colin Browning, Cody Crapeau, Joey Prihula, Levi Kraft, Nathan Oicken, Garrett Novak, Jesse Hornseth, Jeremy Smiky, Darren Torkelson, Jeff Risiov, T-Jay Wojciechowski, David Halverson, Jarod Reterson, Matt Oyer, Leif Spears, Aaron Sorvig, Kelly Cota, Jarrod Peterson, and Brendon Engen, along with sophomores John Cox, Brad Bulger, Derek Walseth, Zach Olson, Nick Drees, Mike Dowers, Peter Radniecki, Brent Nelson, Mark Chappelle, Adam Haviland, Jonathan Pream, Joshua Jensen, Tim Hruby, Nic Miller, Luke Miller, Chris Oahl, Matt Trontvet, Kris Hageman, Brett Johnson, and Kyle Newton.

With over 50 players in the top two grades and over 50 more freshmen and sophomores, the turnout caught even the coaches by surprise. "The numbers are great," acknowledged Jeff Mumm.

Anderson, Lee and Chris Mumm have been elected the Prowlers' 1997 captains.

Stephenie (left) and Alexandra Hagen of Newfolden competed recently in the Junior Division of the 1997 World Horseshoe Tournament in Kitchener, ON, where both had 12th place finishes – 14-year-old Stephanie in Class F and 9-year-old Alexandra in Class G.

Newfolden girls throw horseshoes...

Hagens part of '97 world tournament

Despite their young age, don't look for 12-year-old Stephanie and 9-year-old Alexandra Hagen to be overly nervous when they join five other Newfolden Horseshoe League throwers who will compete in the 1997 Minnesota state tournament Labor Day weekend in Sleepy Eye. After all, the two daughters of Jerald and Susan Hagen are already veterans of world tournament competition.

Stephanie and Alexandra recently returned from Canada, where they took part in the World Horseshoe Tournament in Kitchener, ON. They made a 17-day trip with their grandparents, Paul and Marilyn Hagen of Cooperstown, ND, that included the two-week tournament and vacation stops at places like Niagara Falls.

Competing against both boys and girls in the Junior Division for ages 17-below, Stephanie (7 1/2 percent ringers) and Alexandra (3 1/2 percent) both wound up with 12th place finishes – Stephanie in Class F and Alexandra in Class G. There were 16 competitors in each of the classes that ranged from A to J based upon your submitted ringer percentages in the required number of tournaments during the year.

Paul and Marilyn Hagen were also World Tournament competitors in the Senior Division. Marilyn placed third at the World Tournament held last year in Colorado, but neither of them were among the top finishers this time around.

World Tournament competition included five games to 40 shoes per day over a three-day span for each thrower.

Stephanie is in her third season of tournament competition. It's the first year for Alexandra. Both enjoyed success at a Mayville (ND) tournament, where Stephanie was second and Alexandra was third, before leaving for the World Tournament. They followed the trip up with another North Dakota tournament – at Cooperstown.

In its sixth year of operation, the Newfolden Horseshoe League will have a family-flavor state tournament delegation with Stephanie, Alexandra and Jerald Hagen, Gerald and Nathan Neirutt, Chad and Gary Domarski.

TRF runners have new coach

■ Terri Ueland heads cross country program

New Thief River Falls cross country coach Terri Ueland is working with a squad of 25 girls and boys in grades 6-through-12 in preparation for the 1997 season.

There are six lettermen among the 14 boys who reported for early-season workouts, but the only seniors in the group are Craig Lawrence and Brandon Gerardy. The other returning letter winners are sophomores Brady Anderson, Zach Both and Seth Hallos, along with freshman Dewey Worker.

The 11 girls out for the sport are led by five letter winners, including seniors Becky Mooney, Amber Klinker and BreAnn Engelberg, junior Jill Panck, and eighth grader Jacki Mooney.

Becky Mooney has established herself as one of the top distance runners in the area in both cross country and track. Brady Anderson has the potential to be the leader on the boys' team, pointed out Ueland, and senior Justin Walseth could be a solid addition.

Rest of the boys out for the sport are seniors Kyle Waterworth and Lyssuk Roman, juniors Tom Ingurty and Jayme Holmes, freshman Chad Burneman, eighth grader Tyler Both, seventh grader Jonathan Walrath, and sixth graders Jesse Sish and Casey Nelson.

Other girls involved in the program include junior Diana Hofstad, sophomore Erin McKercher, and eighth graders Rebekah Solem and Janae Harlow.

Ueland is a 1991 Lincoln High School graduate who was a standout track and cross country runner. She continued her running career at Jamestown College and has worked as an assistant coach with the Prowlers' track program the past two years.

A substitute teacher in School District 564, Ueland succeeds Caara Holmstrom as the Prowlers' cross country coach.

"I'm looking forward to the opportunity to be a head coach," said Ueland.

How the Prowlers stack up against the competition remains to be seen, but Ueland has a list of goals written down that she will have the team shooting for this fall.

"The attitude has been great," noted Ueland. "I couldn't ask for any more of them. We have 6 a.m. practices, and nobody is complaining."

The Prowlers open the 1997 season at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational, a Tuesday, Aug. 26, meet that will be held at Old Mill State Park.

Thief River Falls' lone home appearance – the Sports Boosters Invitational – will be held Monday, Sept. 29, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Jenny Smith

Two from Northland earn NJCAA honors

Two Northland Community and Technical College students were named to the 1996-97 National Junior College Athletic Association Academic All-America team, it was announced recently by Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson.

The pair includes Jenny Smith of Argyle and Chris Vanyo of Thief River Falls.

It was a double honor for Smith, who was also named Academic All-American in women's basketball. She was a member of the Pioneers volleyball and basketball programs for two years and played softball at Northland as a freshman. Smith was also a part of the 1996-97 student senate and was active in student life programming.

Vanyo was a member of the Northland baseball team the past two years, and was active in student life programming and intramural programs.

Nelson noted that both students worked hard in both athletic and academic programs. "These two fine individuals exemplify what our programs are really about at Northland," he said. "They narrowly missed being named to the elite Academic All-America team by only .02 grade points."

Schuler to coach Otters

Gary Schuler has resigned as the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo head boys high school basketball coach to accept a similar position at Fergus Falls High School.

Schuler has coached the Ponies the past 24 years, posting a 428-144 overall record at Warren, then Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

He takes over a Fergus Falls job that was vacated when Bob Bjorklund, the Otters' coach the past 17 years, resigned to become men's basketball coach at Bethel College in St. Paul.

Waterfowl seasons outlined

Fifth consecutive year of above-normal precipitation in major duck breeding areas has set the stage for an excellent fall flight this year, prompting the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to allow Mississippi Flyway states a 60-day duck season with a six-duck daily bag limit. In Minnesota, this would be the state's most liberal Minnesota duck season since 1958, according to the Department of Natural Resources. This is the third year that duck hunting regulations have been developed using Adaptive Harvest Management – a method that helps managers better understand the effects of regulations on waterfowl harvest and population levels.

The USFWS will also allow, for the second year, an additional day of hunting for a special Youth Duck Hunting Day. In Minnesota, this special youth day is planned for Saturday, Sept. 20, two weeks before the regular season opener.

Canada goose hunting seasons will be similar to last year, while snow, blue, and Ross' goose seasons and limits will be expanded.

"Duck populations will fluctuate in the future, based on the amount of available habitat and on prevailing weather conditions," said Tim Bremicker, chief of the DNR's Wildlife Section. "If large amounts of nesting habitat are plowed up, or if we have a drought, then the population will again drop as it did in the 1980s, no matter what regulations are in place."

The USFWS predicts the fall flight of ducks from the major duck breeding areas to be 92 million, similar to last year's prediction of 90 million. The mallard fall flight is predicted at 14.4 million, the highest since the USFWS began predicting fall flights in 1970.

The fall flight forecast of 92 million means that biologists estimate that number of ducks are now in the major flyway areas, where the surveys take place. Not accounted for are ducks in mountainous and forested areas, which, when added in, brings the total continental duck population to well over 100 million, the population goal for the North American Waterfowl Management Plan. "With duck numbers now exceeding the ambitious goal set for the Waterfowl Management Plan back in 1986, waterfowl conservationists have a lot to celebrate," said Bremicker.

The high duck populations demonstrate how well waterfowl respond to improved habitat conditions, Bremicker said. Ducks are benefitting from the combination of abundant water and the wetland and nesting habitat provided by the Conservation Reserve Program, North American Waterfowl Management Plan, and the work of many conservation organizations that have cooperated to ensure habitat enhancement and protection.

Minnesota waterfowl hunters numbered 130,200 last year, the highest since 1980. The 1996 duck harvest of 826,000 and seasonal bag of 6.9 ducks per hunter were the highest since 1984. While reports of poor hunting were common last fall, in many areas hunters were clearly having average to good success, thus providing for the highest duck harvest in 12 years. "We know that some hunters -- and I'm one of them -- did not see a lot of ducks last fall," said Bremicker. "And we know that the high expectations based on last fall's large flight forecast caused some disappointment and frustration among state duck hunters."

Bremicker noted that habitat conditions remain very good to the west of Minnesota, and the state may see a similar pattern of duck use as during the past few years: good numbers in the prairie and farmland areas but spotty distribution in the woods and the transition area between woods and prairie. The abundant water this year may result in a wide distribution of ducks throughout the prairies.

Minnesota's Canada goose harvest totaled 173,000 in 1996, the largest in the United States and a new Minnesota record. The increasing population and harvest of giant Canada geese continue to result in large harvests in the state, even given the relatively restrictive seasons in western Minnesota to protect the migrant Eastern Prairie Population of Canada geese.

Proposed Duck Season

The USFWS regulations proposal would allow Mississippi Flyway states, including Minnesota, to have a 60-day duck season with a six-duck daily bag limit, beginning no earlier than the Saturday nearest Oct. 1. Tentative dates for the 1997 Minnesota duck hunting season are noon Saturday, Oct. 4, through sunset, Tuesday, Dec. 2. Except for opening day, when shooting hours are noon to 4 p.m., shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to 4 p.m. daily through Saturday, Oct. 11, and from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset beginning Sunday, Oct. 12, through the close of the season. The number of season days having a 4 p.m. closure for shooting hours was reduced to eight by the Minnesota Legislature.

Bremicker noted that while most Minnesota lakes are frozen by mid-November, the 60-day season will provide opportunities for field hunting and hunting on large rivers that are still open.

Though some hunters have expressed concern that the six-duck limit is too high, Bremicker explained that it will have little effect on the overall waterfowl population. "At most it is anticipated that the increased bag limit will increase the overall flyway duck harvest by two percent," he said.

Species restrictions are proposed to be the same as last year, except the mallard hen daily bag limit will be increased to two and the pintail bag limit will be increased to three. The proposed daily bag limit of ducks is six, and may not include more than four mallards (only two of which may be a female), two wood ducks, one black duck, three pintails, two redheads and one canvasback. Possession limit is double the daily bag limit.

"The mallard hen limit and pintail limits were increased based on current population status and predictions for production of young this year," noted Bremicker. "This is similar to the early 1980s, when seasons were 50 days long with a limit of five ducks and the mallard hen limit was two rather than one."

Minnesota's second Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day is planned for Saturday, Sept. 20, during Take-A-Kid-Hunting Weekend. Individuals who are 15 years and younger, accompanied by an adult age 18 or over, can take ducks, mergansers, coots and moorhens on this day, following the regular season daily bag limits. The adult may not shoot these species. Minnesota had requested that the USFWS add a goose to the bag for the youth day this year, but that request was denied. Shooting hours will be from sunrise to 4 p.m.

Proposed Goose Season

Canada geese, the most abundant species in Minnesota's goose harvest, will have similar seasons to those in place last year. Seasons will remain restrictive in Minnesota's western goose zones because the numbers of Eastern Prairie Population Canada geese, which migrate through western Minnesota, remain below population objectives and were unchanged from last year.

The 30-day goose season in Lac qui Parle and the West Central zones will open one week later than the rest of the state to better coincide with goose presence in these zones. The short split in the season has been dropped this year. Proposed season dates are Saturday, Oct. 11, through Sunday, Nov. 9. The quota in the Lac qui Parle Goose Zone will be 16,000, the same as last year. In the West and Northwest goose zones the season will be 40 days long and will begin Oct. 4. The daily bag limit will be one Canada goose in these zones.

In the remainder of the state, the Canada goose season will be 70 days long and the daily bag limit will be two Canada geese. The December Canada goose hunts in the Twin Cities Metro, Olmsted County, and Fergus Falls/Alexandria goose zones will be held from Saturday, Dec. 13 through Monday, Dec. 22. The December Canada goose seasons will be continuous with the 70-day goose seasons except in the Fergus Falls/Alexandria goose zone south of Interstate 94, where there will be a break between the 30-day regular goose season and the December goose seasons.

Light goose (snow, blue and Ross' geese) seasons will be increased in length to overlap with open Canada goose seasons. The bag limit will be increased from seven to 10, the maximum allowed by the USFWS. Most light geese migrate to the west of Minnesota, and thus they make up a small portion of Minnesota's total goose harvest.

To comment on the proposed seasons, write Minnesota DNR, Section of Wildlife, 500 Lafayette Road - Box 7, St. Paul, MN 55155-4007, or write Chief, Office of Migratory Bird Management, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, ms 634 - ARLSQ, 1849 C Street, NW, Washington, DC 20240.

Proposed seasons are open for public comment to the USFWS through Sept. 4.

DNR officials will announce the final season dates and limits in early September. Waterfowl hunters should consult the "1997 Minnesota Hunting and Trapping Regulations" booklet, which is now available from license agents and DNR offices. For a complete summary of waterfowl regulations, consult the "1997 Minnesota Waterfowl Hunting Regulations Supplement," which will be available in mid-September.

DNR introduces new fold-out map for '97 deer hunting season

[illegible] thing has changed in this [illegible] Hunting and Trapping [illegible] booklet. The fold-out [illegible] map that hunters have been [illegible] since 1978 has had a make[illegible] for 1997.

[illegible] new map, which was created [illegible] electronically on a computer, [illegible] clearly shows zone and permit [illegible] boundaries and other important landmarks. In addition, it will be easier to make changes to [illegible] any adjustments in future [illegible].

Dave Schad, who oversees big game programs for the Department of Natural Resources, explained that the new map should be an improvement over the old map that was in use for almost 20 years. "The old map was based on the state highway map. It included a lot of extra information that was very difficult to read – information that deer hunters do not necessarily need to select the zone they want to hunt in and the antlerless permit area they are interested in applying for," Schad said.

Since there is not as much detail on the new map as was present on the old, some hunters may have to spend a bit more time looking at the map until they get familiar with the new format. "We have dropped off a lot of the small lakes and streams, towns and smaller roads that are not needed to identify important boundaries," Schad noted. "Some hunters might find it difficult to orient themselves using the new map until they get used to the new format that includes mainly zone and permit area boundaries."

DNR NEWS

Map Series Now Complete

Final six map areas of the Public Recreation Information Map (PRIM) series have now been completed, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. PRIM began with a 1989 appropriation through the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR), with direction to create the most comprehensive map available for outdoor recreation. PRIM is a full-color map, which divides the state into 51 map areas. The final six areas -- Ada, Albert Lea, Crookston, Fairmont, Wheaton and Worthington -- are now complete.

By bringing together federal, state and county lands into one map, PRIM can make it easier to find a favorite recreation area. Each map covers approximately 2,000 square miles and displays public campgrounds, public swimming areas, state trails, state forest roads, designated trout streams, canoe and boating routes, water access sites, fishing piers, different types of public administered lands (color coded), township, section and range lines, topography, and much more. A comprehensive, full-color chart featured on the back of each area map summarizes recreational facilities of the area. Proceeds from PRIM sales go back into the program to keep the maps current.

For help in determining which PRIM maps will best suit your needs, phone the DNR Information Center at (612) 296-6157 in the Twin Cities metro area, or call toll free in Minnesota 1-800-766-6000.

PRIM maps, which sell for $4.95, are available at sporting good shops, quick stop station-stores, and a number of DNR area and regional offices throughout the state. Complete sets are available from the Minnesota Book Store at 117 University Ave. in St. Paul and the DNR Gift Shop at 500 Lafayette Road in St. Paul.

Hunting procedures explained for Thief Lake, Lac qui Parle

Hunters may apply again this year to reserve goose hunting stations within the controlled hunt zone at the Lac qui Parle Wildlife Management Area (WMA) in west central Minnesota. Hunters do not need to reserve a station at the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area in northwestern Minnesota.

For Lac qui Parle WMA applications will be accepted on the basis of earliest postmark between Aug. 25 and Sept. 17. Applications postmarked prior to Aug. 25 will be rejected. Applications must be made on a standard three and one half by five and one half-inch post card (available at post offices) bearing the applicant's full name and address. Applicants should list their first, second and third choices of dates, and indicate whether they will accept an alternate date if none of their choices is available.

Only one postcard per hunter may be submitted. Those submitting more than one application will have all of their applications rejected. Applications should be sent to: Controlled Hunt, Lac qui Parle Wildlife Management Area, 14047 20th Street NW, Watson, MN 56295.

Successful Lac qui Parle applicants will receive reservations by mail designating the date of their hunt. Only successful applicants will be notified. Goose hunting stations will be assigned through a drawing held on the morning of the hunt. Reservation holders may be accompanied by one or two guests. However, persons participating in the reservation drawing will be limited to three trips either as guests or as successful applicants. There is no limit to the number of times hunters may participate in the stand-by drawings.

At Thief Lake, the reservation system was discontinued in 1995 due to decreasing numbers of applicants in recent years. However, hunters must still report to the check station each morning to sign up for hunting stations. Goose hunting stations will be assigned at drawings held at 6 a.m. and 9 a.m. daily. All other rules will remain the same as last year. Additional information can be obtained from: Thief Lake WMA Management Area, HCR 3, Box 17, Middle River, MN 56737, phone (218) 222-3747.

At Thief Lake, drawings for stations will be held only through Oct. 20. After that date, stations will be available on a first-come, first-choice basis. The reservation system will be in effect at Lac qui Parle for the entire goose season.

At Lac qui Parle, all hunters using hunting stations in the controlled hunt zone who are 18 years of age or older will be charged a $3 fee on the day of their hunt to partially cover controlled hunt special expenses.

Although waterfowl season dates will not be officially set until early September, the regular Minnesota goose season is expected to open Oct. 4, except for the West-Central and Lac qui Parle Zones, where the tentative opening date is Oct. 11. The one-week delay is meant to better coincide hunting opportunities around peak goose numbers within the 30-day goose season framework. The six-shell limit, shooting hours, and non-toxic shot restrictions will be strictly enforced at both hunts, according to DNR.

Deer license sales are now under way

The 1997 Minnesota deer hunting regulations, licenses, and applications for antlerless permits and special hunts were made available the week of Aug. 11 from county auditors' offices, license vendors, and the Department of Natural Resources License Bureau in St. Paul.

The application deadline for antlerless permits and special hunts is Thursday, Sept. 4, except that applications for the Camp Ripley archery hunt must be received by Aug. 15 and the deadline for the New Ulm archery hunt is Aug. 30.

The firearms deer season will open Nov. 8, archery deer Sept. 13 (statewide), and muzzleloader deer Nov. 29.

As in past years, hunters who applied for either an antlerless permit or firearms special hunt in 1996 will be mailed a DNR postcard with a peel-off label to use on the permit application form, except that no postcards will be mailed to applicants for permit areas in Zone 1 and Zone 2 where no permits are being offered in 1997. The labels are bar-coded. Hunters are encouraged to use the labels to minimize the possibility of errors and reduce data entry costs.

Hunters are also encouraged to mail their permits early to avoid the last minute rush, and to reduce the chances of applications being lost or misplaced in the mail. A preference system will be used to draw successful applicants for both antlerless and special hunt permits.

Antlerless permit applications will not be accepted for bucks-only permit areas. However, hunters who do not apply for a permit this year, or who decide to switch zones, will retain whatever preference they currently have in the drawing system.

A total of 150,195 antlerless permits will be offered to firearms hunters, a 3 percent reduction from last year and the lowest total since 1990. Much of Zone 1 (northeastern Minnesota) and northern areas of Zone 2 (central Minnesota) will be restricted to bucks-only hunting by all hunters (including youth, archers, and muzzleloaders hunters) in 1997. There were suggestions from some legislators and hunters that the season should be closed or shortened in northern areas. A series of public meetings conducted by the DNR to discuss the issue revealed, however, that a majority of respondents supported the normal 16-day season as long as there were adequate restrictions to protect the deer population.

In agricultural and transition areas of southern and western portions of the state, deer populations are at or near goal levels, and antlerless permit quotas have been increased from last year. A strong harvest is expected from those areas this fall. Significant regulation changes this fall are:

• Deer licenses for all seasons (archery, firearms, and muzzleloader) may now be purchased at any time. However, licenses purchased after the opener of the respective season will have a two-day waiting period before the license is valid. For example, a deer license purchased on the first Saturday of the season would not be valid until the following Monday. Previously, no firearms or muzzleloader license could be purchased after the start of the firearms season, and archery licenses purchased after the start of that season required a 5-day wait.

• Intensive Harvest Permits that allow hunters to take up to five deer in areas with high deer populations have been expanded to some central and southeastern Minnesota areas. Areas where the permits are valid for 1997 include antlerless permit areas 228, 337, 343, 346, 347, 401, 409, 419 and 429, as well as several special hunts.

• The boundary between antlerless permit areas 205 and 211 near Burnette have been adjusted slightly to provide for better management of antlerless deer harvests in that area.

In 1996, approximately 415,000 firearms hunters harvested 139,000 deer during the firearms season and an additional 3,400 during the muzzleloader season. Approximately 62,000 archery hunters harvested a total of 14,000 deer.

Licenses cost $23 for residents and $111 for non-residents. A $15 multi-zone buck license allows resident hunters to tag bucks-only in more than one zone. There is also a $5 youth firearms deer license, without a tag, that is available for residents 12 to 15 years of age. This license, which was made permanent by the 1997 Minnesota Legislature, requires that the youth be accompanied by a licensed hunter at least 18 years of age who possesses a valid tag, and that any deer taken by the youth hunter be tagged by another member of the party.

Warren Gun Club to host expert shooter

Tom Knapp, a world record holding shooting expert, will demonstrate his talents at a shooting exhibition 2 p.m. Monday, September 1, at the Warren Rod and Gun Club.

Knapp can shoot an aspirin tablet thrown into the air or slice a playing card in half at 20 paces with a .22 rifle. Knapp has also broken the world record by hitting nine hand-thrown clay targets with nine shots using a Benelli shotgun.

Knapp grew up in Elk River, MN, where the feel of his fist wrapped around a gun stock and mounted to his shoulder has been a part of his life since age 11.

Although Knapp is constantly updating and improving his show, a spectator might expect to see on any given day, Tom shoot and hit, all of the following hand-thrown targets: billiard chalk, a charcoal briquette, golf balls, candy balls, a head of lettuce and potatoes. And because he enjoys audience participation, it's not unusual for him to ask for a volunteer to aid him with a surprise shot or two. Of course, being a well-rounded sportsman, he has also perfected his golf game by substituting a driving-iron for what else — a Benelli shotgun.

Tickets are $5 for adults, children 12 and younger are free. Ticket holders also receive a chance to win a 20-gauge Remington Express 870 shotgun.

The Warren Rod and Gun Club is located one mile east of Warren.

Volunteer Instructors Meet

They are the volunteers responsible for teaching ethical, skillful techniques to more than 75,000 Minnesota hunters over the past 20 years. Many of Minnesota's approximately 750 advanced hunter and bowhunter education instructors will celebrate that success story Aug. 1-3 at the Forest Resource Center near Lanesboro during the 21st annual Hunter Education Rendezvous. Participating in events ranging from bat cave tours to advanced training sessions, the volunteers will be rewarded for their contributions while they also learn new skills.

New hunter education instructors are needed to meet a growing demand for certified instructors. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources offers instructor training for its Bowhunter Education and Advanced Hunter Education programs on a regular basis. Bowhunter Education Program instructor candidates learn how to facilitate bowhunting seminars using techniques like cooperative learning, using videos as a learning tool, and effectively using other archers and pro-shop operators as education resource people. Advanced Hunter Education instructor candidates learn how to facilitate seminars using group discussions to reach a consensus on hunting-related issues, using videos as learning tools, using resource professionals most effectively, and much more.

For dates and locations of upcoming instructor training sessions, call Bev Auger toll free in Minnesota at 1-800-766-6000.

Car smashes through house, driver runs

Sunday evening local residents Frank and Deb Bruggeman and their family were shocked when a car smashed through a wall of their house. Frank and the children in the home were not injured, but Deb Bruggeman had a puncture wound to her leg.

According to police in Thief River Falls, police were dispatched to a residence at 402 Hickory Road at 11:01 p.m. because a pickup had smashed through a wall of the house. According to the police report, the pickup was traveling south on Pennington Avenue and attempted to turn east onto Hickory when the driver lost control and the pickup struck the house. The driver of the pickup then put the vehicle in reverse and attempted to back out. When he discovered he couldn't back out, he ran from the scene.

When officers arrived on the scene they located and arrested Nathan Wayne Ptacek, 18, Thief River Falls. Ptacek was found hiding among some trees.

Ptacek faces possible charges of driving while intoxicated, refusal to test, possession of drug paraphernalia, failure to provide proof of insurance and leaving the scene of an accident.

Damage to the Bruggeman house was estimated by police at $6,000. Police estimated damage to the 1979 pickup driven by Ptacek at $2,000.

According to the accident report, a juvenile was driving a vehicle when a passenger lost his hat out the window. The driver stopped quickly, and another passenger, who was riding on the hood of the vehicle fell off and injured his head. The driver of the vehicle faces a charge of reckless driving. (Juvenile names could not be released in this case.)

According to the accident report, Robert Ellsworth Rowley, Jr., no address, was driving east when he lost control of the motorcycle he was driving and it went into a skid. Rowley was taken to Northwest Medical Center with numerous cuts and scrapes and a puncture wound to his head. He was later transferred to Altru hospital in Grand Forks.

On August 12 at 9:55 a.m. police received a report of an accident in the 100 block of Zeh Street East. According to the accident report, Tony Russell Dorn, Jr., Thief River Falls, was backing up a Ford Bronco west and it collided with a car driven by Bruce Allan Felt, Thief River Falls. The pickup went into the ditch. It was considered a total loss. Halse had head and chest injuries but did not go to the hospital.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

IRS errs in assessing some late penalties

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has inadvertently assessed late penalties against some taxpayers in the disaster areas of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota who qualified for extensions of time to file individual and business tax returns and pay any taxes due.

"If you received one of these erroneous notices," states Tom Palmer, director of the North Central IRS district which includes North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota, "we sincerely want to apologize to you. You are entitled to this relief and we want to make sure you get it."

To help the IRS quickly remove these penalties, taxpayers in the three-state area are asked to contact the IRS office in Aberdeen, SD. Mail a copy of the penalty notice to: '97 Disaster, Internal Revenue Service, 115 Fourth Avenue Southeast, Aberdeen, SD 57401. Please write "'97 DISASTER" or similar language on the notice. If taxpayers prefer, they may fax a copy of the notice to 605-226-7270.

Taxpayers in the hardest hit portions of the disaster area have until August 15 to file various returns and pay any taxes due. This relief applies to businesses and individuals in Big Stone, Chippewa, Clay, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Polk, Wilkin and Yellow Medicine counties in Minnesota, six counties in North Dakota and 15 counties in South Dakota.

In the hardest hit counties mentioned above, returns originally due on or after April 15 and before August 15 are due August 15. This includes individual income tax returns, gift tax returns, partnership returns, corporate income tax returns, estate and trust income tax returns and annual returns filed by tax-exempt organizations.

In addition, the IRS will not charge a late filing or late payment penalty if employment and excise tax returns for the first and second quarters of 1997 are filed by August 15. Finally, no penalty will be assessed if all federal employment and excise tax deposits due on or after April 1 and before June 30 were made by June 30.

In 44 other Minnesota counties and the remaining portions of North Dakota and South Dakota, any individual or business return originally due on April 15 must have been filed and the taxes paid by May 30 to avoid a late filing or late payment penalty. In addition, no penalty will be assessed if all federal employment and excise tax deposits due during the month of April were made by April 30.

Included in the 44 Minnesota counties in this part of the flood disaster area are Clearwater, Lake of the Woods, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau.

Special blizzard relief was provided to farmers in 49 counties of Minnesota and in all of North Dakota and South Dakota. Farmers who chose not to make estimated tax payments for 1996 had until April 1 to file their 1996 federal income tax returns and pay any amount due. The normal deadline for most of these farmers is March 1. No estimated tax penalty will be charged.

Minnesota counties qualifying under the special blizzard relief include Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau.

The IRS notes that it cannot remove interest charges. By law, interest—currently at the rate of nine percent per year—must be charged from the original due date of any tax return until the tax is paid.

Kidnapping, criminal sexual conduct sentences handed down

Two individuals convicted of felonies were sentenced in Ninth District Court in Pennington County last Monday. Nicola Lee Vaughan was sentenced for felony aiding kidnapping and Darrell Shar Sams was sentenced for felony criminal sexual conduct in the second degree.

Nicola Vaughan, 23, Rosemount, was sentenced on a conviction for felony aiding kidnapping. The charge against Vaughan stems from an incident on April 24, 1997, during which he participated in taking another individual to Red Lake Reservation and then leaving him there. Originally, Vaughan also faced a charge of second degree assault. That charge was dismissed.

For his part in the crime, Vaughan was ordered to pay fines and fees totaling $630, $80 in restitution and serve one year in jail with all but 120 days stayed for one year. He was also placed on unsupervised probation for one year.

Darrell Shar Sams, 23, Thief River Falls, was convicted of second degree criminal sexual conduct. The charge against Sams stems from an incident on May 23 during which he allegedly fondled a female child. Originally, he was charged with criminal sexual conduct in the first degree. That charge was changed to criminal sexual conduct in the second degree.

Sams was ordered to pay $630 in fines and fees, and serve eight months in jail. He was placed on supervised probation for 15 years and ordered to register as a sex offender, report any change of address, and have a blood test.

Supplement To The Times

Excitement is in the air at Franklin School

"There seems to be a lot of excitement in the air about the opening of classes this fall, primarily because of the many new staff members that we will have this year," states Chris Mills, dean of students and himself a new staff member at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls.

There were a number of retirements of Franklin staff during and at the end of the past school year, and filling of those vacancies will bring new faces, new ideas and new personalities into the school, Mills believes.

"Because of all the new staff members, it is all the more important for parents and students to participate in orientation and open house sessions," Mills said.

Open house is being planned for Thursday, August 28, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. A shortened version of the students' daily schedule will be conducted to allow students to become familiar with their classrooms and permit parents to meet teachers and see how their children's day will be spent in school.

Sixth grade orientation is just being completed and participation was good, Mills said. Anyone who will have students at Franklin this fall and has not yet registered them for classes is asked to call the school office at 681-8813.

Mills also said there will be some new wrinkles in the old fabric at Franklin this year, including introduction of a POPS program and a weekly newsletter for parents.

Power of Positive Students (POPS) will be a reward program for positive behavior, Mills said. All staff members will be provided with a supply of commendation slips to be handed out whenever students are observed to be doing something well. They will sign the slips and turn them in at the office for a weekly drawing.

About seven names a week will be drawn from the slips turned in, Mills said, "and those students will be recognized as Students of the Week. Their names will be entered with other weekly winners for selection of five Students of the Month."

Faculty, custodians, aides, clerical staff and anyone else connected with the school can hand out the slips. Purpose of the program is to emphasize to students that positive behavior by anyone is recognized and appreciated.

The weekly newsletter should have its first mailing this week and will also be distributed by mail next week. Thereafter it will be sent home with students each Wednesday, Mills said. The newsletter will contain information on activities and events, student recognition, honor rolls, attendance and announcements about the school of interest to parents. Sue Bendickson and Kelly Dernster of the office staff will have primary responsibility for the newsletter.

Increased Internet access at the school is being developed in the media center and the computer lab, the dean of students said, and will be of benefit to both students and faculty.

Student and parent handbooks have been combined into one volume this year and were made available to parents of sixth grade students at the orientation sessions. They will be mailed to parents of seventh and eighth graders. Any family with a Franklin student who does not receive a copy of the handbook in the near future may obtain one at the school office.

Filing dates for I.S.D. 564 election set

The period for filing affidavits of candidacy for the office of school board in Independent School District 564 shall begin on Tuesday, August 26, and will close at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 9, 1997.

The general election will be held on Tuesday, November 4. At that election, one member will be elected to the school board for a term of three years and one member for a term of five years.

Affidavits of candidacy are available from the school district personnel office, School District Service Center, 230 South LaBree Ave., Thief River Falls. The filing fee for this office is $2. A candidate for the office must be an eligible voter, must be 21 years of age or more on assuming office, must have been a resident of the school district from which the candidate seeks election for 30 days before the general election, and must have no other affidavit on file for any other office at the same general election.

The affidavits of candidacy must be filed in the office of school district personnel office and the filing fee paid prior to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 9.

Dean of students at Franklin middle school for the 1997-98 school term is Christopher E. Mills. Mills earned his Associate of Arts degree at Northland Community College and his bachelor of science degree in elementary education and master of science degree in educational administration and leadership at Bemidji State University. He most recently attended St. Cloud State University and has qualified for the Minnesota elementary principal license and Minnesota superintendent license. He also taught fifth grade at Benson for four years.

Classes at Northland start Sept. 3

New and returning students at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls will report for fall quarter classes beginning September 3.

"We're looking forward to an exciting academic year," states Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of NCTC. "This is the third year of our consolidated community and technical college and it appears that everything goes more smoothly every year."

Early indications are that Northland's enrollment will be about the same as last fall.

"The numbers look good when compared to the decreasing numbers at most of the other state colleges this fall," notes registrar Dennis Hendrickson.

Topping the enrollment figures at Northland are the 278 students studying for their liberal arts degree, the 170 students in the criminal justice program and the 458 students enrolled in technical majors.

Northland opens the doors to new students on Tuesday, September 2, with New Student Orientation Day.

School Board hopes levy referendum passes

School board representatives in I.S.D. 564 are hoping that four times will be the charm and voters will approve a levy referendum which will be held in November.

During the past five years, about $1 million has been cut from budgets. During the past three elections, however, voters have told school board members to make those cuts.

In November, voters will again be faced with making a decision relating to increasing the general education revenue of the school district, or forcing the board to make more cuts.

Passage of the levy would increase general education revenue by $234.95 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue would be used to finance school operations. The property tax portion of the issue would require an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0494 percent.

The levy would generate an estimated $621,567 in additional revenue, but taxpayers in the district would not pick up the entire amount. If the referendum is passed, state aid would amount to $484,187. Local taxpayers would pick-up roughly 22 percent of the levy amount or $137,380.

Similar proposed increases in the levy for School District 564 have been defeated in three previous elections.

In 1994, the school board proposed a levy referendum that would have increased its general education revenue by $289.29 per actual pupil unit. The property tax portion of the levy would have required an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0566 percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district. It would have been in effect for 10 years unless otherwise revoked or reduced as provided by law. Voters defeated the proposal 2,700 to 1,796.

In 1995, the school board also proposed a levy referendum. It failed by a vote of 1,371 (no), to 1,263 (yes). The school board had proposed to increase its general education revenue by $281.24 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue raised by the levy increase would finance school operations. The proposed increase would have required an increase of approximately 0.0646 percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district. The referendum would have been in effect for 10 years, unless revoked or reduced by law.

In 1996, the board attempted to pass another levy referendum. It too failed — this time by a vote of 2,793 (no) to 2,725 (yes). The levy would have generated an estimated $623,800 for general operating expenses. They purpose of the levy was to increase its general education revenue by $239.31 per actual pupil unit. The property tax portion of the levy would have required an estimated referendum tax rate of approximately 0.0583 percent of the referendum market value of all taxable property in the district.

Lincoln science department and the Franklin middle school science program will have a new instructor for the 1997-98 school year. Charles Karp has a bachelor of science degree in aquatic biology from Bemidji State University and a dozen years of teaching experience in science, health and mathematics. He has taught at Northland high school in Remer (two years), Fond du Lac Ojibway school in Cloquet (five years), Carlton high school (one year), Grand Rapids Middle Area Learning Center (one year), Grand Meadow high school (two years) and Baker Valley Unified School in Baker, CA (one year).

TRF Police Chief Issues School's Open Message

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser is urging drivers to be extra alert this time of year. "School is open again, and it's an exciting time for children, especially youngsters attending school for the first time. Unfortunately, it also means that young, inexperienced pedestrians and bicyclists are in the traffic mix, where they are more likely to be struck by cars," said Chief Froschheiser.

Motorists can help reduce the risk to children going to and from school by: slowing down in school and residential areas; watching for clues that give warning of children in the area (safety patrols, bikes, adult crossing guards, school busses); obeying school bus stop laws; clearing fogged windows before driving; obeying all traffic signs; avoiding school zones during arrival and dismissal hours.

Nationally, each year thousands of children are struck by automobiles. Chief Froschheiser suggests that all parents instruct their children in safe crossing practices before the opening of school. Walking the route to school several times before it opens is recommended.

Instruct children on how to judge if there is adequate time to cross a street. Never enter the roadway from between parked cars. When there is no sidewalk and it is necessary to walk on the roadway, walk on the far left side, facing traffic. Use crosswalks and designated school crossings whenever possible.

Some youngsters, especially those venturing away from home for the first time, may never have learned traffic safety. Others may have forgotten over the summer. Thus drivers need to be cautious, especially around schools, bus stops, and areas where children walk to school.

One clue that can alert drivers to the presence of school children is the familiar orange "Sam Browne" belt worn by School Safety Patrols. These young leaders, who help their classmates safely across the streets, have protected school children and even saved lives for many years.

"Remember, children are greatly influenced by their peers and imitate the actions of adults even if they are poor traffic safety role models," reminded Chief Froschheiser. "Excitable and unpredictable students are in traffic areas they may have never experienced before or may have been away from for three months," Froschheiser concluded.

NCTC volleyball, football teams to report on Friday

Northland Community and Technical College Athletic Director Rick Nelson, volleyball coach Shari Olson and football coach Gene Klinke have announced the starting dates for the upcoming 1997 fall sports season.

Athletes who are interested in participating in volleyball or football are to report to Northland Friday, Aug. 22, at 8 a.m.

"We will conduct an orientation session, review the student athlete handbook and take care of all the necessary paper work so that practices can begin Saturday, Aug. 23," explained Nelson.

Both coaches are optimistic heading into the 1997 season.

"We have a good group of players returning from last year's squad, plus our recruiting year was very successful," said Olson.

"We were extremely disappointed in last year," acknowledged Klinke. "However, that's behind us and we have some exciting players returning from that team, as well as some great freshmen."

The Pioneers open their volleyball season with a triangular at Minot State University-Bottineau Friday, Sept. 5. Their home opener will be the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters triangular Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Northland starts its football season Saturday, Sept. 6, vs. Ridgewater in Willmar. The home opener is the annual Pepsi Bowl and Family Day Saturday, Sept. 13, vs. Fergus Falls.

Any students planning to attend Northland this fall who would like additional information on the Pioneers' athletic programs should contact Olson at 681-0869 or Klinke at 681-0839.

St. Bernard's teacher attends NASA workshop

Laura Brickson, fourth grade teacher at St. Bernard's School in Thief River Falls, recently attended the NASA/NEWEST workshop (National Educational Workshops for Elementary Science Teachers) at the NASA Ames Research Center in Palo Alto, CA.

In collaboration with the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA), the two-week seminar highlighted aeronautics, space, science, mathematics and technology.

The workshop featured tours of NASA Ames Research Center, Moffit Field, Pescadero State Park, Monterey Aquarium, Los Tranens Open Space Preserve, Lick Observatory and the United States Geological Survey.

Sessions were led by National Aeronautic and Space Administration researchers and scientists, notably Dr. Christopher McKay, a leading expert on Mars.

St. Bernard's will have the opportunity to utilize NASA information and resources to enhance their curriculum. Students will explore a variety of activities such as plants in space, aeronautics and a Mars simulation replicating the recent Mars Pathfinder mission. Also, St. Bernard's will be able to borrow a lunar sample education display disc allowing the students a first hand encounter with actual rocks from the moon.

NCTC student senate plans fall activities

Student senate members at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls are developing an active schedule for students attending the college this fall, according to Rick Nelson, NCTC activities director.

"The student senate members have been going hard and strong in planning the 1997-1998 school activities," he said. "They have been meeting at least twice a month preparing for lots of festivities."

College activities begin on Tuesday, September 2, with new student orientation. Classes will start the following day. Nelson reports that the senate has Kick-Off Week activities planned, including an outdoor game night and picnic, hypnotist Frederick Winters and arrangements are nearly completed for the Johnny Holm Traveling Fun Show.

Northland students will also find many athletic events with the volleyball and football teams in action and Homecoming '97 activities scheduled the week of September 22.

Northland Student Senate has 12 members, headed by Paula Hovda of Roseau as president. Navy vice president is Kerrin Stoskopf of Warroad and scarlet vice president is Brenda Dahlin of Thief River Falls. Devin Grugal of Roosevelt is treasurer and Melissa Bernstein of Grygla is secretary.

Other senators are Cami Sorenson of Thief River Falls, Jenny Gustafson, Nic Thompson, Carrie Cameron and Annie Pumplun of Warroad, Shanna Meagher of Pembina, ND and Dean Amundson of Sauk Rapids.

The student senate appreciates the support of the community and hopes many area residents will become involved in the fun and support college activities.

NCTC freshman orientation Sept. 2

Freshmen students will open the 1997 fall quarter Tuesday, September 2, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

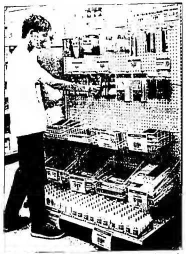
"This is an important day for new students," said Don Howe, director of enrollment management. "This gives them the opportunity to learn about the many services Northland offers students and the responsibilities they accept when entering college."

Howe said the event, organized by NCTC marketing director Ginger Kaufman, combines special activities as well as information.

"We will greet the students with coffee, juice and treats in the morning, provided by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, serve them lunch at noon and an outdoor cookout to close out the day," Kaufman said. "It should be a lot of fun for new students.

"We also have special sessions for family and friends to attend," Kaufman added. "This gives them the opportunity to find out what college will be like for their students."

New student orientation begins with registration at 8:15 a.m., a welcome in the college theater at 8:45 a.m. and student and family information sessions at 9:20 a.m.



While at SuperValu for a few half gallons of milk and a couple loaves of bread for that after school snack, why not pick up some of the supplies you will need for the classroom? And if your pen runs out of ink in the middle of a theme or you need a notebook for tomorrow's special project, SuperValu is open from 6 a.m. to midnight seven days a week.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robicheau
Superintendent
School District 564

by Jerry W. Robicheau, Ph.D.
Superintendent of Schools

On behalf of the Board of Education, the administration and staff of Independent School District 564, I would like to welcome you to a quality learning system. As we look at the dynamic organization of our school, we are a quality program which is continually striving to improve that quality and assure that students who come to our school are given every opportunity to learn to their fullest potential.

Based on the Mission and the Strategic Plan that was developed in 1994, we have identified goals that we feel are essential to assure a positive direction for our school system. I'd like to take just a moment to share these goals with you.

Goal 1: To create a Thief River Falls partnership for learning. Education is a partnership of the community, parents, students and schools.

Goal 2: To expand the technology network to include community access and utilization, instructional use, information resources, communication link, and management tool. Technology is a tool used to enhance instruction, communication and data collection. It becomes an integral part of our educational process. If we do not provide the technology necessary for students to enhance their learning, we are not providing them with every opportunity they deserve.

Goal 3: To develop a quality learning system. Learning must be presented in an environment that is quality. We must make sure that we have quality teachers, quality curriculum, and quality facilities. In addition, we need to consider such things as values in education, respect, trust, responsibility, honesty, and positive communication between home and school.

Goal 4: To develop a quality human resource program. We want to maintain the most knowledgeable, talented, and enthusiastic staff working with our children.

Goal 5: To develop an efficient process for fiscal resource allocation. Our school system is supported by taxpayers dollars. Therefore, we need to be accountable to the taxpayers and we need to allocate our resources with the primary focus of improved and increased student learning.

Goal 6: To develop a facilities management system that assures ISD 564's facilities are maintained as a safe environment where learning can take place. We're very fortunate to have tremendous facilities. We must make sure we do everything we can to maintain those facilities.

The way a quality school system becomes even more quality is through partnerships. We invite, encourage, and support community participation in our school system. We're considering the development of parent resource centers across the district so that parents will feel more a part of our schools. These are the community schools. We are a community of learners. We must work together in order to assure that all children receive the best education they possibly can. It takes all of us working together to provide the quality school programs that we have come to expect in Independent School District 564.

We know this is going to be a tremendous year. We're excited and as the year progresses, we hope to see most of you personally involved in a greater part of your child's education. We welcome and value your input and if we can be of any assistance, please feel free to give any of us in the school system a call. It is with your support and involvement that this will be a tremendous year for students in Independent School District 564.

Dr. Beich honored by TRF Council for work with local police

Dr. Orion Beich was honored by the Thief River Falls City Council Tuesday, August 12. Beich was honored for his many years of service on the city's Police Civil Service Commission.

Dr. Orion D. Beich was first appointed as a member of the Police Civil Service Commission on November 14, 1972, and has served continuously as a member and for the past several years as chairman.

Mayor Robert Reeve said his faithful service on the Police Civil Service Commission has been exemplified by his concern for the individual citizen and their interaction with members of the Thief River Falls police department. The proclamation also stated that "his frequent visits to the law enforcement center did much to convey his support and interest in all members of the police department. His Christmastime visits were especially appreciated."

Mayor Reeve said the caliber of current members of the Thief River Falls police department reflect most highly on his interest in and his active participation in the Police Civil Service Commission interview process.

Mayor Reeve awarded him a certificate of commendation.

Dr. Orion Beich was honored by the Thief River Falls City Council Tuesday night. Beich was honored because of his many years of service on the Police Civil Service Commission. Beich was first appointed as a member of the Police Civil Service Commission on November 14, 1972. He has served continuously as a member and for the past several years as chairman.

The Right actions can minimize immediate stress during accidents

The national average for an insurance-paid auto claim is $11,161; average property damage cost is $2,086, according to the I.I.I. 1997 Fact Book, published by the Insurance Information Institute. These averages are a major factor in the cost of auto insurance.

"Statistics also show Minnesota residents pay an average of $620 in auto insurance," says Tim Hoffman, executive vice president and general manager of Farm Bureau Financial Services' property-casualty operations. These costs reflect the number of auto accidents that occur within the state. By driving defensively, consumers can reduce their chance of an accident and increase the chance of maintaining their current premiums.

What should drivers do if they're involved in an accident? The right actions can minimize the immediate stress of the situation and also facilitate follow-up activity. First, if there are serious injuries and/or the vehicles have major damage, leave the vehicles where they are. Do Not move an injured person unless there is immediate danger such as a potential fire, or the position of the car is near an embankment or water.

Second, if there are no injuries and vehicles are driveable, move to the side of the road until police arrive. Get out and stand a safe distance from the roadway. Do not stand between the cars.

Next, call the police and request medical assistance if necessary. Any time there are injuries, drivers Must report the accident to police. Drivers are also advised to take down detailed information, even if the police will be doing the same. Finally, drivers should contact their insurance companies as soon as possible to report the accident.

For assistance with accident reports, Farm Bureau Financial Services has developed a free guide and "Auto Glove Box Organizer." To receive a copy, call Farm Bureau Financial Services toll-free at 1-800-414-4453.

Barley straw offers solution to odor problems for ACS

Controlling odors from ponds holding industrial wastewater could be as easy as spreading a layer of barley straw over the water.

Results from an ongoing demonstration at the American Crystal Sugar Co. (ACS) beet processing plant in East Grand Forks have been so encouraging that the company is planning to use the technique next year at its plants in East Grand Forks, Crookston, and Hillsboro, ND. Although ACS invests approximately $10 million annually in environmental measures, controlling odors from wastewater ponds has had its ups and downs.

"With barley straw over the ponds, they smell like straw in a country field," says Larry Carlson, ACS factory environmental coordinator. "Right now, this looks like the most promising opportunity we've seen."

ACS learned of the odor control technology through its membership in the Red River Water Management Consortium, a program founded and coordinated by the University of North Dakota Energy and Environmental Research Center (EERC), Grand Forks. The idea originated at the Prairie Agricultural Machinery Institute (PAMI) in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, Canada, which successfully used barley straw to control odors from half-acre hog manure lagoons. The EERC proposed using it on an even larger scale to cover five to six-acre holding ponds at ACS plants.

ACS contracted with PAMI to conduct a demonstration this summer using the barley straw to cover one of five wastewater holding ponds at the East Grand Forks plant. In June during the first application of this technology in the United States, the barley straw was spread using a modified Bale Pro 6600 produced by Highline Manufacturing, Vonda, Saskatchewan, Canada. The project is being coordinated by the RRWMC. Researchers from the EERC are monitoring and evaluating the demonstration.

Odor problems were aggravated at the ACS plant by the record flooding that struck East Grand Forks and Grand Forks this past April. Carlson said the plant lost all electrical power and was shut down for five days. Storm water from the plant's post-flood cleanup had to be stored in plant's wastewater treatment ponds. Because of extended operations, ACS was later than usual in discharging much of its treated wastewater.

"This is a really good test to find out how well the technology works," Carlson says.

Tom Moe, EERC research engineer, says that the Highline "straw cannon" shoots the barley straw up to 150 feet, depending on wind conditions. Once a straw mat is laid down, the wind is used to drift sections into place. Ideally, a layer of straw eight to 12 inches thick covers the entire pond, although Moe says that achieving total coverage can be difficult. The first application went so well that ACS decided to cover a second pond with barley straw.

"You can really notice a marked difference after the straw is applied," Moe says. "The key is to monitor the pond and touch up open areas that form because of changing wind conditions."

Dan Stepan, EERC project manager, says that once the straw is in place, it acts as a biofilter. Microbes living in the straw rapidly multiply and capture the volatile organic compounds that create odors, converting them into odorless carbon dioxide and water. Therefore, the straw doesn't simply serve as a cover on the pond but acts as a home to a large population of odor-eating microbes.

EERC researchers will evaluate results from the barley straw demonstration throughout the year. Stepan says that questions remain about the straw's durability and the ultimate fate of the straw cover. He expects that it will eventually sink to the bottom of the pond to later be removed with the accumulated soil [illegible]

Carlson says that ACS is so pleased with the results thus far that plans are already being made to purchase a barley straw cannon from Highline Manufacturing. Arrangements are also being made to purchase and store enough barley straw for use at other ACS sugar beet processing facilities next year. Approximately 70 large round straw bales are needed to cover one acre of water.

During 1997 the RRWMC received $280,000 in funding from the United States Department of Agriculture for a variety of projects addressing technical issues related to the development of a water management strategy for the Red River Basin. Stakeholders in the consortium are providing an additional $80,000 in funding.

The EERC is one of UND's major sources of research funding, attracting more than $25 million in fiscal year 1996 in federal, state and private contracts. The Center, which employs 220 people, is an international leader in energy and environmental research, conducting projects for clients from throughout the United States and the world.

Soil surveys now available

Copies of the published soil survey for Beltrami County are now available.

The soil survey packet includes a book and a collection of the soil survey maps. These are available to landowners at no cost. The Marshall-Beltrami SWCD has a limited number on hand, but we will also take your name and get additional copies for anyone who is interested. We can also provide guidance on the use and interpretation of the survey, which can be a valuable tool in farm management and managing our natural resources. Copies can also be obtained at the NRCS/SWCD office in Bemidji.

I was looking at the chokecherry tree today and was [illegible] the robin had left the berries alone this year. Perhaps she remembered getting the cramps when her mother fed her green ones when she was [illegible] year and determined to be a better mother to her little ones. She did hatch three batches of little ones, fed them up and kicked them out of the nest, [illegible] more and decided she had contributed enough to the robin population for one year and left it at that.

Chokecherries always intrigued me as a child (I was one once, a long time ago) because they tasted so good but they left most kids with such brown teeth that didn't enhance their sunburned faces at all. Try wiping them and you would look like a jack-o-lantern as you would smile and talk with your lips tight. Maybe that is why most older folks end up with "chicken lips" and when applying lipstick they usually get it outside the natural boundaries.

The Strandquist seniors met on Thursday with seven members and two visitors, Clara Nelson of Karlstad and Dick Weiler. They checked out on blocks for making a quilt so it can be ready for sale this fall. Elphie Adis served a delicious lunch and Elsie Kimbrough won the door prize. It is a lot of fun to go and visit with the seniors and they always make you feel so welcome. Try it, you'll like it.

Debbie Evans and two sons, Ryan and Eric, and her daughter Kelly Larson and her three children of Lino Lakes spent the weekend at her mother LaVonne Johnson's home. They also visited at Peter and Pearl Thompson's and Danny and Becky Johnson's while here.

About The Airport Road And Traffic Safety....

Local government officials have been taking a look at speed limits on Pennington Avenue (known to most people as the Airport Road) lately with a view toward increasing safety. The subject came to light with a request from School District 564 for a reduction in the posted speeds to 30 miles per hour from First Street to County Road 61.

For those unfamiliar with the situation, Pennington Avenue now has a 30 mph speed limit from First Street to just past Greenwood Street, a 35 mph limit for about the next third of a mile to shortly before the Southtown area and a 45 mph speed from there to about a quarter mile past County Road 61, which runs east and west past the south side of Challenger Elementary School.

The road is heavily traveled and is used extensively by pedestrians, bicyclists, joggers, in-line skaters and others in addition to vehicle traffic. We would presume that the school district's specific concern would be with student safety, since there are a number of bus pick-up sites in that stretch of road and an off-road school bus hub where students transfer from one bus to another.

This writer travels that stretch of road in one direction or the other at least four times a day, and usually during times of some of the heaviest traffic. Here are several observations about the situation:

(1) The Airport Road is a two-lane roadway but for most of the length of the stretch in question it is wide and in good condition from curb to curb or shoulder to shoulder.

(2) School children waiting for the bus have been careful to stay off the roadway until the bus arrives and they are escorted aboard. We can't ever recall seeing a bus student playing on the roadway or crossing the road unattended.

(3) As a hazard to children, the Airport Road would appear to offer much greater risk during the non-school months when youngsters are out and about at all hours and using the afore-mentioned bicycles and in-line skates.

(4) A number of factors do contribute to the traffic on that stretch of road. We haven't asked for a traffic count comparison, but it seems the traffic is no greater now from all circumstances than it was a few years ago when there were 500 students in the aviation mechanics program at the airport. At that time it seemed like every student drove two cars and was always late for class.

(5) Regarding the speed limits themselves, it seems to us they are adequate if they are observed. Many times it takes a bit of effort to stay within the limits as they are, and if they were lower it would be all the more difficult. Those impatient drivers who presently cling to the rear bumpers of vehicles traveling the speed limit would likely be tempted to pass a slower moving, law-abiding driver. Passing usually involves speeding and, on a two-lane road, creates a greater hazard than regular travel.

(6) To the best of our memory, which admittedly may be faulty and getting worse, there have been few if any accidents along that stretch of road—not counting the deer this writer totaled in front of the Hydra-Mac plant a couple of years ago. The point is, the need for reduced speed limits has not been demonstrated by a past history of problems.

(7) The Airport Road aside, the community is not without its traffic conditions that could use a little attention. The unmarked intersections on frequently used streets such as north LaBree and Horace Avenues are a case in point. Assumption of drivers seems to be that they have the right-of-way if traveling north or south, and the intersections along those avenues have had their share of crashes over the years. Perhaps designating one or the other or both as through streets and protecting it or them with yield signs would clarify the situation and reduce the vehicle version of Russian roulette that occurs at these intersections on a regular basis.

If there is a true question of safety, speed limits on the Airport Road should be enforced, not changed. The present posted limits pose no threat in our estimation.

The weather in Northwest Minnesota is almost as perfect today as it can be. A few lazy little white clouds are floating around in a clear blue sky, reminding us of how fortunate we have been all summer around here on the sandridge. While only 50 or 75 miles away they have had all kinds of severe weather like hail the size of golf balls and several inches of rain at the time, we have had a couple of inches at the time and no hail.

Roy just came in with the first ripe tomato for this year from the garden and it was absolutely delicious at least my half of it. More are turning red and the big clusters are too heavy for the vines even though they are staked up, he is now putting supports farther out on the vines. He is developing a mind set on vegetables and flowers at last instead of potatoes and wheat.

The Strandquist seniors had a busy time last week, first on Tuesday when seven members went to Thief River Falls and had dinner at the senior Heritage. It was absolutely fantastic and enjoyed by all.

Lydia Lie had a Public Auction on Sunday afternoon. As usual if a person can't get there really early one can't get close with a car. This was no exception and by the end of the long walk one was ready for a cup of coffee which members of the Sand Valley Ladies Aid were ready to serve with a good variety of sweets and sandwiches to go with the coffee. Lydia has been a very faithful daughter to leave a good job in Fargo, ND, to come home to help her folks and these later years to be with her mother. The Lie family moved here from Fisher. Lydia's father Rev. Halvard Lie served parishes north of Gully and Oklee until he retired in 1954 and passed away in 1966. Her brother Paul operated the family farm until he passed away in 1979 and since that time Lydia has been in charge of the family farm with hours of hardwork. Her mother Signi passed away in 1995 at the age of 92. Signi's father was also a minister Rev. Halvor Bjornson. Thank you Lydia for the care you provided for your family and happy retirement.

Carol Torgerson spent Thursday with her folks. It doesn't take the young generations so long to mow the yard, she could whiz around us if there weren't any trees in her way. We have to go so slowly or we start climbing the trees. The rest of her family was gone for the week. Les was in Winona for a Choral Directors work shop. Luke was in St. Peter for a week long Band Camp for members of the Minnesota All State Jazz Band before the band played on Saturday evening at St. Peter. The whole family attended the concert including Luke's folks, Les and Carol and sisters Mauri and Bob and Sanna and Tony.

Halvor and Vivian Rikje met Olaf and Hazel Rikje of Prophetstown, IL, at Lac du Flambeau, WI, for a week of camping.

Another traveler in town on Sunday afternoon. He stopped at the cafe for a lunch, but for him that was a surprise since the Cafe was closed for business. There was a baby shower going on there, he got coffee and something to eat and was on his way as he had a long way to go. He was Tom Bolan from Central Coast California going to Massachusetts on bicycle by way of Gully and Lake Wobegone. He had seen and learned much on his trip but the first time for a baby shower.

Masa Shoko, Nana, and Mono Shimizu from Hamamatsu Japan and Ed and Lyn Turenne visited Effie Handy on Monday afternoon on their way back from Lake of the Woods.

Several people attended a baby shower held in honor of Tristan Wagner son of Jeff and Holly Wagner and Sunday afternoon at the Gully Cafe. Following a short program and the opening of many useful gifts, a nice lunch was served.

Karen Malloas daughter Amelia is working on the farm up north in Hickory before returning to Oregon. Karen's son Erick leaves for Oberlin College in Oberlin, OH, in two weeks. Also visiting at Malloa's is Michelle Limesand from Goodridge.

Maxine Paulson of Bemidji spent a few days with her sister Delores Ringstad in Gully. They also went to visit their aunt Mrs. Otto Solion (Alma).

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grover from Chisago visited with Effie Handy Wednesday evening.

Emma Nyland and Effie Handy visited Hazel Nelson on Sunday afternoon. On Saturday afternoon Effie and Merlan Handy, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Handy attended a birthday party for Sara Handy in Grand Forks Saturday afternoon.

Pat Carlson took a short much earned vacation and went to Lodi, WI to visit her son John and Andrea and helped her grandson Lukas celebrate his first birthday on July 27. She also spent some time in Duluth visiting Donna Wipson and Shirley Sundquist.

A bridal shower was held at Our Saviors Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls for Sanna Torgerson. It was given by Tony's sisters Stacy Bierman and Susan Blackbird on Saturday afternoon. We had a chance to see Sanna open the many gifts she received. Comments were given, Sanna thanked the people for the many gifts and for being present. The hostesses served punch, cake, coffee and treats.

Hilda Kvaale and her sister Myrtle Hamrum returned home last Friday from a two week trip to Norway. They took the plane from Minneapolis to Oslo, Norway and from there the scenic train to Bergen. From Bergen they took a boat and bus to Souda where they were guests of a second cousin. They also went to Etna and found the places where their grandfather and grandmother lived when they grew up. Also the place where our father may have been born. They met several cousins in the Etna area. Their plane was delayed on the return flight so they spent an extra day and night at the Radison Plaza Hotel with rooms, supper and breakfast compliments of Brekke Travel due to the delay. They felt Norway is a great and pretty country but they felt it was good to get home.

FROM THE NEW CITY

THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Editorial

"The legislature of every state should remain continuously in session. And so should Congress. The common defense and general welfare require it. In barbarous ages people could roam around at will and do as they pleased, but as civilization advances they become less and less able to attend to their own business. The wisdom of the statutes that are passed during the limited time when our legislatures are in session and the beneficent results therefrom, are such that the average citizen is incapable of estimating the good that would result if there were continuous sessions. Indeed, it might be well if each State had more than one legislature. They might sit simultaneously with their respective powers properly assigned to each, or one might relieve the other. However continuous sessions are not necessary as long as Attorney General Childs is in office."

About The Airport Road And Traffic Safety....

Local government officials have been taking a look at speed limits on Pennington Avenue (known to most people as the Airport Road) lately with a view toward increasing safety. The subject came to light with a request from School District 564 for a reduction in the posted speeds to 30 miles per hour from First Street to County Road 61.

For those unfamiliar with the situation, Pennington Avenue now has a 30 mph speed limit from First Street to just past Greenwood Street, a 35 mph limit for about the next third of a mile to shortly before the Southtown area and a 45 mph speed from there to about a quarter mile past County Road 61, which runs east and west past the south side of Challenger Elementary School.

The road is heavily traveled and is used extensively by pedestrians, bicyclists, joggers, in-line skaters and others in addition to vehicle traffic. We would presume that the school district's specific concern would be with student safety, since there are a number of bus pick-up sites in that stretch of road and an off-road school bus hub where students transfer from one bus to another.

This writer travels that stretch of road in one direction or the other at least four times a day, and usually during times of some of the heaviest traffic. Here are several observations about the situation:

(1) The Airport Road is a two-lane roadway but for most of the length of the stretch in question it is wide and in good condition from curb to curb or shoulder to shoulder.

(2) School children waiting for the bus have been careful to stay off the roadway until the bus arrives and they are escorted aboard. We can't ever recall seeing a bus student playing on the roadway or crossing the road unattended.

(3) As a hazard to children, the Airport Road would appear to offer much greater risk during the non-school months when youngsters are out and about at all hours and using the afore-mentioned bicycles and in-line skates.

(4) A number of factors do contribute to the traffic on that stretch of road. We haven't asked for a traffic count comparison, but it seems the traffic is no greater now from all circumstances than it was a few years ago when there were 500 students in the aviation mechanics program at the airport. At that time it seemed like every student drove two cars and was always late for class.

(5) Regarding the speed limits themselves, it seems to us they are adequate if they are observed. Many times it takes a bit of effort to stay within the limits as they are, and if they were lower it would be all the more difficult. Those impatient drivers who presently cling to the rear bumpers of vehicles traveling the speed limit would likely be tempted to pass a slower moving, law-abiding driver. Passing usually involves speeding and, on a two-lane road, creates a greater hazard than regular travel.

(6) To the best of our memory, which admittedly may be faulty and getting worse, there have been few if any accidents along that stretch of road—not counting the deer this writer totaled in front of the Hydra-Mac plant a couple of years ago. The point is, the need for reduced speed limits has not been demonstrated by a past history of problems.

(7) The Airport Road aside, the community is not without its traffic conditions that could use a little attention. The unmarked intersections on frequently used streets such as north LaBree and Horace Avenues are a case in point. Assumption of drivers seems to be that they have the right-of-way if traveling north or south, and the intersections along those avenues have had their share of crashes over the years. Perhaps designating one or the other or both as through streets and protecting it or them with yield signs would clarify the situation and reduce the vehicle version of Russian roulette that occurs at these intersections on a regular basis.

If there is a true question of safety, speed limits on the Airport Road should be enforced, not changed. The present posted limits pose no threat in our estimation.

Strandquist News

The weather in Northwest Minnesota is almost as perfect today as it can be. A low lazy little white [illegible] clear blue sky, reminding us of how fortunate we have been all summer around here on the sandridge. While only 50 or 75 miles away, they have had all kinds of severe weather like hail the size of golf balls and several inches of rain at the time, we have had a couple of inches at the time and no hail.

Roy just came in with the first ripe tomato for this year from the garden and it was absolutely delicious at least my half of it. More are turning red and the big clusters are too heavy for the vines even though they are staked up, he is now putting supports farther out on the vines. He is developing a mind set on vegetables and flowers at last instead of potatoes and wheat.

The Strandquist seniors had a busy time last week, first on Tuesday when seven members went to Thief River Falls and had dinner at the senior Heritage. There they met Iola Rokke, Gladys Johnson and Adeline Stennes who were former residents of this area and now live there. Adeline Stennes invited them to come and see her apartment and had coffee with her. They did some shopping before returning home.

Later guests were Lois Carrico, Mary and Donna Renstrom, Elsie Lofrooth, Walter Thompson, Isaac and Betsy Thompson, Morris and Hazel Anderson, Becky Johnson, Jake Melby, Steffanie Stewart, Richard and Carol Thompson of Red Lake Falls, Roy, Myrtle and Johnny Vagle. It was absolutely fantastic and enjoyed by all.

Lydia Lie had a Public Auction on Sunday afternoon. As usual if a person can't get there really early one can't get close with a car. This was no exception and by the end of the long walk one was ready for a cup of coffee which members of the Sand Valley Ladies Aid were ready to serve with a good variety of sweets and sandwiches to go with the coffee. Lydia has been a very faithful daughter to leave a good job in Fargo, ND, to come home to help her folks and these later years to be with her mother. The Lie family moved here from Fisher. Lydia's father Rev. Halvord Lie served parishes north of Gully and Oklee until he retired in 1954 and passed away in 1968. Her brother Paul operated the family farm until he passed away in 1979 and since that time Lydia has been in charge of the family farm with hours of hardwork. Her mother Signi passed away in 1995 at the age of 92. Signi's father was also a minister Rev. Halvor Bjornson. Thank you Lydia for the care you provided for your family and happy retirement.

Carol Torgerson spent Thursday with her folks. It doesn't take the young generations so long to mow the yard, she could whiz around us if there weren't any trees in her way. We have to go so slowly or we start climbing the trees. The rest of her family was gone for the week. Les was in Winona for a Choral Directors work shop. Luke was in St. Peter for a week long Band Camp for members of the Minnesota All-State Jazz Band before the band played on Saturday evening at St. Peter. The whole family attended the concert including Luke's folks, Les and Carol, and sisters Mauri and Bob and Sanna and Tony.

Halvor and Vivian Rikje met Olaf and Hazel Rikja of Prophetstown, IL, at Lac du Flambeau, WI, for a week of camping.

Another traveler in town on Sunday afternoon. He stopped at the cafe for a lunch, but for him that was a surprise since the Cafe was closed for business. There was a baby shower going on there, he got coffee and something to eat and was on his way as he had a long way to go. He was Tom Dolan from Central Coast, California going to Massachusetts on bicycle by way of Gully and Lake Wabegona. He had seen and learned much on his trip but the first time for a baby shower.

Mose Shoko, Nana, and Mono Shimizu from Hamamatsu, Japan and Ed and Lyn Turanne visited Effie Handy on Monday afternoon on their way back from Lake of the Woods.

Several people attended a baby shower held in honor of Tristan Wagner son of Jeff and Holly Wagner and Sunday afternoon at the Gully Cafe. Following a short program and the opening of many useful gifts, a nice lunch was served.

Karen Malleas daughter Amahla is working on the farm up north in Hickory before returning to Oregon. Karen's son Erick leaves for Oberlin College in Oberlin, OH, in two weeks. Also visiting at Malloo's is Michelle Limesand from Goodridge.

Maxine Paulson of Bemidji spent a few days with her sister Delores Ringstad in Gully. They also went to visit their aunt Mrs. Otto Sollen (Alme).

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grover from Chisaco visited with Effie Handy Wednesday evening.

Emma Nyland and Effie Handy visited Hazel Nelson on Sunday afternoon. On Saturday afternoon Effie and Marian Handy, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Handy attended a birthday party for Sara Handy in Grand Forks Saturday afternoon.

Pat Carlson took a short much earned vacation and went to Lodo, WI, to visit her son John and Andrea and helped her grandson Lukas celebrate his first birthday on July 27. She also spent some time in Duluth visiting Donna Wipson and Shirley Sundquist.

A bridal shower was held at Our Saviors Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls for Sonna Torgerson. It was given by Tony's sisters Stacy Bierman and Susan Blackbird on Saturday afternoon. We had a chance to see Sanna open the many gifts she received. Comments were given, Sonna thanked the people for the many gifts and for being present. The hostesses served punch, cake, coffee and treats.

Hilda Kvaale and her sister Myrtle Hamrum returned home last Friday from a two week trip to Norway. They took the plane from Minneapolis to Oslo, Norway and from there the scenic train to Bergan. From Bergen they took a boat and bus to Souda where they were guests of a second cousin. They also went to Etna and found the places where their grandfather and grandmother lived when they grew up. Also the place where our father may have been born. They met several cousins in the Etna area. Their plane was delayed on the return flight so they spent an extra day and night at the Radison Plaza Hotel with rooms, supper and breakfast compliments of Brekke Travel due to the delay. They felt Norway is a great and pretty country but they felt it was good to get home.

Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—The fall season must be getting closer. They are beginning to talk football.

—Believe it or not: In good soil, there are 150 pounds of angleworms to the acre.

—Better buy an extra pound of butter, folks. The sweet corn season is at hand.

—No one likes to lose, says a writer, and Billy Noonan comments, "How about a portly girl trying to reduce?"

—A load of 1,560-pound steers brought $514 apiece at South St. Paul last week, indicating the butcher business isn't all profit.

—The best radio commercial we've heard of says, "The next eleven hours of silence are sponsored by the Sleep Haven mattress."

—When it comes to taking a stand on current issues, Governor Dewey to date hasn't stuck his neck out very far.

—It's a small world, as Pilot Bill Odom will attest after circling the globe in 75 hours.

—Wonder what happened to that mild recession that had been forecast for long about now?

—Startling statistics: More gasoline and oil is being consumed in this country today than in the peak of the war years.

—Random thought: Haven't seen anyone playing mah-jongg lately.

—Funny thing. The song "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles" was written before the advent of bubble gum.

FROM THE NEW CITY

THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Editorial

"The legislature of every state should remain continuously in session. And so should Congress. The common defense and general welfare require it. In barbarous ages people could roam around at will and do as they pleased, but as civilization advances they become less and less able to attend to their own business. The wisdom of the statutes that are passed during the limited time when our legislatures are in session and the beneficent results therefrom, are such that the average citizen is incapable of estimating the good that would result if there were continuous sessions. Indeed, it might be well if each State had more than one legislature. They might sit simultaneously with their respective powers properly assigned to each, or one might relieve the other. However continuous sessions are not necessary as long as Attorney General Childs is in office."

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
July 22, 1997 5:00 p.m.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Board Room at the Pennington County Courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday July 22, 1997 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Donald Jensen, Charles Naplin, Bob Carlson, Oliver Swanson, Arden [illegible] Comstock.

Members absent: none

Others in attendance are on file at the Auditor's office.

Tom Wilt and Ken Mahlkens [illegible] asked the County Board about the petition for cleaning part of County Ditch #1 Sanders/Black River and County Ditch #68. They presented the problem through pictures and diagrams. The problem being that water is not draining properly through the ditches because they need cleaning. The water is standing for days and in the process destroying crops and personal property. The residents are concerned that the culverts will not be big enough to handle the substantial amount of water after cleaning is accomplished. The main culvert they are worried about is under C.S.A.H. #3.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to accept the petition to clean County Ditch #1 Sanders/Black River and County Ditch #68 starting from the Y where County Ditch #76 and County Ditch #1 intersect to 3/4 of a mile north of C.S.A.H. #3. The cleaning would bring the ditches back to the original slope and depth. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Board has set a hearing on the redetermination of benefits and consolidation of County ditch #1 Sanders/Black River, County Ditch #68 and County Ditch #76 for 9:00 A.M., September 9, 1997, at the Heritage Center in Thief River Falls. All interested landowners are invited to attend.

Ray Vigstol representing a group of residents from Rocksbury Township met with the County Board to discuss cleaning part of the ditch along the south side of County Road #59 from C.S.A.H. #17 easterly about one mile. This would provide drainage for a group of homes in section 22, Rocksbury Township. The Soil and Water Conservation District has surveyed the area and found that if the Township road ditch was cleaned going north and County Road #59 ditch cleaned going west the property owners in this residential area could get some drainage. The SWCD survey also indicated the need to replace the culverts in these ditches.

They are requesting the County to pay for the cleaning and repairs needed in the ditch along C.R. #59. The County Board explained that because this is not a legal ditch system the County has not budgeted funds to provide drainage along County Roads. The County Board has allowed landowners to do group ditch projects along County Roads under the supervision of the County Engineer after the groups have determined how the costs would be split and paid by the benefited landowners. The County Board asked the County Engineer to gather more information and hold any decision on this matter until that time.

Sheriff Gerald Moe along with Mary Reierson and Garhelle Hanson requested the County to financially support the Area Ag Information Center. The request is in the amount of $10,000.00 for the 1997/1998 budget. Ms. Reierson mentioned if Pennington County would start to contribute the other Counties will also contribute more. The County Board informed the group that Pennington County Extension also does some financial services and that there might be some doubling up of their services if the County funded the Area Ag Information Center. The Sheriff commented that he provides information about the Area Ag Center when he is serving foreclosure papers. The [illegible] and held this item for the next County Board meeting.

Sheriff Moe requested that the City Forester with the assistance of Sentence to Serve take down the trees located behind the Law Enforcement Center in between the parking lots. The County Board approved.

The Sheriff also asked the County Board if it was possible to be able to attend the Otter Tail Power Line meetings. The County Board approved of his attendance. The County Auditor is to inform the Sheriff of the dates.

Bob Kruse and Howard Person met with the County Board to make an update on the Solid Waste issue. Mr. Kruse mentioned they are hauling 8 to 9 loads a day of the fluff on the north side of the processing facility. SWIS PENNCO is still screening compost with PCA testing it. The facility is now accepting all contracted waste. The stipulation agreement will hopefully be completed by the Attorneys next week. SWIS PENNCO now has two contracts set up to take pellets.

Howard Person discussed the meeting with PCA and the business people on the south edge of the City of Thief River Falls. The businesses were mainly concerned with the odor from the compost piles. Mr. Person will be checking on materials to control this odor.

Howard Person discussed the possibility of using a waste energy burner with the County Board. No action was taken on this item.

The County Engineer is going to clean the plug in County Road ditch #75 that was placed there because of the fill at the Solid Waste Facility.

Mr. Person was asked by the County Board to check into using compost for gravel pit reclamation. The County Board also requested Mr. Person to find out who would be able to use it.

The City of Thief River Falls and Jobs Inc. is planning to annex 40 acres into the City for an industrial park located near SWIS PENNCO.

Howard Person presented a draft of a Pennington County Sewage and Wastewater Treatment Ordinance to the County Board. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to advertise for a 30 day notice for a public hearing on the draft Sewage and Wastewater Treatment Ordinance. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Carlson to advertise for bids for repair of County Ditch #1 Sanders/Black River from the railroad line east to the Red Lake River. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to accept the petition to clean the portion of County Ditch #70 (U.S. #59 to Barzen Ave). Motion unanimously carried.

Delton Schulz, County Engineer, updated the County Board on the status of the construction projects in Pennington County.

The County Engineer mentioned the land for the Highlanding rest area will be needing an archeological study. He had one quote for $7,000.00. The County Board asked the County Engineer to get more quotes.

The County Board questioned the County Engineer about the mailboxes going up. Local residents would like to be notified before anything is started.

Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to authorize Chairman Jensen and County Auditor Kenneth Olson to sign the warranty deed for Jean and Diane Eggerud. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Auditor passed out the first draft for a 1998 budget for the Commissioners to review.

Custom Terrazzo Inc. had sent another quote for sanding and finishing the terrazzo base board on Third floor of the Courthouse. The Head Custodian had indicated that he felt that was to high and indicated that his crew could strip the base board themselves. The County Board agreed that the base board be stripped by the custodians and that the floor be reconditioned by Custom Terrazzo Inc. as agreed by the County Board July 8, 1997.

Terry Fayette, Head Custodian will be requesting carpet bids for the Welfare Office using the same specification for all bidders, calling for a Unitary backing.

The County Board was informed that Less Sanitation's request to purchase land would require the County to follow the bid law.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Carlson to approve the July 8, 1997 minutes. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Auditor updated the County Board on the computer processor upgrade.

The County Board discussed the elected official salaries. Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the elected official salaries effective July 1, 1997, as Auditor $50,500.00, Treasurer $37,000.00, Sheriff $47,000.00, Recorder $37,000.00, Attorney $44,500.00. The Commissioners salaries effective January 1, 1998, were set at $12,000.00 and per diems of $40.00. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Carlson moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve the Engineer's salary of $53,700.00 effective May 1, 1997. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Carlson moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve a salary increase of 2.7% for non-union employees effective back to January 1, 1997 excluding the Welfare Director and Oakland Park Home Administrator. Motion unanimously carried.

Chairman Jensen attended the Minnesota Rural County's Caucus and reported back to the County Board that they discussed transportation funding.

The County Auditor was to look up the last appropriation to the Area Ag Information [illegible] meeting.

Commissioner Carlson moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to adjourn to August 12, 1997. Motion unanimously carried.

COUNTY DITCH #70 MEETING
JULY 22, 1997 3:00 P.M.
HERITAGE CENTER
THIEF RIVER FALLS, MN

County Commissioners present: Donald Jensen, Charles Naplin, Oliver Swanson and Bob Carlson.

Also present: County Attorney Bevo Olin, County Auditor Ken Olson and County Engineer Delton Schulz and thirty landowners benefited by the County Ditch #70 system. A list of those present is filed in the County Auditor's office.

County Board Chairman Don Jensen opened the meeting and called on the County Auditor to give a report on the estimated balance in County Ditch #70. The Auditor estimated that after the outstanding invoice to the City of Thief River Falls is paid and the second half of 1997 real estate taxes are collected there should be approximately $5,500.00 available for ditch cleaning.

County Engineer Delton Schulz reviewed the petition to clean County Ditch #70 starting at the intersection of Trunk Highway #59 easterly approximately one half mile. This is the only petition he has received to date.

Commissioner Jensen noted that although the ditch had a little money in it now, there would not be much left if the County Board approves the present petition for cleaning. The County Board needs to know if other cleaning is needed so that they can determine the levy for 1998. Don Jensen also asked how much of a levy the benefited property owners would be willing to pay. There was no answer to this question.

Peter [illegible] asked about changing culvert sizes and cleaning of the ditch running along Greenwood Street to make it drain faster.

It was noted that there was some work needed to be done under the railroad bridge and that the culvert under the Street Concrete entrance was too small and needed to be replaced.

The City of Thief River Falls Utility Department was [illegible] to move their entrance to the east side of their property.

A resident along County Road #75 noted that the ditch along County Road #75 in the area of the Rainbow Nursery did not drain. This is a County Road ditch and not part of the County Ditch #70 channel. Residents can clean County Road ditches with the permission and supervision of the County Engineer.

Cecil Anderson asked if after the Truck By pass is built and part of the County ditch #70 water flows along the By pass route will County Ditch #70 bottle neck at the corner of Barzen Ave. and Greenwood Street and back water up into County Ditch #70? County Engineer Delton Schulz stated this should not happen.

Another concern was control of cattails but again this would be a cost to the ditch system. The County Board stated they would try to control the cattails by spraying.

Hearing no other comments or concerns, Chairman Jensen adjourned the meeting at 3:45 p.m.

MECC bids include none for track, football field

School board hears report at Monday meeting

School District 564 Representative Darla Twomey dropped a bombshell on school board members Monday night when she delivered news about the Multi-Events Cultural Center bids. Twomey, a member of the Joint Powers Board, said nobody on the Joint Powers Board was surprised to see bids come in higher than estimated, but everyone was surprised to learn that there was no bid on the track and football field.

Twomey said she was not at all in favor of going ahead with the project without a track and field because the track and field was the only justification for district being a part of the project.

According to a bid summary presented to the board by Twomey, the total bids amounted to $2,270,892, which is within the limits set for the project. It includes a bid on a stadium and bleachers, stadium fencing, site grading, mechanical and electrical construction, site building (Wellness Center), but no bid on a track or football field or tennis courts.

"It's absolutely asinine to have all these things but no football field and track," said Twomey.

Twomey said it has been suggested that the Joint Powers board not re-bid the project because nobody believes the bids will come in any better. The plan being discussed calls for the board to go out and solicit bids and look at ways of coming up with additional funds.

(The engineer's estimate on the cost of a football field and track was $296,860.)

Board members were generally upset and thought the whole situation incredulous. Exasperated board members asked who put the bid packages and specifications together, why wasn't there a bid for the track and field, how can you spend over $800,000 and come up with nothing, and asked what it says for the board's participation on the Joint Powers board.

Only Board Member Jean Larson expressed optimism, when she said she's confident they'll come up with something positive.

(The Joint Powers board was expected to meet Tuesday just after publication of this edition of The Times.)

■ Darcy Reese, choral director at Lincoln High School, received approval from the school board to go ahead developing plans to take the choir to New York City. In explaining her plans, Reese said the trip would probably take place over Mother's Day weekend on either May 7-12 or May 8-13. The trip would involve rehearsals with a conductor at Carnegie Hall for two days, a performance at Carnegie Hall, and perhaps two concerts at Cathedrals. The 65 or so high school participants would also attend Broadway shows and go on other tours. She estimated the total cost at between $1,700 and $1,800 per student. Much of the money for the trip would be raised through various fundraisers. Reese indicated that they already have a good start, having raised about $6,000 already.

This would be the third time the choir has been taken to New York City. Reese said it's getting easier to arrange these trips because she's getting to develop good contacts and because the kid's good reputation precedes them.

Reese requires that the students sign and follow strict rules of conduct. Prior to their departure, she also obtains funds from each parent to pay for a one-way ticket back, which would be used for any student that would have to be sent back because of behavior problems.

Reese said she is cognizant of the fact that businesses and organizations in Thief River Falls keep getting hit up by fundraising events. She thanked all those who support the choir and understands why some may choose not to support them.

■ A contractual agreement between the School District and Thief River Falls Education Association has been approved by both parties. Hank Hallstrom,

County tax delinquency rises slightly for 1996

Percentage of delinquent taxes in Pennington county increased slightly over last year. For several years in a row now, the percentage of delinquent taxes has remained under 3.50 percent. According to Vickie Bjurgaard, Pennington County treasurer, this year's percentage of delinquent taxes reached 3.40 percent. In 1993, the percentage of delinquent taxes was 3.13, and 3.32 in 1994, and 3.30 in 1995.

In total dollars, the 3.40 percentages of delinquent taxes in 1996 amounts to $270,535.47. The chart of delinquent taxes reveals much more. The total levy collected for 1996 amounted to $7,496,238.99. Special assessments amounted to $471,613.43. Minus additions, cancellations, and abatements, the total levy plus special assessments amounted to $7,963,288.70. Total taxes paid was $7,692,753.23.

There are 21 townships and three cities in Pennington county. The highest percentage of delinquent taxes among townships was recorded by Bray township with 8.17 percent. This tax delinquency rate for Bray township represented a decrease from the previous year's rate of 9.65 percent. Last year, St. Hilaire had a tax delinquency rate of 3.74 percent. The lowest tax delinquency rate among townships and cities was recorded by Goodridge township, which recorded no tax delinquencies.

The following represents the percentages of tax delinquency and total levy for each year since 1938: 15 percent and $326,078 in 1938, 13.5 percent and $359,080 in 1939, 11.75 percent and $368,288 in 1940, 6.0 percent and $360,905 in 1941; (1942 to 1944 is missing), 4.5 percent and $383,282 in 1945.

Very Special Arts program planned September 17-19

Very Special Arts Minnesota, an arts program for children with disabilities and their families, will be at the Thief River Falls National Guard Armory September 17, 18, and 19.

The Very Special Arts program creates learning opportunities through the arts for people with disabilities, especially children and youth. The Very Special Arts program is dedicated to helping children, youth, and adults with disabilities improve their learning, employment, and life skills through arts-based education. Founded in 1974 by Jean Kennedy Smith as an affiliate of the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts, the organization offers educational programs in creative writing, dance, drama, music and visual arts.

Thief River Falls Special Education Program and the Thief River Falls Community will host the three-day event. The festival will feature the workshop "Arts for All" with Dwayne Szot, for parents and professionals working with people with disabilities and two days of workshops for children ages preschool to eighth grade. The artists will be teaching and guiding children with special needs in "hands on" workshops throughout Thursday and Friday. This festival is open to all people who wish to participate.

Szot focused early work on machines as physical, creative extensions of himself. Sometime later, an afternoon in an electric wheelchair added a whole new perspective. "As I sat in that wheelchair, the ease with which it guided me through the store brought a realization that I could create machines that would act as physical extensions for other people, people with disabilities."

In 1989, Szot received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, which he used in part to create his first wheelchair painting machine. Arts For All. Made with an electric wheelchair, this first machine was large and whimsical. Four paint rollers and two side "thumpers" whirred into action while smiling drivers painted sidewalks and driveways. The Arts for All program developed from that single painting wheelchair. As the program grew and developed, so did the variety of machines.

By 1992, Arts for All had developed a number of Art Tools developed in response to individual need for creative expression. The Arts for All Adaptive art tool library includes paint rollers for mural painting, a print table for printing t-shirts and aprons with participants' designs, wheelchair chalk drawers, paint poles, and many other devices. All of the equipment is designed so that participants with limited movement or impaired fine motor skills can successfully create.

At the heart of the Arts For All program is the belief that each individual can participate at his or her level of ability. The development of new equipment is a direct response to the participation of individuals with unique combinations of abilities. Szot feels that artistic openness and creative involvement with individuals with disabilities is the source of direction for development of new Arts For All's alternative art tools.

Following the Arts for All program, a community concert will be held Thursday night at Floyd B. Olson park in downtown Thief River Falls. The concert is open to the public. Early Childhood musicians Greg and Steve will be at their finest with a premier performance concert in honor of the Region 1 and 2 Very Special Artists. Ticket information can be obtained by calling 218-681-8670.

Area Early Childhood Family Education programs are encouraged to sponsor buses to attend this event. Children, families and public agencies from throughout Regions 1 and 2 are expected to attend the various events.

For more information call Mark at 218-694-2761; or Donna at 218-681-8670, or Patty at 218-681-4476.

If weather is good, the market locations will be on downtown sidewalks and at Floyd B. Olson park.

There is a $15 fee to participate in the market which will have hours from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. A list of participants will be published in the Wednesday, September 3 issue of the Thief River Falls Times, and persons registered through Friday, August 29, will be included in that list.

The bridge was constructed of Core 10 steel at Continental Bridge in Alexandria. Although it looks rusty, the color is a design feature. Workers expected to move the bridge from its location on temporary supports to the abutments on Friday. Once that is completed, workers would place rebar in place and pour a six-inch concrete deck. It is expected to be completed by the end of September.

Less than a fourth of wheat crop rated good

Minnesota's spring wheat crop was listed as only two percent excellent and 22 percent good as of August 22 by the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service, a division of the Minnesota and U.S. departments of agriculture.

Forty percent of the spring wheat crop was rated fair with 33 percent poor and three percent very poor.

Barley was rated on a nearly identical basis except for 32 percent poor and four percent very poor.

Oats fared better with two percent excellent and 46 percent good, 40 percent fair, 10 percent poor and two percent very poor.

Oats harvest in the state as of August 22 was 68 percent complete, including 35 percent in the northwest. Southern sections of the state were from 96 to 99 percent complete on harvest of spring wheat, barley and oats.

Spring wheat harvest was only 13 percent complete in the northwest with barley harvest 35 percent complete in this area.

Although sunshine and warmer temperatures were noted in most of the state during the latter part of last week, average temperatures statewide were below normal for the fourth week in a row.

Despite the cooler weather, row crops seemed to be progressing normally. Heaviest rainfall last week was in central Minnesota and only four percent of the state is short on topsoil moisture. Moisture is adequate in 74 percent of the state and surplus in 22 percent.

An average of 91 percent of the corn had reached milk stage by last Friday, compared with 84 percent at this time last year. Corn in dough stage was estimated at 46 percent versus 40 percent for the five-year average, but only seven percent was beginning to dent—two points behind the five-year average.

In northwest Minnesota, only 58 percent of the corn was in the milk stage and only 12 percent in the dough stage. Statewide corn was rated 24 percent excellent and 53 percent good with only 19 percent fair, three percent poor and one percent very poor.

Sugarbeet condition was rated 12 percent excellent and 57 percent good across the state with 25 percent fair, five percent poor and one percent very poor.

Only 28 percent of the sunflowers are rated good and one percent excellent while 57 percent are fair, 12 percent poor and two percent very poor. Soybeans were 11 percent excellent, 49 percent good, 33 percent fair, five percent poor and two percent very poor.

100 at 50th anniversary of New Solum 4-H club

Approximately 100 people attended the 50th anniversary celebration of the New Solum 4-H club Sunday, August 10, at the former Rosebank schoolhouse. The event was a reunion for many who had not seen one another for years.

Many of those in attendance at the anniversary celebration had not only attended 4-H meetings in the school building but had also attended school there through the eighth grade.

Old 4-H records, scrapbooks and items that had been made at 4-H projects were brought for display and discussion. A great deal of work had been completed to repair and renovate the building for the 50th anniversary and for use by the club and other community groups.

The New Solum 4-H club was started in 1947 by Judith Wold, teacher at the Rosebank school, and Rev. Silas Erickson, pastor of Rindal Lutheran Church. They felt the need for an organization in the community that would get the rural children into some useful activities and summer projects.

Many of the children in the club during its early years were students at the Rosebank school and the club meetings were held in the school building.

Melvin Saugen, a local farmer, was the first to volunteer to help as an adult leader in the club. There have been 28 adult leaders during the club's 50-year history, some serving for just a short time and others for decades.

Following Saugen as adult leaders were Mrs. Ben Kron, Mrs. John Doran, Mrs. Elmer Kron, Elmer Kron, Mrs. Emil Anderson, Mrs. Russell Nelson, Russell Nelson, Ingvald Dahl, Mrs. Hjalmer Aaseby, Mrs. Emil Hellquist, Percy Hagen, Patty Langlie, James Jarshaw, Mrs. Irwin Johnson, Ray Holmstrom, Hjalmer Aaseby, Mrs. Ray Holmstrom, Mrs. Wallace Anderson, Wallace Anderson, Mrs. Elmer Rooker, Mrs. Jerry Hunt, Mrs. Roger Van Horn, Terry Edington, Judy Weleski, Barb Natvik, Lana Bulger and Peter Solem.

A number of the club's junior leaders earned the Key Award—the highest award that a junior leader can attain in helping at the local club, county, district and state events. Recipients of the Key Award and the years in which they were honored include the following:

Marilyn Hellquist and Ardis Anderson, 1953; Elaine Hellquist, 1956; Karen Kron, 1965; Garrett Reierson, Douglas Johnson, Deanna Jarshaw and Keith Kron, 1967; Dwight Johnson and Laura Kron, 1971; Randy Lambert, 1974; Neil Johnson, 1976; Cindy Anderson, 1977; Jason Rooker, 1978; Jim Rooker, 1979; Jaki Weleski, 1989 and Beth Natvik, 1992.

Jaki Weleski in 1988 and Beth Natvik in 1993 were named recipients of the E. B. Hartz Good Citizen Award, presented annually to recognize a current Pennington county 4-H club member who has gone out of his or her way to help others in the club and community, sets a good example for others to follow and is always willing to lend a hand when needed.

Current members of the New Solum club expressed appreciation to the former members for attending the anniversary event and for keeping the club going throughout its 50-year history.

State to pick up all non-federal flood cost share

Funds have been committed by the State of Minnesota to pay for the local match portion of costs involved in federally-funded public assistance and hazard mitigation projects in the Red and Minnesota River valleys, according to Gov. Arne Carlson.

Gov. Carlson endorsed his Recovery and Redevelopment Council's recommendations last week, including a portion of funding which would cover both the state and local match required by government programs.

The governor said the state will pick up the local share of the costs for public assistance and hazard mitigation projects in communities in both the Red and Minnesota River valleys. The state's share will be 10 percent in the six Red River Valley communities granted the 90/10 federal funding ratio and 25 percent for those communities with the 75/25 federal funding ratio.

The state's portion of the federal match needed to draw down federal dollars will reach approximately $30 million. Hazard mitigation and public assistance projects include repairing and replacing road systems and bridges, water control facilities, public buildings, public utilities and parks.

Scandinavian Artist shares talents in Thief River Falls

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

Throughout history nearly every culture has had forms of art that flourished for a time and then died out.

There are, however, a few people determined not to let those historic art forms die; people who feel a responsibility to keep what is unique to their heritage alive.

One of those people is professional artist Ann Nilsson of the Swedish Stuga in Edina.

Recently, Ann taught a two day class in Swedish Dala painting to 15 area women and men. The class, sponsored by the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society, was held at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

Ann Strandberg Nilsson grew up in Argyle and has been painting professionally for 12 years. She has been teaching rosemaling and Swedish Dala painting for about five years.

Ann's mother was a Scandanavian artist. "I grew up thinking everyone painted," Ann said. Taking her first rosemaling class in the mid 60's while living in Grand Forks was the natural thing to do.

Since, she has studied over 2,000 hours with professional painters from Norway, Sweden, Russia and Germany. She has taken advantage of every opportunity to take classes or one-on-one instruction with various artists when they've been in the country.

Accomplished at both Norwegian rosemaling and Swedish Dala painting, Ann's work is displayed in museums and offices of major businesses across the country. All of her paintings are sold on a commission basis.

Recently, she was commissioned to design a wedding announcement for a New York couple. After Ann submitted several sketches, the couple chose their favorite from which Ann painted the original canvas. From her design, 1,000 wedding announcements and cards were designed. The couple was married in the Twin Cities and Ann and her husband, Bengt, were the only non-family members invited to the reception. "It was a very special occasion," Ann said.

In addition to canvases, Ann does her Swedish Dala painting on large furniture pieces. Originally from Sweden, Ann's husband builds Swedish Mora clocks – grandfather clocks. The clockworks are imported from Sweden, and Ann paints the finished pieces.

Ann does Norwegian rosemaling on everything from large furniture pieces and trunks to plates and bowls.

Because of her own Swedish heritage, Ann's interest has been primarily in Swedish Dala painting.

Ann was the first Swedish Dala painter to receive a grant from the Minnesota State Board of the Arts. The grant, partially funded by the National Endowment for the Arts, is given to those who will hopefully share their knowledge through education and demonstrations.

A member of the Community Resource Board in the Twin Cities, Ann has made herself available to public and private schools demonstrating her craft on numerous occasions to school children ranging from second grade to high school age. As a result, she has received packets of hand-written thank yous and has found the experience very fulfilling.

Twice, Ann has been an invited gallery artist at the Minnesota History Center where she has presented children's programs. "I've had whole families doing Swedish Dala painting together," she said. "It was really neat."

Ann is the founder and chairman of the Swedish Dala Painting Contest – the only competition of its kind in the world. The purpose of the contest is to educate people about the little-known art.

The main difference between Norwegian rosemaling and Swedish Dala painting is the subject matter. Rosemaling consists mostly of strokes, scrolls and flowers while Dala painting is pictural with the painting telling a story.

Ann teaches very traditional painting methods. Painters are taught to use what they have at hand to accomplish the desired result. For example, the student would use a plate or other round object at hand instead of a compass to draw a circle. Sometimes, paint brush bristles are replaced by the end of the paint brush or a finger to achieve the desired affect.

Traditional paints were water based with the color pigments ground from stone found in the region. Customary colors included brick red, yellow ochre, deep green and an aqua marine blue. Historical painters found blue the most difficult color to come by, and many of their blues were a blackish. The painters of yesteryear mixed water with the ground pigment and added a fish glue binding. The oil paints they occasionally used were very different from the oils used today.

While Ann has painted with the old mixture, she prefers the stability of modern acrylics for canvases and small pieces. Her furniture pieces are done with oil paints.

At her recent class in Thief River Falls, Ann's goal was to teach the painters to do flowers correctly and to paint primitive people.

All of the students worked on the same painting, and it was amazing to see the different interpretations as the artists shared their work with each other at the end of the two-day class.

Ann's husband has retired, and in two months the couple will move the the Pacific Peninsula of Washington State. Because of her painting contest, she has friends and acquaintances there. Already, she has been asked to teach painting classes at Pacific University.

Is the state losing a talented artist? With her roots in northwestern Minnesota, Ann simply says, "I'll be back."

Professional artist Ann Nilsson of the Swedish Stuga in Edina displays a canvas typical of Swedish Dala painting. Ann recently taught a two-day painting class at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls. The class was sponsored by the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society.

History of Swedish Dala Painting

Although wall painting was done throughout Sweden, two areas are especially noted. The southern area included Halland and parts of surrounding provinces. The other was the province of Darlana in central Sweden.

In the years 1750 through 1880, the wall paintings of south and central flourished simultaneously. They were, however, quite different in character.

Artist Ann Nilsson's interest has been primarily the painting of Darlana, the province of her paternal grandparents. Her maternal grandparents were from the adjoining province of Varmland.

In central Sweden the homes often had two rooms. One of them was maintained exclusively as a feast or festival room. In the festival room, the artist often painted directly on the walls. Other times, the artist carefully measured his client's festival room, did the paintings in his studio, delivered them and pasted them to the walls of the room.

There were two schools for professional painters in Darlana. About 10 painters are known from each school. While the schools had a common style, each had its own characteristics. Each painter, too, had his own style creating much diversity within unity.

While the finer churches and homes of the wealthy were painted by trained artists, many of the Darlana painters belonged to the same peasant class for which they painted. Professional in the sense that they were paid for their work, they lacked formal art training.

Some of these painters were retired soldiers who, because of their injuries, were unable to do heavy manual labor such as mining or logging. Others were farmers who painted during the long winters. They delivered the paintings and took orders between planting and harvest and left the weeding to their families. Others were from families of painters, and still others painted simply for the love of it.

The folk artists painted primarily Biblical and political subjects. Occasionally, they portrayed domestic scenes. They sought to imitate the paintings on walls and ceilings of the homes of the upper classes or medieval churches. The painters often got their ideas from the plates in Bibles, hymnals, prayer books or other printed materials of their day. To make the Biblical stories more relevant, they often portrayed the characters in Swedish dress.

The "kurbits" or gourd distinguishes the folk painting of Darlana. It is a telescoping arrangement of fanciful stylized leaves and flowers. The tradition comes from the Bible – Jonah 4:6. God caused a gourd to grow over the head of the prophet Jonah to shield him from the relentless heat of the scorching sun. The "kurbits" symbolizes protection, and regardless of the subject of the painting, the gourd is almost always present.

Darlana painters signed their work with three initials. A man's initials ended with "s" for "son," and a woman's with "d" for "dotter." While the initials reflected the real name of the artist, they rarely matched the name by which he was commonly known. For example, the initials "A.A.S." were signed by an artist known as "Snarf Anders Anderson." Because so many people shared the same surname – such as Anderson – they were tagged with nicknames to distinguish them. Often the nicknames were comical like "Skinny" or as in Anders Anderson's case, "Snarf."

Many of the Darlana paintings are preserved in the Nordiska Museet – Northern Museum – and the Skansen in Stockholm. Founded in 1872 by Artur Hazelius, the Skansen is a world famous outdoor museum. Fortunately, Hazelius had the foresight to realize that the vanishing folk arts and crafts would someday be national treasures.

ACTIVITIES

Feely Bag

Select three different vegetables (for instance, a cucumber, a carrot and a green pepper) and place each one into a different paper bag. Let your child reach inside the bag and try to identify each vegetable by touch. As he or she feels inside the bag, encourage your child to describe the sensation. Are the vegetables smooth or bumpy? Hard or soft? Let your child take out each vegetable and check how good his or her guesses were. Save the vegetables to scrub and chop for a snack.

PARENTING TIPS

Families On The Go

Today's families have a lifestyle that is much different from what families had twenty or thirty years ago. Today's families are on the go! They go out to work, play and eat. They go shopping, to sporting events and traveling. In addition, about 25 percent move each year. Parents need to remember that children don't always travel as easily as adults. However with some advance planning and preparation, children can enjoy outings as much as adults.

Here are some tips for outings of any kind (in and out of town).

- Whenever possible plan around your child's nap time.
- Keep a few disposable diapers in your car's glove compartment. To make clean-up's easier, tuck a packaged towelette and a plastic bag inside of each diaper.
- Freeze a plastic container one-third to one-half full of water. When you are ready to go, fill the container with water for a long lasting, cold thirst quencher. Water is healthy, quenches the thirst and isn't messy if spilled.
- Always carry a change of clothes for your children.
- Avoid shopping when you can, by catalog shopping. You can compare prices in peace and quiet as well as saving time, money and gasoline.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your child about where you are going and what your child can expect.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Don't Labor This Labor Day Away

Labor Day is a bitter sweet holiday.

It is sweet because the weather is usually just beginning to have a touch of fall, cooling off from the sweltering heat of July and August, nights are cool enough to sleep comfortably and days are sun-filled, balmy and breezy and it is a perfect time to have a holiday weekend.

Vegetable gardens are pouring out their promised bounties onto our tables and flower gardens seem to be putting forth one last spectacular show just for us before fall sets in. The grass has decided to take a vacation, too, and gives the lawn caregivers a brief respite before frequent leaf raking becomes a necessity. Summer chores have mostly been completed, and, if they haven't, one begins to think that they might wait until next year after all.

By the time Labor Day rolls around, the children are ready (and some are even waiting anxiously) for school to begin. Clothes, new shoes and school supplies are ready, awaiting the big day, hair has been trimmed and the poison ivy and mosquito bites have nearly disappeared from arms and legs. Mother is ready and waiting for school to begin too, because the summer has long since run out of interesting things for children to do and mother has long since run out of patience.

The Labor Day weekend will be the last blast before days and weeks must once more become organized and regimented to accommodate school and work schedules, as well as homework and after school activities. It will be the last time for kids to be staying up late and sleeping in, dressing in grungy shirts and shorts and dirty tennis shoes, spending entire days doing nothing, and having fun.

Labor Day is not so sweet when we begin to calculate just how close we are to winter again. Fall is much too short in this neck of the woods, and winter always seems to follow it with a vengeance. All too soon the soft, fluffy flakes we associate with Christmas turn into nasty, howling blizzards and piles of hard snow that has to be shoveled through.

This Labor Day holiday is not so sweet when one considers that the lazy, hazy days of summer are gone again and won't be back for at least eight long months. Labor Day always signals the end of summer fun and freedom and the return to a more disciplined lifestyle.

Some silly people think Labor Day is a day to labor instead of to rest and enjoy, and they spend the entire weekend trying to catch up on all the chores they neglected throughout the summer. After the holiday, these people come back to work tired out and cranky. This is not a good thing to do. Labor Day is a holiday for those of us who labor and we should relish and enjoy it, even though it means a change for us. In other words, even though Labor Day really means "Back to Work Again Day" for all of us, let's make the most of it. Happy Labor Day to you and may it be sweet!

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I expect to be eligible for Social Security both from my own work and through my deceased husband. How will I know which benefit is better?

A. Social Security representatives can provide you with estimates and discuss available options but the final decision is yours. Often the choice is easy based on your age and expected retirement date with a big concern being which benefit provides you with the most money over time.

Q. Since the flood my wife and I have had three different addresses and I now see value to having direct deposit. How do I sign up?

A. Easily. You can either visit your financial institution, visit any Social Security Office or call the national Social Security office at 1-800-772-1213. If you contact Social Security directly, you will need your claim number, your bank account number, and the bank's routing number. The bank information is usually on something such as a blank check or deposit slip.

REMINDER: Please do not send documents to Social Security without some note as to what or who they are for. Always include your name, address, phone number and Social Security number with the mail.

Q. After my husband died I was contacted by Social Security to discuss survivors benefits. How did you know to contact me as I had not called the agency?

A. The Social Security Administration has a very good working relationship with funeral homes across the entire country. In most situations, the funeral home director will notify the local Social Security office about a death and provide next-of-kin information. Local Social Security personnel then work with the family with regard to survivor benefits and to review current and future benefit options.

Q. I am receiving benefits on my deceased husband's record and just learned that a former husband, who I divorced years ago, has died. Are benefits payable to me from him also?

A. Benefits paid through the record of more than one person are possible and, depending on several factors you might be able to receive through both records. At a minimum, your marriage to your first husband must have lasted at least 10 years. Note that although a person may be potentially eligible on more than one account, the actual benefit amounts payable may not make filing needed. It all depends on where you can get the higher benefit. For example, a claim on the divorced husband would not serve any purpose if the widow's benefit you are already receiving is a higher amount.

Support for breastfeeding is support for healthy babies

Governor Carlson proclaims August Breastfeeding Awareness Month

Breastfeeding has been proven to promote the health and well-being of infants and to have many benefits which go well beyond infancy. Increasing support for breastfeeding among families, employers, health care providers and communities will help ensure that more infants receive the multiple benefits of breastfeeding. Health professionals and public health officials in this area will be encouraging more support for breastfeeding during August, which has been proclaimed Breastfeeding Awareness Month by Governor Carlson.

"Breastfeeding provides a child the best start in life," said Linda Ulrich, RN, Coordinator for the Quin County WIC program. "Through Breastfeeding Awareness Month, we hope to educate people about the importance and value of breastfeeding."

As a result of the growing awareness of breastfeeding's benefits, more Minnesota employers, hospitals, family members and communities are becoming breastfeeding friendly.

- Fathers, friends and family members are learning about the benefits of breastfeeding and playing supportive roles such as helping with baby care, cooking and cleaning.
- Local businesses have an opportunity through the Minnesota Department of Health for an electric breastpump designed for multiple users.
- Many communities offer a variety of sources for breastfeeding support and information, including breastfeeding classes, phone support, WIC, La Leche League and other breastfeeding support groups. For more information, contact Bradell Tangquist at Northwest Medical Center or Margo Peterson at Inter County Nursing Service.

Dr. Charles Wimpim, MD, physician at Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls, noted that the benefits of breastfeeding include greater resistance to illnesses and allergies, protection against some chronic illnesses, better bonding between mother and child, greater convenience, positive impact on the environment, health benefits for women who breastfeed and cost-savings for families, employers and society.

The Minnesota Department of Health is encouraging women to breastfeed through its special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). WIC clients receive a wide array of breastfeeding information emphasizing the message, "Mother's Milk is Love – Please Breastfeed." The Minnesota WIC program has been successful in increasing the number of WIC clients who breastfeed, from 39.9 percent in September 1990 to 51.8 percent in May 1997. However, additional support is needed to provide an opportunity for all infants to receive the benefits of breastfeeding.

At Northwest Medical Center, 76 percent of infants are breastfed at hospital discharge; 37 percent are still breastfed at one month of age. "We need to spread the word that breastfeeding is the best way to feed babies and that we all have a role in supporting breastfeeding," according to Jan Milender, RN, Head Nurse of Obstetrics at Northwest Medical Center. "We're confident our awareness efforts will help create an environment where breastfeeding is encouraged and supported."

Breastfeeding Awareness Month in Minnesota is part of a worldwide observance sponsored by the World Alliance for Breastfeeding Action.

For more information about breastfeeding, contact WIC-Quin County at 1-800-223-1591, Inter County Nursing Service at 1-218-681-5950 or Northwest Medical Center at 1-218-681-4240.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Viva Las Vegas!

When Laura Hitland and Jennifer Pazdernik left Thief River Falls to go to Fargo for a Fargo-Moorhead Red Hawks baseball game, they had no idea they would be spending the weekend in Las Vegas instead.

On Friday, August 8 the two were part of a bus tour from Thief River Falls prepared for an evening of being with friends and watching Northern League Baseball in Fargo. The Red Hawks, known for their special promotions, hosted Las Vegas night that evening. Upon entering the stadium, fans could sign up to win a free trip for two to Las Vegas. Laura wrote her name: Laura Hitland. Her husband, Jeff, signed the name "Mrs. Hitland."

My family and I also attended this same game but didn't ride the charter bus along with the other people from Thief River Falls. We, too, had registered for the Las Vegas weekend, thinking the trip started AFTER the game. No, winners had to leave the stadium immediately and head to Hector International Airport even before the first pitch was thrown. Hope you packed your bags.

So before the game began, the officials selected four finalists. The fourth name called was "Mrs. Hitland from Thief River Falls." "Oh my gosh, that's me," she said, and grabbed her friend, Jennifer. They walked down to the field carrying only their purses (with an instant cash card inside, of course). "I felt like I was in Bob Barker's 'come on down!'" says Laura, who agreed to let me write about her winning the trip. "I didn't pack a bag because I never thought I'd win."

A grand prize winner was drawn from the four finalists. "Mrs. Hitland" was the winner and the crowd from Thief River Falls cheered. Laura waved good-bye to her husband who was still sitting in the stands.

A bottle of champagne was uncorked and a sporty red convertible appeared to take the two to the airport. They drove a "victory" lap around the field and the two were off with gifts from the promotion - $100 in cash and backpack filled with toiletry supplies. At 7:30 p.m. they boarded a Northwest Airlines flight to Minneapolis and Las Vegas.

Laura describes winning the trip as "exciting." "Jennifer and I were sitting in the plane saying 'I can't believe this is happening.'" It was Jennifer's first trip to Las Vegas and ironically for Laura, it was her second trip just this summer.

Their first stop upon arriving in Las Vegas, she said, was at a Wal Mart store where they purchased undergarments and swimming suits. Their two nights of complimentary accommodations were at the Monte Carlo, a new hotel/casino on the Strip. Laura and Jennifer spent the weekend enjoying the hotel's five swimming pools and investigating the casinos on the Strip.

They returned to Fargo Sunday night and came home to Thief River Falls. They missed a good baseball game that Friday night - the Red Hawks won over the Duluth Superior Dukes. It would have been the second Red Hawks game Laura attended; last year she was at the game during the Las Vegas give-away. Last year, she had even packed her bags.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I expect to be eligible for Social Security both from my own work and through my deceased husband. How will I know which benefit is better?

A. Social Security representatives can provide you with estimates and discuss available options but the final decision is yours. Often the choice is easy based on your age and expected retirement date with a big concern being which benefit provides you with the most money over time.

Q. Since the flood my wife and I have had three different addresses and I now see value to having direct deposit. How do I sign up?

A. Easily. You can either visit your financial institution, visit any Social Security Office or call the national Social Security office at 1-800-772-1213. If you contact Social Security directly, you will need your claim number, your bank account number, and the bank's routing number. The bank information is usually on something such as a blank check or deposit slip. REMINDER: Please do not send documents to Social Security without some note as to what or who they are for. Always include your name, address, phone number and Social Security number with the mail.

Q. After my husband died I was contacted by Social Security to discuss survivors benefits. How did you know to contact me as I had not called the agency?

A. The Social Security Administration has a very good working relationship with funeral homes across the entire country. In most situations, the funeral home director will notify the local Social Security office about a death and provide next-of-kin information. Local Social Security personnel then work with the family with regard to survivor benefits and to review current and future benefit options.

Q. I am receiving benefits on my deceased husband's record and just learned that a former husband, who I divorced years ago, has died. Are benefits payable to me from him also?

A. Benefits paid through the record of more than one person are possible and, depending on several factors you might be able to receive through both records. At a minimum, your marriage to your first husband must have lasted at least 10 years. Note that although a person may be potentially eligible on more than one account, the actual benefit amounts payable may not make filing needed. It all depends on where you can get the higher benefit. For example, a claim on the divorced husband would not serve any purpose if the widow's benefit you are already receiving is a higher amount.

Support for breastfeeding is support for healthy babies

Governor Carlson proclaims August Breastfeeding Awareness Month

Breastfeeding has been proven to promote the health and well-being of infants and to have many benefits which last well beyond infancy. Increasing support for breastfeeding among families, employers, health care providers and communities will help ensure that more infants receive the multiple benefits of breastfeeding. Health professionals and public health officials in this area will be encouraging more support for breastfeeding during August, which has been proclaimed Breastfeeding Awareness Month by Governor Carlson.

"Breastfeeding provides a child the best start in life," said Linda Ulrich, RN, Coordinator for the Quin County WIC program. "Through Breastfeeding Awareness Month, we hope to educate people about the importance and value of breastfeeding."

As a result of the growing awareness of breastfeeding's benefits, more Minnesota employers, hospitals, family members and communities are becoming breastfeeding friendly.

- Fathers, friends and family members are learning about the benefits of breastfeeding and playing supportive roles such as helping with baby care, cooking and cleaning.
- Local businesses have an opportunity through the Minnesota Department of Health for an electric breastpump designed for multiple users.
- Many communities offer a variety of sources for breastfeeding support and information, including breastfeeding classes, phone support, WIC, La Leche League and other breastfeeding support groups. For more information, contact Lyndell Tangquist at Northwest Medical Center or Margo Peterson at Inter County Nursing Service.

Dr. Charles Winjum, MD, physician at Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls said that the benefits of breastfeeding include – greater resistance to diseases and allergies, protection against some chronic allergies, better bonding between mother and child, greater convenience, positive impact on the environment, health benefits for women who breastfeed and cost savings for families, employers and society.

The Minnesota Department of Health is encouraging women to breastfeed through its special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). WIC clients receive a wide range of breastfeeding information emphasizing the message, "Mother's Milk is Love – Please Breastfeed." The Minnesota WIC program has been successful in increasing the number of WIC clients who breastfeed, from 39.9 percent in September 1990 to 51.8 percent in May 1997. However, additional support is needed to provide an opportunity for all infants to receive the benefits of breastfeeding.

At Northwest Medical Center, 76 percent of infants are breastfed at hospital discharge. 37 percent are still breastfed at one month of age. "We need to spread the word that breastfeeding is the best way to feed babies, and that we all have a role in supporting breastfeeding," according to Jan Milender, RN, Head Nurse of Obstetrics at Northwest Medical Center. "We're confident our awareness efforts will help create an environment where breastfeeding is encouraged and supported." Breastfeeding Awareness Month in Minnesota is part of a worldwide observance sponsored by the World Alliance for Breastfeeding Action.

For more information about breastfeeding, contact WIC-Quin County at 1-800-223-1591, Inter County Nursing Service at 1-218-681-5950 or Northwest Medical Center at 1-218-681-4240.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Viva Las Vegas!

When Laura Hitland and Jennifer Pazdernik left Thief River Falls to go to Fargo for a Fargo-Moorhead Red Hawks baseball game, they had no idea they would be spending the weekend in Las Vegas instead.

On Friday, August 8, the two were part of a bus tour from Thief River Falls prepared for an evening of being with friends and watching Northern League Baseball in Fargo. The Red Hawks, known for their special promotions, hosted Las Vegas night that evening. Upon entering the stadium, fans could sign up to win a free trip for two to Las Vegas. Laura wrote her name, Laura Hitland. Her husband, Jeff, signed the name: Mrs. Hitland.

My family and I also attended this same game, but didn't ride the charter bus along with the other people from Thief River Falls. We, too, had registered for the Las Vegas weekend, thinking the trip started AFTER the game. No, winners had to leave the stadium immediately and head to Hector International Airport even before the first pitch was thrown. Hope you packed your bags.

So before the game began, the officials selected four finalists. The fourth name called was "Mrs. Hitland from Thief River Falls." "Oh my gosh, that's me," she said, and grabbed her friend, Jennifer; they walked down to the field carrying only their purses (with an instant cash card inside, of course). "I felt like I was in Bob Barker's 'come on down!'" says Laura, who agreed to let me write about her winning the trip. "I didn't pack a bag because I never thought I'd win."

A grand prize winner was drawn from the four finalists. "Mrs. Hitland" was the winner and the crowd from Thief River Falls cheered. Laura waved good-bye to her husband who was still sitting in the stands.

A bottle of champagne was uncorked and a sporty red convertible appeared to take the two to the airport. They drove a "victory" lap around the field and the two were off with gifts from the promotion - $100 in cash and backpack filled with toiletry supplies. At 7:30 p.m. they boarded a Northwest Airlines flight to Minneapolis and Las Vegas.

Laura describes winning the trip as "exciting." "Jennifer and I were sitting in the plane saying 'I can't believe this is happening.'" It was Jennifer's first trip to Las Vegas and ironically for Laura, it was her second trip just this summer.

Their first stop upon arriving in Las Vegas, she said, was at a Wal Mart store where they purchased undergarments and swimming suits. Their two nights of complimentary accommodations were at the Monte Carlo, a new hotel/casino on the Strip. Laura and Jennifer spent the weekend enjoying the hotel's five swimming pools and investigating the casinos on the Strip.

They returned to Fargo Sunday night and came home to Thief River Falls. They missed a good baseball game that Friday night - the Red Hawks won over the Duluth Superior Dukes. It would have been the second Red Hawks game Laura attended; last year she was at the game during the Las Vegas give-away. Last year, she had even packed her bags.

Josie – Part 4

The story taken from the memoirs of Josie Phillipson Burmgrud of rural Thief River Falls continues. The century has moved to 1900. The section on her work as Mrs. Austad's hired girl is from an interview with Josie on January 7, 1977 and is reprinted from "Women of Thief River Falls at the Turn of the Century" 1997.

The next fall Josie, 15, went to work for a family in St. Hilaire and was there until after Christmas when her father sent a letter asking if she would come home as Mother was not well. She took the train to Thief River Falls where Father was to meet her. But she was there 3 days as it was so stormy. He finally got through and they arrived home about 9:30 p.m.

Josie expected to see George and Ernest standing in the window watching for them, but she knew something was wrong when she did not see them. Then Henry came out and said, "I will take the horses, you go in. Mother is quite sick." When Josie came in, George and Ernest were sitting by the kitchen stove crying, and they were sure happy to see Josie. Henry had gotten a neighbor lady to stay with Mother. Josie was frightened and did not know what to do as she did not know what was the matter. But about an hour later brother Alvin was born. He only stayed with them about two hours when he went to his heavenly home.

So Josie remained home the rest of the winter and spring. Mother was in bed for several weeks. It was up to Josie to care for the 5 cows and the horse named Prince. Prince was mean and would bite, besides he did not like womenfolks, so Josie was happy when she got him untied and fed in the morning. After that Josie spent every spare moment outside sawing and splitting wood for fuel, always eager to have a large pile by evening.

Josie worked out for a year at a time in Wisconsin and North Dakota, and then for another year to Pastor Austad's family in Thief River Falls.

The salary of Pastor Austad of the Scandinavian Lutheran Church for the year 1904 was $250. Although the family also received "gifts in kind" from parishioners such as butter, eggs, and even oats and hay for their horse, they were short of cash. His wife, Anne Austad, moved out to a claim for nine months in 1904-1905. Josie Burmgrud, who was then Mrs. Austad's hired girl, explained:

"Pastor Austad took a claim about eight miles from here, in the Silverton District. He couldn't leave town, you know, because he was pastor of what is now Trinity Lutheran Church. His wife and myself and three children moved out there. The baby wasn't weaned yet.

The house was a long shanty, one floor, and divided in three rooms by curtains. The first room was a kitchen, then a kind of a front room, and then a bedroom. We had two stoves, one in each part. We had plenty of wood for the stoves, but there was a lot of chopping and splitting to do. We went out to the claim in December, just before Christmas. We had a cow, and that was something new to me -- I had never milked a cow.

The house had a wooden floor, and scatter rugs, and was always nice and warm, we never suffered from the cold. The Indians had a path past our house. I was frightened of them, you know, but they never bothered. They were nice, we never had any trouble. I suppose they were going for supplies in Thief River.

My, what fancy work we did! When our work was done in the evenings, the two of us would take turns reading the newspaper out loud while the other sewed. There were very few books around, then."

Mrs. Austad moved back to the town parsonage as soon as the land was legally theirs, then she sold the parcel.

HATS OFF TO 4-H

The Happy Acres 4-H Club was called to order by President Sunny Carlson on August 11 at Valhall. Secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. Roll call was taken with response of "What school supplies do you need?" Old business was to thank those who worked at county fair food stand and thank you from Hall of Fame recipients. New business was State Fair orientation on August 12; record judging; National 4-H Week; Carnival; Awards Banquet; Fairground flower beds and nominating committee. 4-H'ers who received awards at county fair were reminded to send thank you notes to donors. A motion to adjourn was made by Tony Meyers seconded by Derek Sorenson and carried. Information was given on record completion. Lunch was served by Greese and Haugen families.

Fine Line Dance of TRF ready to begin new season

Coach Connie Dorn says her Fine Line Dance group is ready to "kick off" another great season of performance in Thief River Falls. Groups and organizations are encouraged to contact Dorn to arrange dance line performances at events throughout the year.

Dorn says they'll be working with three dance lines, age preschool to teen line under the sponsorship of Thief River Falls Racquetball, Fitness and Martial Arts. "We've expanded the program and I'm excited about the future of Fine Line Dance. I'm also a little concerned about the Teen Line. We may have to establish a second line if interest continues to be this high."

Although there are limited openings in ages preschool to grade 5, Dorn says the teen program is already full, with names being taken on a waiting list.

To arrange a Fine Line Dance performance contact Dorn at 681-6857 or call Thief River Falls Racquetball, Fitness and Martial Arts at 681-6709.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robicheau
Superintendent
School District 564

Citizens of Independent School District #564:

As you are reading this latest edition of the Superintendent's Column, you come to realize that summer is over and many school activities are in place already for this fall with a number of students out for football, volleyball, cross country, tennis and other activities, and teachers preparing for their classes by coming in and getting ready for eager students. We are excited about the up and coming school year with new staff members, new students and a renewed commitment to provide a quality educational system for students.

"Here we go again" is what one of the most recent headlines had on the school district proposing a levy referendum vote to the taxpayers of Independent School District #564. I'd like to take a few minutes to share with you why the School Board has decided that it's important to present a levy vote to the taxpayers. The underlying issue for this recommendation is to maintain a quality educational program for students. It has become a right for students to expect only the best education they can have.

Let me share some of the thoughts of why the School Board has decided to present this levy referendum vote to the public. In 1994, the citizens of this school district endorsed the following beliefs of the school district:

Education is the shared responsibility of the individual, home, school and community.

A safe environment is critical to learning.

Learning is a life-long process.

Cooperation is essential in a competitive world.

A global perspective is essential for growth and survival.

Our district will be accountable for quality learning.

Our district will maintain fiscal stability by the effective use of available resources to accomplish its mission.

Our district will ensure equal access to appropriate quality educational programs and services.

Our district will involve the entire community in the educational process.

These are the benefits that we have established in this district. With that in mind, the Board considered the question, why provide a levy referendum? It is believed that the following five statements are reasons why this levy vote must be presented to the taxpayers:

1. Our community has a high quality educational system and it is our goal to maintain that quality. There is nothing that says we should be second best. We __must__ be the best and provide our students their __right__ of a quality educational system.

2. Our community has a great deal of pride in its educational system. I would suspect there are many people in this community who brag extensively about the __great__ educational opportunities that are afforded students.

3. Our district __must__ continue to offer students courses and other educational offerings to which they are entitled.

4. We __must__ provide financial __stability__ for this district. We can no longer function on a financial roller coaster.

5. Our district is __committed__ to offering educational programs so our students can be successful in a global society.

Based on these premises, we looked at how we can continue to provide an educational program that assures us of meeting these expectations. In subsequent articles, we will share with you what the money will be used for.

What can the taxpayers expect from their investment? The taxpayers can expect the following from your school system:

1. A partnership in an educational system that is second to none in the State of Minnesota.

2. Accountability from ISD #564. This accountability will assure financial responsibility. We will be expending funds as we have in the past and continue to expend funds that will only improve and enhance educational programs.

3. Increased student achievement.

4. Financial stability– Once and for all we will be able to deal with the financial conditions of this district and not have to go through budget reductions year in and year out. We will continue to fine-tune budgets as needed, but we will not have to reduce resources in our instructional programs for the kids.

5. We will provide the community opportunities for meaningful participation in the decision-making process as it relates to instruction for the students.

6. Assure accountability as far as quality teaching by quality staff– We will work diligently to make sure that continues.

7. We will also have extensive community input. It's the community's school and we need your input more and more.

8. An opportunity to invest in your future by assuring a quality educational program.

These are the issues the Board considered as they decided to present a levy vote. We are certainly aware of the fact that this levy has not been successful in three tries. However, the need has not gone away. Our wish is to maintain a quality educational program, provide financial stability and provide accountability for the taxpayer's dollars. We solicit your input, your suggestions and your questions. As you prepare to exercise your democratic right to vote in November on this levy, please call and ask questions. We want an informed electorate when you make your decision. We want you to be aware of what we are doing and how we're going to continue to provide a quality educational program that is the right of students in Independent School District #564.

Odette and Woodruff attend '97 National Scout Jamboree

Two Thief River Falls Scouts were among more than 100 from the Northern Lights Council of the Boy Scouts of America to attend the 1997 National Scout Jamboree held July 28 to August 5 at Fort A.P. Hill near Bowling Green, VA. The site is about 60 miles from Washington, DC.

Attending the Jamboree were Kevin Odette, 15, son of David and Paulette Odette and Keith Woodruff, son of Rick and Nancy Woodruff. Both are Life Scouts, members of Troop 57 in Thief River Falls and had spent eight weeks in June and July on the staff of Boy Scout Camp Wilderness near Park Rapids.

The Northern Lights Council sent three troops to the Jamboree this year, each consisting of about 36 scouts and four adult leaders. Each participant from the council was assigned to a troop and to a patrol within the troop. Keith served as quartermaster in Troop 1009 where he and Kevin were members.

Also members of the troop from this area were Andrew Gieseke of Greenbush and Joel Demarais of Plummer.

Scouts preparing to attend the national event are provided with a duffel bag, backpack and other Jamboree items. While traveling the scouts are required to wear their Class A uniforms and at the Jamboree to wear scout or Jamboree clothing.

The National Scout Jamboree this year was open to registered scouts who had completed the sixth grade or were at least 12 years of age and had attained First Class rank by July 1, 1997, but would not have reached their 18th birthday by Sept. 1, 1997.

Scouts applying to participate had to have the approval of their scoutmaster, pass a physical examination and participate in pre-Jamboree training which was held at separate sessions in Fargo and Jamestown, ND, Crookston, Fisher, Thief River Falls. All are responsible for providing their own fees and expenses to attend the event.

At the pre-Jamboree meetings the scouts in the troop were able to become acquainted with one another as well as to get assistance with completing paperwork. They worked together to set up patrols and on designing and building a gateway for their campsite at Fort A. P. Hill. The gateway selected by Keith and Kevin's troop was a simulation of the Kennedy Bridge over the Red River of the North connecting Grand Forks, ND and East Grand Forks. It was complete with plastic sheets to simulate water and sandbags on both banks.

The local scouts left with their troop from the Grand Forks airport July [illegible] at 5:30 a.m. flying directly to Washington, DC, where they spent the next two days touring [illegible]. On Monday afternoon they arrived at the Jamboree site and set up camp where they would live for the next 10 days.

Each patrol assembled its own picnic tables and benches for their campsite and set up the gateway which was the only entrance to the area. The scouts brought along their own knives, forks and spoons but used cooking equipment provided. They were responsible for meal preparation, washing dishes and doing their own laundry.

Meals generally consisted of cereal, fruit, milk and juice for breakfast, crackers with spreadables and meats for lunch and a full meal for supper, consisting primarily of military rations.

Total attendance during the 10 days at the Jamboree was about 35,000 and distinguished visitors included King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden and U.S. President Bill Clinton, who was presented the Silver Buffalo Award.

Activities provided for the scouts included several group sessions and opportunities to fish, scuba dive, snorkel, rappel and take part in a challenge course as well as participate in sub camp olympic events, five kilometer runs and a number of other activities which provided patch segments to circle the Jamboree patch on their uniform.

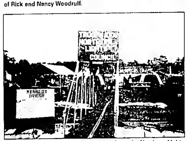
Kevin and Keith said their personal highlight of the Jamboree was the opportunity to trade patches with scouts from other areas. They also enjoyed the Merit Badge Midway, scuba diving, Odyssey of Law Adventure (which featured the 10 points of Scout Law) and the Challenging Outdoor Physical Experience (COPE) skills course—an exercise designed to enhance the scouts' trust in each other. The latter was built by military troops cooperating with the Jamboree and conducted by them.

The scouts received National Jamboree neckerchiefs which can be worn as part of their official scout uniforms and are recognizable as National Jamboree uniform complements.

On August 6 the members of Troop 1009 left Fort A.P. Hill by bus for Washington, DC, for more touring, a theme park visit and overnight stay before returning to the Grand Forks airport August 7.

Since the National Jamboree is not held every year, Kevin and Keith encourage young scouts to learn more about it and try to make arrangements to attend at least once. They are already planning to attend the International [illegible]

Kevin Odette (left), 15 and Keith Woodruff, 16, recently attended the 1997 National Scout Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill near Bowling Green, VA. They are Life Scouts from Troop 57 in Thief River Falls. Kevin is the son of David and Paulette Odette and Keith is the son of Rick and Nancy Woodruff.



This bridge constructed by Troop 1009 from the Northern Lights Council, Boy Scouts of America, was the only means of entrance to the troop's campsite at the National Scout Jamboree. It was dubbed the Kennedy Bridge and was complete with blue plastic "water" and realistic sandbags on both banks of the river.

More than 1,500 attend Old Mill Grinding Day

More than 1,500 people attended the annual Grinding Day at Old Mill State Park Sunday, August 24, according to Mary Broten, manager of the park.

Fifty-two people opened the day by hiking the Agassiz Trail at 10 a.m. to view the prairie flowers in bloom or attending the Indian Symbols children's program at 1 p.m. Naturalist Gladwin Lynne led these activities.

Visitors were greeted by park staff members Harriet Hodne, Tracy Borowicz and Aaron Reisen and other staff members on hand throughout the day were Greg Dahlin, Allan Hesse and Ryan Garner.

Mill stones powered by the antique Case No. 359 steam engine ground wheat into flour from noon until 4 p.m. Volunteers Lyle Trudell, Kent Broten, Steve Broten, Emil Kuznia, Dave Conely, Ward Sinn and Derwin Broten kept the mill running smoothly.

Volunteers Florence Kuznia, Betty Conely, Pauline Broten and Robert Broten sold 188 bags of freshly ground flour, 84 bags of bran and eight bags of middlings to visitors at the site.

Visitors were greeted at the nearby Larson cabin by volunteer Ethel Thorlacius, curator of the museum in Warren for the Marshall County Historical Society, dressed in pioneer period dress and offering a taste of homemade whole wheat bread with freshly churned butter or chokecherry jelly.

The John Hess farm had a Guernsey milk cow and two calves on display and Jim Hess assisted several people who tried their hand at milking the cow. That morning Nancy Hess had made the butter used on the whole wheat bread samples.

Bakke Carriage Company provided horse-drawn carriage rides from an area near the old cottonwood tree in the park's parking lot. With temperatures reaching into the 90s, many people also enjoyed the shade of the picnic area or use of the swimming pool.

The first Larson flour mill on what is now the park site was built in 1897. Cake donated by the Friends of Old Mill and the Super Valu bakery in Thief River Falls was served in honor of the 100th anniversary by Mike Watermolln. The mill has been operated annually since its restoration in 1958 by the Marshall County Historical Society.

Charges are pending after child left in poor conditions

Charges are pending against a 23-year-old woman after she allegedly left her three-year-old child without food or clothing with a babysitter for over a week.

On August 11 at 7:07 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report that a woman had left her child with a 17-year-old babysitter at a location with no utilities. She allegedly left the babysitter with no money for food for the child or clothes other than what the child was wearing. She also allegedly told the babysitter that if she wasn't back in a week to leave the child with a relative. When the sheriff's department investigated the report, they found that the child was sick and dehydrated. Social Services was contacted and the child was placed in custody of a relative. The case was turned over to the county attorney for possible charges against Tanya Kathleen Dahl, 23, address unknown.

Dahl was located, but was arrested on a warrant from authorities in Pierce County, WI. The warrant is based on a complaint of statutory rape of a 15-year old male.

Authorities at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center say the incidents remain under investigation.

Criminal sexual conduct. On July 10 the police department received a report from a woman about an assault that happened in late April. Through investigation, charges are pending for fifth degree criminal sexual assault against Randolph Scott Mott, 26, Thief River Falls.

Accidents. On August 11 at 3:21 a.m. police received a report of an accident in the median on Highway 59. According to the accident report, Mark Orville Aune, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup west on Highway 59 when he allegedly fell asleep and his vehicle collided with a tree in the median of the road. Damage to the tree was estimated at $1,000. Aune complained of a bruised chest and cut lip.

Blood drive at Eagles club on September 3

United Blood Services will conduct a blood collection drive on Wednesday, September 3, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls.

"This is an extra special blood drive because it is right after the Labor Day holiday weekend," says Sandy Hible, who is handling local arrangements for the drive.

"Blood drives held around holidays are especially important because United Blood Services' collection schedule is often reduced over a long holiday weekend and an additional supply of blood is needed to meet patient needs."

Hible also said that platelets—a special blood component that enables blood to clot—can only be kept for five days. They can't be made in advance and saved for a holiday. About 50 units are needed each day by area cancer patients and traumatic surgeries. The local blood drive is important to help ensure an adequate platelet supply.

While most people are able to take advantage of a holiday weekend to take a mini vacation, many patients need blood every day, even on holidays.

"Most people think someone else will donate so they don't have to give blood," Hible said. "But everyone is needed."

To schedule an appointment, call Sandy Hible at 681-2406 or 681-1637.

Wiltse wins TRF golf title

[illegible] River Golf Club's [illegible] championship [illegible] sixth straight year Sunday [illegible] Jeff Wiltse beat Rory Nordheim 2&1 in the championship flight finals.

Wiltse succeeds Curt Barber as [illegible] winner of the tournament that [illegible] a repeat champion since Hank Larson won back-to-back crowns in 1990 and 1991. [illegible] Wiltse in the finals both times. Tim Delmore won it in 1992, followed by Jim Williams, Jeff Hendrickson, Stan Sjoberg, Barber and now Wiltse.

A new twist this year found both the semifinals and finals being played back to back on the same day – a 36-hole test of stamina and nerves.

Wiltse stopped Lincoln High School freshman John Sjoberg 7&6 in the semifinals, while Nordheim advanced with a 2&1 victory over Rick Nikunen.

Larry Coltom defeated Tim Delmore in the finals of the President's Flight, designed for golfers who lost opening round Championship Flight matches.

Rest of the winners were Eric Barber, First Flight; Joey Hallstrom, Second Flight; Jon Peterson, Third Flight; and Greg Evenson, Fourth Flight.

It was the fourth or fifth time – he doesn't remember for sure – that Wiltse has been in the finals, but it was his first title. His last trip to the finals was in 1991.

Nordheim was 1-up at the start, but Wiltse was 2-up through seven – a score that did not change until Wiltse won No. 17 to wrap it up.

"It was a really close match," said Wiltse, who was 2 over par for the day. "Rory played really well. He kept the pressure on. I thought I played really well against John Sjoberg, and maybe not as well against Rory. But being in the finals puts a little more pressure on a person and it affects you."

Playing back-to-back matches didn't bother Wiltse, but the match play format does take a toll, he said.

"Match play is so much different from stroke play," he explained. "It's a different game mentally. In stroke play, you play against the course. In match play, you play the course and the opponent. You have to adjust to the format."

It's been a good summer of golf for Wiltse, who also won tournaments at Stephen and Red Lake Falls, and played well at other events, too. He may not remember just how many Thief River Golf Club finals he's been in, but rest assured, he'll remember his championship performance.

Finalists in the Championship Flight of the 1997 Thief River Golf Club tournament Sunday were Jeff Wiltse (left) and Rory Nordheim. Wiltse won the 18-hole match play encounter 2&1. Earlier in the day Wiltse beat John Sjoberg and Nordheim defeated Rick Nikunen in the semifinals.

Prowlers open with Sartell

■ Sabres make first appearance in TRF Friday

Local high school football fans are familiar with Detroit Lakes, a team that has beaten Thief River Falls three times in the last four Section 8A finals – part of a string of seven straight state playoff appearances for the Lakers.

People might not be as familiar with Sartell, the Prowlers opponent in the 1997 season opener Friday, but Thief River Falls head coach Jeff Mumm puts the Sabres on par with the Lakers when it comes to talent. It's a championship caliber opponent, he warns.

"They have one of the top programs in the state in their class every year," pointed out Mumm. "We've seen some awfully good Detroit Lakes teams over the years, but Sartell is every bit as good as Detroit Lakes. They've got some great athletes. Detroit Lakes will beat you with their strength. Sartell beats you with finesse. They've got some great skill people. They've got good size and speed at the wide receivers. Our linebackers and defensive backs will have their work cut out for them."

It will be a challenge, acknowledged Mumm, but one that he's looking forward to. "I'm excited," he said. "To bring a team like that to our place will be great for the fans. We hope it will be a good game."

Sartell has advanced to the state football playoffs five times – the latest being a Class A championship season in 1994. Although the schools are similar in size, the Sabres and Prowlers find themselves separated under this year's new six-class playoff format, with Thief River Falls being one of the smaller Class AAAA programs and Sartell being one of the larger Class AAA teams.

Mumm was satisfied with the Prowlers' performance in their annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview scrimmages Saturday. Defensively, he said the Prowlers should be able to use 22 players in their two-deep rotation system. Offensively, he's looking to use 15-16 players. "We're pretty set in most positions, but we're still looking for some depth at the tackles," he explained.

The Sartell players, coaches and fans will be treated to a post-game supper through the efforts of the Thief River Falls Touchdown Club, pointed out Mumm, whose team was treated in similar fashion last year when they made the trip to Sartell.

The Sabres won that first-ever meeting between the two schools 31-6. Mumm is hoping the home field edge and the long bus trip – something Sartell has had little experience with – works in the Prowlers' favor this time around.

"I hope we put on a good show," said Mumm. "I think we can play with them. We've got some athletes ourselves."

Size, along with a talented, experienced and deep offensive backfield should make the Prowlers competitive, according to Mumm.

Thief River Falls will follow the Sartell game with a Sept. 5 trip to Detroit Lakes. Starting times for the Prowlers' home games have been moved up from 7:30 to 7 p.m. this fall. The Oct. 3 homecoming game against Grand Rapids, however, has the early 6 p.m. kickoff that has been featured in recent years.

Friday's game will be observed as Parent's Night for the Prowlers, with parents of all senior football players being admitted to the game free of charge.

TRF team headed to national tournament

Best Western Inn/Burkel Trucking/Ridge Runners of Thief River Falls has qualified for the 1997 National Class C women's slow pitch softball tournament, scheduled to be played Sept. 25-28 in Montgomery, AL.

Regular season champions in the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League, the Best Western Inn/Burkel Trucking/Ridge Runners squad placed third at the district tournament in Crookston Aug. 9-10 to earn a state tournament berth, where another third place showing produced the opportunity to play at the national level.

Featuring players from throughout northwestern Minnesota, the team is seeking support from the community to help finance the trip to Alabama. Those interested in contributing to the efforts can call Paula Fanfulik at 964-5508 or Marilyn Helgeland at 681-2027.

Steph Leach returned a shot against Bemidji during the annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational high school tennis tournament Thursday. Leach and Beth Goddard formed the Prowlers' No. 1 doubles team for the day. They finished second to Katie Hunt and Kristin Olson of Crookston in the six-team event.

DNR NEWS

Tournament Regulations

Should fishing regulations be relaxed for tournament anglers? That's the question being weighed by Minnesota Department of Natural Resources officials. Recently, the agency has been asked to consider a rule that would authorize the DNR commissioner to grant regulations "variances" for larger fishing contests.

Earlier this year, the In-Fisherman Professional Walleye Trail asked to waive the possession limit of two walleyes on the St. Louis River for a proposed fishing tournament in September 1998. The tournament sponsors want the agency to let contestants temporarily possess up to five walleyes for a televised weigh-in.

The DNR currently has no authority to grant such requests. A state rule being considered by agency officials would give the DNR commissioner authority to relax regulations for tournaments if biologists determined that the fisheries resource would not be jeopardized.

Each year, Minnesota has more than 250 fishing tournaments that require a DNR permit (those with an entry fee of $10 or more or with prizes valued at $2,000 or more). Requests for a variance could be made by tournament sponsors and would be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

DNR officials anticipate that the rule would include conditions, criteria, and other limitations that would apply to individual tournaments that request easing of fishing regulations. For example, variances would only be allowed on waters where size or possession limits are more restrictive than statewide limits.

Tree Farmer of the Year

A retired businessman who has always appreciated the work of farmers but never wanted to be one is, ironically, Minnesota's 1997 Tree Farmer of the Year. Jack Lemme of Little Falls recently received the honor for his 240 acres of well-managed property just northeast of the intersection of state highways 10 and 371.

"The land was fallow when I bought it in 1951," said Lemme, a long-time broadcaster and former owner of radio station KLTF in Little Falls. "I had no intention of farming it. I don't know beans about farming. Still, I wanted to put the land to good use, so I began planting trees."

And plant trees he did. The family planted more than 220,000 during the next 16 years. Another 40,000 were planted during 1978-79 to replace those killed by bark beetles during the 1976-77 drought. Today, the land is awash with tall Norway pine, spruce, red oak and aspen.

"I never expected to make a profit by caring for the land," said Lemme. "I bought it as a legacy for my children and grandchildren, sort of an intergenerational thing. It was a place to take the kids sledding in winter, to cut a Christmas tree for church and family, and to kick back and relax."

Over time, however, the land did what it was supposed to: grow timber for society to use. Seven hundred cords of Norway pine were sold and converted to paper. One-hundred and eighty cords of oak were sold as firewood to keep homes warm in winter. Three hundred cords of pine were peeled, treated and turned into wooden posts, the kind used by farmers and those with fencing and landscape needs.

Likewise, the land is used for public recreation and education. A 4.6-mile cross country ski trail races through the trees. It was developed by the Hole-in-the-Day Nordic Ski Club, which grooms it for the club's 65 families, the high school ski team and area residents. Teachers take their students to the Tree Farm for nature study. The land has been enhanced for wildlife by adding ponds, nest boxes for bluebirds and wildlife openings seeded to clover.

"Jack's tree farm is a classroom, free ski area and working forest all in one," said Bob Perleberg, Department of Natural Resources forester at Little Falls. "It is one of the most heavily used tree farms I know of. It had nearly 4,000 hours of public use last year."

The Lemme tree farm is owned by Jack and his wife Jean along with their children Mark, Steve, Linda and Kathy. The family, which manages the property together, seeks input from the Nordic Ski Club when making timber harvest decisions. "The multiple-use concept always made sense to me," said Lemme. "I always thought that this could become a nice little recreation area some day and I'm pleased that's what it became."

Lemme, 72, a Duluth native and University of Minnesota Law School graduate, served the State of Minnesota in the House of Representatives. He has also served on nearly 50 different civic, church or broadcast organizations.

Deer hunters facing Sept. 4 deadline for antlerless permits

Sept. 4 is the deadline for making an application for a 1997 Minnesota Antlerless Deer Permit. And as that day approaches, Department of Natural Resources employees in the License Bureau and Information Center are preparing to work extended hours to accommodate the expected surge of last-minute applicants. Both the License Bureau and the Information Center will remain open for business until 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 2, 3 and 4. Phone service in both offices will remain on its regular 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. schedule.

In-person applications for the Antlerless Deer Lottery must be delivered to the License Bureau by 6 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 4. Mail-in applications must be postmarked no later than Sept. 4.

"The last days before the antlerless deer lottery deadline are traditionally our very busiest days of the year," said Karen Beckman, DNR License Bureau assistant administrator. "On an average day we see about 200 customers. Just before the antlerless lottery deadline, we will see about 750 a day."

Those 750 daily customers will have a lot of questions to ask while they are at the DNR central office, and not all of their inquiries will be about deer hunting. "The antlerless deer lottery deadline is definitely a big annual event here," said Sherri Urbano, information assistant at the DNR Central Office Information Center. "We will be on hand to assist them with whatever natural resource related information that they may need."

During the busiest times, DNR employees will be on hand in the lobby of the DNR building to assist with lottery-related questions, and to help hunters to correctly complete their applications. Inaccurate completion of lottery applications can result in exclusion from the lottery.

"The most common errors made on lottery applications are driver license numbers and dates of birth being written down incorrectly," Beckman said. "And the signature. Hunters need to remember to sign their applications."

Road Checks

Exotic species road checks conducted by Department of Natural Resources conservation officers so far this year have found that nearly 20 percent of the boats inspected were illegally transporting aquatic vegetation. A Minnesota law makes it illegal to transport any aquatic plants attached to boats, motors or trailers along public roads.

According to Jay Rendall, DNR Exotic Species Program coordinator, while few of the plants found during road checks were Eurasian watermilfoil, in the fight to reduce the spread of exotics such as milfoil and zebra mussel, this finding brings concern.

"Eurasian watermilfoil continues to spread. So far this season milfoil has been found in four more Twin Cities lakes and confirmed in a Crow Wing County lake," Rendall said.

Exotic species road checks have been conducted in Anoka and Hubbard counties in June and July. More than 300 boats and trailers were inspected, with warning tickets and citations being issued. In addition, conservation officers and DNR watercraft inspectors have been conducting random inspections at public water accesses throughout the state since May.

Defending Section 8C champions

Gators rebuilding after winning title

[illegible] Section 8C championship team [illegible] Badger/Greenbush/Middle River at the start of the 1997 high school football season, but down the road the Gators may be a challenge, according to fifth-year head coach Steve Willman.

"We lost a lot of kids [illegible] starters on both sides of the ball," pointed out Willman. "A lot depends on how fast our inexperienced players step up. If they come around, we'll be okay. We might take our lumps early."

The Gators will center their attack around 6-2, 230-pound junior fullback Richard Wockenfuss, who is equally effective on defense at linebacker.

"He's the key," acknowledged Willman. "It's hard to stop a kid with that size and with his speed."

Others who return and are expected to be top performers are Darryl Wockenfuss, a halfback/linebacker; [illegible], a safety; Brian Wilhelm, a lineman; [illegible], a tight end/linebacker; and [illegible], a tight end/linebacker.

Sophomore Daniel Truscinski takes over the quarterback duties.

Defense will be an important part of the Gators' success, noted Willman. "Our philosophy is if they don't score, we can't be beat," he said.

A year ago the Gators went 6-2 during the regular season, then beat Blackduck, Clearbrook/Gonvick and Red Lake Falls to win their first-ever sectional title. They made a long trip across northern Minnesota [illegible]

Applicants still needed for Blandin leadership program

About 20 people attended a town meeting Monday, August 18, in Thief River Falls to learn more about a Blandin Foundation Leadership program. Interested individuals have until September 2 to apply for participation in the program.

The Blandin Community Leadership program started in 1985 and over 2,500 people from 170 Minnesota communities have participated in the program.

Paul Olson, president of the Blandin Foundation stated, "The purpose of this program is to strengthen rural communities by helping them help themselves. We believe that a community's greatest resource is its people." The program, however, is intended not only to develop individual leadership skills, but also to develop networks and teams of local leaders.

Jim Krile, director of the program, commented that, "Effective community development requires effective leadership throughout the community. The basic philosophy of this program is to encourage shared leadership within communities and to foster cooperation between communities." The program focuses on basic leadership skills as they apply to community issues.

Twelve people from the Thief River Falls area and 12 people from the Crookston area will be selected to participate in the program, which will be held October 19-24 at Ruttger's Sugar Lake Lodge outside Grand Rapids. The program will focus on functions of leadership, communication, dealing with conflict, power and influence, goal setting and application of the community leadership skills. The Myers Briggs personality inventory will be used to understand yourself better — as well as others. The total value of this program, including tuition, food and lodging, is estimated at $3,000, and is covered by a scholarship to each participant.

Applications can be obtained at the School District Service Center, the Chamber of Commerce, Thief River Falls City Clerk's office, and Social Services in Thief River Falls.

The selection committee will be meeting the week of September 8 to review the applications. Successful applicants will be notified of their selection no later than the third week of September.

VFW Post 2793 provided funds for the purchase of new signs to the entrance of the community of Thief River Falls. The new signs indicate that Thief River Falls is a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) community. Six signs were purchased. Closing costs covered for flood victims

State of Minnesota Commissioner David Gruenes, president of Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines, Iowa, Thurman C. Connell, and president of United Bankers' Bank, William C. Rosacker have announced the formation of a community development corporation through United Bankers' Bank which is designed to fund real estate closing costs for flood victims.

Commissioner Gruenes and President Connell stated that the two government agencies are trying to help close the "affordability gap" of flood victims attempting to finance the purchase of replacement homes. The two agencies are working with the United Bankers' Bank of Bloomington, MN, which has formed a community development corporation that will reimburse the closing costs of flood victims. Mortgage closing costs can run as high as 2 to 2.5 percent of a total mortgage.

At the request of the two government agencies, United Bankers' Bank will form the community development corporation and apply to the Federal Home Bank of Des Moines for a funding grant. Rosacker will be seeking other community bankers who have an interest in serving as directors of the new corporation in coordinating this relief effort.

Commissioner Gruenes, chair of the Governor's Flood Recovery and Redevelopment Council is coordinating the relief efforts of Minnesota state agencies to aid communities suffering from the effects of massive spring flooding. Replacement housing for flood victims has been the top priority of the Commissioner's recovery plan. Several other loan and grant packages are being developed by state and federal agencies which involve local, city and county efforts.

"An important aspect of our overall plan was to find some means to assist homeowners with mortgage closing costs," said Commissioner Gruenes. "This is where we felt that private sector help is required. United Bankers' Bank, which is owned by community banks across the State of Minnesota, is the ideal resource for assistance because they provide financial services in these areas."

Connell, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines commented, "From the very beginning, the Home Loan Bank realized the importance of the flood relief efforts and committed over $100 million in reduced lending costs to help FHLB members in the flood areas provide financing to flood victims. At this stage of the flood recovery efforts, we will provide technical assistance to the United Bankers' Bank community development corporation as they prepare to apply for a competitive grant from the Bank's Affordable Housing Program. We know there is a continuing need for assistance and we hope we can be helpful in this process."

"The United Bankers' Bank is well situated to serve in this effort," noted Rosacker.

Regular meeting of the Pennington County Chapter of the American Cancer Society was held at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in July. At this meeting, Gloria Buggo, Reach-to-Recovery volunteer, was honored. Vivian Brekke, Reach-to-Recovery Coordinator, presented her with a plaque honoring and thanking her for her 14 years of volunteer work.

Taxpayers save in bond sale because of AAA bond rating

Minnesotans save millions because of upgraded bond rating

Minnesota taxpayers can expect to see a savings of approximately $2.25 million on the state's most recent bond sale due to Minnesota's upgraded bond ratings.

Minnesota recently received an upgrade in its bond rating to AAA from Standard and Poor's. This upgrade was followed by a $226 million release of general obligation bonds on the market.

"I am pleased that the sale of these bonds is progressing so well," said Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson. "We can now fund important state projects and simultaneously save Minnesotans millions of dollars."

The AAA credit rating is the best rating available and results in the lowest interest on bonds. It is expected that the upgraded rating will save Minnesotans approximately $6.85 million from bond sales occurring in the next biennium. The savings will be realized over the life of the bonds, which is generally a 20-year period.

The AAA rating from Standard and Poor's now gives Minnesota the highest rating possible from all three of Wall Street's major rating agencies — an accomplishment achieved by only eight other states.

"We earned this rating because of sound fiscal management," said Governor Carlson. "But to retain the AAA, we will need to continue to exercise fiscal prudence. In that way, the AAA ratings will also serve as a yardstick by which to evaluate future governors and legislatures."

The sale of these bonds will fund projects such as the Library Access Center at the University of Minnesota, Mighty Ducks hockey facility grants, replacement of local bridges and many youth facility grants.

Delores Saul stopped on her way home to Grygla. She had attended a get-together of some of the former Gully teachers. During their visiting they decided it would be fun having a Gully All School Reunion and they set the day for July 5th, 1998 at the Gully Community Center. More particulars will be given closer to that date. Perhaps a potluck meal and it would be for everyone, parents, former students, teachers, cooks, janitors or whoever. Please start planning your trip to Gully next July 5th. Also gather interesting pictures and articles about the "Good Old Days" in the Gully School. Anyone having suggestions or questions may call or write Delores Saul, P.O. Box, Grygla, MN 56727 or Delores Schow, RR, McIntosh, MN 56556.

Irene from Bagley called to tell me she found a note on her table when she came home one day. It had come from Baudette via several people. It said "Tell Sanna to be at the Erickson farm north of Goodridge on Saturday afternoon to meet her former dormitory roommate for her 87th birthday. No road numbers or distance from Goodridge. It was like a crossword puzzle until I decided it was the home of the former Pennington County Sheriff. I was supposed to find Oscar Erickson's home. I finally got there a bit lost and dizzy but found Evelyn Bein Erickson and her two daughters and families. Patty Sorenson from north of Thief River Falls and Berlene who had come from Okinawa to be there with her mother for her birthday together with dozens of Ericksons and friends.

The Gully Trail Parish held their Bible School Wednesday, August 13th thru Friday, August 15th at the Lund Lutheran Church in Gully for Trail, Bethany and Lund Congregations. Over 30 youngsters attended the three evening classes. Teachers were Helen Sordahl, Lori Carlson, Tammy Carlson, Jodi Thompson, Candance Bruggeman, Peggy Roostrow, Debbie Sweno, Pastor Bob Kelley and Cheryl Nybo. Helpers were Jan Larson, Cathy Bergerson, Christina Bergerson and Linda Godtland.

On Sunday, August 17 a short program was held as part of the service. The preschool through second grade sang "Jesus Loves Me", "Do Lord", and "I Can Stamp My Feet." Third thru 8th grade sang "Amazing Grace" and the "Doxology". The Bible school participants had made a banner for the three churches to share, entitled "Gods helping Hands" which includes a hand print from each of the pupils, teachers and helpers.

We are very thankful to all who helped with this special event also to Florence who made large peanut butter cookies for all and to parents and friends who helped make it possible for all to get to Lund. The teachers and helpers donated much time and talent for which we're grateful it takes a great deal to keep the youngsters busy and learning.

Angela Groll from California has been in town this weekend visiting her grandmother Deloris Ringstad. Angela was also here on Business. She is now managers for "The Right Start" stores located in "Mall of America" and "The Burnsville Center." There are "The Right Start" stores located throughout the United States. Angela is the daughter of Dave and Sandie Groll. We are happy to hear Dave and Sandie will soon be residents of Gully when they move into the Florence Berg house. We also hope to see Angela coming to Gully more often.

"What Shouldn't We Miss In Minnesota?"

While at a campground last week in the area of Spring Green, Wisconsin, we met two couples from New Jersey who were touring in a large motor home. We mentioned we were from northwestern Minnesota, and the couples said they were headed into our state. "What shouldn't we miss in Minnesota?" one of the travelers asked.

The question caught us a little off guard. Just what should an East Coast tourist be sure to see during a trip to Minnesota? What advice would you give two elderly couples who asked that question—especially two couples who had spent the full previous day visiting The House On The Rock with its unique design and amazing displays and collections?

The Mall of America? They didn't need to see another shopping mall.

The North Shore of Lake Superior? They had already been there in the past.

The Congdon Mansion in Duluth? Open pit mines on the Iron Range? Two possible stopping points.

The Arctic Cat plant in Thief River Falls? No major interest in snowmobiles or manufacturing.

The question did get us thinking a little more about tourism, especially while seeing how some of the small towns in Wisconsin promoted their unique potential attractions. One town claimed the oldest courthouse in continuing use in the state. Another had the nation's largest shoe store with 186 brands of shoes. Another promoted its cheese plant with a walk-in cooler. Yet another had the state's oldest continuously operating bakery, operated by the fourth generation of its founding family.

Many communities had taken advantage of the drawing power of nearby major attractions such as The House On The Rock, Circus World Museum and others and converted their business districts into tourist-oriented shops.

Most of these communities had the benefit of large population centers nearby, and catered to the urbanites and suburbanites leaving Madison or Milwaukee or Chicago for weekend or longer excursions. People volume is what makes the conversion of communities to tourist towns successful or even possible.

Could northwest Minnesota communities learn from these other towns and cash in on the tourist dollars? Probably not in the same manner, since we lack the population masses from which they draw. What we could learn, however, are more ways to promote the special attractions we do have. They may not make the "must see" list of two elderly couples in a motor home, but they can attract those with special interests— snowmobile enthusiasts and nature lovers as examples.

Thief River Falls and area communities have been putting a good deal of effort and funding into promoting snowmobile trails, snowmobile manufacturing facilities, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and other unique aspects of the area. Efforts can also be made to expand the number of attractions for those who enjoy the already existing interest areas, thereby increasing the drawing power of the area.

If someone you met in another state asked you what not to miss in Minnesota, would you have an answer ready? We didn't.

Can It Be Back To School Time Already?

In just a few days local youngsters will be boarding buses for their first day of school during the 1997-98 school year. It seems like just a couple of weeks ago that we were covering and writing about the myriad of events and activities marking the end of the school year.

Perhaps summers seem long to students who are easily bored if not provided with constant activity, but to us what passed for summer this year has swept past in a blur with brief pauses at events such as Northwest Dairy Day, An American Festival, All Nations Cultural Festival, Pennington County Fair and others.

It seemed that Mother Nature robbed us of summer this year by providing a plague of gnats and mosquitoes that made being outdoors almost unbearable and left at least some natives— believe it or not—looking forward to winter.

And now an event that signals the end of summer—the opening of school classes—is just a few days away.

We wish to welcome all school personnel who have not been employed with the school system during the summer back to their roles in educating our community's young people. An especially warm welcome goes out to the many new teachers and other school personnel who will be joining School District 564 for the first time this fall.

A number of years ago it was not unusual to have a fairly high turnover in school personnel from year to year. In recent years, as jobs in education were more difficult to find, school staffs have been much more stable. This year in this district there will be a number of new employees—a departure from the normal situation of the past decade or two.

We invite new school personnel to become an even more active part of our community by joining in its organizations, churches and activity groups and sharing talents and interests. You will find our people friendly and encouraging and willing to share the things they enjoy doing. We are looking forward to another good school year —even if it is starting too soon!

Trip to Norway

Mrs. Myrtle Hamrum together with her sister Mrs. Hilda Kvaale returned last week from a two week trip to Norway.

When we arrived in Oslo, Osmund Kvammen, a second cousin was there to meet us. The next morning very early we all boarded the sightseeing train to Bergen. While there we went on the Floien (flying bus) which is a bus built to go up the mountain cables. From up there we could view the city from above.

Later the next day we went by boat and then bus to get to Sauda, where Osmund lives. After resting up a bit, we began finding more relatives. One day Osmund took Sue to Eine to the place our grandmother grew up and also the place where grandfather grew up and the place where they lived when they left for America in 1882 when our father was only five years old.

We also spent some time in Fjarland visiting the Hamrum place and the folks who live there now. It is beautiful there and several glaciers and water falls.

Traveling is somewhat different than here. To get to Fjarland we rode on two different buses and two ferries took all day but the sights along the way were wonderful, sheep on all along the roads, some goats and when we got high up the mountains, there was snow instead of trees. Some very deep drifts along the roads.

The weather was wonderful and no mosquitoes and very few flies. So with our good guide and chauffeur we had a splendid time in Norway — Mountains, Fjords and water falls!

Jung Brothers Close Deal For Buying The Dahl Bakery

"Purchase of Dahl's Bakery on LaBree avenue by Jung Brothers, proprietors of Jung's Bakery was announced this week by C. Herb and Walter Jung, who added that they will take possession of the property about October 20.

"In the meantime the front end of the building will be remodeled and new fixtures installed. A new oven installed last winter will be used for baking cakes and pastries while the present Jung's bakery will be devoted mainly to the baking of bread and rolls. The new owners will discontinue the serving of lunches at the LaBree avenue location.

"Dahl's bakery was established in 1921 by Anton Dahl, who died two years ago, since when his business has been continued by his sons, Iver, Paul and Helge Dahl. Jung's bakery has been operating here under its present ownership since 1915."

Waste Paper Pickup Staged In City

"A waste paper collection will be made in Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon, August 30, starting at 1 o'clock by Boy Scout Troops 57 and 60, under the direction of Scoutmasters Jack Williams and Morris Owen. Both the business and residence districts will be covered, and householders are asked to tie the paper securely in bundles and place them along the curb. Residents of the rural areas having paper to contribute are asked to bring it to the sports arena where a truck will be stationed to receive it."

Local Fire Department Has Varied Equipment For Use Of The Injured

"The Thief River Falls fire department is now well supplied with equipment needed for treatment of victims of accidents or disease, Chief Roy Langevin stated today, adding that the apparatus is available for loan without charge. In addition to a polio-pac heater to heat hot packs for treatment of polio and other afflictions, the department has on hand ten wheelchairs, three pairs of crutches, a fracture bed and an inhalator. Mr. Langevin says there is a brisk demand for crutches and he solicited donations of more of them from homes where they are no longer needed."

New Crossing Signal Is Installed By Soo Line

"The Soo Line last Wednesday put a Griswold electrically operated crossing signal into use on the busy Third street crossing, scene of several accidents in recent years. The signal flashes a red light in both directions and rings a bell when a train is approaching. A switch in the offices in the depot permits the bell to be shut off while a train is standing at the station. Installation of the signal had been ordered about two years ago by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, but was delayed owing to the inability of the manufacturer to supply the equipment at an earlier date, Philip Bryant, division superintendent, explained."

New Highway Through Millyard Area Put Into Use This Week

"An improvement destined to transform the old millyard district was put into use last weekend when the new road through that area was opened to traffic although construction is not yet fully completed.

"The new road, to be known as Pennington avenue, connects the First Street Bridge with State Aid Road No. 2 at Greenwood cemetery, and eliminates two railroad crossings. A huge fill has been installed in the gully just north of the cemetery."

Finish Pouring Concrete On Hwy. 32

"Laying of the concrete strip on Highway 32 between St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls was completed early last week by the Windrich Construction company, contractors in charge.

"The project, started last spring, had been delayed at various times by heavy rains. The state highway department asks that motorists continue to use the detour on No. 32 until the shoulders along the paving are installed, making it safe for travel."

Strathcona Fall Festival was the place to be and really enjoy for most of Strandquist's and Karlstad's residents. The music and foods of all kinds were absolutely great and friends and neighbors met for one good time. The booths were loaded with lovely things to buy and most of us were happy to be there. Local and far away entertainers kept the crowd delighted and the fun to go home came too quickly.

For the weather report for northwest Minnesota we are having another beautiful summer day and warm full moon evenings that rival any area in the fifty states. If we could get all the long billed hummingbirds to catch the sea evergreen mosquitoes we could advertise the "Paradise of the North" commonly called Northwest Minnesota. But most of them are hanging out on Roy's bird feeders getting filled up on sugar water and don't make any dent on the mosquito population around here.

The Strandquist seniors met on Thursday with several members and their visitors were Clara Nelson, Marian Pederson and Norma Bustin. They put a quilt together and planned a trip to Grand Forks for next week. Busy folks there are in that group.

At the Bethesda Church they are planning to have a fashion show plus sanitation during their Fall festival when the ladies will exhibit their wedding gowns. This is when we will have to come to grips with those extra pounds we have nourished the last years. It is hard to realize how easily they slay on and how hard they are to get rid of again.

I've been asked how it went with the chokecherries but will leave the results until next week. I don't want to spoil Roy's happy looks when eyeing all those pints of supposed to be chokecherry jelly.

City asked to pay $237,696 in deficit for HRA housing

By David Hill
Associate Editor

Northwest Minnesota Multi-County Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA) has advised Thief River Falls of a cash flow shortfall for its three rental housing units in the City of Thief River Falls. In the notice it is requesting that the city pay for last year's shortfall and next year's projected shortfalls.

For the years ending June 30, 1997, and projected deficits for June 30, 1998, the HRA is requesting a total of $237,696 from the City of Thief River Falls. City Community Development Director Don Stewart and City Attorney Paul Ihle said the request was turned over to the administrative services committee for consideration during the budget process.

Stewart and Ihle said they were surprised by the August 11 notice because they thought the city's rental units had met the occupancy goals. Stewart added that they had a number of questions regarding how the HRA arrived at those figures.

In response to the growing demand for housing and the lack of developers willing or able to construct housing, the city signed an agreement in 1995 with the HRA and became a participant in a housing development plan with the cities of Badger, Baudette and Roseau. This arrangement led to the construction of several apartment complexes, including three in Thief River Falls — one for senior housing, one for college students, and one for general occupancy. As a result of just one of the pooled housing agreements, six facilities were built with essential function bonds, 100 percent of which comes from private investors. Upon completion of the projects, the HRA hired management firms to manage the facilities. The request comes from the HRA not the management firms. The HRA owns the buildings.

According to the notice sent to the city, the HRA requests payment based on terms of the "participating city's operating deficit agreement." The notice informs the city of an operating deficit for the year ending June 30, 1997, and calculates the city's contribution for that year. It also requests the city pay a sum for the projected deficit for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Of the six pooled housing projects listed, there were deficits at the Baudette senior facility and the two Thief River Falls facilities. The other three facilities in the pooled housing agreement — one in Badger, one in Roseau, and one in Baudette — recorded surpluses. The surplus funds were combined and split between those facilities recording deficits. The HRA does not state how the surpluses were divided up. In fact, Baudette Senior, which recorded a deficit of $21,967, received $21,352 of the surplus funds. Thief River Falls, on the other hand, received $15,426 in surplus funds to cover its deficit of $29,993 on its general project, and $21,430 in surplus funds to cover its $72,362 deficit on its senior project.

What also may be disturbing to the facilities recording surpluses is the fact that the HRA is projecting deficits at all of the facilities next year, and even though Baudette, Badger and Roseau recorded surpluses with the year ending June 30, 1997, the surpluses are not carried over. They probably received a letter similar to the one received by Thief River Falls, which asks them to remit funds totaling the projected deficit for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Thief River Falls

According to the notice sent to Thief River Falls City Administrator Roger DeLap, last year's deficit for the senior housing project was $83,907. The HRA subtracted $11,545 of reserves from the deficit, and $21,430 in surplus funds obtained from operating surpluses obtained by other participants in the plan to arrive at a requested contribution of $50,932. The HRA then projected a deficit of $39,400 for the year ending June 30, 1998, for the senior housing project. [illegible] year's deficit for the general housing project in Thief River Falls for the year ending June 30, 1997, was $38,304. From that deficit they subtracted $8,311 of reserves and $15,426 of surplus funds obtained by other participants. The HRA is projecting a deficit of $58,277 for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Financing of the college project was held separately from the other projects. According to the letter sent to the city's administrator, the HRA is requesting $[illegible] for the year ending June 30, 1997. They are projecting a budget surplus of $5,894 for the year ending June 30, 1998.

The total amount requested by the HRA from Thief River Falls is $237,696. City officials are directing all questions to the city attorney.

Other communities

As mentioned earlier, the HRA is projecting budget deficits for all six projects for the year ending June 30, 1998. With only two months into the year, the HRA projects a total deficit of $129,259 from all six participants. The Badger project is estimated to have a budget deficit of $3,052. The Roseau project is projected to have a deficit of $6,389. The Baudette senior project is projected to have a budget deficit of $23,686. The Thief River Falls general housing project is projected to have a budget deficit of $28,277. The Thief River Falls senior housing project is projected to have a budget deficit of $39,400.

Diana Nelson and Kyri, age 4, went to the first day of the 1997-98 school year with Casey Collisen, 9, and Corey Collisen, 7. They were among the many families in School District 564 to start-off the school year at Challenger Elementary school Tuesday.

Thief River Falls City Council approved a proposed electric deposit increase resolution Tuesday night.

The resolution called for the city to obtain a deposit of $100 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes and a $200 deposit for all residential units and manufactured homes with electric heat. The rates represent an increase from $50 and $100 and is in response to demands to recover payment of delinquent utility bills for service to all properties. The new rates apply only to new customers. All customers with current deposits will stay as they are now as long as prompt payment continues even if the customer relocates within the city.

The resolution also set out a number of exceptions. There will be no deposit required for service to owner-occupied property unless delinquency occurs in payment of accounts.

The resolution also sets out reasons the deposit on rental property may be waived or increased: the customer provides a satisfactory credit reference from the customer's former utility; the owner of the property agrees to be personally responsible for the utility bills of his tenants, should they become delinquent, by signing a contract agreement; after a customer has been delinquent two times on any premises being served, a deposit will be required for up to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises being served; for businesses that rent, the deposit will be equal to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises served. The maximum deposit will be $5,000; interest on deposits will be paid according to Minnesota State Statutes.

■ The council adopted a resolution Tuesday supporting the School District's request to extend the city's speed limit to 35 miles per hour from Nora Avenue to County State Aid 8. The resolution was turned over to the Pennington County board, which has jurisdiction on much of that section of the road.

According to the Pennington County Auditor's office, the county board accepted the city's resolution under advisement. The county board later adopted a resolution keeping the speed limit the same and also adding signs reminding motorists to watch for pedestrians and that it is a school zone.

■ The city council accepted a resolution requested from the Northern Minnesota Power Agency (NMPA). The resolution assures compliance with "continuing disclosure" concerning financial and other information provided to NMPA. A representative of NMPA explained that the NMPA intends to refinance some bonds which result in a savings currently estimated at $12 million. She said the savings would be used to hold down future rate increases. The resolution was a necessary housekeeping motion.

■ Heidi Hoks of the public library appeared before the council Tuesday night and presented a list of services provided by the library. Hoks explained that the library board is working on the library's future direction and development of the branch library services. Hoks asked the council to consider what they would add or subtract to the list of services.

The council approved the following items from the consent agenda: the city's participation in the Salvation Army Heat Share program, a letter of resignation from Doug Stack, category II airport maintenance, a letter of resignation from Scott Berne, category II, sanitation department.

The council was informed Tuesday night that it had received flood and storm cost reimbursement from FEMA for police and public works in the amount of $49,100.73.

The council adjourned to 1 p.m. on Tuesday, September 2 for preliminary review of the city's 1998 budget.

Audit report details need for changes at NCTC

31-page report has seven chapters with 18 findings which president agrees to correct

By Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

A detailed audit of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) by the Office of the Legislative Auditor has resulted in a 31-page report prepared by six members of the auditor's staff and released Friday, August 29. The report is divided into seven chapters and includes an additional seven pages of response from Dr. Daley Gunderson, president of the college.

The audit points out its 18 findings and recommendations, areas of concern that need attention. Dr. Gunderson's response indicates that he agrees with all 18 points, outlines reasons for the conditions as they existed at the time of audit, and lists actions to correct the situation, who will be responsible for making the changes and when the corrections will be made.

"While we can't take pride in an audit that shows a number of short-comings and needs for corrections," Dr. Gunderson said, "we appreciate the thorough, very professional work done by the auditing team during its five weeks here at NCTC.

"The report pinpoints areas of concern which we need to address, and as such will be very helpful in providing direction to improved business performance. It is my firm belief that this audit will serve to strengthen and improve Northland Community and Technical College and position us for a better future than would have been possible without it."

John Asmussen, CPA, Deputy Legislative Auditor, who was one of the six persons preparing the report, told The Times that the Office of the Legislative Auditor has a contract with Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) to audit each of its members once every three years. The audit just completed at Northland was one of those routine audits and was not occasioned by any special circumstances.

Asmussen said that the merger of colleges and universities into the MnSCU system was frequently difficult and more so for the schools which were consolidating technical college and community college campuses, as was the case with NCTC.

That said, however, he noted that there were substantial findings that needed correction at Northland. He also noted that Dr. Gunderson had requested a second audit next year instead of waiting for the normal three-year rotation. That request will be made known to MnSCU, he said, which will have to determine if it wishes to alter its contract to provide that additional service.

Other members of the audit group preparing the report were [illegible], CPA, audit manager, [illegible], CPA, audit director, [illegible], CPA, [illegible] and Rick [illegible], auditors.

Fieldwork on the audit was completed June 27, 1997. The auditors discussed their findings and recommendations with several NCTC staff members at an exit conference August 18. Present in addition to President Gunderson were Donna Quam, acting business office manager, [illegible], director of financial aid, and [illegible], director of human resources.

In a cover letter with the audit report, Legislative Auditor James R. Nobles and Deputy John Asmussen stated:

"At the time of our audit, NCTC was conducting an investigation into potentially improper financial and academic activities in its Management Division. These programs offer [illegible] courses to individuals involved in farm and business management. Although NCTC had not completed its investigation, we report some control weaknesses associated with the Management Division in Chapter 4 (Finding 8)."

In its summary, the audit gives the following background:

"Northland Community and Technical College is part of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities System (MnSCU). MnSCU began operations on July 1, 1995, when the State of Minnesota merged the community colleges, state universities and technical colleges into one system of higher education.

"MnSCU consolidated Northland Community College and the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College in July 1995 to form one combined college. The college finances its operations through student tuition and state appropriations. Dr. Daley Gunderson is the president of the consolidated college.

"The auditors reviewed the period from July 1, 1995 through December 31, 1996 with a review of internal controls as of June 1997."

In its general conclusions, the report stated the following:

"The overall financial management at the college lacked basic controls such as timely bank account reconciliations, proper recording of financial activities and adequate monitoring of operations. The business office was understaffed and employees had not received adequate training on financial systems and procedures. We were also concerned that the college had an environment that permitted the existence of some potential employee conflicts of interest and possibly other inappropriate conduct by certain employees, including the vice president.

"The college did not have adequate separation of duties in most financial [illegible] include

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Northwest Minnesota Multi-County Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA) has advised Thief River Falls of a cash flow shortfall for its three rental housing units in the City of Thief River Falls. In the notice it is requesting that the city pay for last year's shortfall and next year's projected shortfalls.

For the years ending June 30, 1997 and projected deficits for June 30, 1998, the HRA is requesting a total of $237,696 from the City of Thief River Falls. City Community Development Director Don Stewart and City Attorney Paul Ihle said the request was turned over to the administrative services committee for consideration during the budget process.

Stewart and Ihle said they were surprised by the August 11 notice because they thought the city's rental units had met the occupancy goals. Stewart added that they had a number of questions regarding how the HRA arrived at those figures.

In response to the growing demand for housing and the lack of developers willing or able to construct housing, the city signed an agreement in 1995 with the HRA and became a participant in a housing development plan with the cities of Badger, Baudette and Roseau. This arrangement led to the construction of several apartment complexes, including three in Thief River Falls — one for senior housing, one for college students, and one for general occupancy. As a result of just one of the pooled housing agreements, six facilities were built with essential function bonds, 100 percent of which comes from private investors. Upon completion of the projects, the HRA hired management firms to manage the facilities. The request comes from the HRA not the management firms. The HRA owns the buildings.

According to the notice sent to the city, the HRA requests payment based on terms of the "participating city's operating deficit agreement". The notice informs the city of an operating deficit for the year ending June 30, 1997, and calculates the city's contribution for that year. It also requests the city pay a sum for the projected deficit for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Of the six pooled housing projects listed, there were deficits at the Baudette senior facility and the two Thief River Falls facilities. The other three facilities in the pooled housing agreement — one in Badger, one in Roseau, and one in Baudette — recorded surpluses. The surplus funds were combined and split between those facilities recording deficits. The HRA does not state how the surpluses were divided up. In fact, Baudette Senior, which recorded a deficit of $21,967, received $21,352 of the surplus funds. Thief River Falls, on the other hand, received $15,426 in surplus funds to cover its deficit of $29,993 on its general project, and $21,430 in surplus funds to cover its $72,362 deficit on its senior project.

What also may be disturbing to the facilities recording surpluses, is the fact that the HRA is projecting deficits at all of the facilities next year, and even though Baudette, Badger and Roseau recorded surpluses with the year ending June 30, 1997, the surpluses are not carried over. They probably received a letter similar to the one received by Thief River Falls, which asks them to remit funds totaling the projected deficit for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Thief River Falls

According to the notice sent to Thief River Falls City Administrator Roger DeLap, last year's deficit for the senior housing project was $83,907. The HRA subtracted $11,545 of reserves from the deficit, and $21,430 in surplus funds obtained from operating surpluses obtained by other participants in the plan to arrive at a requested contribution of $50,932. The HRA then projected a deficit of $39,490 for the year ending June 30, 1998, for the senior housing project.

Last year's deficit for the general housing project in Thief River Falls, for the year ending June 30, 1997, was $38,304. From that deficit they subtracted $8,311 of reserves and $15,426 of surplus funds obtained by other participants. The HRA is projecting a deficit of $28,277 for the year ending June 30, 1998.

Financing of the college project was held separately from the other projects. According to the letter sent to the city's administrator, the HRA is requesting $104,430 for the year ending June 30, 1997. They are projecting a budget surplus of $5,894 for the year ending June 30, 1998.

The total amount requested by the HRA from Thief River Falls is $237,696. City officials are directing all questions to the city attorney.

Other communities

As mentioned earlier, the HRA is projecting budget deficits for all six projects for the year ending June 30, 1998. With only two months into the year, the HRA projects a total deficit of $120,259 from all six participants. The Badger project is estimated to have a budget deficit of $3,052. The Baudette project is projected to have a deficit of $6,309. The Baudette senior project is projected to have a budget deficit of $23,686. The Thief River Falls general housing project is projected to have a budget deficit of $28,277. The Thief River Falls senior housing project is projected to have a budget deficit of $39,490.

Diana Nelson and Kyri, age 4, went to the first day of the 1997-98 school year with Casey Collison, 9, and Corey Collison, 7. They were among the many families in School District 564 to start off the school year at Challenger Elementary school Tuesday.

Thief River Falls City Council approved a proposed electric deposit increase resolution Tuesday night.

The resolution called for the city to obtain a deposit of $100 for all residential rental units and manufactured homes, and a $200 deposit for all residential units and manufactured homes with electric heat. The rates represent an increase from $50 and $100 and is in response to demands to recover payment of delinquent utility bills for service to all properties. The new rates apply only to new customers. All customers with current deposits will stay as they are now, as long as prompt payment continues even if the customer relocates within the city.

The resolution also set out a number of exceptions. There will be no deposit required for service to owner-occupied property unless delinquency occurs in payment of accounts.

The resolution also sets out reasons the deposit on rental property may be waived or increased: the customer provides a satisfactory credit reference from the customer's former utility, the owner of the property agrees to be personally responsible for the utility bills of his tenants should they become delinquent by signing a contract agreement, after a customer has been delinquent two times on any premises being served, a deposit will be required for up to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises being served, for businesses that rent, the deposit will be equal to two times the highest estimated monthly charge for the premises served. (The maximum deposit will be $5,000), interest on deposits will be paid according to Minnesota State Statutes.

■ The council adopted a resolution Tuesday supporting the School District's request to extend the city's speed limit to 35 miles per hour from Nora Avenue to County State Aid 8. The resolution was turned over to the Pennington County board, which has jurisdiction on much of that section of the road.

According to the Pennington County Auditor's office, the county board accepted the city's resolution under advisement. The county board later adopted a resolution keeping the speed limit the same and also adding signs reminding motorists to watch for pedestrians and that it is a school zone.

■ The city council accepted a resolution requested from the Northern Minnesota Power Agency (NMPA). The resolution assures compliance with "continuing disclosure" concerning financial and other information provided to NMPA. A representative of NMPA explained that the NMPA intends to refinance some bonds, which result in a savings currently estimated at $12 million. She said the savings would be used to hold down future rate increases. The resolution was a necessary housekeeping motion.

■ Heidi Hoks of the public library appeared before the council Tuesday night and presented a list of services provided by the library. Hoks explained that the library board is working on the library's future direction and development of the branch library services. Hoks asked the council to consider what they would add or subtract in the list of services.

The council approved the following items from the consent agenda: the city's participation in the Salvation Army Heat Share program; a letter of resignation from Doug Stark, category II airport maintenance; a letter of resignation from Scott Bello, category II, sanitation department.

The council was informed Tuesday night that it had received flood and storm cost reimbursement from FEMA for police and public works in the amount of $19,040.73.

The council adjourned to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, September 2 for preliminary review of the city's 1998 budget.

Audit report details need for changes at NCTC

31-page report has seven chapters with 18 findings which president agrees to correct

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

A detailed audit of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) by the Office of the Legislative Auditor has resulted in a 31-page report prepared by six members of the auditor's staff and released Friday, August 29. The report is divided into seven chapters and includes an additional seven pages of response from Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of the college.

The audit points out the 18 findings and recommendations, areas of concern that need attention. Dr. Gunderson's response indicates that he agrees with all 18 points, outlines reasons for the conditions as they existed at the time of audit, and lists actions to correct the situation, who will be responsible for making the changes and when the corrections will be made.

"While we can't take pride in an audit that shows a number of shortcomings and needs for correction," Dr. Gunderson said, "we appreciate the thorough, very professional work done by the auditing team during its five weeks here at NCTC.

"The report pinpoints areas of concern which we need to address, and as such will be very helpful in providing direction to improved business performance. It is my firm belief that this audit will serve to strengthen and improve Northland Community and Technical College and position us for a better future than would have been possible without it."

John Asmussen, CPA, Deputy Legislative Auditor who was one of the six persons preparing the report, told The Times that the Office of the Legislative Auditor has a contract with Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) to audit each of its members once every three years. The audit just completed at Northland was one of those routine audits and was not occasioned by any special circumstances.

Asmussen said that the merger of colleges and universities into the MnSCU system was frequently difficult, and more so for the schools which were consolidating technical college and community college campuses — as was the case with NCTC.

He said, however, he noted that there were substantial findings that needed correcting at Northland. He also noted that Dr. Gunderson had requested a second audit next year instead of waiting for the normal three-year rotation. That request will be made known to MnSCU, he said, which will have to determine if it wishes to alter its contract to provide that additional service.

Other members of the audit group preparing the report were Jim Riebe, CPA, audit manager; Ken Vandermeer, CPA, audit director; Lori Kloos, CPA; Sharon Smith and Rick Weinmeyer, auditors.

Fieldwork on the audit was completed June 27, 1997. The auditors discussed their findings and recommendations with several NCTC staff members at an exit conference August 15. Present in addition to President Gunderson were Donna Quam, acting business office manager; Kelsy Blowers, director of financial aid; and Becky Hohlhusen, director of human resources.

In a cover letter with the audit report, Legislative Auditor James R. Nobles and Deputy John Asmussen stated:

"At the time of our audit, NCTC was conducting an investigation into potentially improper financial and academic activities in its Management Division. These programs offer accredited courses to individuals involved in business and farm management. Although NCTC had not completed its investigation, we report some control weaknesses associated with the Management Division in Chapter 3 (Finding 5)."

In its summary, the audit gives the following background:

"Northland Community and Technical College is part of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities System (MnSCU). MnSCU began operations on July 1, 1995, when the state of Minnesota merged the community colleges, state universities and technical colleges into one system of higher education.

"MnSCU consolidated Northland Community College and the Thief River Falls campus (one of six campuses) of Northwest Technical College in July 1995 to form one combined college. The college finances its operations through student tuition, fees and state appropriations. Dr. Orley Gunderson is the president of the consolidated college."

The audit scope covered the period from July 1, 1995 through Dec. 31, 1996 with a review of internal controls as of June 1997.

In its general conclusions, the report stated the following:

"The overall financial management at the college lacked basic controls such as timely bank account reconciliations, proper recording of financial activity and adequate monitoring of operations. The business office was understaffed and employees had not received adequate training in financial systems and procedures. We were also concerned that the college had an environment that permitted the existence of some potential employee conflicts of interest and possibly other inappropriate conduct by certain employees, including the vice president.

"The college did not have an adequate separation of duties in most financial management areas, including

Edith Etter honored at banquet September 6

Edith Etter of Thief River Falls will be recognized and honored at a special Pennington County DFL banquet Saturday, September 6, 1997. This banquet will recognize the many years of service that Edith has given to the DFL party not only in Pennington County, but statewide, according to Rick Nelson, spokesman for the DFL County Board.

"Edith and her husband Willy have put in many hours of volunteer time working for the DFL party and representing education as well as many other issues in the political arena for the community of Thief River Falls and Pennington County," Nelson said.

The special recognition dinner will start with a social hour at 6 p.m. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. Special guests will be there to help honor Edith include State Senator LeRoy Stumpf, Congressman Collin Peterson, and DFL Candidate for Governor Mike Freeman. Norma Hanson, the current DFL Chairperson for Senate District 1, will be the master of ceremonies for the event.

"This event will also serve as a fundraiser for the Pennington County DFL board as they plan and prepare for the 1998 elections. This gives us a great opportunity to share with fellow Democrats and honor two deserving people of the highest honor ever given by the Pennington County DFL board of directors to a past chairman. This event is open to anyone who would like to participate in the recognition of the Etters or listen to the special guest speakers who have been invited to attend."

Tickets are $20 per person or $35 per couple and are available at the Evergreen Eating Emporium or by contacting Gayle Borchert at 681-4349, Lori Olson at 681-1877, Rick Nelson at 681-6543, or any other Pennington County DFL board director.

Johnny Holm will perform for a back to school dance for Northland Community and Technical College Thursday, September 4, from 9:15 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. The dance is scheduled for the parking lot at the college but will be held at the curling club building on the fairgrounds in case of bad weather. Price of admission is $3 for those with NCTC student identification and $8 for those without. NCTC invites Thief River Falls and surrounding communities to join in the event which is part of the student senate sponsored Kick-Off Week at Northland.

Road shoulder repair projects now underway

Minnesota Department of Transportation reports that several shoulder repair projects are taking place in the northwest corner of the state. Work began early this week and is expected to be completed by September 19.

Repair projects are taking place on Highway 75 near Humboldt, on Highway 171 east of St. Vincent, on Highway 175 from the North Dakota border to 5.5 miles east, and on Highway 220 south of Alvarado and five and one-half miles north of Oslo from Marshall County Road 4 to Marshall County Road 5, including Highway 317. Thurson Inc. is the prime contractor.

MnDOT is asking the public to drive with extreme caution through these work zones and obey all traffic instructions.

Bremer grants assist Warren community

Otto Bremer Foundation in St. Paul has awarded a $6,000 grant to Marshall County Social Services in Warren as part of $307,000 in grants awarded to 19 Minnesota agencies at the foundation's July meeting.

The grant is to be used to further develop and expand a personal skill building curriculum for young people living in an adolescent group home.

An $18,000 grant was also made to the North Valley Vo Tech Center in Grafton, ND, to expand to Warren the Institute for Excellence in Math and Science which helps teachers increase opportunities for women and minority students.

Stumpf highlights features of disaster relief package

"Just as expected, the legislature unanimously passed a flood relief package August 12 that will provide over $310 million in relief funds to communities, businesses, farmers and homeowners," noted Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls.

While there are many features to the bill, Sen. Stumpf said he would like to highlight the following:

- $30 million to be used as the state's match for federal funds authorized. This money will leverage about $220 million in federal disaster aid.
- $9 million for home buy-outs in areas that are likely to be flooded again. This amount will leverage another $37 million in federal aid.
- $3 million for construction of ring dikes, emergency levee repair and planning for future projects.
- $900,000 for farmstead ring dikes. This should be enough for 60 ring dikes in the Red River Valley, with matching money to be provided by watershed districts and farm owners.
- $9 million for repair and replacement of damaged public infrastructure and for providing new infrastructure to new residential and business developments.
- $8.2 million for communities to distribute as loans and grants to damaged businesses.
- $1.25 million for loans and grants to farmers for repairs of capital investments, such as damaged buildings and drainage ditches.

"In total federal, state and private sources, about $837 million will be spent in disaster stricken communities in the Red River and Minnesota River valleys," the senator said. "We have been told by Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) officials that Minnesota's financial contribution for flood recovery is one of the largest ever made by a state after a disaster of this magnitude.

"Although $83 million is a huge amount of money, I know it still won't be enough to meet everyone's losses," Stumpf added. "Unfortunately, there will be some people who fall through the cracks. We've done our best to see that doesn't happen, but with a disaster like this, it isn't possible to meet everyone's needs."

Stumpf said it is important to add that the legislature's work in St. Paul is not yet done. The flood recovery bill was meant to fund mostly brick-and-mortar projects that must be completed to get businesses running and people back into permanent housing. Already, area legislators are talking with city and county officials about more long-term infrastructure needs.

"To fully recover and grow into the 21st century, we must think in terms of drawing new businesses and private capital into the region," he said. "Every legislator who represents northwest Minnesota has made it clear that we will be back in the 1998 session with proposals to address the long-term economic development needs of the region.

"As a northwestern Minnesota legislator representing the most heavily flood-stricken communities, and as a member of the Governor's Flood Recovery and Redevelopment Planning Council, I have worked closely with state agency staff and others involved with flood response," Sen. Stumpf added.

"The effort in these communities, as well as the help of people who came in as volunteers, have been nothing short of heroic. I hope the actions of the legislature in the special session will have a positive and dramatic long-term impact on the communities affected by natural disaster."

Under the watchful eye of Ed Kaiser (back to camera), advisor with the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's Agronomy and Plant Protection Division, Gary Clow of Farmers Co-Op Grain and Seed Association demonstrates filling a tank with anhydrous ammonia. Looking on and making notes are plant operators and new employees of plants handling the popular fertilizer from throughout northwest Minnesota. The workshop dealing with safe storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia was co-sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and Minnesota Crop Production Retailers. Representatives from 24 plants in northwestern Minnesota attended the workshop with Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed Association serving as host site.

Ed Kaiser, advisor for the Agronomy and Plant Protection Division of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, shows controls that will become mandatory for anhydrous ammonia handling and storage by September 1, 1998. Assisted by Dale Denter of Alexandria, investigator for the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, and Robert Minks, regulatory compliance manager for Minnesota Crop Production Retailers, Kaiser conducted a workshop for anhydrous ammonia plant operators and new employees last week at Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed Association in Thief River Falls.

"Defensive Driving for Truck Drivers" title of area workshops

"Defensive Driving for Truck Drivers" is the title of a workshop to be presented Monday, September 15, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the library meeting room in Roseau and Tuesday, September 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

This workshop is intended to help truck drivers develop skills necessary to prevent collisions involving tractor trailers or lessen their severity.

Topics will include: What makes a good defensive driver, intersections and right-of-way, turning problems for trucks, what to do in the event of an accident, safe passing, avoiding head-on collisions, how alcohol and driving affect the commercial driver's license and consequences of alcohol use by commercial drivers.

Instructor will be Richard Dreme, described as a retired Minnesota State Patrol trooper with a sense of humor, an excellent instructor with many stories to share and information to present from his years as an accident investigation specialist.

Cost of the workshop is $50 per person. For companies sending three or more participants, the fee is reduced to $40 per person.

Two local youths graduate from Forkhorn Camp

Preston Johnson

Preston Johnson of St. Hilaire and Branden Narlock of Thief River Falls recently graduated from the Forkhorn I Camp at Deep Portage Conservation Reserve near Hackensack.

The week-long camp focused on hunting skills, ethics, firearm safety and hunter certification. Minnesota Deer Hunters Association sponsors four Forkhorn Camps each year to give young people experience with all aspects of deer hunting.

Preston and Branden attended the third session which was intended for young people who did not yet have their state firearms safety certificate. Campers during that week were provided training and became certified as part of their camp experience.

Fibromyalgia support group members seek understanding

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

Discussion is usually serious, but occasionally there is shared laughter as a group of area people gather in a meeting room at Northwest Medical Center. Members of this group have one thing in common – each is afflicted with Fibromyalgia Syndrome and lives with chronic pain.

The Fibromyalgia Support Group meets once a month. The purpose of the group is to share information and lend support to one another. The members offer each other understanding.

Understanding is what they seek also from their families, friends and neighbors.

What is Fibromyalgia Syndrome?

Fibromyalgia Syndrome (FMS) is a widespread musculoskeletal pain and fatigue disorder. The cause is unknown. Fibromyalgia means pain in the fibrous tissues of the body – muscles, ligaments and tendons.

Most patients with FMS say that they ache all over. Muscles may feel like they're overworked or pulled. Sometimes the muscles twitch, and other times they burn.

More women than men are afflicted with FMS, but it shows up in people of all ages.

How is FMS Diagnosed?

Laboratory testing, for the most part, reveals nothing. Upon physical examination, however, the patient will be sensitive to pressure in certain areas of the body, called tender points. Diagnosis criteria includes widespread pain in all four quadrants of the body for a minimum duration of three months and at least 11 of the 18 specified tender points. These 18 sites used for diagnosis cluster around the neck, shoulder, chest, hip, knee and elbow regions.

Symptoms and Associated Syndromes

The pain of those with FMS is described as deep muscular aching – shooting, throbbing, stabbing, burning. Pain and stiffness are often worse in the morning, and repetitively used muscle groups may hurt more.

Fatigue can be mild with some patients and incapacitating with others. Described as "brain fatigue," the patients feel totally drained of energy, and concentration is impossible.

Most FMS patients have an associated sleep disorder called the alpha-EEG anomaly. While FMS patients can fall asleep without much trouble, researchers have found that the patient's deep – or stage 4 – level of sleep is constantly interrupted by bursts of awake-like brain activity. The patients wake up feeling like they have been run over by a truck. Doctors refer to it as unrefreshed sleep. Some FMS patients have other sleep disorders such as apnea, sleep myoclonus (nighttime jerking of arms and legs), restless leg syndrome and bruxism (teeth grinding).

Roughly 40 to 70 percent of FMS patients experience the symptoms associated with irritable bowel syndrome.

Chronic migraine and tension-type headaches are seen in about 50 percent of FMS patients, posing major coping problems for this patient group.

One quarter of FMS patients suffer from temporomandibular joint dysfunction syndrome. TMJ causes tremendous face and head pain.

With these the most common, there are a host of other symptoms which plague FMS patients.

Symptoms can be aggravated by changes in weather, cold or drafty environments, hormonal fluctuations, stress, depression, anxiety and over-exertion.

What causes FMS?

While the cause of FMS remains elusive, there are many triggering events thought to bring on its onset – viral or bacterial infection, an automobile accident or the development of another disorder such as rheumatoid arthritis, lupus or hypothyroidism. The triggering events probably don't cause FMS but awaken an underlying physiological abnormality that's already there.

How is FMS Treated?

Traditional treatments are geared toward improving the quality of sleep and reducing pain. The sleep disorder associated with FMS is thought to be a major contributing factor to the symptoms. This is because deep level sleep is crucial to many body functions including tissue repair and antibody production.

Medicines that boost the body's level of serotonin and norepinephrine – neurotransmitters that modulate sleep, pain and immune system function – are commonly used. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs like ibuprofen many also be beneficial.

Most patients also benefit from other treatments such as trigger point injections with lidocaine, physical therapy, acupuncture, acupressure, relaxation techniques, osteopathic manipulation, chiropractic care, therapeutic massage or a gentle exercise program.

What Is the Prognosis?

Long term studies of FMS have shown it to be chronic. The symptoms, however, may come and go. The impact that FMS can have on daily living activities, including the ability to work a full time job, differs among patients. Overall, studies have shown that FMS can be equally as disabling as rheumatoid arthritis.

Local FMS Support Group

Attending the August meeting of the Fibromyalgia Support group was a small group of women ranging in age from 30 to 60+ years old. Half way through the meeting, a middle aged man came in and sat at a separate table.

The number of people in attendance varies from month to month. While only eight people attended the August meeting, the group sometimes swells to over 30. It is common for male attendees to find the number of females so overwhelming that they rarely return.

The majority of the meeting time was spent sharing stories and information.

One woman, a young school teacher from a neighboring community, brought several printed pieces of information that she had gotten off the Internet. The others quickly passed the papers around, and each seemed eager for any new information regarding treatment which might bring some relief from their daily pain.

The participants look healthy, and because they appear so, it is common for their families and friends to misunderstand their conditions. It is common for spouses, children and friends not to comprehend how or why these people have no energy and sometimes have a difficult time doing even the simplest tasks. Several of the participants have full-time jobs and commented that if they could get through their jobs during the day, they were only capable of falling into bed when they got home.

The majority of the people attending the meeting wished to remain anonymous – fearful that public exposure of their conditions would affect their jobs or employability.

One woman, however, doesn't mind if everyone knows who she is. She is Eldora Ranum, and she has spent years researching and gathering information about Fibromyalgia Syndrome. She has volumes of information which she shares with other FMS patients and the area medical community. She is in charge of the vast library of tapes, books and other printed materials that the support group has available to its members. Eldora can be reached at 681-3990, and she is always happy to answer questions.

The Fibromyalgia Support group will hold this month's meeting on Thursday, September 4 at 7 p.m. in room 1B at Northwest Medical Center. There is no cost to join this group.

Thursday's group may be small, or it may be large, but whatever its size, each participant will appreciate the challenges of the other. Because of this understanding, they may even share a laugh or two.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Labor Day Blues

When I was assigned to write an essay in elementary school about my favorite season, I would always write about summer. And when I had to write about my summer vacation, I would talk about going to the lake. When I was young, my family and I rarely took a summer vacation. Our vacation was the lake. That still holds true today.

The lake has always held a special place in our summers; I can't imagine a summer without the lake. So Labor Day, which to me signals an end to summer, has always been difficult for me to confront. It's the end of three months of being carefree. It's the end of three months at the lake. I definitely understand my 6-year-old son's semi-reluctance to be ready for school. Summer is hard to leave!

For the last 30-plus years, I've been going to the lake. At first, the visits started out being just weekends, grew to a week, then a month and eventually the entire summer. At the end of the school year, we moved to the cabin, acquired jobs and made friends with the local kids.

When Labor Day arrived, we packed it all up and headed home. As we rolled in the dock, dragged the boat lift to shore and stored the boat, we said good-bye to summer.

We said good-bye to lazing on the dock and floating in the water. We said good-bye to swimming, water-skiing and collecting clam shells. We said good-bye to quiet nights and watching the sun set on the still lake. We waved good-bye to the mosquitoes that dive bombed our head and the crickets that kept us awake at night. We said good-bye to soggy swimsuits and sand-covered cabin floors.

Tears rimmed my eyes as we slammed the screen door for the last time and forced the car trunk closed. It was difficult to imagine that in a few short months the water would be ice, piled with feet of snow.

Again, this year, as we drove away from my parents' summer home, tears filled my eyes when I remembered all the really good things of the summer - family gatherings, kids jumping playfully off the dock, catching sunfish and playing three-handed pinochle around the kitchen table at night.

It seems silly to be sentimental about a season, but summer teaches me to relax, slow down and enjoy.

Summer is a time to read all those good books and magazines that piled up during the winter. Summer is for eating more bratwurst and hamburgers than are good for you. Save the diet for fall! Summer is a good time to toss out routine and veer off in another direction. My summer passion is craft shows and festivals. Other people camp and play softball. Whatever it is, when fall arrives we switch gears.

Yes, tears fell as we drove down the highway, but I started to think about what we can look forward to. Fall carries its own personality. Fall brings school. Fall brings routine and earlier bedtimes. We experience the beautiful changing colors and the cool evenings. We can peruse the pumpkin patch, watch football games and anticipate little trick-or-treaters.

Each season possesses its attributes and there's always something new to anticipate. But if I had to write an essay today about my favorite season, it would still be summer.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . The Princess

The death of Princess Diana took precedence over everything else this holiday weekend. Those who stayed up late Saturday night learned about the fatal car crash in shocking radio and television bulletins, and nearly everyone else knew about it by Sunday noon. The princess was dead. The news was hard to believe.

Television was filled with news about the car accident and stories about her life. We learned what a truly original person she was, using her royal personality and status to call attention to various needy causes throughout the world. Picture after picture showed a glamorous, regal, self-assured woman while yet allowing us a glimpse of the shy Diana in the way she held her head and smiled.

We saw pictures of her with her sons, and grieved for their loss. She was a good mother, preparing her eldest son to be a good king, a common king, a king in touch with his people. It is hoped that the short 15 years of her counsel was enough to last throughout his lifetime.

Tributes from the rich and famous were forthcoming. Presidents, kings and other personages gave statements about Diana, and newscasters scrambled to interview as many distinguished people as possible who would speak about her and the shock of her death.

But I think the best tributes of all came from the ordinary people. They were the English men and women we saw placing flowers and poems at Prince Charles' and the Princess's home palaces, the French men and women who paid tribute at the tunnel where the accident took place, and the Americans who brought their grief to the British embassy and consulates.

When these ordinary people, people like you and me, were interviewed, they spoke with their hearts. They told of an "English Rose," a "Princess of the People," someone like us. They said that she was more than a princess, that she was a kind person, a person with a heart, a person who loved everyone and really cared. Many said she was the best of all of the "royals." Many of them shed tears when they spoke of her. These were the tributes I will remember. These are the tributes that I think best told of the real Princess Diana. They are the ones I want to remember her by.

Michael is a 1990 graduate of Warroad High School and a 1995 graduate of Moorhead State University. He is employed by Results Radio in Fargo.

The couple will be married on October 4 at St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls.

Jason and Patricia Anderson at home in Thief River Falls

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, Patricia and Jason Anderson are at home in Thief River Falls.

Pastors John Jorgenson and LeRoy Fleckinger officiated at the ceremony.

Kids and Stress

Childhood used to be a carefree time, but not for many of today's children. Today children are often the victims of overwhelming stress.

The causes of stress are varied. Some children worry about being embarrassed or teased or about not being listened to. Others are pressured to meet unrealistic parental expectations. Children often feel the effects of family pressures. Still others worry that their parents will divorce.

What are the signs of stress? Frequent headaches, stomachaches, forgetfulness, tightened muscles, sleepless nights, stuttering, anger and irritability can all be signs of stress in children.

One way parents can ease stress in children is by being polite. Politeness shows we value our children for who they are. Here are a few things to keep in mind:

- Remember to say "please," "thank you" and "I'm sorry" to your children.
